Re: United Therapeutics Corp. v. Johnson & Novartis Pharmaceuticals Corp. v. Johnson, Nos. 21-5304, 21-5299

Dear Mr. Langer,

In response to an email from the clerk's office on June 16, 2022, Johnson & Johnson Health Care Systems Inc. has filed a motion for leave to participate as an amicus curiae in the consolidated cases referenced above. Please note that the brief attached to the motion also contains corrections in response to the clerk's letter dated June 16, 2022, which identified the use of uncommon acronyms and abbreviations in the original brief that Johnson & Johnson Health Care Systems Inc. filed in Case No. 21-5304 (Doc. No. 1950803). Following consultation with the clerk's office in an effort to address the issues identified, the updated brief omits certain acronyms from the original brief, updates the glossary, corrects several typographical errors, and makes several non-substantive edits to ensure compliance with the applicable word limit. The brief retains the use of "JJHCS" as an acronym to refer to Johnson & Johnson Health Care Systems, because it is a commonly used acronym for the company, and there is no shorter form that would improve the brief's clarity.

Sincerely,

/s/ William A. Sarraille
