Civil Action No. 3:25-cv-01433-OAW

DEFENDANTS' MOTION TO STAY DISCOVERY

Defendants Anthem Health Plans, Inc., Carelon Behavioral Health, Inc., and Elevance Health, Inc. (“Defendants”), by counsel, move the Court to stay discovery and all obligations under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 pending resolution of Defendants’ motion to dismiss the operative Amended Complaint, filed herewith. A brief stay will conserve resources and avoid unnecessary burden while dispositive issues are presented to the Court.

In support of this motion, Defendants state as follows:

I. Background

1. Plaintiffs commenced this action on September 3, 2025, by filing their putative class action complaint (ECF No. 1). Defendants thereafter executed a waiver of the service of summons (ECF No. 12).

2. On November 10, 2025, Defendants timely filed a motion to dismiss the class action complaint (ECF No. 15). Following conferral among the parties, Plaintiffs filed a Consent Motion to Amend Complaint and Set a Briefing Schedule (ECF No. 16), and Plaintiffs thereafter submitted an Amended Class Action Complaint (the “Amended Complaint”) (ECF No. 16-1).

3. Because Defendants entered their appearance on November 10, 2025, Plaintiffs’ counsel requested that the parties schedule a Rule 26(f) conference. However, Defendants advised Plaintiffs that, while they were open to speaking, it was Defendants’ position that discovery should be stayed pending a ruling on Defendants’ then-anticipated motion to dismiss, as the Amended Complaint remains subject to dismissal in whole based on issues of personal jurisdiction, preemption, and other failures to state a claim.

4. The parties conferred on Tuesday, December 9, 2025, during which Defendants reiterated their position that discovery should be stayed and advised Plaintiffs that Defendants would seek this relief from the Court. Given Defendants’ position, the parties did not confer on a discovery schedule. In the parties’ Joint Rule 26(f) report, filed on December 23, 2025, Plaintiffs included their position in a proposed discovery schedule, including a broad scope of class and merits discovery (ECF No. 22 at 9–10). Defendants set forth their position that discovery should be stayed pending determination of Defendants’ then-anticipated motion to dismiss. (ECF No. 22 at 9.)

5. On December 12, 2025, the Court granted Plaintiffs’ consent motion, ruled that the Amended Complaint is the operative pleading and supersedes the original complaint, and deemed Defendants’ prior motion to dismiss (ECF No. 15) moot. The Court further ordered that Defendants answer or move to dismiss the Amended Complaint on or before January 23, 2026; Plaintiffs must file their opposition on or before March 2, 2026; and Defendants must file their reply on or before March 27, 2026. (ECF No. 19.)

6. On December 31, 2025, Plaintiffs served on all Defendants' a set of written discovery comprised of 14 Interrogatories and 42 Requests for Production of Documents (Declaration of Stefanie Cerrone ["Cerrone Decl.,"] ¶ 5).

7. Plaintiffs' Interrogatories seek extensive information about the operation of all Anthem health plans offered in Connecticut over a greater than seven-year period from January 1, 2019 to the present, including formulation of policies, internal compliance efforts, and identifying all individuals responsible for overseeing operation or setting policy for any of the Defendants during this period. (Cerrone Decl. ¶ 5 & Exh. A).

8. Plaintiffs' Requests for Production similarly seek onerous discovery regarding all Anthem plans in Connecticut during the same seven-plus-year period, and require Anthem to produce, among other things, all plan documents; all communications related to Anthem's provider network with members, the State of Connecticut, or any government regulator; provider contracting requirements; provider network construction or design policies and analyses; compliance analyses and communications; complaints; cost and pricing analyses; utilization management data and analyses; and profit and revenue data and analyses. (Cerrone Decl. ¶ 5 & Exh. B).

9. On January 12, 2026, Plaintiffs served further written discovery comprised of 21 Requests for Admission (Cerrone Decl. ¶ 6). The Requests for Admission likewise include requests seeking numerous admissions about all Anthem plans offered in Connecticut across several topics (Cerrone Decl. ¶ 6 & Exh. C).

10. Defendants have reviewed Plaintiffs' Amended Complaint and determined that the Amended Complaint remains deficient. Defendants have therefore filed a motion to dismiss the Amended Complaint contemporaneously with this motion on January 23, 2026. (ECF No. 24).

II. Argument

11. “Pursuant to Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(c), the court has discretion to stay discovery for good cause [which] may be shown where a party has filed . . . a dispositive motion.” Cuartero v. United States, No. 3:05-CV-1161 (RNC), 2006 WL 3190521, *1 (D. Conn. Nov. 1, 2006). “In determining whether good cause exists for a stay of discovery, the court should consider several factors, including . . . the burden of responding to [discovery], and the prejudice that would be suffered by the party opposing the stay,” if any. Id.; see also Turner v. Zickefoose, 2009 WL 2983190 at *3 (D. Conn. Sept. 14, 2009) (granting stay where motion to dismiss was pending).

12. In exercising this discretion, courts consider: (1) the breadth of discovery sought and the associated burden on the moving party to respond; (2) any prejudice that would result from having to respond to discovery; and (3) the strength of the motion to dismiss that serves as the basis for the requested stay. See ITT Corp. & Goulds Pumps, Inc. v. Travelers Casualty & Surety Co., 2012 WL 2944357 at *2-3 (D. Conn. July 18, 2012); see also Ema Fin., LLC v. Vystar Corp., 336 F.R.D. 75, 80 (S.D.N.Y. 2020) (“[A] court determining whether to grant a stay of discovery pending a motion must look to the particular circumstances and posture of each case.”).

A. Elevance’s Challenge to Jurisdiction Merits a Stay

13. As an initial matter, Elevance’s challenge to this Court’s exercise of jurisdiction alone satisfies all relevant considerations and merits entry of a stay.

14. As set forth in Defendants’ motion to dismiss, this Court lacks personal jurisdiction over non-resident Defendant Elevance Health, Inc. given that Plaintiffs have pleaded no contacts with Connecticut other than its subsidiaries operating within the state (Motion to Dismiss, ECF No. 24 at 8–12). Leonard v. Gen. Motors L.L.C., 504 F. Supp. 3d 73, 86 (D. Conn. 2020) (presence of subsidiary in state does not establish jurisdiction over parent, absent exceptional facts that would justify piercing the corporate veil).

15. Requiring Elevance to respond to discovery in a matter where personal jurisdiction is lacking not only creates an unreasonable burden on Elevance but also violates its due process rights by subjecting it to litigation in a venue where it has not subjected itself to suit. See Savage v. Scripto-Tokai Corp., 147 F. Supp. 2d 86, 90 (D. Conn. 2001) (a finding of personal jurisdiction as a matter of due process requires purposefully “conducting activities within the forum State”). Elevance will be substantially prejudiced by being forced to participate in discovery in a matter where personal jurisdiction is lacking.

16. As discussed below, Plaintiffs have established no prejudice that would result from a discovery stay.

17. Courts routinely grant motions to stay discovery pending challenges to a court’s personal jurisdiction over Defendants in similar circumstances. See Simonson v. Olejniczak, No. 3:21CV01118(SALM), 2022 WL 6509428, at *1 (D. Conn. May 17, 2022), aff’d, No. 22-1219, 2023 WL 2941521 (2d Cir. Apr. 14, 2023) (acknowledging entry of stay of discovery pending motion to dismiss for lack of personal jurisdiction); Lu v. Cheer Holding, Inc., No. 24 CIV. 459 (RA) (GS), 2024 WL 1718821, at *4 (S.D.N.Y. Apr. 19, 2024) (collecting cases).

18. A stay of discovery should issue based on Elevance’s challenge to this Court’s jurisdiction over it.

B. Breadth of Discovery and Burden

19. Grounds for a stay also exist independent of Elevance’s jurisdictional challenge.

20. First, courts deciding a motion to stay consider the burden that would be imposed on the moving party if the court allowed discovery to proceed before the court decided the motion to dismiss. See, e.g., ITT Corp. & Goulds Pumps, Inc. v. Travelers Casualty & Surety Co., 2012 WL 2944357 at *2-3 (D. Conn. July 18, 2012) (setting forth factors to consider, “including the breadth of the discovery sought, [and] the burden of responding to it”). There is no need for everyone to “waste . . . precious resources” on discovery under these circumstances, where a pending motion to dismiss may narrow or dispose of many or all of Plaintiffs’ claims. See Amron v. 3M Minnesota Mining & Mfg. Co., No. 23-CV-8959, 2024 WL 263010, at *3 (E.D.N.Y. Jan. 24, 2024). Requiring “discovery at this point . . . may well cause the defendants to expend significant resources for no purpose whatsoever” if claims to which the discovery is directed are dismissed, or are dismissed as to certain parties. West Farms Associates v. State Traffic Commission of Connecticut, 1990 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 21073, at *5 (D. Conn. July 23, 1990). Additionally, in the “pre-certification context” of a class action, “[u]nnecessarily broad discovery”—i.e., discovery broader than that necessary to meet Rule 23’s requirements—is “wasteful and unjustifiable,” and “defendant[s] must be protected from discovery which is overly burdensome, irrelevant, or which invades privileged or confidential areas.” Nat’l Org. for Women, Farmington Valley Chapter v. Sperry Rand Corp., 88 F.R.D. 272, 277 (D. Conn. 1980); Da Silva Moore v. Publicis Groupe, 868 F. Supp. 2d 137, 169 & n.47 (S.D.N.Y. 2012) (recognizing need for stays in the class context to limit “fishing expeditions” and “costs of extensive discovery . . . forcing defendants to settle even meritless cases”).

21. The burden imposed by discovery will be substantial. Plaintiffs have already served an initial round of discovery consisting of 14 Interrogatories, 42 Requests for Production, and 21 Request for Admission seeking discovery as to all Anthem plans offered in Connecticut over a seven-plus-year period. Supra ¶¶ 6–9. This discovery is not limited to either the named plaintiffs or the operation of the two particular plans under which they seek relief, and thus the vast majority of the information sought is not relevant to their individual claims.

22. Additionally, the topics on which Plaintiff has identified they will seek discovery demonstrate that Plaintiffs intend to seek further discovery, which is also likely to be unusually burdensome. Plaintiffs' have identified the following topics on which they intend to seek discovery, with no stated limitations as to geographic scope or time:

- The size, breadth, and adequacy of Defendants' provider network.
- The process by which Defendants designate mental, behavioral, and physical health providers in the provider directory.
- The process by which Defendants maintain the directory of mental, behavioral, and physical health providers.
- The process by which Defendants price insurance plan premiums.
- The process by which Defendants approve or deny coverage and reimbursements for services sought or obtained from mental, behavioral, and physical health providers.
- The process by which Defendants approve or deny out-of-network providers to provide services as Authorized Services.
- Defendants' marketing and advertising with respect to their provider network.
- The process by which Defendants formulate policies and guidance for beneficiaries and determine coverage and reimbursement of claims.

23. The burden imposed by this discovery is heightened because Defendants challenge whether many of Plaintiffs' claims are appropriately asserted against Carelton and Elevance (assuming it is not dismissed for lack of personal jurisdiction) given the lack of contractual or other privity between Plaintiffs and either Carelton or Elevance. (ECF No. 24 at 16, 19, 27, 29–30). Requiring Carelton and Elevance to respond to discovery targeted to claims that cannot plausibly be pleaded against them would impose an undue and unreasonable burden.

24. Defendants also contend that all claims raised by the Mazzolas and Amec are governed by ERISA and that all state-law claims raised on their behalf—and involving theories of breach or harm unique to them—are preempted by ERISA. (ECF No. 24 at 12–16.) Defendants further contend that Plaintiffs failed to adequately plead administrative exhaustion for all but one claim raised by the Mazzolas, (ECF No. 23 at 31–33), requiring dismissal of all non-exhausted claims, Cooper v. Int'l Bus. Machines Corp., No. 3:24-CV-656 (VAB), 2024 WL 5010488, at *7 (D. Conn. Dec. 6, 2024). And if any of the Mazzolas's or Amec's claims proceed under ERISA, “the court’s review is ordinarily confined to the record that was originally before the claims administrator.” Hughes v. Hartford Life & Accident Ins. Co., 507 F. Supp. 3d 384, 391 (D. Conn. 2020). Thus, discovery is not permitted as a matter of course and instead requires a factual showing by the party seeking discovery that the discovery is likely to establish “good cause to consider evidence beyond the administrative record.” Id. at 392, 394. Thus, the Court’s determination as to what extent the Mazzolas and Amec’s claims are governed by ERISA and not subject to dismissal may significantly impact the scope of permissible discovery, which would otherwise impose an impermissible burden on Defendants contrary to the purpose of ERISA. See id. at 392 (explaining that ERISA’s limitations on discovery serve ERISA’s purpose of “resolv[ing] disputes over benefits inexpensively and expeditiously”).

25. Permitting discovery to proceed at this point could also necessitate third-party discovery from plaintiffs’ healthcare providers and others, and implicate substantial HIPAA-protected health information and proprietary business information, requiring time-consuming protective orders, PHI handling protocols, and privilege reviews. Launching that machinery before the pleadings are settled risks significant, unrecoverable costs and inefficiencies.

26. A brief stay will promote judicial economy and proportionality. Class allegations and multiple subclasses amplify the burden and complexity of discovery and class-certification motion practice. See DePaul v. Kimberly-Clark Corp., No. 3:24-CV-271 (KAD), 2025 WL 2256307, at *3 (D. Conn. Aug. 7, 2025) (acknowledging that, in a case seeking to certify two classes, “class certification discovery . . . is likely to be significant and time consuming”). Here, Plaintiffs seek to certify a broad class of “all individuals and employers who have purchased or enrolled in an Anthem health insurance plan in Connecticut at any point from 2019 through the date of class certification,” and also seek to certify five subclasses based on a given member’s participation in an ERISA or non-ERISA plan, or payment of out-of-network care costs. (ECF No. 16-1 at 75).

C. Prejudice

27. Defendants would be substantially prejudiced from having to respond to Plaintiffs’ expansive discovery pending resolution of the motion to dismiss, which may be mooted or materially narrowed once the Court rules on Defendants’ motion to dismiss.

28. As discussed above, Elevance will suffer prejudice and violation of its due process rights if subject to discovery in a venue where personal jurisdiction is lacking. See Supra part II (a).

29. It would be a significant waste of time and resources for the parties to engage in discovery, some or all of which would prove unnecessary if the Court grants Defendants’ motion to dismiss the Amended Complaint either in whole or in part. See Mineo v. Town of Hempstead, 2023 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 197937, at *5-6 (E.D.N.Y. Nov. 3, 2023) (stating that discovery “can be particularly costly and it would be” in best interests of both parties and the Court “to avoid these expenses if possible”). This is particularly true as to Elevance and Carelon, as to whom Defendants argue Plaintiffs have few or no viable claims, but who will be forced to respond to fulsome discovery absent a stay.

30. A ruling on the Defendants’ motion to dismiss will clarify the issues that remain in the case, potentially narrowing the scope of discovery, and making it more targeted and efficient.

31. Plaintiff has identified no prejudice they will suffer as a result of entry of a stay of discovery. Indeed, in the parties Rule 26(f) report, Plaintiffs’ only basis for opposing a stay of discovery is that the Court’s standing order “does not contemplate a stay of discovery pending a motion to dismiss,” and Plaintiffs contend “[t]here is no reason to deviate from the Court’s usual practice.” (ECF No. 22 at 9.)

32. “The prejudice to plaintiff from a stay of discovery will be minimal [however], as discovery will only be stayed until a decision is reached on the motion to dismiss.” Cuartero, 2006 WL 3190521, at *3. Here, any prejudice is minimal because the case is at its earliest stage: the Court has not yet scheduled a Rule 16 conference, the parties only recently conducted the 26(f) conference shortly before December holidays, and the Court has set a prompt briefing schedule on Defendants’ motion to dismiss, with Defendants’ opening brief filed January 23, 2026, Plaintiffs’ opposition due March 2, 2026, and Defendants’ reply due March 27, 2026. Defendants will continue to comply with their preservation obligations. A stay of discovery therefore conserves resources without materially impairing Plaintiffs’ ability to obtain discovery should any claims remain.

D. Strength of Motion

33. As to the final factor regarding the strength of the pending motion, “a stay of discovery is appropriate pending resolution of a potentially dispositive motion where the motion ‘appear[s] to have substantial grounds’ or, stated another way, ‘do[es] not appear to be without foundation in law.’ ” ITT Corp., 2012 WL 2944357, at *2 (quoting Johnson v. New York Univ. Sch. of Educ., 205 F.R.D. 433, 434 (S.D.N.Y. 2002)). Plaintiffs have already voluntarily amended their complaint once in the face of Defendants’ initial motion to dismiss (ECF No. 16). The Amended Complaint fails to remedy multiple threshold issues that Defendants identified in the original complaint. As such, Defendants believe their motion to dismiss offers substantial grounds for dismissal with a strong foundation in the law. ITT Corp., 2012 WL 2944357, at *3–4 (granting motion to stay discovery pending resolution of motion to dismiss where “the defendant's arguments are substantial and ‘not unfounded in the law.’”); Spencer Trask Software and Information Services, LLC v. RPost Intern. Ltd., 206 F.R.D. 367, 368 (S.D.N.Y. 2002) (granting stay of discovery pending motion to dismiss that presented “substantial arguments for dismissal of many, if not all, of the claims asserted in th[e] lawsuit”).

34. Allowing the Court to first resolve the motion to dismiss will clarify which parties, claims, time periods, and theories remain, enabling targeted discovery tailored to the surviving issues, if any. That sequencing avoids unnecessary disputes and expense and protects the parties’ and third parties’ confidentiality interests while ensuring any eventual discovery proceeds on a properly defined record.

WHEREFORE, Defendants respectfully move the Court to stay discovery and all obligations under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26 pending resolution of Defendants’ motion to dismiss the operative Amended Complaint, filed herewith.

4. The term “date” shall mean the exact day, month, and year, if ascertainable, or if not, the best approximation, including the relationship to other events.

5. The term “document” is defined to be synonymous in meaning and equal in scope to the usage of this term and the term “tangible thing” in the FRCP. Each comment, or addition to, or deletion from, a document shall constitute a separate document within the meaning of this term. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the term “document” shall also include any and all means of conveying, storing, or memorializing information, whether in paper or other tangible physical form, or in electronic form, in the possession, custody, or control of Defendant, including without limitation the original and non-identical copies, regardless of origin, format, or location, and any record, communication, email, text message, WhatsApp message, database, spreadsheet, calendar entry, backup data, voicemail message, audio file, video file, or other information that exists in any format.

6. The term “all documents” means any and every “document” as defined above, which can be located, discovered, or obtained by reasonably diligent efforts, including without

16. These Requests cover all documents, including electronically stored information, in, or subject to, Your possession, custody, or control including all documents or electronically stored information that You have the ability to obtain that are responsive, in whole or in part, to these Requests. All documents including electronically stored information should be produced in the manner in which they are kept in the usual course of business, or organized and labeled to correspond to the categories specified herein to which they are responsive.

17. Each Request for production of a document or documents shall be deemed to call for the production of the original document or documents, to the extent that they are in or subject to, directly or indirectly, Your control. In addition, each Request encompasses production of any and all copies and, to the extent applicable, preliminary drafts of documents which, as to content, differ in any respect from the original or final draft or from each other (e.g., by reason of handwritten notes or comments having been added to one copy of a document but not to the original or other copies thereto).

20. If any portion of a document is responsive to a document Request, the entire document shall be produced.

21. If You assert that any portion of a Request is objectionable, answer those remaining parts of the Request to which You do not object.

22. If a Request cannot be produced in full, answer to the extent possible and specify the reasons for Your inability to answer in full.

23. If You withhold any documents on grounds of a claim of attorney-client privilege, work-product doctrine, or other protection, identify each matter as to which the privilege is claimed, the nature of the privilege, and the legal and factual basis for each such claim. If such claim of privilege relates to a document, identify the author, addressee, and all recipients of copies of the document, setting forth the date and general subject matter thereof, and state the basis for the claim of privilege.

24. An objection or claim of privilege directed to part of a Request does not obviate the requirement to respond to the parts of the Request for which no objection to claim of privilege is made.

25. If a refusal to respond to a Request is based on the grounds that the Request is overly burdensome, identify the number and nature of documents needed to be searched.

26. Unless otherwise indicated, these Requests seek documents prepared on or after January 1, 2019, and continue through the present. If any document is undated and the date of its preparation cannot be determined, the document shall be produced if otherwise responsive to any of the Requests.
