Re: Estuary Transit District, et al. v. Hartford Healthcare Corporation, D. Conn., Case No. 3:24-cv-01051-SFR

Dear Counsel:

Please find the enclosed documents Bates stamped HHC-BROWN-05582909 - HHC-BROWN-06064012, which are documents Defendant produced today to the Plaintiffs in Brown et al. v. Hartford HealthCare Corp., No. 03-cv22-6152239-S (Conn. Sup. Ct. 2022). The documents in volume HHC-BROWN-REPROD-04 contain a reproduction of documents that initially could not be rendered and for which Hartford HealthCare originally provided slipsheets. Defendant makes this production pursuant to the parties' agreement, as memorialized in the joint status report filed in the above-captioned action, at Doc. 92. These documents are designated "CONFIDENTIAL – ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY" pursuant to the protective order in this case. Along with the enclosed documents, please also find a privilege log for documents dated on or after October 1, 2018 pursuant to Hartford HealthCare's February 8, 2025 agreement with Plaintiffs.

Re: Estuary Transit District v. Hartford HealthCare Corp., No. 24-cv-01051 (D. Conn.) — Issues Regarding HHC's Privilege Log

Dear Counsel:

Direct Purchaser Plaintiffs ("DPPs") in the above-referenced action are in receipt of Hartford HealthCare Corp.'s ("HHC's") privilege log and supplemental privilege log. Having conducted an initial review of those privilege logs, DPPs have identified several issues that must be resolved.

As an initial matter, it is HHC's burden to provide sufficient information in its privilege log to establish the factual basis (i.e., one satisfying all elements) for a claim of privilege or work-product protection. As stated by the Second Circuit: "It is axiomatic that the burden is on a party claiming the protection of a privilege to establish those facts that are the essential elements of the privileged relationship, a burden not discharged by mere conclusory or ipse dixit assertions." In re Grand Jury Subpoena Dated Jan. 4, 1984, 750 F.2d 223, 224–25 (2d Cir.1984) (citations and internal quotation marks omitted).

To that end, under the Local Rules of the District of Connecticut, a privilege log must contain at least the following information for each document/ESI:

(1) Document/ESI type;
(2) The general subject matter;
(3) The date;
(4) The author; and
(5) Each recipient.

D. Conn. Civil Local Rule 26(e).

As discussed below, HHC's privilege log does not contain all these categories of information for each entry. Additionally, even where some information is provided, that information is oftentimes insufficient for DPPs to determine the applicability of any privilege and, in particular, whether obtaining legal advice and/or preparing for litigation was the primary purpose of the communication or document's creation.

Accordingly, DPPs ask HHC for more information and, in some instances, propose a path forward that ensures DPPs can adequately determine the applicability of any claimed privilege or protection.

1. Withholding Documents/ESI in Their Entirety

From DPPs' initial review, it appears that the vast majority of documents/ESI appearing on HHC's privilege log—approximately 93%—were deemed "Fully Privileged – Withhold" and, accordingly, withheld in their entirety (as opposed to redacting only the privileged portions of those documents/ESI).

It is improper to withhold entire documents from discovery on grounds of attorney-client privilege or work product immunity when only a portion of the document contains privileged information. Breon v. Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of New England, 232 F.R.D. 49, 55 (D. Conn. 2005); McDermid, Inc. v. Raymond Selle & Cookson Group, plc, 2009 WL 10689349, at *3 (D. Conn. Jan. 14, 2009).

DPPs are concerned that, given the high percentage of documents/ESI withheld in their entirety, that many of these documents/ESI likely contain both privilege and unprivileged information and, thus, should have been produced in redacted form.

Relatedly, there are approximately 5,214 entries that reflect attachments to emails purportedly requesting confidential legal advice which have been fully withheld. No explanation is provided as to what the attachment is or why the attachment itself is privileged.

Privilege must be assessed independently for emails and their attachments. NovaFund Advisors v. Capitala Group, 2021 WL 2109112, at *1 (D. Conn. May 25, 2021). While attachments sent to counsel explicitly for the purpose of obtaining legal advice may be privileged in certain circumstances, a privilege log must provide sufficient information to determine whether obtaining legal advice was in fact the primary purpose of attaching the document—i.e., conclusory assertions of seeking legal advice are inadequate. See, e.g., Idenix Pharms, Inc. v. Gilead Scis., Inc., 195 F. Supp. 3d 639, 644-45 (D. Del. 2016) (ordering production of attachment described on privilege log as "Draft document prepared by client for counsel (Oswecki) and client review regarding legal issues regarding marketing and business development and patent issues regarding nucleosides for the treatment of HCV" for failing to establish applicability of privilege).

Please confirm whether HHC's privilege log comports with the caselaw above and, if so, please provide any explanation you may have regarding why so many of the withheld documents/ESI were withheld in their entirety. If HHC has a different understanding of its obligations under relevant caselaw, please provide that authority. Lastly, please also confirm whether HHC will revise its privilege log to provide more information regarding the purpose of attaching the documents/ESI withheld on privilege grounds referenced above.

2. The General Subject Matter of the Documents/Communications

District of Connecticut Civil Local Rule 26(e) requires, among other things, that a privilege log describe the "general subject matter" of the document or ESI being withheld. While the Privilege Log includes a column for "Privilege Description" which, in some instances, does include some information regarding the subject matter of the document/ESI, this is not always the case.

Moreover, the descriptions provided oftentimes contain merely conclusory assertions—e.g., that the documents "reflect legal advice" or were prepared "in anticipation of litigation"—which are insufficient subject matter descriptions for purposes of establishing applicability of any privilege. See St. Paul Guardian Ins. Co., v. Walsh Constr. Co., 2021 WL 4745385, at *3-4 (N.D. Ill. Oct. 12, 2021) (rejecting privilege log entry describing subject matter as "Email re: Confidential communication involving in-house counsel for the purpose of rendering legal advice regarding coverage" as insufficient where the party provided insurance coverage as part of its core business model).

As a starting point, HHC should reproduce its privilege log with columns for the subject line of emails and document titles for other documents/ESI. See, e.g., Favors v. Cuomo, 285 F.R.D. 187, 223-24 (E.D.N.Y. 2012) (ordering defendant to produce privilege logs containing "subject lines" and stating "given today's litigation technology, there is no good reason why privilege logs should not include . . . other readily accessible metadata for electronic documents, including, but not limited to: addressee(s), copyee(s), blind copyee(s), date, time, subject line, file name, file format, and a description of any attachments.") (cited approvingly by Wanzer v. Town of Plainville, 2016 WL 1258456, at *3 (D. Conn. Mar. 30, 2016)); Babcock v. Bridgeport Hosp., 251 Conn. 790, 809 (1999) (affirming order requiring privilege log containing document titles to assess privilege assertion; if document title is insufficient to "reveal its nature, that document shall be supplied to the court but not to the plaintiff(s) at this stage.")

Accordingly, DPPs request that: (a) HHC reproduce the privilege log with a column which provides the general subject matter of the documents/ESI being withheld; (b) to assist in understanding the general subject matter of emails and correspondence, HHC also include the subject line in a separate column; and (c) to assist in understanding the general subject matter of non-communication documents/ESI, HHC also include the document title.

3. Emails With No Sender/Recipient Information

HHC's privilege log also fails to provide sender and recipient information for approximately 1,210 and 259 emails, respectively. As discussed above, both pieces of information are required by the District of Connecticut's Civil Local Rules. See Civ. L. R. 26(e).

Please confirm whether HHC will reproduce its privilege log such that each email contains both sender and recipient information.

4. Entries With No Associated Attorney Identified

Applicability of the attorney-client privilege requires participation of an "attorney" who generally must be admitted to the bar of a state or federal court. See, e.g., A.I.A. Holdings, S.A. v. Lehman Brothers, Inc., No. 97 Civ. 4978, 2002 WL 31385824, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 21, 2002).

HHC's privilege log contains approximately 3,555 entries where no legal professional is identified by name. Referencing HHC's "legal department" or an entire law firm is insufficient for purposes of establishing applicability of any attorney-client privilege. "Without information identifying the individuals involved in the particular communications, it is impossible for [the parties asserting privilege] to meet their burden of establishing the 'attorney' element of the attorney-client privilege." In re Rivastigmine Patent Litig., 237 F.R.D. 69, 83 (S.D.N.Y. 2006); see also Wultz v. Bank of China Ltd., 979 F. Supp. 2d 479, 497 (S.D.N.Y. 2013), on reconsideration in part, No. 11 CIV. 1266 SAS, 2013 WL 6098484 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 20, 2013).

Please confirm whether HHC will reproduce its privilege log such that each entry identifies the specific attorney or attorneys involved.

5. Entries With Attorney Only Copied/Blind Copied

Communications are not privileged merely because they "involved legal considerations" and "counsel was copied." Tower 570 Co. LP v. Affiliated FM Ins. Co., No. 20-CV-0799 (JMF), 2021 WL 1222438, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 1, 2021) (quoting LSH Co. v. AXA Equitable Life Ins. Co., No. 18-CV-2111 (JMF), 2019 WL 10947152, at *1 (S.D.N.Y. Aug. 26, 2019). Thus, courts are justifiably skeptical of privilege log entries involving emails with multiple recipients where only some are attorneys, especially where such attorneys are merely copied. See, e.g., City of Roseville Employees' Ret. Sys. v. Apple Inc., No. 19CV02033YGRJCS, 2022 WL 3083000, at *17 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 3, 2022).

HHC's privilege log contains approximately 2,365 entries where the legal professional involved is merely copied or blind copied. Without additional information, it is impossible to determine whether these entries truly reflect communications where the primary purpose was to give, receive, or relay legal advice.

For example, 726 of these entries—despite only copying or blind copying the legal professional involved—are nonetheless described as "email requesting confidential legal advice." It is implausible that the primary purpose of such a communication could in fact be to request legal advice insofar as neither the senders ("From") nor the direct recipients ("To") are attorneys.

Please confirm whether HHC will either provide additional information or remove from its privilege log and produce any entries where an attorney is merely copied or blind copied. Alternatively, DPPs propose that they select 25 entries for in camera review by the magistrate so that the applicability of any privilege can be determined. See, e.g., Coan v. Dunne, 602 B.R. 429, 443 (D. Conn. 2019) (ordering party to submit each document on privilege log merely copying an attorney to be submitted for in camera review by the magistrate judge).

6. Entries With Third-Party Senders or Recipients

"The Second Circuit narrowly circumscribes the attorney-client privilege." Walsh v. CSG Partners, LLC, 544 F. Supp. 3d 389, 391 (S.D.N.Y. 2021). As such, "the privilege is deemed to be waived if communications between attorney and client are shared with a third party." Id. See also In re Horowitz, 482 F.2d 72, 81 (2d Cir. 1973) ("disclosure to a third party of a communication with this attorney eliminates whatever privilege the communication may have originally possessed").

HHC's privilege log contains numerous entries which appear to include third parties as either the sender or recipient.

For example, email addresses associated with at least the following third parties appear as either the sender or recipient:

- Ares Management
- Bridgewater
- Brunswick Group
- Eversource
- Fairview Capital
- Gallagher
- Horty Springer
- HSB
- Independence Blue Cross (IBX)
- McKinsey
- Optum

- Quinnipiac University
- Travels
- Trinity College
- VMG Health

There are also numerous entries containing senders and/or recipients with Gmail accounts. While some of these Gmail accounts could readily be identified as personal emails for certain HHC employees, many others appear to be emails for nonparties.

Please confirm whether, for each entry where a third party is listed as a sender or recipient, HHC will reproduce its privilege log with an explanation describing the circumstances under which the communication was made and how the attorney-client privilege was not waived by failing to maintain its confidentiality.

7. Assertions of Common Interest Privilege

Relatedly, there are 2,358 entries on HHC's privilege log which reference "Common Interest" in the "Privilege Asserted" column and 2,457 entries which reference a "common legal interest" in the "Privilege Description" column.

As with the attorney-client privilege generally, the burden of establishing the common interest privilege rests with the party asserting it and must be demonstrated on a document-by-document basis supported by competent evidence such as affidavits, deposition testimony, or other admissible evidence. Chevron Corp. v. Donziger, 296 F.R.D. 168, 203 (S.D.N.Y. 2013).

This, in turn, requires the party resisting production to establish for each entry: (1) the parties amongst whom the privileged information passed share a common legal interest; and (2) that the sharing of the privileged information was done in furtherance of that common legal interest. Gulf Islands Leasing, Inc. v. Bombardier Capital, Inc., 215 F.R.D. 466, 471 (S.D.N.Y. 2003). Notably, the mere existence of a common business strategy or shared commercial interest—even if combined with concerns of possible litigation—is not enough to invoke the common interest doctrine. In re Hypnotic Taxi LLC, 566 B.R. 305, 315 (E.D.N.Y. 2017). Moreover, "such a legal interest must also be identical, not merely similar." Id. And lastly, the exchange of privileged information must have been made in confidence with an objectively reasonable basis for believing that the communication would remain confidential. In re Roman Catholic Diocese of Syracuse, 665 B.R. 866, 889 (N.D.N.Y. 2024).

Please confirm whether HHC will produce a sworn affidavit identifying each person/entity with whom, in connection with its privilege log, it purports to share a common legal interest, a description of the common legal interest, and the time-period for which they shared this common legal interest. Please also confirm whether HHC will reproduce its privilege log to satisfy the requirements discussed above.

Please provide confirmation and/or responses regarding the requests/questions raised above by Friday, June 6, 2025. If you would like to discuss any of these issues by phone or videoconference, please let me know.

Very truly yours,

Re: Estuary Transit District, et al. v. Hartford Healthcare Corporation, D. Conn., Case No. 3:24-cv-01051-SFR

Dear Counsel:

This letter responds to your May 23, 2025 letter regarding the privilege log produced by Defendants Hartford Healthcare Corporation, Hartford Hospital, Hartford Healthcare Medical Group, Inc., and Integrated Care Partners, LLC (collectively, "HHC"). We address the issues raised in your letter below.

1. Documents Withheld Entirely

Your letter initially raises concern for the number of documents that were withheld entirely. On behalf of HHC, we confirm that documents fully withheld were individually reviewed for privilege and that HHC's privilege log complies with applicable law. Plaintiffs' broad requests sought a multitude of documents regarding topics where HHC would routinely seek advice from counsel. For example, Plaintiffs requested many years' worth of documents relating to payor negotiations, as well as acquisitions of medical facilities. Unsurprisingly, documents relating to contract negotiations, proposed terms and conditions, draft agreements, and complex healthcare regulatory issues tend to involve attorneys. Kyle Lanning and Daniel Kalosieh, in-house counsel, were often involved in these types of attorney-client communications because their jobs involved legal review of agreements and issues on these topics, and they account for over half of the entries on the privilege log.

2. Subject Lines

HHC does not believe that it has an obligation to produce the actual subject lines or titles of documents. In its current form, the log describes the subject matter and issues related to the documents, which we believe satisfies D. Conn. Civil Local Rule 26(e). With that said, in the spirit of cooperation, HHC will produce an updated privilege log with the subject lines and document titles. However, subject lines that have privileged information within them will be redacted and withheld.

3. Emails with No Sender/Recipient Information

We have reviewed the documents where the sender or recipient fields are blank.

There are some entries where the name normalized version is blank, but the non-normalized domain is present. We will update the privilege log by providing the normalized names in these entries.

There are other instances where emails were drafted but not sent and would not have a sender and/or recipient.

We provided all the recipient and sender metadata in our possession. If there are specific entries of further concern, please let us know.

4. Entries with No Specific Attorney Identified

In your letter, you express concern that in some entries, no specific legal professional is listed. It is not a requirement (nor is it always possible) that privilege logs identify attorneys by name in all instances. See, e.g., In re Dealer Mgmt. Sys. Antitrust Litig., 2020 WL 7865915, at *8 (N.D. Ill. Mar. 30, 2020) (explaining that documents can be privileged even if a privilege log does not "identify an attorney by name but rather refers to 'in-house counsel' or 'legal department.'").

There are many reasons why the name of a legal professional may not appear in the metadata of a privileged email or email chain. For example, non-attorneys often relay legal advice received from attorneys, or requests for legal advice, or they might be collecting information in order to provide to an attorney. In those instances, HHC employees involved in the communication might refer to attorneys in the legal department as "legal" or to outside attorneys as "outside counsel" without reference to the specific attorney. Indeed, the documents we clawed back on January 23, 2025, which you brought to our attention, involve precisely this type of privileged communication.

5. Entries with Attorney Copied/Blind Copied

In your May 23 letter, you expressed concern that certain entries on HHC's log only have legal personnel listed in the CC or BCC metadata field.

An email does not lose its privileged status because an attorney only appears in the CC metadata field as opposed to the To or From metadata fields. Courts assess the substance of a communication to determine whether it is privileged, not where the attorney's name appears. See, e.g., MacDermid, Inc. v. Raymond Selle & Cookson Grp. plc, No. 3:07 CV 1566 (JBA), 2009 WL 10689349, at *2 (D. Conn. Jan. 14, 2009) (stating that the substance of the emails determines its privileged nature, rather than whether an attorney was copied); Greater New York Taxi Ass'n v. City of New York, No. 13-CIV-3089-VSBJCF, 2017 WL 4012051, at *12 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 11, 2017) ("Courts have held that communications constitute implicit requests for legal advice where an attorney is copied on the communications and the communications implicate specific legal issues."); TVT Recs., Inc. v. Island Def Jam Music Grp., a Div. of UMG Recordings, Inc., No. 02-CV-6644-VMDF, 2003 WL 749801, at *6 (S.D.N.Y. Mar. 5, 2003) (finding that emails "copied to counsel" but "not directed to or from counsel" were still "appropriately protected as privileged"); In re Avantel, S.A., 343 F.3d 311, 321 (5th Cir. 2003) (the fact that an attorney was copied on an email did not preclude the email from possible privilege); Washtenaw Cnty. Employees' Ret. Sys. v. Walgreen Co., No. 15-CV-3187, 2020 WL 3977944, at *5 (N.D. Ill. July 14, 2020) (finding that privilege log descriptions indicated sufficient privileged content, despite the fact that attorneys were only copied on the emails at issue); In re Abilify (Aripiprazole) Prods. Liab. Litig., No. 3:16-md-2734, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 213493, at *7 (N.D. Fla. Dec. 29, 2017) (finding that email chain at issue was privileged and explaining that "the focus of the inquiry is not on whether the attorney is a direct or copied recipient of an email but rather upon whether the email was made for the purpose of securing legal advice or legal services, or conveying legal advice.").

In addition, as noted above, HHC's privilege log contains a separate "Legal Professional Involved" field that identifies attorney(s) whose advice is discussed within an email, who in some cases may be the sender or recipient of an earlier email within the same string.

It should not be surprising that there are privileged emails where attorneys are copied. As explained in Section 1 above, Plaintiffs broadly requested materials regarding topics where advice of counsel would routinely be sought. It is commonplace for non-attorneys at any organization to copy an attorney for the purpose of requesting that attorney's legal advice on a topic. The fact that this may have come up many times in HHC's privilege log is unremarkable.

If Plaintiffs have questions about certain specific entries, please let us know.

6. Third-Party Senders or Recipients

We re-reviewed all documents with the third-party domains listed in your letter. The vast majority of these domains derive from HHC board members who were on privileged communications with HHC counsel, as follows: Frank Borges – Ares Management; Helene Glotzer – Bridgewater; Greg Butler – Eversource; Kola Olofinboba – Fairview Capital; Gregory Deavens – Independent Blue Cross; Greg Barats – HSB; Judy Olian – Quinnepac; Greg Toczydlowski – Travelers; Joanne Berger-Sweeney – Trinity College; Joseph Voelker – Gmail; Patricia Roberts – Gmail; and Yvette Melendez – Gmail. These domains can be found in one particular thread group with David Mack, an in-house attorney at HHC. See, e.g. PLHHC-BROWN-0018757.

Regarding the other third parties you identified:

Optum is a third party with which HHC had a common interest, described in Section 7 below.

Horty Springer is a law firm that provided legal advice to HHC on health law. We will update the privilege log accordingly.

McKinsey, Gallagher, and VMG are third-party consultants that were involved in physician group acquisition issues and physician hiring issues, including compensation and valuation. We are rereviewing these documents and will downgrade where necessary.

Brunswick Group is a public affairs consultant that was included on correspondence about media inquiries regarding litigation. We are rereviewing these documents and will downgrade where necessary.

7. Common Interest Privilege

You also expressed concern for the entries that assert a common interest privilege. The common interest rule, also known as the joint defense privilege, "extends the attorney client privilege to privileged communications revealed to a third party who shares a common legal goal with the party in possession of the original privilege," and it can apply even when the parties are not actively involved in litigation. TIFD III–E Inc., v. United States, 223 F.R.D. 47, 50 (D.Conn. 2004) (citing United States v. Schwimmer, 892 F.2d 237 (2d Cir. 1989)).

The common interest rule also applies, for example, to privileged communications with listed entities with whom HHC had active joint ventures at the time of the privileged communications. HHC needed to communicate with their joint venture partners and joint venture counsel regarding legal issues relating to joint ventures, and these communications do not waive privilege. See AgroFresh Inc. v. Essentiv LLC, No. CV 16-662 (MN), 2019 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 172423, at *1 (D. Del. Oct. 4, 2019) (holding that parties' letter of intent to negotiate a joint venture agreement created shared legal interests between the parties as well as the joint venture itself). Such entities include Care Partners of CT, Ascension, CSUS, Optum, SCA Surgery, CSA Surgery, Tufts-Health, and Yale New Haven Health, among others. Other entities such as Proton International were engaged and supervised by HHC and/or the joint venturer's counsel for the purpose of developing and managing those ongoing joint ventures, so communications with them also do not waive privilege. The following are further descriptions of such joint ventures.

a. Care Partners of CT

In August of 2017, HHC entered into a joint venture with Tufts Associated Health Maintenance Organization, Inc. ("Tufts-Health")—which later changed its name to Point32Health—to organize CarePartners of Connecticut Holdings, LLC ("CarePartners of CT") in connection with implementing the CarePartners of Connecticut Medicare Advantage Plan. Within the context of this joint venture, HHC and Tufts-Health—and, by extension, CarePartners of CT—shared common legal interests such that communications furthering those interests may be withheld as privileged.

b. Ascension

Ascension Health Alliance ("Ascension") is the prior owner/parent corporation of Saint Vincent's Medical Center ("SVMC"). On March 27, 2018, HHC entered into a deal to acquire SVMC from Ascension. In the course of executing the acquisition, Ascension and HHC entered into multiple Transition Service Agreements to ensure continuity of Hospital operations, and they also applied jointly for regulatory approval of the ownership transfer from the Connecticut Office of Health Strategy. The parties ultimately completed the acquisition on October 1, 2019, though aspects of the transition required joint operations and coordination for almost a year thereafter. In the context of these joint operations and while seeking regulatory approval, HHC and Ascension shared common legal interests such that communications furthering those interests may be withheld as privileged.

c. CSCUS

HHC, including through subsidiaries, jointly owns ASCs with Constitution Surgery Alliance, LLC ("CSCUS"). CSCUS manages the centers, but HHC and CSCUS jointly govern and operate the centers. Within the context of such ongoing governance and operations of these ASCs, HHC and CSCUS share common legal interests such that communications furthering those interests may be withheld as privileged.

d. Optum

HHC and Optum Care Networks, Inc. ("Optum") formed a joint venture risk-based enterprise, "Senior Care Network of Connecticut LLC d/b/a Advantage Plus Network-Connecticut", for the purpose of entering into risk-based agreements with organizations such as health care service plans, health maintenance organizations, preferred provider organizations, managed care organizations, and other purchasers of medical services. The resulting health network serves Medicare Advantage patients throughout Connecticut. Pursuant to this joint venture, HHC and Optum entered into a formal common interest agreement that was executed in March of 2022. Within the context of such ongoing operations, HHC and Optum share common legal interests such that communications furthering those interests may be withheld as privileged.

e. Tufts-Health

As stated above, in August of 2017, HHC entered into a joint venture with TuftsHealth—which later changed its name to Point32Health—to organize CarePartners of CT in connection with implementing the CarePartners of Connecticut Medicare Advantage Plan. Within the context of this joint venture, HHC and Tufts-Health shared common legal interests such that communications furthering those interests may be withheld as privileged.

f. Yale New Have Health

HHC and Yale New Haven Health Services Corporation ("Yale New Haven Health") entered into a joint venture to establish and operate the Connecticut Proton Therapy Center, LLC—a first-of-its kind proton beam therapy treatment center in Wallingford, Connecticut. In the context of this joint venture, the parties sought regulatory approval to open the center from the Connecticut Office of Health Strategy. During this process, HHC and Yale New Haven Health shared common legal interests such that communications furthering those interests may be withheld as privileged.

SheppardMullin

g. SCA Health

HHC, including through subsidiaries, jointly owns ASCs with SCA Health—formally known as Surgical Care Affiliates. SCA Health manages the centers, but HHC and SCA Health jointly govern and operate the centers. The withheld communications between HHC and SCA Health took place in the context of ASC governance and/or operations. To the extent such communications related to contracts, they typically involved discussions about potential contract terms between the ASC (or HHC and SCA jointly), on the one hand, and physicians or physician groups, on the other; and whose contracts HHC and SCA Health were jointly negotiating. Because HHC and SCA Health shared common legal interests during these negotiations, communications furthering those interests may be withheld as privileged.

* * *

Once the described re-reviews are complete, HHC will provide Plaintiffs with a supplemental privilege log and produce or re-produce any responsive documents that have been downgraded and removed from the privilege log.

Sincerely,

Leo D. Caseria

Re: Estuary Transit District, et al. v. Hartford Healthcare Corporation, D. Conn., Case No. 3:24-cv-01051-SFR

Dear Counsel:

Please find the attached documents in volumes HHC-BROWN-VOL-37 and HHC-BROWN-REPROD-07. Both volumes contain documents produced or reproduced by Defendants in response to Plaintiffs' Requests for the Production of Documents in the above-entitled action, subject to and without waiving Defendants' objections and responses to these requests.

In response to your May 23, 2025 letter, and consistent with Defendants' June 9, 2025 response letter, these are documents that Defendants have rereviewed and downgraded. Volume 37 contains documents that were previously withheld on the basis of privilege. The Bates ranges and privilege log IDs for this volume are provided in Attachment 1. Volume HHC-BROWN-REPROD-07 contains re-produced documents replacing certain privilege slipsheets and redacted documents from prior production sets. The Bates ranges and privilege log IDs for the reproduction are in Attachment 2. These documents are designated "CONFIDENTIAL – ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY" pursuant to the protective order in this case.

Along with the attached documents, please find an updated privilege log for documents dated on or after October 1, 2018 in connection with this production.

Re: Estuary Transit District v. Hartford HealthCare Corp., No. 24-cv-01051 (D. Conn.) – HHC's Supplemental Privilege Log

Dear Counsel:

Following our review of Hartford HealthCare Corporation's ("HHC") supplemental privilege log and your June 9, 2025 letter, Plaintiffs acknowledge certain improvements. Specifically, the inclusion of subject lines and document titles has, in some instances, aided our privilege assessment. We also note that HHC has withdrawn its privilege assertions to over 488 entries in response to our May 23, 2025 correspondence.

Despite these steps, substantial concerns remain regarding the volume of documents withheld and the adequacy of HHC's privilege descriptions. These issues undermine HHC's burden to justify its privilege claims and interfere with Plaintiffs' ability to meaningfully assess them.

1. Excessive Withholding and Lack of Redaction

HHC asserts privilege over 51,613 entries, withholding 47,998 (92%) in full. Among them:

- 38,709 entries (75%) claim attorney-client privilege despite listing no attorney as sender or direct recipient.

- 29,018 entries (56%) are attachments, of which 28,440 (98%) are withheld entirely.

Complete withholding is improper unless the entire document comprises privileged communication or the protected legal advice is "so inextricably intertwined with the rest of the text that [it] cannot be separated." Resol. Tr. Corp. v. Diamond, 773 F. Supp. 597, 601 (S.D.N.Y. 1991) (citing Hopkins v. U.S. Dept. of Hous. & Urban Dev., 929 F.2d 81, 85 (2d Cir. 1991)). Courts within the Second Circuit routinely require production of redacted versions when unprivileged portions exist. Breon v. Coca-Cola Bottling Co. of New England, 232 F.R.D. 49, 55 (D. Conn. 2005).

Moreover, a preexisting document does not become privileged in its entirety simply because it is transmitted between client and attorney, even when done for the specific purpose of obtaining or providing legal advice. See Resol. Tr. Corp., 773 F. Supp. at 600 ("[T]he privilege does not shield documents merely because they were transferred to or routed through an attorney."); 1 Restatement (Third), The Law Governing Lawyers (2000), § 69, comment (j), p. 530 ("[a client authored] document that is not a privileged document when originally composed does not become privileged simply because the client has placed it in the lawyer's hands"). Even when sent or received ostensibly to obtain legal advice, for the attorney-client privilege to apply, the document itself must contain confidential communications specifically made for the purpose of obtaining or providing legal advice. Asuncion v. Metropolitan Life Ins. Co., 493 F. Supp. 2d 716, 720 (S.D.N.Y. 2007). And even then, the privilege only applies to those specific portions containing the request for, and provision of, legal advice. MacDermid, Inc. v. Raymond Selle & Cookson Grp. plc, No. 3:07 CV 1566 (JBA), 2009 WL 10689349, at *3 (D. Conn. Jan. 14, 2009) (holding corporation may not shield entire documents containing both privileged and unprivileged communications simply by forwarding them to or from attorneys or "employees who need to be aware of the legal advice at issue" and ordering party to produce redacted versions).

In your letter, you attempt to justify the volume of documents HHC has withheld in their entirety by stating: "Unsurprisingly, documents relating to contract negotiations, proposed terms and conditions, draft agreements, and complex healthcare regulatory issues tend to involve attorneys." (Caseria letter, June 9, 2025, at *1.)

But documents are not privileged merely because they "involve" an attorney. In fact, not all communications to or from an attorney are privileged. Expert Choice, Inc. v. Gartner, Inc., No. 3:03 CV 02234 CFDTPS, 2007 WL 951662, at *6 (D. Conn. Mar. 27, 2007). Nor does privilege attach merely because a communication is "legal in nature," because "privilege only applies to disclosures necessary to obtain informed legal advice which might not have been made absent the privilege." Peterson v. Bernardi, 262 F.R.D. 424, 428 (D.N.J. 2009); see also Cause of Action Inst. v. U.S. Dept. of Just., 330 F. Supp. 3d 336, 349 (D.D.C. 2018) ("That a conversation has some legal nexus is insufficient: the party seeking the protection of the attorney-client privilege must show that securing legal advice was a 'primary objective.'").

Relatedly, when communications contain both legal advice and non-legal considerations, a court must consider "whether the predominant purpose of the communication is to render or solicit legal advice"—i.e., "the interpretation and application of legal principals to guide future conduct or to assess past conduct," which "requires a lawyer to rely on legal education and experience to inform judgment." Pritchard v. County of Erie, 473 F.3d 413, 419-20 (2d. Cir. 2007). Tellingly, "[w]here a document is prepared for simultaneous review by legal and non-legal personnel and legal and business advice is requested, it is not primarily legal in nature and is therefore not privileged." Baxter Travenol Labs., Inc. v. Abbott Labs., No. 84 C 5103, 1987 WL 12919, at *5 (N.D. Ill. June 19, 1987).

Such concerns are heightened where, as here, the communications involve in-house counsel; such communications must be carefully scrutinized insofar as "in-house attorneys are more likely to mix legal and business functions." Bank Brussels Lambert v. Credit Lyonnais (Suisse), S.A., 220 F. Supp. 2d 283, 286 (S.D.N.Y. 2002). The Second Circuit has made clear that only those communications relating to "legal, as contrasted with business, advice" are protected. In re Grand Jury Subpoena, 731 F. 2d 1032, 1037 (2d Cir. 1984). Thus, "[i]n cases involving corporations and in-house counsel, courts have maintained a stricter standard for determining whether to protect confidential information through the attorney-client privilege." Bank Brussels Lambert, 220 F. Supp. 2d at 286.

Thus, HHC's assertion that the documents sought in this case touch upon topics such as contract negotiations and regulatory issues that typically involve attorneys does little to assuage Plaintiffs' concerns that HHC is over-designating documents on its privilege log.

For example, HHC-BROWN-0001855 is an email from David Zinkerman to Christine Garthwaite and Kelly Roberts with the subject line "FW: ICP Membership Policy." The privilege description states: "Email requesting and providing legal advice from counsel regarding contract issues," and then identifies in-house attorneys Daniel Kalosieh and Kyle Lanning, neither of which is the sender or a recipient of the email in question, as the "Legal Professional Involved." This document was fully withheld based on attorney-client privilege.

Setting aside the vague and conclusory privilege description, no information in this entry even suggests—let alone establishes—that the email in question was in fact sent for the purpose of seeking legal advice from a professional legal advisor in his or her capacity as such. Even if Mr. Zinkerman relayed some legal advice or instructed Ms. Garthwaite or Ms. Roberts to seek legal advice on some topic, that portion of the email could and should have been redacted as opposed to withholding the document in its entirety.

In addition, to properly assert privilege, HHC would also need to establish that Ms. Garthwaite and Mr. Roberts needed to know the legal advice provided or that they were the proper persons to collect the information the legal advisor required to render legal advice. WCA Holdings III, LLC v. Panasonic Avionics Corp., No. 1:20-cv-7472-GHW, 2025 WL 1434375, at *9 (S.D.N.Y. May 17, 2025) (corporation may waive privilege by disclosing advice to employees who are not in a position to act or rely upon it); see also NovaFund Advisors v. Capitala Group, No. 3:18-CV-01023-MPS-TOF, 2021 WL 2109112, at *5 (D. Conn. May 25, 2021) (communications between non-attorney employees may be privileged for purposes of conveying legal advice received from a legal advisor, but only where those employees have a "need to know" such advice). HHC failed to make any such representations on its privilege log.

2. Attachments to Purportedly Privileged Communications

Plaintiffs' previous letter noted that there were "approximately 5,214[1] entries [on HHC's privilege log] that reflect attachments to emails purportedly requesting confidential legal advice which have been fully withheld. No explanation is provided as to what the attachment is or why the attachment itself is privileged." (Ruan letter, May 23, 2025, at *2.) Your letter did not address attachments at all.

However, your letter does represent: "On behalf of HHC, we confirm that documents fully withheld were individually reviewed for privilege and that HHC's privilege log complies with applicable law." (Caseria letter, June 9, 2025, at *1.) However, reviewing each attachment for privilege is not sufficient; HHC must also produce a privilege log that establishes each element of the attorney-client privilege or applicability of work product protection for each document withheld, including attachments. NovaFund, 2021 WL 2109112, at *1. HHC's supplemental privilege log fails to do so.

HHC's supplemental privilege log contains 29,018 attachments purporting to be privileged, 28,440 of which have been completely withheld. None of these entries provide an independent basis for why the attachment itself is privileged, let alone in its entirety. In addition, 28,129 of these entries provide no information regarding authors, senders, or recipients, further preventing Plaintiffs from confirming that the documents in question originally contained attorney-client communications and/or were prepared in anticipation of litigation. Therefore, based on the information provided, it is impossible for Plaintiffs to determine if the documents are in fact privileged, in whole or in part.

For example, there are 4,821 entries that have been described as: "Attached to email provided to counsel in connection with request for legal advice regarding _____," with the blank covering a wide variety of issues, most of which could hardly be described as necessitating advice that would be predominantly legal in nature (e.g., "audit," "corporate governance," "employment," "insurance," and "marketing"). In addition, while these entries purport to identify a "Legal Professional Involved," none of them indicate how that person was involved or even that the "legal professional" in fact sent or received the attachment (i.e., no legal professional is listed in the "To," "From," "CC," or "BCC" fields).

[1] This figure represented a subset of entries with a particular privilege description; in fact, there were 28,783 entries on HHC's prior privilege log purporting to be attachments that were fully withheld on privilege grounds.

Most importantly, none of these entries provide any explanation as to why the attachment itself, as opposed to the parent email, was sent. Thus, at best, these entries address why the email might be privileged; they do not address at all why the attachments to those emails are privileged.[2] Buxbaum v. St. Vincent's Health Servs., Inc., No. 3:12CV117 WWE, 2013 WL 74733, at *5 (D. Conn. Jan. 7, 2013) ("A document is not privileged merely because it was sent or received between an attorney and the client. The document must contain confidential communication relating to legal advice.") (quoting Sokol v. Wyeth, Inc., No. 07 Civ. 8442(SHS)(KNF), 2008 WL 3166662, at *5 (S .D.N.Y. Aug. 4, 2008)); Mold-Masters Ltd. v. Husky Injection Molding Sys. Ltd., No. 01 C 1576, 2001 WL 1558303, at *3 (N.D. Ill. Dec. 6, 2001) ("Merely attaching a document to a privileged or protected document does not make the attached document privileged or protected.").

Without such information, HHC's supplemental privilege log is deficient as it fails to provide Plaintiffs with enough information to determine whether any of these attachments, in whole or in part, are in fact privileged.

For example, PLHHC-BROWN-0001901 purports to be an email from David Zinkerman to Thomas Quinlan, Tricia Hasselman, and Rebecca Grosso with the subject "ICP Anthem Communication," and attaches PLHHC-BROWN-0001902, a document with the filename "HHC_Subscriber Communication.pdf." Both the email and the attachment are fully withheld with the descriptions "[e]mail relaying legal advice of counsel regarding insurance issues" and "[a]ttached to email relaying legal advice of counsel regarding insurance issues," respectively. No attorneys are listed as the author, sender, or recipient of either document. The "Legal Professional Involved" for both documents is listed as "HHC – Legal Department ESQ/INT."

The only ostensible basis for why the attachment is privileged is that it was attached to an email purportedly relaying legal advice from HHC's Legal Department—an identifier that itself is deficient because it fails to identify which attorney actually was involved in the providing the legal advice. Otherwise, the attachment: (a) was not sent to or received by an attorney; (b) was not prepared for or by an attorney; (c) was not attached so that legal advice could be obtained about its contents; and (d) was originally intended as a communication for persons outside the company (i.e., "HHC subscribers). Thus, none of the elements of privilege have been established.

3. General Subject Matter of the Documents/Communications

Plaintiffs appreciate that HHC has now provided subject lines and document titles, where available, for the entries in its supplemental privilege log. However, even when viewed together with the "Privilege Description" field, the information provided for most entries remains grossly inadequate for purposes of describing the general subject matter of each document withheld or redacted for privilege, as required by Civ. L. R. 26(e). Accordingly, for most entries in HHC's supplemental privilege log, Plaintiffs are still unable to determine the applicability of any privilege based on the information provided.

A privilege log must provide sufficient information to satisfy the producing party's burden of establishing applicability of any privilege shielding that particular document from discovery. In re Grand Jury Proceedings v. Doe, 219 F.3d 175, 182 (2d Cir. 2000). With respect to the "privilege description" field, the provided information must be fulsome enough to enable the other party to assess the privilege claim, yet not so detailed as to reveal the information being protected. NovaFund, 2021 WL 2109112, at *2.

Bald, conclusory statements that documents contain a request for or provision of legal advice do not suffice. See, e.g., WCA Holdings III, , 2025 WL 1434375, at *9 (holding that privilege logs merely asserting that certain employees are seeking, discussing, or reflecting legal advice or analysis are insufficient); St. Paul Guardian Ins. Co. v. Walsh Constr. Co., No. 15 CV 10324, 2021 WL 4745385, at *4 (N.D. Ill. Oct. 12, 2021) (privilege log entries describing a document as "re: legal advice and strategy" are insufficient and conclusory because "saying do doesn't make it so") (quoting Urb. 8 Fox Lake Corp. v. Nationwide Affordable Hous. Fund 4, LLC, 334 F.R.D. 149, 156 (N.D. Ill. 2020)); Chesapeake Bay Found., Inc. v. U.S. Army Corps of Eng'rs, 722 F. Supp. 2d 66, 73 (D.D.C. 2010) ("[M]erely stating that a communication contains 'legal advice,' or comes from an attorney, is insufficient to show that the privilege is appropriate."); Coltec Indus., Inc. v. Am. Motorists Ins. Co., 197 F.R.D. 368, 373 (N.D. Ill. 2000) ("[D]escribing a document as 'legal advice' or 'work product' is not the same as establishing that the documents are immune from discovery.") (emphasis in original).

Not only do such descriptions fail to establish that the documents comprise protected communications, but they also fail to address whether any preexisting privilege may have been waived by the inclusion of employees who either did not need to know the information or were not in a position to act upon the legal advice in question. WCA Holdings III, 2025 WL 1434375, at *9 (citing Scott v. Chipotle Mexican Grill, Inc., 94 F. Supp.3d 585, 598 (S.D.N.Y. 2015)); see also NovaFund, 2021 WL 2109112, at *5 (noting that communications between non-attorney employees may be privileged for purposes of conveying legal advice received from a legal advisor, but only where those employees have a "need to know" such advice).

As noted above, your letter states: "Unsurprisingly, documents relating to contract negotiations, proposed terms and conditions, draft agreements, and complex healthcare regulatory issues tend to involve attorneys." (Caseria letter, June 9, 2025, at *1.) Perhaps equally unsurprising, 37,153 entries on HHC's supplemental privilege log contain a privilege description that references "contract issues," and 2,293 reference "regulatory issues."

But again, a document is not privileged merely because it "involves" an attorney. Similarly, a document is not privileged merely because it "involves" contract negotiations or regulatory issues. Rather, the document must contain a specific request or provision of legal advice regarding those contract or regulatory issues such that the document is clearly tied to a specific legal problem. See, e.g., N. Carolina Elec. Membership Corp. v. Carolina Power & Light Co., 110 F.R.D. 511, 516 (M.D.N.C. 1986) (categorizing discussions of "contract negotiations" as "updates on ongoing business developments" rather than as legal advice); Resol. Tr. Corp., 773 F. Supp. at 600 ("attorney-client privilege does not normally protect communications between client and counsel where counsel are acting as regulatory decision-makers rather than as attorney advisors").

Documents prepared in connection with contract negotiations are also not protected as attorney work product unless they are primarily legal in nature and created specifically in anticipation of litigation. See In re Copper Market Antitrust Litig., 200 F.R.D. 213, 221 (S.D.N.Y. 2001) ("Documents prepared in the ordinary course of business, or that would have been created whether or not litigation was anticipated, are not protected by work-product immunity."). "In anticipation of litigation" means that "in light of the nature of the document and the factual situation in the particular case, the document can fairly be said to have been prepared or obtained because of the prospect of litigation." U.S. v. Adlman, 1334 F.3d 1194, 1202 (2d Cir. 1998).

Applying these principles, Plaintiffs have serious concerns about the adequacy of the "Privilege Descriptions" in HHC's supplemental privilege log. For example, HHC produced an email, HHC-BROWN-00010800, sent by David Zinkerman to Keith Fontaine and Tricia Hasselman on February 1, 2021. That email attached a Word document titled "ICP Talking Points for Anthem Blue Care Prime Issue," which was withheld in its entirety with a placeholder Bates stamp of HHC-BROWN-00010802.[3] The Privilege Description for this Word document states: "Public relations document prepared under direction or at request of counsel regarding contract issues." See PLHHC-BROWN-0010842. Thus, by HHC's own admission, this document was created for public consumption, not for the purpose of obtaining or receiving confidential legal advice. The fact that it was created "under direction or at request of counsel" is of no consequence. Moreover, neither description reflects what legal advice or input an attorney provided or what contribution counsel made to this document, if any. For example, a lawyer could have simply relayed or suggested during a business discussion that a talking points document should be prepared, without further input or contribution. Under such circumstances the counsel's direction or request does not establish any privilege.

[3] As produced, the "Privilege Log ID" in HHC's supplemental privilege log cannot be matched up with the placeholder Bates number, thus Plaintiffs are unable to evaluate privilege for documents they come across in the production.

Review of the parent email further confirms that this document was being forwarded for business purposes rather than for the purpose of securing legal advice. Mr. Fontaine requested the talking points because "[he] want[ed] to see how [HHC] can position [its] message to counter [the state's talking points]." Moreover, it is difficult to see how corporate positioning and "talking points"—which presumably contain at least some information intended for public consumption as opposed to being kept confidentially—could possibly be privileged in the first instance, let alone in their entirety.

In another example, PLHHC-BROWN-0001878 purports to be an email from David Zinkerman to Rebecca Grosso and Thomas Quinlan with the subject "RE: ICP Anthem Communication" that was fully withheld on privilege grounds. No attorneys sent or received this email. The privilege description states: "Email relaying legal advice of counsel regarding marketing issues," and then identifies "HHC – Legal Department ESQINT" as the "Legal Professional Involved." Notably, no explanation is provided as to: (1) why the entire document is privileged; (2) what sort of legal advice would be required to address "marketing issues"; (3) how that legal purpose predominates over the obvious business-related purpose; or (4) why these particular employees needed to know the purported legal advice. See NovaFund, 2021 WL 2109112, at *5 (noting that communications between non-attorney employees may be privileged for purposes of conveying legal advice received from a legal advisor only where those employees have a "need to know" such advice).

Though only examples, these entries amply demonstrate why HHC's supplemental privilege log is deficient—to wit, the "privilege descriptions" field does not contain sufficient information for Plaintiffs to confirm HHC's privilege assertions and, in many instances, all indications point to the opposite conclusion.

4. Entries Where an Attorney is Neither the Sender Nor a Direct Recipient

There are 39,228 entries on HHC's supplemental privilege log for which the attorney listed (i.e., those with "ESQINT" or "ESQOUT" following their names) is not a direct sender or recipient (i.e., listed in the "Non-Normalized From" or "Non-Normalized To" fields), 8,687 of which are emails. These entries can be grouped roughly into three categories: (a) emails with no sender/recipient information at all; (b) entries with no specific attorney identified; and (c) entries where the attorney involved is merely copied or blind copied. Plaintiffs will address each category separately.

a. Emails with No Sender/Recipient Information

There are 31,509 entries with no information in the "To," "From," "CC," or "BCC" fields. 29,910 of these also have no information in the "Non-Normalized" fields; 187 of these are emails, and 29,261 are attachments withheld or redacted for privilege.

Given the representations in your prior letter, Plaintiffs assume that the 187 emails for which all the metadata available has been provided are likely draft emails that were never sent. Draft emails that were never sent or received by counsel must be produced; such documents cannot be privileged for they fail to satisfy the first and most important privilege element – i.e., "a communication between counsel and client."

As discussed above, there are 28,129 attachments for which there is no author, sender, or recipient information. While Plaintiffs can turn to the parent email to determine who sent/received the attachment in connection with that email, Plaintiffs cannot determine if the underlying attachment itself originally contained privileged information. This separate consideration is oftentimes critical insofar as, even when the parent email is a privileged communication, the attachments thereto are not automatically privileged simply by virtue of being attached. Buxbaum, 2013 WL 74733, at *5; Mold-Masters, 2001 WL 1558303, at *3.

In fact, upon review of these entries, and as also discussed above, none of the privilege descriptions assert that the attachments themselves reflect a request or provision of legal advice; rather, HHC has asserted that the parent email requested or provided legal advice. Thus, at best, these entries address why the parent email might be privileged, not why the attachments are privileged.

Therefore, based on the information provided, it is impossible for Plaintiffs to determine if these attachments are in fact privileged, in whole or in part.

b. Entries with No Specific Attorney Identified

HHC's supplemental privilege log contains 3,513 entries where no legal professional is identified by name (e.g., referencing HHC's "legal department" or an entire law firm).

Plaintiffs provided ample authority from district courts within the Second Circuit supporting their contention that privilege logs must identify a specific legal professional to establish applicability of the attorney-client privilege. See, e.g., A.I.A. Holdings, S.A. v. Lehman Brothers, Inc., No. 97 Civ. 4978, 2002 WL 31385824, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 21, 2002); In re Rivastigmine Patent Litig., 237 F.R.D. 69, 83 (S.D.N.Y. 2006); Wultz v. Bank of China Ltd., 979 F. Supp. 2d 479, 497 (S.D.N.Y. 2013), on reconsideration in part, No. 11 CIV. 1266 SAS, 2013 WL 6098484 (S.D.N.Y. Nov. 20, 2013).

In response, your letter states: "It is not a requirement (nor is it always possible) that privilege logs identify attorneys by name in all instances. See, e.g., In re Dealer Mgmt. Sys. Antitrust Litig., 2020 WL 7865915, at *8 (N.D. Ill. Mar. 30, 2020) (explaining that documents can be privileged even if a privilege log does not 'identify an attorney by name but rather refers to "in-house counsel" or "legal department."').")

But the court in that case merely acknowledged it could "conceive of scenarios when a document would be privileged even if a lawyer is not identified by name and instances when the identification of the attorney could be relevant and necessary to a privilege determination," Dealer Mgmt., 2020 WL 7865915, at *8, before ordering the parties to meet and further on a compromise for such entries since both sides failed to identify attorneys by name for each entry.

Your letter further explains: "There are many reasons why the name of a legal professional may not appear in the metadata of a privileged email or email chain. For example, non-attorneys often relay legal advice received from attorneys, or requests for legal advice, or they might be collecting information in order to provide to an attorney. In those instances, HHC employees involved in the communication might refer to attorneys in the legal department as 'legal' or to outside attorneys as 'outside counsel' without reference to the specific attorney."

While this theoretical example might explain why the metadata for a particular entry does not identify a particular attorney, it does not explain why HHC could not otherwise identify the attorney who purportedly provided the legal advice or requested the information sought. Without knowing the identity of the legal advisor, how would the employee know then—and how would HHC know now—that the information sought, or the advice provided, was going to or was provided by a legal advisor for legal, as opposed to business, reasons?

In any event, such situations would not involve privileged communications unless those persons needed to know the legal advice or were the appropriate persons from whom to gather the information necessary to provide legal advice. WCA Holdings III, 2025 WL 1434375, at *9 (corporation may waive privilege by disclosing advice to employees who are not in a position to act or rely upon it); NovaFund, 2021 WL 2109112, at *5. This is nearly impossible to determine without knowing the identities of and relationship between the persons involved in the communication and the specific legal advisor supposedly providing the advice or requesting the information needed to provide it.

c. Entries with Attorney Copied/Blind Copied

Plaintiffs' prior letter raised concerns regarding the volume of entries on HHC's privilege log that purport to contain privileged attorney-client communications but for which the legal professionals involved are merely copied. Instead of addressing those concerns, HHC has provided authority for the unremarkable proposition that "an email does not lose its privileged status because an attorney only appears in the CC metadata field" and that, in some instances, a document can be privileged despite only copying an attorney. (Caseria letter, June 9, 2025, at *3.)

Your letter further explains: "It is commonplace for non-attorneys at any organization to copy an attorney for the purpose of requesting that attorney's legal advice on a topic." (Id.) The problem, however, is that it is also commonplace for employees to copy attorneys on documents, especially in-house counsel, for purposes other than requesting legal advice—e.g., to secure business advice or, in some instances, to improperly shield the documents or information from discovery. That is why copying numerous people on an email, one of whom just happens to be an attorney, or forwarding an e-mail until it eventually reaches an attorney, does not amount to a privileged attorney-client communication. See Expert Choice, Inc. v. Gartner, Inc., No. 3:03 CV 02234 CFDTPS, 2007 WL 951662, at *6 (D. Conn. Mar. 27, 2007).

2,272 emails remain on HHC's supplemental privilege log where no specific attorney is identified in the "To" or "From" field, and instead, the attorney is listed in the "CC" or "BCC" fields. Another 6,311 emails have no attorney identified in any fields. Of those collective documents, 6,362 (74%) have been withheld in their entirety while 2,221 have been redacted.

For each of these documents, has HHC in fact determined that the predominant purpose of the communication was to secure or provide legal advice? Moreover, for each of the 6,362 emails fully withheld, did HHC in fact determine that the entire document comprised a request for or provision of legal advice, as opposed to specific portions interspersed within non-legal advice?

Given the sheer volume of entries, as well as even a cursory review of the log itself, the answer to both questions appears to be "no."

For example, many of the emails in question—which, again, are sent to/from multiple individuals and an attorney is only copied—have subject lines strongly suggesting, on their face, that the predominant purpose of the communication is business, not legal, strategy. These include:

- "RE: Anthem Limited Network for the State of CT - WILL NEED TO DISCUSS STRATEGY" (PLHHC-BROWN-0003833);
- "RE: Payer Strategy Session" (PLHHC-BROWN-0036997);
- "FW: Draft Baseline Pricing Structure Report" (PLHHC-BROWN-0037172);
- "HHC Strategic Assessment - Presentation to Regional Boards" (PLHHC-BROWN-0050644);
- "RE: Strategy & Finance Committee Agenda" (PLHHC-BROWN-0032526); and
- "Re: Charlotte Payer Negotiation Strategy" (PLHHC-BROWN-0034093).

The fact that, for each of these examples and thousands of others, HHC seemingly determined upon review not only that their predominant purpose was to seek or provide legal advice but also that none of these emails contained anything except such legal communications (given they all were withheld in their entirety), strains credulity.

5. Third-Party Senders or Recipients

Your letter provides explanations for many of the emails that appear on HHC's privilege log that seemingly belonged to non-HHC and non-legal counsel entities. That information was helpful.

Your letter further explains that certain emails relate to "third-party consultants" (i.e., McKinsey, Gallagher, and VMG) that would be rereviewed and downgraded where necessary. No assertion of a common interest privilege is made in your letter with respect to these entities.[4]

Upon reviewing HHC's supplemental privilege log, it appears that HHC continues to assert privilege with respect to many of these emails: (a) there are 12 emails sent by a McKinsey employee, 67 emails sent to a McKinsey employee, and 11 emails copying a McKinsey employee that nonetheless purport to be privileged; and (b) there are 10 emails sent by a VMG employee, 8 emails sent to a VMG employee, and 10 emails copying a VMG employee that nonetheless purport to be privileged.

For example, PLHHC-BROWN-0034410 is an email sent by Ravi Gupta of McKinsey to various HHC and McKinsey employees, as well as one attorney—Eric Klein at Sheppard Mullin, with the subject line "RE: RBE Prep Meeting." It is further described as "Email relaying legal advice of counsel regarding transaction legal issues."

HHC has not asserted a common interest privilege with McKinsey. Therefore, whatever "legal advice" may have been contained within the email sent by McKinsey was waived by virtue of disclosing it to third parties. Spanierman Gallery, Profit Sharing Plan v. Merritt, No. 00CIV5712LTSTHK, 2003 WL 22909160, at *2 (S.D.N.Y. Dec. 9, 2003) ("Because the privilege requires that protected communications be made in confidence and kept confidential, disclosure of a privileged communication to a third party, other than someone with whom the party shares a common interest and who is bound to maintain its confidentiality, will result in a waiver of the privilege.").

[4] However, some entries in HHC's supplemental privilege log refer to a common interest in connection with documents relating to these entities. See, e.g., HHC-BROWN-0007628. If HHC is relying on common interest privilege with respect to any of these "third-party consultants," please inform us immediately.

Please remove from HHC's privilege log each of the entries involving documents sent to/from these third-party consultants and produce them in full.

6. Common Interest Privilege

HHC's supplemental privilege log contains 1,878 entries that claim common interest privilege.

The common interest privilege is an extension of the attorney-client privilege that serves as "an exception to the general rule that voluntary disclosure of confidential, privileged material to a third-party waives any applicable privilege." BBAM Aircraft Mgmt. LP v. Babcock & Brown LLC, No. 3:20-CV-1056 (OAW), 2022 WL 3716574, at *2 (D. Conn. Aug. 29, 2022) (quoting Sokol, 2008 WL 3166662, at *5). The burden of establishing the existence of a common legal enterprise rests on the party asserting it, either by producing evidence of the agreement or by submitting "affidavits from the attorneys and lay representatives of both [the] parties which show that at a specific time . . . a joint defense or strategy has been decided upon and undertaken by the parties and their counsel." Id. at *3 (quoting Jansson v. Stamford Health, Inc., 312 F. Supp. 3d 289, 304 (D. Conn. 2018)).

Plaintiffs' previous letter asked HHC to confirm if it would produce a sworn affidavit identifying each person/entity with whom, in connection with its privilege log, it purports to share a common legal interest, a description of the common legal interest, and the time-period for which they shared this common legal interest.

Your letter response ignored Plaintiffs' request. Instead, HHC provided a description of various "joint ventures," which included some, but not all, of the information requested.

Even assuming that a common interest existed with respect to each of the entities described in your letter, not all communications in furtherance of that common interest are protected; rather, "the communication at issue also must meet the general requirements of privileged material"—i.e., "that the communication in question was made in confidence, and that it involves attorney advice." Id. For most of the common interest privilege-related entries in its supplemental privilege log, HHC fails to establish that the document would have been privileged in the first instance.

For example, there are 1,003 attachments that HHC asserts are protected by the common interest privilege. As with the other attachments included in HHC's supplemental privilege log generally, not a single one of those entries describes why the attachment itself is privileged. Instead, each of these entries are described simply as being attached to an email relaying or requesting legal advice. See, e.g., PLHHC-BROWN-0002379 ("Attached to email requesting and providing legal advice from counsel furthering a common legal interest regarding contract issues."). But as already discussed, a document is not privileged merely because it is attached to a privileged communication. Buxbaum, 2013 WL 74733, at *5; Mold-Masters, 2001 WL 1558303, at *3.

Accordingly, HHC has failed to meet its burden of establishing the applicability of the common interest privilege as to any of these 1,003 attachments.

Given these systemic deficiencies, Plaintiffs propose a joint stipulation for in camera review of selected entries by the magistrate judge. This practice, common in the District of Connecticut, would expedite resolution while minimizing motion practice. If HHC is amenable to this approach, please let me know, and I will circulate a draft for your review.

Alternatively, please (1) inform Plaintiffs by August 8, 2025, whether HHC intends to revise its privilege log to address the concerns outlined above, (2) produce a revised log and all de-logged documents by August 18, 2025, and (3) for any de-logged documents involving a deponent, produce any de-logged documents at least seven days before any custodian's scheduled deposition.

We remain available to meet and confer at your convenience.

Very truly yours,

/s/Matthew W. Ruan

Re: Estuary Transit District, et al. v. Hartford Healthcare Corporation, D. Conn., Case No. 3:24-cv-01051-SFR

Dear Counsel:

This letter responds to your letter dated July 31, 2025 regarding the privilege log produced by Defendants Hartford Healthcare Corporation, Hartford Hospital, Hartford Healthcare Medical Group, Inc., and Integrated Care Partners, LLC (collectively, "HHC") on June 24, 2025.

You state in your letter that the "sheer volume" of HHC's privilege log entries establishes that HHC has over-withheld documents on privilege grounds. The actual numbers indicate otherwise. HHC's 52,000 privilege log entries comprise just 3.7% of the total universe of 1.33 million responsive documents that have been produced. A privilege rate of 3.7% is reasonable, if not conservative, given the complexity of this case and the vast amount of documents requested by Plaintiffs and produced by HHC.

Your letter raises blanket objections to 52,000 privilege log entries, while identifying purportedly objectionable issues in only 15 specific documents. Concerns relating to 15 specific documents cannot possibly support blanket objections to an entire privilege log. See, e.g., Gen. Elec. Co. v. United States, No. 3:14-CV-00190 (JAM), 2015 WL 5443479, at *2 (D. Conn. Sept.

15, 2015) (rejecting privilege challenge based on isolated examples and finding that the volume of privileged documents was "unsurprising" in light of "the very large number of documents subject to production" and "the kinds of complex commercial transactions at issue in this case and with their substantial legal regulatory overtones").

In cases where you raise specific concerns about specific documents, we are able to review and specifically address those issues. However, baseless and overly broad objections to all or most of HHC's privilege log are fundamentally invalid.

1. Documents Withheld Entirely

Your letter raises concern with the raw number of documents that were withheld entirely, expressing a numerator without even acknowledging the denominator. As we mention above, just 3.7% of responsive documents are on the privilege log as withheld or redacted. The number of fully withheld documents, which is a subset of this figure, is not substantial in relation to the large numbers of documents collected, reviewed, and produced. Objections based solely on the raw number are meritless.

You take issue with our use of the phrase "involve attorneys" in our recent letter. We used this phrase to point out the fact that Plaintiffs' document requests, by the very nature of what was requested, would capture large numbers of documents involving attorneys, which, in turn, would obviously increase the volume of withheld privileged material. To be clear, documents have been withheld or redacted not because they simply involve attorneys, but because they are privileged communications as described in the privilege log. While we appreciate your lengthy recitation of various court opinions dealing with privilege issues, we understand the difference between a document that involves attorneys and one that involves legal advice. As you know, HHC has produced many documents that merely involved attorneys but no legal advice. For example, attorney Dan Kalosieh is mentioned in over 8,000 produced documents, which includes over 5,000 emails.

2. "Need to Know"

You assert that the log must specifically describe why each non-lawyer recipient in each privileged document "needed to know" the legal advice provided or requested. We have never seen a privilege log containing, nor are we familiar with caselaw requiring, an express statement regarding the "need to know" status for each communication and each non-lawyer recipient within each of thousands of log entries. This would place an immense, undue, and unnecessary burden on HHC, and is not required. See SCM Corp. v. Xerox Corp., 70 F.R.D. 508, 518 (D. Conn. 1976) ("It would be an unnecessary restriction of the privilege to consider it lost when top management personnel discuss legal advice. . . A discussion between executives of legal advice should be privileged."); see also A.I.A. Holdings, S.A. v. Lehman Bros., 2002 WL 31385824, at *3. (S.D.N.Y. Oct. 18, 2002).

Burden aside, the one District of Connecticut case you cite on this issue involved privilege log entries between non-attorneys that did not appear to involve or have any connection to an attorney, and applied North Carolina law. NovaFund Advisors v. Capitala Group, No. 3:18-CV-01023-MPS-TOF, 2021 WL 2109112, at *5 (D. Conn. May 25, 2021). HHC's log, by contrast, has identified the legal professional whose advice was requested or relayed between HHC employees, and is not subject to North Carolina law.

We have reviewed the one specific document you cited in this section of your letter (PLHHC-BROWN-0001855). In light of that review, we are producing a redacted version of this document.

2. Attachments

Your letter challenges our privilege log entries withholding attachments to privileged emails. We disagree that these materials were improperly withheld.

There are a variety of common scenarios that make attachments privileged. For example, someone may send an email to counsel requesting legal advice regarding a document and attach the document (e.g. PLHHC-BROWN-0001742). Or, counsel may send an email providing legal advice concerning a document, and attach the document (e.g. PLHHC-BROWN-0002378). Another common example arises in situations where counsel is providing legal advice and asks others to gather or provide information or documents in order for counsel to complete the legal analysis or work. (e.g. PLHHC-BROWN-0001795). In such cases, which arise frequently based on Plaintiffs' broad document requests, the attachments are privileged and fully withheld.

Your suggestion that a document must be independently privileged in order for it to remain privileged as an attachment is wrong. See Gen. Elec. Co., 2015 WL 5443479, at *1 (citing Upjohn for the proposition that "information communicated to an attorney in connection with obtaining or rendering legal advice is properly subject to a claim of privilege, even if the information standing alone would not otherwise be subject to a claim of privilege"). Indeed, the Second Circuit has made clear that an attorney-client privilege is not "lost by the mere fact that the information communicated is otherwise available to the public," because "[t]he privilege attaches not to the information but to the communication of the information." United States v. Cunningham, 672 F.2d 1064, 1073 n.8 (2d Cir.1982) (quoted in Gen. Elec. Co., 2015 WL 5443479, at *2).

For example, in Gen. Elec., District Court Judge Meyer concluded that attachments were privileged under similar circumstances where "privileged GE email communications included attachments (such as draft board meeting minutes, presentations, and spreadsheets) evincing facts that were known to third parties who were not part of the privileged communications does not render these documents free from a valid claim of privilege in the context of their inclusion within otherwise privileged communications." 2015 WL 5443479, at *2; accord In re Martinez Sampedro, No. 3:18-MC-47 (JBA), 2020 WL 8922834, at *2 (D. Conn. Mar. 2, 2020) (finding attachments to emails that included outside counsel were privileged and explaining, "whereas each document, standing alone, may not contain privileged information, in this context, they were properly withheld as privileged because they constitute 'information communicated to an attorney in connection with obtaining or rendering legal advice.'").

To further illustrate this point, and in direct contradiction to the position you take in your letter, the court in Gen. Elec. explained that a public news article attached to a privileged communication could be privileged: "Imagine, for example, that a company executive sent the company's counsel a news article about alleged bid-rigging activities within the company's industry; if the executive did so for the confidential purpose of seeking advice about the company's legal obligations or liability exposure, the fact that the news article is a quintessentially public document would not defeat a claim of privilege." 2015 WL 5443479, at *2.

Your position regarding attachments flies in the face of the Second Circuit and District of Connecticut decisions above. Instead, you cite to Magistrate Judge Farrish's inapposite opinion in NovaFund Advisors v. Capitala Group, which applied North Carolina law. Judge Farrish noted a variety of deficiencies in the privilege log in that case, but did not hold that each attachment to a privileged email must be independently privileged.

We are re-reviewing the log entries and corresponding documents that reference "audit, corporate governance, employment, insurance, and marketing," as noted in your letter. We will get back to you regarding these entries once our review is complete.

3. Subject Matter

In your earlier letter dated May 23, 2025, you demanded that pursuant to FRCP 26(e), we provide the subject lines for every entry in our privilege log, which you asserted would help you ascertain the required "general subject matter" of the documents being withheld. We disagreed that this was required, but as a compromise, revised our privilege log to provide the information you requested for each entry.

Incredibly, now that we have undertaken the burden of revising our privilege log to provide the very information you requested, you now assert that "most" of that information is apparently useless.

Plaintiffs appear to be continuously asking HHC to revise its entire log to provide a never-ending stream of additional information, with no clear indication of what would be sufficient. To the extent you are suggesting that HHC needs to re-review tens of thousands of documents and revise all privilege log entries to provide an unknown additional amount of information regarding the subject matter of each document, HHC declines to do so. We cannot be put in the position of continuously revising all privilege log entries.

The information provided by HHC is sufficient. In contrast to the cases you cite, HHC's log descriptions provide much more than "conclusory statements" that a document constitutes "legal advice and strategy" or "legal advice" from an attorney. For example, log entry PLHHC-BROWN-0001754 identifies an email sent by David Zinkerman dated 11/12/2020, to three attorneys (Christine Clements, Debra Cardinali, and Kyle Lannings) and three other members of the contracting team, (Jim Zullo, Michelle Cornello, and Rebecca Grosso). The subject line is "Revised Draft Supplemental Agreement – Additional Change," and the privilege description states, "Email requesting and providing legal advice from counsel regarding contract issues."

The level of description in HHC's privilege log provides the basic information needed to determine the privilege status of the document. Given the complex scope of this case and the large number of documents involved, HHC's efforts are reasonable under the circumstances. See A.I.A. Holdings, S.A., 2002 WL 31385824, at *3. HHC is not required to provide so much information that privileged information is revealed. NovaFund, 2021 WL 2109112, at *2 ("'privilege description'…must be fulsome enough to enable the other party to assess the privilege claim, yet not so detailed as to reveal the information being protected.").

The descriptions in the cases Plaintiffs cite are easily distinguishable. Compare, e.g., WCA Holdings III, LLC v. Panasonic Avionics Corp., No. 1:20-cv-7472-GHW, 2025 WL 1434375, at *9 (S.D.N.Y. May 17, 2025) (noting that "[e]ach email on the log was 'described as a conversation between employees to the effect of 'discuss[ing] or reflecting in house counsels' legal advice or analysis'"); St. Paul Guardian Ins. Co. v. Walsh Constr. Co., No. 15 CV10324, 2021 WL 4745385, at *4 (N.D. Ill. Oct. 12, 2021) (noting, "Insurers' privilege logs largely fail to describe the subject matter of the underlying documents, instead typically restating the author and recipients and using 'confidential communication,' 'legal advice and strategy,' or other similar conclusory language to complete the description").

With respect to the documents you specifically cite in your letter, we are reviewing those documents and will get back to you.

4. Privilege Log Entries With No Attorney In The To or From Fields

a. Draft Documents.

We have re-reviewed the 187 emails identified in your letter where there no sender or recipient. 173 of those documents are drafts, and 14 are embedded emails.

Contrary to your assertion, unsent drafts of privileged emails, or draft emails used to create notes relating to privileged communications, are privileged. See Wagner Aeronautical, Inc. v. Dotzenroth, No. 21-CV-0994-L-AGS, 2022 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 158665, at *7 (S.D. Cal. Sep. 1, 2022).

In addition, the only content in some drafts are actual privileged communications. For example, in the entry labeled PLHHC-BROWN-0006316, Kyle Lanning, an attorney, emailed Tricia Hasselman and David Zinkerman providing legal advice about contract language. The top email is a blank draft without anything in the body of the email. The fact that there is a blank draft email at the top of the email chain does not change the fact that the earlier emails within the document contain actual attorney-client privileged communications.

14 emails were embedded within another email or file that resulted in no metadata. We have re-reviewed these documents and will be producing all but one document, which is being withheld as privileged. We will revise the privilege log entry for that document.

b. No Individual Attorney Named.

We have already addressed this issue in our letter dated June 9, 2025. HHC employees often refer in emails to advice from the "legal" department or from a particular law firm, without identifying a specific attorney by name. In such instances, we have provided as much information as we have by listing the HHC legal department or the applicable law firm as the legal professional. This approach is sufficient. See, e.g., In re Diisocyanates Antitrust Litig., No. 18-1001, 2024 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 175477, at *11-12 (W.D. Pa. Aug. 27, 2024) (holding that privilee log entries referring to the "legal department" were adequate because there was "sufficient nexus between the communication and an attorney" (internal quotes omitted)); In re Abilify (Aripiprazole) Prod. Liab. Litig., 2017 WL 6757558, at *6 (N.D. Fl. Dec. 29, 2017) ("With regard to those instances where a specific name is not identified, this is not fatal . . . . Indeed, it is not uncommon within a complex organization that when a request for information is made by outside counsel communications among corporate employees transmitting the request for information frequently will simply refer to the request as coming from outside counsel as opposed to a specific attorney or law firm. The important inquiry from a privilege perspective is the nature of the communication and the context in which it is made and not necessarily the precise identification of the source of the request for information."); U.S. Information Systems, Inc. v. International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, No. 00-CV-4763, 2002 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 17532, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 17, 2002) (no additional information required in privilege log where "identity of the specific individual who authored the document could not be ascertained.").

No case cited by Plaintiffs holds that generally referencing in-house or outside counsel is not permitted or results in waiver of attorney-client privilege. Indeed, that logic would lead to the absurd result that memoranda from law firms, without listing a specific attorney, would be deemed not privileged.

c. Attorneys listed in CC or BCC Fields.

You take issue with the volume of documents where an attorney is not listed in the To or From fields but is instead listed in the CC or BCC fields. You again reference the purported "sheer volume"— a mere 2272 entries—which you say implies that we have not done an individualized review to determine whether each communication is in fact privileged. Contrary to your assertions about "sheer volume," 2272 documents represent less than 1% of the total number of documents produced in this case, and less than 5% of the documents in the privilege log. Given the extensive volume of materials requested and produced, and the lengthy time periods involved, 2272 documents are de minimis.

As we explained in our letter dated June 9, 2025, it is not unusual for an email to be privileged even though the attorney is copied. Individuals often loop an attorney into an email string by adding them to the CC line and asking for their opinion on a matter. For example, in HHC-BROWN-05712654 (PLHHC-BROWN-0010152), there is a redaction where Meaghan Cooper's legal advice is requested, and she is on the CC line of the email. Courts look at the substance of the communication, not superficial details like whether the name appears in a CC field. See, e.g., Greater N.Y. Taxi Ass'n v. City of New York, 2017 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 146655, at *34-35 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 11, 2017) ("Courts have held that communications constitute implicit requests for legal advice where an attorney is copied on the communications and the communications implicate specific legal issues.").

5. Third-Party Senders or Recipients

Your letter takes issue with documents on HHC's privilege log involving VMG and McKinsey.

The attorney-client privilege applies to a third party if that party is an agent providing aid that is necessary in order for the attorney to render legal advice. See United States v. Kovel, 296 F.2d 918 (2d Cir. 1961). The privilege also applies to third party consultants hired by corporations, who possess information needed by attorneys in rendering legal advice. See Viacom, Inc. v. Sumitomo Corp. (In re Copper Mkt. Antitrust Litig.), 200 F.R.D. 213, 219 (S.D.N.Y. 2001) ("there is no reason to distinguish between a person on the corporation's payroll and a consultant hired by the corporation if each acts for the corporation and possesses the information needed by attorneys in rendering legal advice.") (citing In re Bieter Co., 16 F.3d 929 (8th Cir. 1994)); Urban Box Office Network, Inc. v. Interfase Managers, L.P., No. 01-CV-8854 (LTS)(THK), 2006 WL 1004472 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 18, 2006) (collecting cases and holding that communications between outside advisor and counsel "to help [the attorney] reach the understanding he needed to furnish legal advice" on a disclosure schedule were privileged).

Here, VMG and McKinsey are third party consultants who, in certain limited cases, provided necessary information in order for attorneys to render legal advice. We have already produced the vast majority of documents relating to McKinsey and VMG. Nevertheless, we are re-reviewing the McKinsey and VMG documents in light of your letter and will get back to you.

6. Common Interest Privilege

Finally, you express concern regarding entries that assert a common interest privilege. We already described in our prior letter the nature of the common interest between HHC and its joint venturers. Communications between joint venturers do not waive applicable privileges.

Now you assert that HHC has to establish an underlying privileged communication to which the common interest doctrine can apply. This information is contained in the privilege log itself (identifying legal professional involved, subject matter, description of the privileged communication, etc.). To the extent your argument simply connects back to the issues addressed in other sections of this letter, we refer you to those sections.

To the extent communications with joint venturers are not privileged, they have been produced.

* * *

In general, HHC has provided sufficient detail in its privilege log, and declines Plaintiffs' invitation to undertake the disproportionate and undue burden of revising thousands of entries in order to provide substantially greater detail than plaintiffs need in order to asses privilege:

> The rule does not attempt to define for each case what information must be provided when a party asserts a claim of privilege or work product protection. Details concerning time, persons, general subject matter etc., may be appropriate if only a few items are withheld, but may be unduly burdensome when voluminous documents are claimed to be privileged or protected.

A.I.A. Holdings, S.A., 2002 WL 31385824, at *10-11.

Once our re-reviews described herein are complete, HHC will provide Plaintiffs with a supplemental privilege log (to the extent necessary) and produce or re-produce any responsive documents that have been downgraded and removed from the privilege log (to the extent there are any). We anticipate completing the reviews described herein and producing documents and/or privilege log revisions (if any) by the end of this month.

Re: Estuary Transit District v. Hartford HealthCare Corp., No. 24-cv-01051 (D. Conn.) – HHC's Supplemental Privilege Log

Dear Counsel:

Thank you for your August 15, 2025 response, regarding Defendants' supplemental privilege log. We appreciate your engagement and the clarifications provided on several points raised in our July 31, 2025 letter, as well as your willingness to re-review entries: (a) involving emails with no sender or recipient information; (b) involving McKinsey and VMG; and (c) referencing legal advice concerning audit, corporate governance, employment, insurance, and marketing issues. We look forward to receiving the results of those re-reviews and any supplemental productions or privilege log revisions by the end of the month, as indicated.[1]

Our continued concern remains focused on HHC's general approach to its privilege log, the adequacy of privilege descriptions, and the transparency necessary for meaningful evaluation. Plaintiffs' May 23, 2025 and July 31, 2025 letters described broad categories of deficiencies in HHC's privilege log. HHC responded to those letters on June 9, 2025 and August 15, 2025; in both responses, HHC agreed to withdraw or narrow some privilege assertions, to re-review certain categories of documents, and to produce a revised supplemental privilege log.

At the same time, however, HHC has denied that there are any systemic deficiencies in its privilege log, assured Plaintiffs that it has carefully reviewed each of the entries on its privilege log, and attributed the number of entries on its privilege log not to a faulty approach but to the subject matter, scope, and size of the case. (Caseria letter, June 9, 2025, at *1; Caseria letter, August 15, 2025 at *1.)

But HHC's explanations are without merit, and its assurances are unsupported. Rather, they are belied by the simple fact that, upon receiving Plaintiffs' letters, HHC already has reproduced over 500 documents for which it has reduced or completely removed prior assertions of privilege.

As you know, Plaintiffs' approach to challenging HHC's privilege log has been two-pronged: (1) Plaintiffs have written to HHC regarding systemic issues in its privilege log while (2) they also have sent more targeted correspondence challenging 136 specific privilege log entries in advance of related depositions (of Barbara Durdy, Christine Garthwaite, and Jeffrey Cohen). In response to those latter, targeted challenges, HHC has reproduced at least 77 of them (57%) with fewer or no redactions, again confirming Plaintiffs' suspicions regarding the overbreadth of HHC's exercise of privilege to withhold responsive discovery.

Despite this, HHC continues to criticize Plaintiffs' "blanket objections" and requests instead that Plaintiffs raise concerns on a document-by-document basis. (Id. at *2.) While Plaintiffs disagree that this is the best approach, as a compromise, we attach as a list of entries from HHC's supplemental privilege log that Plaintiffs hereby challenge as Exhibit A.

1. Documents Withheld Entirely

Your letter states: "While we appreciate your lengthy recitation of various court opinions dealing with privilege issues, we understand the difference between a document that involves attorneys and one that involves legal advice." (Caseria letter, Aug. 15, 2025, at *2.) At the same time, HHC concedes that the example cited in Plaintiffs' July 31, 2025 letter was improperly withheld for privilege and that, after review, HHC will now produce a redacted version of the challenged document. (Id. at *3.) Similarly, as noted above, HHC already has reproduced scores of documents with fewer or no privilege redactions resulting from Plaintiffs' general and specific challenges.

Given the above, it is apparent that a systemic issue of improperly withholding responsive documents in their entirety based on specious claims of privilege persists with HHC's privilege log that must be addressed. Because HHC has declined to review the logged documents falling into this category to assess the propriety of their complete withholding, the Parties are at an impasse

2. "Need to Know"

A clearer articulation of the role and relevance of non-lawyer recipients—particularly for communications involving large numbers of copied and blind copied individuals—is essential for Plaintiffs to properly assess the merits of HHC's privilege assertions, even if there is an incremental burden of providing individualized justifications for doing so. Notably, upon reviewing the related example in my prior letter, HHC now is producing a redacted version of that document rather than withholding it completely.

As previously explained, the inclusion of non-essential employees on a communication involving legal advice waives attorney-client privilege. (Ruan letter, July 31, 2025, at *6.) Your letter challenges one of the cases cited, NovaFund Advisors v. Capitala Group, No. 3:18-CV-01023-MPS-TOF, 2021 WL 2109112, at *5 (D. Conn. May 25, 2021), on the basis that it applied North Carolina law but does not address the other two cases cited. For clarity, courts within the District of Connecticut routinely hold that privilege applies only to intra-corporate communications relaying legal advice when limited to individuals who "need to know" that advice. See, e.g., Weber v. FujiFilm Med. Sys. U.S.A., Inc., No. 3:10-CV-401-JBA, 2011 WL 677282, at *2 (D. Conn. Jan. 24, 2011) ("[C]ommunications among corporate employees, although not directly to or from corporate counsel, can be privileged if those communications are made among employees who need to know their content . . . ." (emphasis added)); People's United Bank v. PeoplesBank, No. 3:08CV01858 (PCD), 2009 WL 10689492, at *2 (D. Conn. Dec. 28, 2009) (holding that, "[i]n order for the privilege to apply between corporate employees…"the communication should not have been disseminated beyond those persons who need to know the information" (emphasis added)) (citing 2 J. Weinstein & M. Berger, Weinstein's Evidence, ¶ 503(b)(4) at 503-54).

Therefore, contrary to the assertion made in your letter, the issue is not whether legal advice is involved; the issue is whether privilege has been waived by virtue of including employee recipients who did not "need to know" the legal advice at issue. Because HHC has declined to provide this information and has declined to review all logged documents falling into this category to assess the propriety of the privilege assertions, the Parties also are at an impasse

3. Attachments

Your letter further states: "Your suggestion that a document must be independently privileged in order for it to remain privileged as an attachment is wrong." (Caseria Letter, Aug. 15, 2025 at *3.) HHC then cites an inapposite case standing for the unremarkable proposition that information not previously protected by privilege can become privileged when communicated to an attorney for the purpose of receiving legal advice. (Id. (citing *Gen. Elec. Co. v. United State*s, No. 3:14-CV-00190 (JAM), 2015 WL 5443479, at *1 (D. Conn. Sept. 15, 2025)).) But that is not the issue here.

Plaintiffs have identified two deficiencies with respect to HHC's approach to logging attachments: (1) the District of Connecticut's Civil Local Rules expressly require parties to log and justify privilege for attachments independently from their parent emails, L.R. 26(e); and (2) HHC's privilege log—as well as your August 15, 2025 letter—falsely presumes that the simple act of attaching a document to a privileged communication renders the attachment privileged. (Ruan letter, July 31, 2025, at *4-5.)

As previously explained in Plaintiffs' prior letters, while HHC's privilege log contains separate entries for emails and attachments, the vast majority of privilege descriptions for those attachments merely state that they were attached to an email seeking, relaying, or otherwise provided to counsel in connection with legal advice. (Id.) This is insufficient to establish privilege because the mere act of attaching a document to a communication with an attorney does not make that attachment privileged. (Id. at *5.)

Thus, HHC's privilege descriptions do not provide sufficient detail to allow Plaintiffs to assess HHC's claims that the attachments themselves are privileged, as required by the District of Connecticut. NovaFund, 2021 WL 2109112, at *1 (holding that D. Conn. L. Civ. R. 26(e) requires privilege logs to separately log attachments so that privilege can be assessed separately for emails and their attachments); see also Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(5)(A)(ii) (requiring the withholding party to describe the nature of the withheld documents "in a manner that . . . will enable other parties to assess the claim").[2]

Put simply, attaching a document to an email seeking legal advice is not the same as attaching a document to an email for the purpose of seeking legal advice. HHC's privilege log contains numerous entries for attachments providing no indication that they were sent for the purpose of assisting an attorney in the provision of legal advice (i.e., that the attachment itself was needed to provide or obtain the advice in question).

HHC's own examples illustrate this deficiency. Your letter states "someone may send an email to counsel requesting legal advice regarding a document and attach the document (e.g. PLHHC-BROWN-0001742)." (Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *3.) However, the entry for that attachment does not state that it was sent to counsel to obtain legal advice about that document; rather, it describes that attachment simply as: "attached to email requesting confidential legal advice of counsel regarding contract issues." Such a description does not match the claimed basis for the document's withholding, is facially insufficient, and is illustrative of the systemic issues that plague HHC's privilege log.

Because HHC refuses to acknowledge this distinction and has declined to review all logged documents falling into this category to assess the propriety of the privilege assertions, on this issue, the Parties also are at an impasse

[2] Your letter incorrectly states that Judge Farrish applied North Carolina law in holding that privilege logs must separately log attachments and their basis for privilege. (Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *4.) In fact, Magistrate Judge Farrish expressly relied on District of Connecticut Civil Local Rule 26(e) in his ruling.

4. Subject Matter

As noted in Plaintiffs' May 23, 2025 letter: "It is axiomatic that the burden is on a party claiming the protection of a privilege to establish those facts that are the essential elements of the privileged relationship, a burden not discharged by mere conclusory or ipse dixit assertions." (Ruan letter, May 23, 2025, at *1 (citing In re Grand Jury Subpoena Dated Jan. 4, 1984, 750 F.2d 223, 224–25 (2d Cir.1984)).)

Plaintiffs have tried to work cooperatively with HHC to obtain sufficient information to determine if each of the entries on HHC's privilege log has been properly withheld or redacted for privilege. Nonetheless, your letter states: "[HHC] cannot be put in the position of continuously revising all privilege log entries." (Caseria letter, August, 15, 2025, at *4.) Plaintiffs couldn't agree more, but HHC has not yet met its burden under the Federal Rules to provide Plaintiffs with adequate descriptions allowing them to assess HHC's claims of privilege on an individual basis.

Unfortunately, in response, HHC has offered only arguments to distinguish its privilege descriptions that have been soundly rejected by courts. For example, there is no substantive difference between:

- An email "requesting and providing legal advice from counsel regarding contract issues" (see Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *4); and

- An email "discuss[ing] or reflecting in house counsels' legal advice or analysis." (WCA Holdings III, LLC v. Panasonic Avionics Corp., No. 1:20-cv-7472-GHW, 2025 WL 1434375, at *9 (S.D.N.Y. May 17, 2025).)

Both descriptions are equally conclusory.

Because HHC has stated it will respond only to challenges identifying specific entries, please refer to Exhibit A for additional entries challenged by Plaintiffs. Please confirm by September 5, 2025, whether HHC will review and revise these entries, de-log any non-privileged documents, and produce any non-privileged or overly privilege-redacted documents or whether it will stand on its objection with respect to reviewing these entries.

5. Privilege Log Entries With No Attorney In The To or From Fields

a. Draft Documents & Embedded Emails

Your letter represents that, of the 187 emails identified in Plaintiffs' July 31, 2025 letter as having no sender or recipient, 173 are unsent drafts and 14 are embedded emails. (Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *5.)

Of the 14 embedded emails, HHC now will produce 13 of them. But HHC will not produce any of the 173 unsent drafts because it argues "unsent drafts of privileged emails, or draft emails used to create notes relating to privileged communications, are privileged." (Id. (citing Wagner Aeronautical, Inc. v. Dotzenroth, No. 21-CV-0994-L-AGS, 2022 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 158665, at *7 (S.D. Cal. Sep. 1, 2022)).)

But a draft email to counsel is not inherently privileged, and neither the example in your letter nor the unpublished, out-of-district opinion cited therein suggests otherwise. In both Wagner and the example in your letter, the draft email is reportedly privileged—not because it was originally composed with intent of sending it to counsel—but because the draft contained previously obtained legal advice.

The same cannot be said of all 173 unsent emails in question here. Rather, many entries contain descriptions (e.g., "Email prepared by counsel regarding contract issues" and "Email requesting confidential legal advice of counsel regarding contract issues") demonstrating that, had they been sent, they might have constituted a privileged communication. But they were not sent. Moreover, even for those drafts that might have contained prior legal advice, that advice could and should have been redacted rather than withholding the document entirely.

On this issue, because HHC has declined to further review the 173 unsent emails to confirm the propriety of the privilege assertions, the Parties also are at an impasse.

b. No Individual Attorney Named

The Parties have exchanged legal authority regarding the need to identify specific legal professionals in establishing applicability of the attorney-client privilege. (Compare Ruan letter, July 31, 2025, at *9, with Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *5-6.)

Plaintiffs maintain that it is insufficient to simply identify a corporate legal department as the entity forming the basis for the privilege assertion. Accordingly, on this issue, the Parties also are at an impasse.

c. Attorney Listed in CC or BCC Fields

Similarly, the Parties have exchanged legal authority regarding the copying and blind copying of counsel on communications. (Compare Ruan letter, July 31, 2025, at *10-11, with Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *6.) The Parties are essentially in agreement that communications are neither privileged nor not privileged merely because an attorney is copied or blind copied. Rather, one must look at the substance of the communication to determine if legal advice was in fact the primary purpose.

Where the Parties disagree is whether, for each of the entries on its privilege log, HHC has in fact: (a) undertaken sufficient analysis to determine that its primary purpose was in fact the provision or obtaining of legal advice; and (b) provided sufficient detail in its privilege log to establish as much.

Plaintiffs noted that there are 2,272 emails on HHC's privilege log where an attorney is identified only in the "CC" or "BCC" fields, and another 6,311 emails where no attorney is identified in any fields at all. (Ruan letter, July 31, 2025, at *11.) Plaintiffs then identified six examples of entries falling into either of these two categories containing privilege descriptions that strongly suggested their predominant purpose was business, not legal, in nature. (Id.)

HHC responded by arguing that the volume of documents in question is "de minimis" and did not address any of the examples cited in Plaintiffs' letter. (Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *6.)

On this issue, because HHC has declined to undertake any further review of these documents to assess the propriety of the privilege assertions, the Parties also are at an impasse.

6. Third-Party Senders or Recipients

HHC now has confirmed that it is not asserting common interest privilege with respect to McKinsey or VMG, but HHC claims there are "certain limited cases" where McKinsey or VMG "provided necessary information in order for attorneys to render legal advice." (Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *6-7.)

Although Plaintiffs are skeptical that such situations reflect privileged communications, since HHC has agreed to re-review these entries, Plaintiffs will await HHC's next supplemental privilege log to assess the basis of such privilege assertions.

7. Common Interest Privilege

Your letter states that, for each of the entries for which HHC asserts common interest privilege, its privilege log establishes that the underlying communication is in fact privileged—i.e., that it was made in confidence and involved legal advice. (Caseria letter, August 15, 2025, at *7.) To the extent HHC's determinations of privilege reflect disputes discussed above, the Parties are at an impasse.

Given the current schedule, Plaintiffs request that HHC provide responses to the challenges identified in Exhibit A by September 5, 2025. Alternatively, Plaintiffs again reiterate their suggestion—that HHC has, until now, ignored—that the Parties instead discuss a stipulation setting forth a process whereby Magistrate Judge Farrish can conduct an in camera review of a representative sample of entries from HHC's privilege log and provide guidance on the issues discussed above.

We remain available to meet and confer at your convenience.

Very truly yours,
