Re: Government's Unsupported Assertions of the Deliberative Process Privilege

Dear Paul:

UnitedHealth is concerned that the government is improperly invoking the deliberative process privilege to shield highly relevant documents from discovery. As discussed below, the deliberative process privilege is a narrow, qualified privilege that the government cannot invoke to prevent discovery of documents critical to UnitedHealth's ability to defend itself. Please let us know by June 22 if you will reconsider your position or, if necessary, your availability for a meet and confer.

The government's reliance on the deliberative process privilege is improper in at least three respects. First, the government is refusing even to collect documents from certain sources it believes may contain a high percentage of documents protected by the deliberative process privilege. Such an approach ignores the qualified and limited nature of the deliberative process privilege. Second, the government is taking an overly broad view of the privilege, and its privilege logs do not provide the requisite support for an assertion of the deliberative process privilege. Third, even if the government properly asserted the deliberative process privilege, UnitedHealth's need for the requested information far outweighs the government's interest in non-disclosure.

A. The Government's Refusal To Collect Documents Based On The Deliberative Process Privilege

The deliberative process privilege is a qualified privilege that is narrowly construed and applies only in limited circumstances. See FTC v. Warner Commc'ns. Inc., 742 F.2d 1156, 1161 (9th Cir. 1984) (holding that the deliberative process privilege applies only to documents that are "predecisional" and "deliberative in nature" and stating that "[p]urely factual material . . . is not protected"); N. Pacifica, LLC v. City of Pacifica, 274 F. Supp. 2d 1118, 1121 (N.D. Cal. 2002) (stating that "the privilege is strictly confined within the narrowest possible limits consistent with the logic of its principles") (internal quotation and citation omitted). The government has the burden of establishing that the deliberative process privilege protects the material at issue. N.

LATHAM & WATKINS LLP

Pacifica, LLC, 274 F. Supp. 2d at 1121. As discussed below, an appropriate agency official must personally consider each document, detail the information over which the privilege is asserted, and explain why such information properly falls within the scope of the deliberative process privilege. By refusing even to collect various categories of documents, see, e.g., United States’ Apr. 20, 2018 Ltr. at 3, the government cannot satisfy its obligations for asserting this narrow, qualified privilege. We believe that the government’s refusal to collect documents and undertake an individualized review of each document is improper and fails to comply with relevant law. If you have any relevant authority that would support the government’s blanket refusal to collect responsive documents, please forward to us immediately.

B. The Government’s Expansive And Unsupported Assertions Of The Deliberative Process Privilege

The government has produced approximately 30,300 documents and logged approximately 6,700 documents in this litigation. Remarkably, the government is asserting privilege over about 5,900 of these documents solely on the basis of the deliberative process privilege—about 19.5% of the documents produced by the government and over 88% of all documents on the government’s privilege logs. When including privileges asserted simultaneously with this privilege, this number rises to over 6,300—nearly 21% of the documents produced by the government and nearly 95% of the documents on the government’s privilege log. These staggering statistics suggest that the government is taking an inappropriately expansive view of the deliberative process privilege.

The government’s privilege logs do not provide adequate support for its expansive assertions of the deliberative process privilege. A proper assertion of the privilege requires: “(1) a formal claim of privilege by the head of the department possessing control over the requested information; (2) an assertion of the privilege based on actual personal consideration by that official; and (3) a detailed specification of the information for which the privilege is claimed, along with an explanation of why it properly falls within the scope of the privilege.” Coleman v. Schwarzenegger, 2008 WL 2237046, at *4 (E.D. Cal. May 29, 2008) (internal quotation and citation omitted).

Additionally, to qualify for protection under the deliberative process privilege, materials must be both “predecisional” and “deliberative.” Hongsermeier v. Comm’r of Internal Revenue, 621 F.3d 890, 904 (9th Cir. 2010) (quoting N.L.R.B. v. Sears, Roebuck & Co., 421 U.S. 132, 150 (1975)). A document will be considered “predecisional” if it was “prepared in order to assist an agency decisionmaker in arriving at his decision.” Carter v. U.S. Dep’t of Commerce, 307 F.3d 1084, 1089 (9th Cir. 2002) (holding that adjusted census data held back based on accuracy concerns was not “predecisional” because it was originally prepared for the purpose of dissemination to the public) (quotations and citation omitted). To be deemed deliberative, the statement or document must have been a direct part of the deliberative process in that it makes recommendations or expresses opinions on legal or policy matters. See Vaughn v. Rosen, 523 F.2d 1136, 1144 (D.C. Cir. 1975) (“[P]redecisional materials are not exempt merely because they are predecisional; they must also be a part of the agency give-and-take of the deliberative process by which the decision itself is made.”); see also Allen v. Woodford, No. CV-F-05-1104, 2007 WL 309945, at *5, *9 (E.D. Cal. Jan. 30, 2007) (stating that, to qualify for the deliberative process privilege, the document must relate to a larger policy formulation, not a single, trivial decision, such as whether to fire a single employee). Additionally, the “privilege only applies to significant policy decisions, rather than factual material,” Dominguez v. Schwarzenegger, 2010 WL 3341038, at *5 (N.D. Cal. Aug. 25, 2010) (internal quotation and citation omitted) (ordering production of all documents for which government invoked solely deliberative process privilege where government failed to identify specific policy decisions at issue).¹ For example, discussions about CMS’s own error rates and what impact the underlying errors had on CMS’s calculations of risk adjustment coefficients would not qualify for the deliberative process privilege because these discussions would involve purely factual information, not questions of policy.

The government has not properly satisfied the requirements to assert the deliberative process privilege. The government has not identified a formal claim of privilege by any official of any relevant agency, let alone a high-ranking official. There also does not appear to be any indication that an appropriate agency official asserted the privilege based on his or her actual personal consideration of the documents. Rather, it appears that the privilege assertions to date have been made by lawyers at the Department of Justice.

Furthermore, the basic descriptions provided by the government fail to satisfy the requirement that the government provide a “detailed specification of the information for which the privilege is claimed, along with an explanation of why it properly falls within the scope of the privilege.” Id. Nor do the government’s privilege log descriptions even detail whether or how each document is both pre-decisional and deliberative.

For example:

- Document “reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding RADV audit methodology.” See, e.g., USBPPRIV00000239. The government has used this description for approximately 1,742 documents that span from September 2003 to July 2017.
- Document “reflecting calculation of RA error rate.” See, e.g., USBPPRIV00001566. The government has used this description for approximately 743 documents that span from September 2004 to November 2016.
- Document “reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding Advance Notice and/or Announcement and Call Letter.” See, e.g., USBPPRIV00000410. The government has used this description for approximately 429 documents that span from March 2005 to April 2017.

LATHAM & WATKINS LLP

- Document “reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding RA supporting documentation requirements.” See, e.g., USBPPRIV00002198. The government has used this description for approximately 413 documents that span from August 2004 to May 2017.
- Document “reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding medical coding in support of RA payments.” See, e.g., USBPPRIV00005095. The government has used this description for approximately 315 documents that span from March 2004 to May 2017.
- Document “reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding FFS adjuster.” See, e.g., USBPPRIV00001545. The government has used this description for approximately 214 documents that span from June 2005 to March 2017.

These generic, widely used descriptions do not adequately describe the content of the purported deliberations and do not provide the requisite level of detail for UnitedHealth to determine whether such documents properly fall within the scope of the deliberative process privilege. And, as noted above, the government has not indicated that any high-ranking agency official reviewed any of these documents before including them on the logs.

Because the government has not provided the requisite level of detail about the exact agency decisions at issue and how each document contributed to those decisions, UnitedHealth cannot properly assess whether any purported deliberations were ultimately adopted by the agency. See Nat’l Resources Def. Council v. U.S. Dep’t of Defense, 388 F. Supp. 2d 1086, 1098 (C.D. Cal. 2005) (“Even if the document is predecisional at the time it is prepared, it can lose that status if it is adopted, formally or informally, as the agency position on an issue or is used by the agency in its dealings with the public.” (quoting United States v. Rozet, 183 F.R.D. 662, 666 (N.D. Cal. 1998))); Assembly of State of Cal. v. U.S. Dept. of Commerce, 968 F. 2d 916, 920 (9th Cir. 1992) (noting that a “predecisional” document is one “prepared in order to assist in an agency decisionmaker in arriving at his decision” and that “documents deemed ‘postdecisional’ do not enjoy the protection of the deliberative process privilege”) (quoting Sears, Roebuck & Co., 421 U.S. at 153).

The government has also logged documents that were circulated to numerous individuals—far more than one would expect from a document that properly fell within the deliberative process privilege. For example, USBPPRIV00000183 is purportedly an “[e]mail reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding RADV audit methodology.” The privilege log lists approximately 114 individuals in the “To” field and another approximately 64 in the “cc” field. It is doubtful that this type of mass email, which was sent to around 180 people, would properly fall under the deliberative process privilege. See also USBPPRIV00000177 (“Email reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding RADV audit methodology” sent to approximately 125 recipients); USBPPRIV00000288 (“Email, with attachments, reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding calculation of RA error rate” sent to approximately 108 recipients).

In sum, the government has not properly invoked the deliberative process privilege for the approximately 6,300 responsive documents it seeks to shield from production in this matter based on that privilege. The government chose to bring this lawsuit. It cannot now hide behind the deliberative process privilege to skirt its discovery obligations and deprive UnitedHealth of highly relevant documents to which it is entitled.

II. UnitedHealth’s Need For The Requested Information Outweighs The Government’s Interest In Non-Disclosure

Even if the government had properly invoked the deliberative process privilege—which it has not—the privilege is qualified and can be overcome by a sufficient showing of need outweighing the harm that might result from disclosure. Warner Commc’ns Inc., 742 F. 2d at 1161 (“A litigant may obtain deliberative materials if his or her need for the materials and the need for accurate fact-finding override the government’s interest in non-disclosure.”) (citations omitted). Here, the government is alleging over a billion dollars in damages; UnitedHealth’s need for arguably privileged documents far outweighs the government’s interest in non-disclosure.

The Ninth Circuit has set forth four non-exclusive factors that may be considered in balancing of the competing interests: “(1) the relevance of the evidence; (2) the availability of other evidence; (3) the government’s role in the litigation; and (4) the extent to which disclosure would hinder frank and independent discussion regarding contemplated policies and decisions.” Id. (citations omitted). These factors overwhelmingly weigh in favor of overcoming any assertion of deliberative process privilege in this case.

First, as UnitedHealth has explained in numerous letters and meet and confers, the requested documents are crucial for its defenses to the misconduct charges made by the government in this case. For example, under United Health Services, Inc. v. United States ex rel. Escobar, 136 S.Ct. 1989 (2016), documents related to the government’s interpretations of the requirements imposed on MA plans by CMS statutes, rules, regulations, and guidance—requirements the government now claims UnitedHealth violated—are directly relevant to UnitedHealth’s defenses. Thus, documents related to, among other things, the government’s understanding of whether MA plans were required to “look both ways,” whether other MA plans were conducting “one-way looks,” and how the government responded to any allegations of non-compliance are all relevant to whether any alleged misconduct by UnitedHealth satisfies Escobar’s demanding materiality standard. These documents—as well as documents such as those relating to the government’s views on how to measure overpayments—are also relevant to whether UnitedHealth’s interpretation of relevant statutes, guidelines, and communications with CMS officials was reasonable. See, e.g., United States v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 178 F. Supp. 3d 927, 963 (N.D. Cal. 2016) (holding that evidence of government’s or other regulated entities’ interpretation of regulations was relevant to reasonableness of defendant’s interpretation). Furthermore, documents related to the government’s own error rates are relevant to UnitedHealth’s theory of the proper calculation of any potential damages.

LATHAM & WATKINS LLP

The government appears to be asserting the deliberative process privilege over these types of documents and depriving UnitedHealth of these crucial documents. For example, the government is asserting privilege over approximately 743 documents related to the “calculation of RA error rate,” approximately 278 documents related to the “calculation of coding intensity adjuster,” approximately 257 documents related to “non-UHG MAO RA activities,” and approximately 214 documents related to the “FFS adjuster.”

Second, UnitedHealth cannot obtain this crucial evidence related to government knowledge and interpretations of MA requirements from other sources—the government is the sole custodian of this information.

Third, the government chose to bring this lawsuit, so its role in the litigation weighs heavily toward disclosure of these documents.

Fourth, because there is a protective order in place, the risk that disclosure of these documents will have a chilling effect on future deliberations by government employees is minimal. See, e.g., In re McKesson Governmental Entities Average Wholesale Price Litig., 264 F.R.D. 595, 602–03 (N.D. Cal. 2009) (holding that the protective order in place would sufficiently protect the government’s interest); Noble v. City of Fresno, No. 1:16-cv-01690, 2018 WL 1381945, at *9 (E.D. Cal. Mar. 19, 2018) (same).

Thus, even if the government had properly invoked the deliberative process privilege (which it has not), the privilege would be overcome in this case because UnitedHealth’s need for the documents outweighs the government’s interest in non-disclosure.

Please let us know by June 22 if you will reconsider your position or, if necessary, your availability the following week for a meet and confer.

If the government continues to assert the deliberative process privilege over any documents, UnitedHealth requests that the government (1) collect any documents it has previously refused to collect, produce non-privileged documents, and log any purportedly privileged documents; (2) revise its privilege logs to provide the requisite detail about the information over which the government claims the privilege applies; and (3) provide a formal claim of privilege by an appropriate agency official who has personally reviewed any documents over which the government is asserting the deliberative process privilege.

Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions. Thank you.

Re: UnitedHealth's June 15, 2018 Letter Regarding the United States' Discovery Responses in United States ex rel. Poehling v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., et al.

Dear David:

We write in response to your June 15, 2018 letter concerning the government's assertion of the deliberative process privilege. That the government has asserted privilege over many documents reflects the overbreadth of UnitedHealth's discovery requests and not any impropriety with the privilege assertions. Before privilege questions are addressed, UnitedHealth has the initial burden of demonstrating the relevance of agency deliberations. See e.g., Gulfstream Park Racing Ass'n Inc., 399 F.3d 391, 400 (1st Cir. 2005) ("discovery of both privileged and unprivileged information is subject to the limitations imposed by Rule 26(b)); accord Freeman v. Seligson, 405 F.2d 1326, 1338 (D.C. Cir. 1968) ("matters of privilege can appropriately be deferred for definitive ruling until after the production demand has been adequately bolstered by a general showing of relevance and good cause"). UnitedHealth's letter fails to do so.

Contrary to the suggestion in your letter, moreover, the government has carefully asserted the privilege to protect documents necessary to ensuring free and frank agency deliberations. UnitedHealth's letter unfortunately reflects a misunderstanding of the deliberative process privilege, incorrectly criticizes the government for purportedly refusing to conduct searches for documents, and unfairly criticizes the government's privilege log when the descriptions of privileged material on the government's log are far more specific and compliant with the demands of Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(5) than UnitedHealth's log.

I. United's Purported Need for Deliberative Material

First, there is no merit to UnitedHealth's argument that it needs deliberative process documents related to the government's interpretation of statutory, regulatory, and contractual requirements imposed on MA Organizations by CMS. UnitedHealth has not identified any statute, rule, regulation, or guidance for which privileged information is needed to discern any government interpretation that is probative of factual issues that remain in this case. Nor has UnitedHealth even identified an issue in need of "interpretation." Since the inception of the MA program, agency-issued documents such as the Medicare Managed Care Manual, the Participant

Guides, Federal Register comments, announcements, and call letters have extensively set forth the agency's understandings of MA Organizations' obligations under the relevant statutes, regulations, and contracts. In any event, any issue concerning the agency's understanding are resolved by official pronouncements, not privileged deliberations. See, e.g., United States v. Lachman, 387 F.3d 42, 54 (1st Cir. 2004) (holding that any interpretive issue relating to a regulation is resolved through reference to the official public record). "[N]on-public or informal understandings of agency officials concerning the meaning of a regulation are . . . not relevant." Id.; see also United States ex rel. Wright v. Agip, et al., No. 03-Cv-00264 at 7-9 (E.D. Tex. June 29, 2007) (denying motion to compel deposition of Government personnel in FCA case regarding their understanding of regulations, and holding that "personal opinions of agency employees that were never communicated to a Defendant are simply irrelevant to either issues of falsity or knowledge").¹

Second, UnitedHealth has failed to explain any legitimate need to explore the government's position on whether MA Organizations were required to "look both ways," whether other plans were conducting "one-way looks," and how the government responded when and if it learned that plans were conducting "one-way" looks. UnitedHealth's contentions regarding the obligation of MA plans to 'look both ways' has already been addressed in the Ninth Circuit's decision in United States ex rel. Swoben v. UnitedHealthgroup, Inc., 848 F.3d 1161, 1167-68 (9th Cir. 2016). In the Swoben appeal, UnitedHealth argued that there was no "authority indicat[ing] that a [MAO] was obligated to undertake affirmative steps to unearth potentially unsupported codes" in claims by medical providers. Id. at 1173. The appellate court recognized that UnitedHealth's argument was a red herring, noting that the Swoben matter was "not a case about whether [MAOs] have to take affirmative steps to verify risk adjustment data. [UnitedHealth] indisputably took such steps by conducting retrospect chart reviews." Id. at 1179.

As with Swoben, the question in this case is not whether UnitedHealth was obligated to verify diagnostic data in provider claims, but rather what UnitedHealth was required to do after it "indisputably . . . conduct[ed] retrospective chart reviews." The Ninth Circuit has already answered that question and held that UnitedHealth had an obligation to correct unsupported diagnoses submitted for risk adjusted payments. Id. at 1174-75. UnitedHealth's attempt to relitigate this issue is not a legitimate basis to obtain privileged agency deliberations.

Third, although UnitedHealth contends that the referenced deliberations are relevant to the question of materiality, that issue too has been decided as a matter of law. Both the Ninth Circuit and Judge Fitzgerald have recognized the direct link between the invalid diagnoses submitted by defendants and the risk adjusted payments by Medicare. Swoben, 848 F.3d at 1167-68 ("diagnoses codes contribute to an enrollee's risk score, which is used to adjust a base payment rate"); Order on MTD at 15 ("not only do various contractual and regulatory materials require Defendants to submit accurate diagnostic data, but that data is central to the calculation of the amount of money CMS pays to Defendants"). Furthermore, Judge Fitzgerald has already ruled that CMS' continued payments "despite generalized knowledge of 'one-way' Chart Reviews and problematic diagnosis codes" is not relevant to whatever "materiality" issue there might be with respect to United's obligation to delete invalid diagnoses. Order on MTD at 21.

¹ These principals apply in other, similar, contexts such as APA litigation. See, e.g., Maritel, Inc. v. Collins, 422 F. Supp. 2d 188, 196 (D.D.C. 2006) ("agency generally may exclude material that reflects internal deliberations" from administrative record).

The diagnosis data UnitedHealth submitted to the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) is material by design. As UnitedHealth well knows, CMS uses an automated system (RAPS) to process both the codes and the deletes submitted by MA Organizations. There is no factual issue left regarding materiality that would warrant discovery of privileged, or non-privileged, documents.

Fourth, there is no merit to the argument that UnitedHealth requires agency deliberations to understand whether the government's views on "overpayments" are consistent or inconsistent with unspecified interpretations by unidentified officials at UnitedHealth. The issue of scienter in this case involves whether UnitedHealth "knew," as that term is defined in the False Claims Act, that submitted diagnosis codes were unsupported by patient charts. Evidence pertaining to that issue can come only from UnitedHealth. None of the discovery against the government referenced in your letter will shed light on what the defendants knew about the diagnosis codes that were unsubstantiated by patient charts that only UnitedHealth had reviewed. To the extent that scienter focuses on UnitedHealth's knowledge of its legal obligation to delete unsupported diagnosis codes, UnitedHealth's privileged documents (not those of the agency) are relevant.

Finally, with respect to your statement that "documents related to the government's own error rates" are relevant to UnitedHealth's damages calculations, to the extent the agency has non-privileged factual information about coding error rates, we have already agreed to produce it. That said, we do not concede the relevancy of this category of material and we reserve the right to revisit this issue in the event production is burdensome or we encounter issues concerning proprietary information.

II. UnitedHealth Misapprehends the Deliberative Process Privilege

Even assuming UnitedHealth could establish the relevancy of agency deliberations, the government has withheld pre-decisional and deliberative documents in accordance with Ninth Circuit and other authority governing the privilege. The deliberative process privilege is an ancient common law privilege designed to protect predecisional agency deliberations from public scrutiny. Hongsermeier v. C.I.R., 621 F.3d 890, 904 (9th Cir. 2010). "It was developed to promote frank and independent discussion among those responsible for making government decisions" and "to protect against premature disclosure of proposed agency policies or decisions." F.T.C. v. Warner Commc's, Inc., 742 F.2d 1156, 1161 (9th Cir. 1984) (internal citations omitted). To meet the substantive requirements of the privilege, documents must be both predecisional and deliberative. Carter v. U.S. Dep't of Commerce, 307 F.3d 1084, 1089-90 (9th Cir. 2002). "[A] document is predecisional if it was 'prepared in order to assist an agency decisionmaker in arriving at his decision,'" and is deliberative if its release would "'expose an agency's decisionmaking process in such a way as to discourage candid discussion within the agency and thereby undermine the agency's ability to perform its functions.'" Id (internal citations omitted).

UnitedHealth's letter misconstrues the privilege. Contrary to UnitedHealth's assertion, the distinction between whether the nature of materials is factual or opinion is not dispositive of whether material is deliberative. See Nat. Wildlife Fed'n v. U.S. Forest Serv., 861 F.2d 1114, 1118-19 (9th Cir. 1988) (holding that opinions or recommendations regarding facts or consequences of facts are not automatically ineligible from protection; courts have interpreted the exemption "to protect documents that would reveal the process by which agency officials make these determinations, whether or not the documents themselves contain facts or non-binding recommendations regarding law or policy”) (emphasis in original).

We also take issue with the assertion of UnitedHealth that an agency must perfect the privilege at this stage of the proceedings. See In re Consol. Litig. Concerning Int’l Harvester’s Disposition of Wis. Steel, 1987 WL 20408, at *7 (N.D. Ill. Nov. 20, 1987) (rejecting assertion that declaration must be submitted when privilege is first invoked).

And contrary to UnitedHealth’s assertion, the adoption of a policy by an agency does not remove privilege protection over pre-decisional deliberations. See Fed. Open Mkt. Comm. of the Fed. Reserve Sys. v. Merrill, 443 U.S. 340, 360 (1979) (documents protected by “the privilege for predecisional deliberations . . . remain privileged even after the decision to which they pertain may have been effected, since disclosure at any time could inhibit the free flow of advice, including analysis, reports, and expression of opinion within the agency.”).

III. The Government’s Invocation of Privilege Stands in Stark Contrast to UnitedHealth’s Failure to Sufficiently Invoke or Establish Privilege

Finally, it is unclear what “various categories of documents” UnitedHealth believes the government has “refus[ed] to collect” and review, presumably on the basis that they are protected by the deliberative process privilege. The one citation you provide relates to UnitedHealth Request Nos. 2-5, 2-6, and 2-7. In our June 18, 2018 letter, however, we agreed to collect, review, and log privileged documents responsive to these Requests. UnitedHealth, by contrast, still refuses to collect, review, and log categories of documents because, even though such documents are responsive, it “is an overly burdensome request that does not account for proportionality principles.” See March 27, 2018 Letter from K. Scheffler to D. Wallack. UnitedHealth must reconsider its position, particularly in light of your contrary assertions.

Consistent with Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(5), moreover, the government has described the material withheld on its privilege logs in a manner that adequately describes the privilege matter “without revealing information itself privileged.” The privilege descriptions by the government are far more detailed than UnitedHealth’s descriptions of purportedly privileged information. Of particular concern are several categories of inadequate, catch-all document descriptions in your logs. While some entries indicate that withheld documents regard specific risk adjustment programs (for example, “development or operation of Claims Verification program” or “RACCR/IDV program”), nearly a third (599 of 1,679 as of May 31) indicate, without elaboration, that the withheld documents regard “other risk adjustment services.” Worse, many descriptions are so generic they could apply to almost any document UnitedHealth has withheld as privileged. For example, 150 entries describe withheld documents as “regarding compliance with legal and/or regulatory requirements.” Similarly, many descriptions relate to routine legal activities that may, or may not, involve privileged communications and that may, or may not, have anything to do with this case. For example, 72 entries describe withheld documents as “regarding internal audit,” and 24 entries describe withheld documents as “regarding draft contract.” The United States is entitled to know, at minimum, what “other risk adjustment services,” what “legal and/or regulatory requirements,” what “audit,” and what “contract.” The above examples are illustrative only and not intended to capture the full extent to which UnitedHealth’s privilege logs are severely deficient.

While we are available to confer on these issues during the week of July 2, UnitedHealth must narrow its overly-broad requests in accordance with the relevance and proportionality principles set forth in Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1). Further, UnitedHealth should also examine and revise its own privilege assertions before reconvening with the government.

Sincerely,

Re: Follow-Up to UnitedHealth's June 15, 2018 Letter and the Parties' July 30 Meet and Confer Concerning the Government's Insufficient Privilege Logs and Unjustified Refusal to Continue Producing Privilege Logs in United States ex rel. Poehling v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., et al.

Dear Paul:

We write to follow-up on our June 15, 2018 letter and the parties' July 30, 2018 meet and confer concerning the government's deficient privilege logs and unjustified refusal to continue producing privilege logs.

A. The Government's Deficient Privilege Logs

As we detailed in our June 15, 2018 letter ("June 15 Letter") and discussed during the parties' July 30 meet and confer, the government's privilege logs are deficient and fail to support its assertions of the deliberative process privilege. During the parties' July 30 meet and confer, the government refused to agree to revise its logs. The government claimed that it needed to see UnitedHealth's revised privilege logs before it would even consider whether and how to revise its own logs, despite UnitedHealth's request in its June 15 Letter that the government do so.

The government's refusal to revise its own privilege logs is baseless. First, the government does not need to see UnitedHealth's revised privilege logs first—the government should know how to draft a sufficient privilege log on its own. Second, UnitedHealth is not asserting the deliberative process privilege, so it is curious why the government believes UnitedHealth's logs—which only assert attorney-client and work product privileges—would be helpful in creating appropriate privilege descriptions for documents protected by the deliberative process privilege. Third, UnitedHealth currently is revising its own privilege logs in the spirit of cooperation and in a good-faith attempt to address concerns the government raised in its June 29, 2018 letter. As UnitedHealth informed the government during the July 30 meet and confer, UnitedHealth expects to produce its revised privilege logs from the litigation by the end of the month. Furthermore, as UnitedHealth has informed the government on multiple occasions, UnitedHealth also intends to provide revised privilege logs from the investigation.

Please let us know by August 9 if the government agrees to (1) revise its deficient privilege log descriptions and (2) mutually exchange revised privilege logs on or before August 31. If the government does not agree to do so, UnitedHealth will move to compel.

B. The Government's Unjustified Refusal to Continue Producing Privilege Logs

The government has been fully aware of the issues that form the basis of its Rule 16(b)-related motion for many months, yet the government itself proposed in March that the parties exchange privilege logs on a rolling basis approximately every four weeks—which the parties have been doing. See United States' Mar. 2, 2018 Ltr. at 1–2. Now, despite the parties' express agreement and despite Judge Segal's repeated explanations to the government that a pending motion is no basis for halting discovery, the government has unilaterally decided that it "will not be serving any further privilege logs" until Judge Fitzgerald rules on its Rule 16(b) motion (which the government still has yet to file, despite the parties' agreed-upon stipulation that the government's motion would be filed on July 30). Email from P. Freeborne to UnitedHealth on July 27, 2018. During the parties' July 30 meet and confer, the government reiterated its decision to no longer produce privilege logs but was unable to point to any legal support whatsoever to support its unilateral decision to do so. This is unacceptable. UnitedHealth produced a privilege log in July and fully intends to continue doing so per its obligations, the parties' express agreement, and the court's instructions. UnitedHealth expects the government to do the same.

Please let us know by August 9 if you will commit to honoring the parties' agreement and resume producing privilege logs in August (which should, of course, include all documents that would have been included on the government's July privilege log). If the government continues to refuse to comply with its discovery obligations and to defy the court's instructions that discovery is to proceed during the pendency of motion practice, UnitedHealth will seek judicial intervention. Furthermore, as we told you during the July 30 meet and confer, we will also seek all appropriate costs and sanctions against the government for being forced to address the government's blatant disregard for the parties' express agreement and of its obligations.

Re: Follow-Up to the Government's August 8, 2018 Letter Concerning the Government's Insufficient Privilege Logs and Unjustified Refusal to Continue Producing Privilege Logs in United States ex rel. Poehling v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., et al.

Dear Paul:

The government's August 8, 2018 correspondence regarding the parties' July 30, 2018 meet and confer on privilege logs mischaracterizes the discussion between the parties and omits several important facts. As detailed below, these mischaracterizations and omissions distort the record of our discussion.

As you know, UnitedHealth contends that the privilege logs served by the government are grossly deficient. During our July 30, 2018 discussion, we pointed out that the generalized descriptions on the government's logs leave UnitedHealth unable to evaluate properly the claim of privilege. The government is withholding more than 7,600 documents solely on the basis of the deliberative process privilege but provides none of the details UnitedHealth requires to test this claim. Instead, the government has simply grouped these documents into incredibly broad categories. For example:

- 1,941 documents are withheld as privileged and described as "reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding RADV audit methodology."
- 782 documents are withheld as privileged and described as "reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding calculation of RA error rate."
- 776 documents are withheld as privileged and described as "reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding RA factors/model."

LATHAM & WATKINS LLP

- 719 documents are withheld as privileged and described as “reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding calculation of coding intensity adjuster.”
- 320 documents are withheld as privileged and described as “reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding non-UGH MAO RADV audits” and another 108 “regarding UGH MAO RADV audits.”
- 279 documents are withheld as privileged and described as “reflecting internal agency deliberations regarding non-UGH MAO RA activities,” while another 100 are withheld as privileged and described as “regarding UGH RA activities.”

As we pointed out during our discussion, courts have repeatedly held that this type of categorical grouping is improper. These descriptions do not pinpoint a specific agency decision, so UnitedHealth cannot determine whether the documents are pre-decisional. Moreover, these descriptions do not explain how each document fits into the deliberative process, so UnitedHealth cannot determine whether the documents are actually deliberative. During our discussion, you indicated you were familiar with this case law and rather than discuss it, you asked us to tell you how the government might revise its privilege log.

While acknowledging that we could not tell the government how to log documents we have never seen, we referred you to California Native Plant Society v. U.S. EPA, 251 F.R.D. 408 (N.D. Cal. 2008) as one example of a case involving far more detailed privilege logs than the government’s here that a court still found to be deficient. Your August 8, 2018 never mentions this aspect of our discussion and fails to address the case law to which we referred. Astonishingly, the government is apparently suggesting that it is incapable of producing a proper privilege log unless its adversary instructs it on the type of details required. Unless the government indicates immediately that it will revise its logs in accordance with governing case law, UnitedHealth will raise this issue with the Court promptly.

Your August 8, 2018 correspondence also asks when UnitedHealth intends to provide revised privilege logs. As we informed you during our discussion (but you omitted from your letter), UnitedHealth will produce revised privilege logs by the end of August 2018. The government’s argument that it will not agree to revise its own privilege logs until it sees UnitedHealth’s revised privilege logs is baseless. The government has an independent obligation to comply with discovery requirements, and the attitude of “we will only do it after we see what you do” is improper.

Similarly improper is the government’s unilateral decision to stop producing privilege logs. As you surely recall, the parties agreed to exchange privilege logs on a monthly basis. In fact, the government itself proposed on March 2, 2018 that the parties exchange privilege logs on a rolling basis approximately every four weeks. See United States’ Mar. 2, 2018 Ltr. at 1–2. UnitedHealth agreed to this proposal in its March 23, 2018 correspondence and has honored this agreement. The government has decided it need not do so. The pendency of the government’s motion to limit discovery is no basis to disavow your obligations under the parties’ agreement or the Federal Rules.

August 9, 2018

We intend to raise immediately the government's continued refusal to produce privilege logs with Magistrate Judge Segal. Accordingly, please let us know by August 10, 2018 your availability for an informal discovery conference the week of August 13.

Re: Privilege Assertions in United States ex rel. Poehling v. UnitedHealth Group, Inc., et al.

Dear David:

Pursuant to the direction that the parties received from Judge Segal during the August 16, 2018 informal discovery conference, enclosed is a privilege log for the government's July 2018 production. As you are aware, the government has produced documents on a monthly basis.

Further, to address the parties' disagreement regarding the government's assertion of the deliberative process privilege, the United States intends to provide a declaration from the agency providing additional detail regarding the basis for asserting the privilege. Given the volume of information at issue in UnitedHealth's discovery requests, and in accordance with Judge Segal's guidance during the conference, the agency will perfect the deliberative process privilege by providing categorical explanations as to why each category of documents is appropriately withheld on grounds of the deliberative process privilege. Given our willingness to commit to providing an agency declaration, we expect that you will refrain from filing a motion to compel on this issue at this time. As always, we are available to discuss this matter further.

Sincerely,

We disagree with your characterization of Judge Fitzgerald's comments and a review of the transcript does not support the government's unilateral attempt to control discovery. We will be sending you our portion of the joint stipulation today and, despite the government's latest about-face on providing us with the agency declaration by today, we will honor our agreement to provide you with the requested 14 days in which to provide the government's portion of the joint stipulation. We intend to schedule the hearing before Judge Segal in accordance with that schedule.

You have also grossly mischaracterized Judge Segal's comments with respect to the wisdom or timing of any motion to stay discovery by the government. Rather, she simply observed that the government has not sought any such stay and she saw no basis for one. Put simply, we see nothing in the record or in Judge Fitzgerald's standing orders that justify the government's failure to produce records, its 4 month long delay in providing an appropriate agency declaration, its latest withdrawal of its prior agreement to provide a declaration by today, or its contention that United should delay any further. If the government wishes to bring a motion to stay, we will respond accordingly. We simply request the same courtesy in scheduling we have afforded the government.

Finally, we are available on Monday from 4-5 EST or after 6 EST for your requested meet and confer. If that doesn't work, send us some available times on Tuesday.

Have a nice weekend,

David

David:

Given the Court's remarks at the end of the hearing last Monday, the agency will await rulings on the pending motions and further briefing on the scope of Rule 26(b) discovery, if any is requested by the Court, before the agency will provide a detailed agency declaration regarding the privilege. While we previously proposed to provide you with a draft declaration as a potential way of resolving or narrowing the privilege dispute, please recall that you flatly rejected this proposal on August 28. On August 29, you stated that you intended to provide us with United's portion of the joint stipulation on September 5 or 12 and asked when we could provide ours. On the assumption that we would receive your portion of the joint stipulation on September 5 or 12, we responded that we would endeavor to provide our portion of the joint stipulation by September 28. Also, these events occurred before Judge Fitzgerald's remarks last week that appear to suggest that the Court intends to make threshold relevancy rulings in an attempt to aid the parties and Judge Segal. As you are aware, the approach that Judge Fitzgerald appeared to propose is the same approach that we have long advocated in our meet and confers on the subject and before Judge Segal in the informal discovery conferences. Indeed, your email last Friday recognized the value of such threshold rulings in this matter. We are thus puzzled as to why you intend to proceed with a motion that is contrary to the approach that you appear to recognize makes the most sense from the standpoint of judicial economy.

To the extent you nonetheless proceed to compel the production of information that may be determined to be irrelevant to the claims and defenses at issue, we request that you follow the requirements of Local Rule 37-2.2 and also afford us an adequate opportunity to provide you with our portion of the joint stipulation. We also request a discussion of the proposed hearing date on your motion.

As you know, we would prefer to avoid an ex parte process and would request that United consider a hearing date on its discovery motion that would allow us to bring a duly noticed motion seeking a stay before Judge Fitzgerald. If we are unable to do so, however, please be advised that, in the event that United proceeds with its discovery motion, consistent with Judge Segal's comments, we intend to file an ex parte application with Judge Fitzgerald to stay any such motion until Judge Fitzgerald has had an opportunity to rule on the pending motions, including our Rule 16(b) motion. Please promptly provide us with your position regarding this application.

Additionally, we intend to proceed with our motions to compel regarding issues that are not impacted by the pending motions and that we have been discussing with you for several months and previously raised with Judge Segal. Please advise as to when you are available to discuss a briefing schedule and a motion date for consideration of all issues.

Paul

Your email below is somewhat cryptic. We think you are saying that, notwithstanding your prior commitments to provide us with an agency declaration by September 28, the government is now reversing course again. Please confirm that we are reading your email correctly and that you do not intend to provide us with the agency declaration by Friday as you had previously committed to do. If that is the case, then we intend to proceed with our motion to compel and will seek an expedited hearing from Judge Segal. Please get back to us on this issue by COB on Tuesday.

David:

As you know, Judge Fitzgerald stated at the end of the hearing last Monday that it makes sense for the Court to determine the scope of Rule 26(b) discovery before Judge Segal proceeds to rule on discovery motions, recognizing that it may be appropriate to "draw the line" regarding discovery that is irrelevant to the claims and defenses at issue in the case. We have consulted with the client agency following the hearing and we agree that the "parties and Judge Segal will benefit from having rulings" on the pending motions, including the government's Rule 16(b) motion. We thus intend to await further guidance on threshold issues of relevancy from the Court. Limited judicial and agency resources should not be expended regarding privilege disputes that may be obviated by the Court's rulings.

I wanted to get back to you on our potential motion to compel and the schedule for the joint stip. We will hold off proceeding until we have reviewed your upcoming agency declaration, which we understand will be provided to us on September 28. If the declaration fails to address our concerns, we will provide you with our portion of the joint stipulation during the early part of the week of October 1. We will honor our agreement to provide you with 14 days in which to provide us with your portion of the joint stipulation and will set a hearing date before Judge Segal that takes this schedule into account. We are also hopeful that the additional time will allow Judge Fitzgerald sufficient time to issue a final ruling on the government's Rule 16 motion and its motion for partial summary judgment, as we think all parties and Judge Segal will benefit from having final rulings on those motions.

Please confirm that you will be providing us with the agency declaration on September 28 as previously promised. If you have any other questions, please let us know.

It is unfortunate that you are at a loss to understand our position. We understand yours, but find it unreasonable under the circumstances. In the end, it will be for Magistrate Segal to decide whether the process the government has employed in terms of withholding documents and creating its privilege log, or the process you are now proposing – including taking more than 3 months to get a supporting declaration and not being willing to preview what it will say or what categories (whether old or new) the declaration or your revised log will contain, or even asking us to come up with categories for you when we can't see the documents – is reasonable. At this juncture, we are not looking to continue debating with you. Rather, we are just trying to extend some professional courtesy on things like scheduling. We are unavailable at 4 pm, but could do 4:30 pm or later. Please let us know if that works for folks on your end and let us know who will be joining a call so that we can send around an invite and a dial-in.

Thanks,

David

David,

We are at a loss to understand how you can reasonably conclude, before even seeing the categories and the declaration and despite our clear and repeated statements to the contrary, that “it appears that [we] intend to rely on the overly broad ‘categories’ that already exist on the current deficient privilege logs.” During our last call on August 23rd, we explained that for each category of documents withheld on our privilege log under the deliberative process privilege, we intend to describe the pre-decisional and deliberative steps and how the documents in that category fit in with those steps. Further, during the call, we invited your suggestions regarding the categories we intend to use for the declaration. We again invite your input regarding potential categories for the government’s declaration, as we are genuinely attempting to understand what will satisfy your concerns, short of a document-by-document declaration. As you requested, we have provided a reasonable date certain by which we intend to provide the declaration to you. Until such time as we have had the opportunity to present this information to you and you have reviewed it, the motion you contemplate is premature.

We are available to speak with you today at 4pm ET.

Amy:

Thank you for the follow-up email. Unfortunately, your proposal does not address our concerns and your unwillingness to share an excerpt of the proposed declaration just heightens our concerns. As we set forth in letters and discussed during calls, we believe the government's privilege log descriptions are severely deficient and contain inadequate descriptions. Despite Judge Segal's recommendation that the government work with us to try to develop "categories" that we might find sufficient to allow us to challenge particular documents placed on the government's logs, the government has refused to do so. Instead, it appears that you intend to rely on the overly broad "categories" that already exist on the current deficient privilege logs. In our view, using the "category" of "RADV audit methodology" for nearly 5,000 documents that span a nearly 14-year period simply does not satisfy the government's obligations for a proper assertion of the deliberative process privilege.

We also are unwilling to wait until September 30 to review whatever declaration you intend to provide. As you know, United asked the government to provide an appropriate agency declaration on June 15. We do not believe the 3.5 month delay is reasonable. We also have no confidence that the proposed declaration will cure the defects in the log or provide an adequate description to allow United to challenge any particular documents included on the log.

Accordingly, we are prepared to move forward with our motion to compel. As I noted during our last call, we remain committed to working cooperatively with you whenever possible. To that end, please let us know a good time tomorrow for the parties to discuss a briefing schedule. We would prefer to extend the professional courtesy of taking your schedule into account before setting a briefing schedule for the joint stip and/or a hearing date before Judge Segal.

Thank you,

David

David,

Following-up on our call last Thursday, and after discussing the issues raised during the call with our client agency, we are willing to commit to providing UnitedHealth with a declaration by September 30, 2018. As discussed during the call, the declaration will provide a description on a categorical basis of how each category of documents withheld on our privilege logs under the deliberative process privilege is both deliberative and pre-decisional. We believe that this approach is in line with the guidance that Judge Segal provided during our informal discovery conference with the court on August 16. Further, at this point, we do not believe it would be efficient or useful for the parties for us to provide an excerpt of our declaration in advance of September 30. We believe that this proposal should address the concerns you've raised.

Thanks,
Amy

1 But whether or not it makes sense, it would -- if I do it,
2 then I'm doing it for reasons that are different from what 3 led me to draft the tentative this way.

4 So I'm going to take it under submission. And now
5 that I understand what the parties are really asking for, I
6 hopefully will make the right decision.

7 And like I said, it might be that what I've written 8 here is the right decision, but if so, it's just for the 9 wrong reason.

10 So with that, it's taken under submission.

11 Counsel, thank you for the effort that went into all 12 your briefs and thank you for your arguments.

13 MR. SCHINDLER:: Can I ask one quick thing of the 14 Court? And I appreciate what you said, and I'm not asking you 15 to rule on the Government's Rule 16 motion, which is also 16 before you. I get entirely --

17 THE COURT: I'm just not in a position to do that.

18 MR. SCHINDLER:: Understood.

19 The only concern I have, because it's going to 20 become important, we have been before the magistrate, as you 21 may or may not know, multiple times on discovery issues. And 22 you have correctly noted, and we have no objection to the 23 point you made here in your tentative, about the importance
24 of the discovery that we are seeking. And in fact,
25 Magistrate Judge Segal has indeed indicated we are entitled

1 to this. But the posture was such that the Government has 2 essentially been resisting our discovery before Magistrate
3 Judge Segal on the proposition that you were going to 4 essentially make it irrelevant.

5 All I'm asking is that when you go back, recognizing 6 you are not going to rule on the Rule 16 today, please look 7 at that for whenever you do rule with an understanding that 8 we need guidance in front of Magistrate Segal. We have 9 additional motions coming, because the Government has refused
10 to produce a few things. That's all I'm asking.

11 THE COURT: I understand. At some point Judge Segal
12 and I are just going to have to talk among ourselves about 13 where it makes sense for us to draw the line.

14 I mean, you know technically under the local rules
15 here, and the way that references work, the matter's entirely 16 up to her, and with her using her best guess as to what it is 17 that ultimately will happen in this Court.

18 And then on the flip side, if it's a matter -- for 19 instance, even if it would make a sensible resolution of a 20 discovery dispute to have one deposition take place hours 21 after the discovery cutoff, then she lacks the authority to 22 do that, and obviously that doesn't make a lot of sense.

23 So what the district judges and the magistrate 24 judges typically do in this district, at some point is for 25 the magistrate judge to say at some point, it would be very 1 helpful if there was guidance on such and such. I'm not 2 going to do it behind anybody's back or not give a chance for 3 people to be heard.

4 Here I will have to talk to her and figure out how 5 are we going to resolve this where it's fair to the two of us
6 and fair to the parties. And again, I'm not going to make 7 any ruling just out of the blue or something without the 8 parties having the chance to be heard on it.

9 So thank you, Counsel.

1 she has outside of -- that the government may not have.

2 THE COURT: All right. And then as to the other
3 witness?

4 MR. SCHINDLER: Mr. Grant is currently there. He was 5 also part of -- his role -- and again, a little hard to 6 articulate in the context of our informal conference but he 7 played a seminal role in some of the actuarial issues that are 8 at issue here and (indisc.) are more complicated but again, he 9 was somebody who we believe can disprove fundamentally or at 10 least allow us to test some of the validity of the allegations
11 that are contained in the government's complaint.

12 THE COURT: All right. So yeah, this all sounds 13 familiar to me from our last discussion. Well, not all the 14 various details but they're kind of coming back to me. And I
15 don't have a different feeling than I had when we talked about 16 it before. And it may be that the United States and their 17 counsel have different experiences in other parts of the 18 country but it's our practice here that as soon as the parties
19 hold their Rule 26 meet -- meeting, that a discovery plan is 20 created and the parties can proceed with discovery. And 21 particularly in a case like this of what appears to be some 22 degree of complexity, I would suspect that Judge Fitzgerald --
23 I don't know that -- but I would suspect that he would prefer 24 that people immediately begin discovery and not delay it for 25 any purpose.

1 And in terms of the burden on the two witnesses,
2 because the deposition date is set after the date of the motion
3 to dismiss hearing, I don't see exactly how they're presented
4 with an undue burden because you'll know very quickly, I think,
5 whether or not the motion to dismiss is going to be granted
6 without leave to amend or denied and what the status of the 7 case is. But if it is either granted with leave to amend or 8 it's denied and the defendant is ordered to answer, I would 9 suspect that it would be the court's preference that discovery
10 proceed as quickly as possible. So if it's (indisc.) on a 11 motion for protective order, I wouldn't find that the 12 articulated burden satisfies the good-cause standard here,
13 based on what's been provided to me, so I would probably deny 14 that motion if it came to me under the circumstances that the 15 parties have described.

16 Does that at all give you some guidance on how to 17 proceed?

18 MR. FREEBORNE: Your Honor, just one further point.
19 Again, the government, just to be clear, we are anticipating
20 filing a motion for partial summary judgment so I don't want 21 the Court left with the impression that it's just a motion to 22 dismiss. And again, we're going to join on the legal issues of 23 materiality that Counsel has represented that Ms. Tavner will 24 be deposed on. And so again, sort of (indisc.) -- and that may 25 -- if the ruling is favorable to the government -- limit

1 discovery. Just from an administrative standpoint, you know,
2 noticing a deposti -- or noticing a motion in the district,
3 incorporating the Court's findings, we would ask for some 4 latitude there. The February 13th and 20th just doesn't give 5 us enough time to move for a protective order incorporating the 6 Court's rulings. So we would ask at a minimum for that, just 7 enough time to incorporate the Court's rulings.

8 THE COURT: And Judge --

9 (Voices overlapping)

10 MR. FREEBORNE: (indisc.)

11 THE COURT: -- ruling on the motion to dismiss?

12 MR. FREEBORNE: On either the motion for partial 13 summary judgment or on the motion to dismiss.

14 THE COURT: When are you planning to set the motion
15 for partial summary judgment for hearing?

16 MR. FREEBORNE: Well we'll exchange schedules
17 tomorrow with Opposing Counsel but I can generally I think 18 early February.

19 THE COURT: All right. I mean, one thing that I have 20 seen -- there may be exceptions to this -- but generally with 21 Judge Fitzgerald, he's got a ruling on a pending motion very 22 quickly in conjunction with the hearing. So -- and not all of 23 our judges operate on that same or follow that same practice so 24 -- and there could be exceptions to it in various cases. But I 25 think I could comfortably say that I would predict that you'll

1 have an order in early February on the motion for summary
2 judgment.

3 So you're saying that a February 13th and 20th date
4 doesn't give you enough time to incorporate the findings on 5 that and you think the scope of discovery will be too broad?

6 MR. FREEBORNE: Well, it just wouldn't allow us
7 enough time to file a properly noticed motion incorporating the 8 Court's findings. And that's why we suggested having the Rule
9 16(b) at the same time oral argument is heard with the mind
10 that if we have a tentative ruling then the Court -- we could 11 gear the parties out as to the appropriate scope of discovery
12 moving forward. Absent that, again, we wouldn't have enough
13 time to file a properly noticed motion under the Local Rules.

14 THE COURT: I mean, you know, parties bring motions
15 for partial summary judgment all the time here. Sometimes they 16 win, sometimes they lose. But we tend not to halt discovery in 17 the anticipation that they may win their motion for partial 18 summary judgment. It's just -- I recognize that that's not 19 exactly how every party would like us to handle discovery. It
20 would be perhaps cleaner and neater if we could just conduct 21 discovery on only those issues that will survive a motion for 22 partial summary judgment but that's not the practice here. The 23 practice is that the claims and defenses are framed by the 24 complaint and by the answer. But even if there's no answer on 25 file, we generally let the defendant proceed to address the

1 allegations in the complaint through discovery and we don't --
2 we don't wait. We've had too many cases --

3 MR. FREEBORNE: Your Honor, I'm sorry. I'm having a
4 hard time hearing. Somebody is breathing really into the phone 5 so whoever it is, can you just take a step back from there but 6 not the judge.

7 THE COURT: Anyway, I was just saying that I
8 understand why the government would prefer the kind of 9 structured process that they are suggesting but that isn't --
10 that isn't my understanding of how we handle discovery here.
11 That we just -- we do not tend to stay discovery or block
12 discovery under the possibility that a party may prevail in a 13 motion for partial summary judgment. There may be exceptions 14 to that and times in which, you know, discovery is stayed for 15 various reasons but it's really the exception and not the 16 common practice here. So -- and I guess the taking of two 17 depositions doesn't, for me, generally rise to the level of 18 undue burden for a party. So I just haven't heard a reason 19 from the United States that, in my mind, would satisfy the 20 good-cause standard.

21 MR. SCHINDLER: Well, your Honor, we thank you for 22 your time.

23 THE COURT: All right. I wish I could be of more 24 assistance to you. I guess what I would hope that the parties 25 would do, if you're going to schedule that motion for partial

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 The government's Motion for a Scheduling Order Modifying Discovery
3 ("Motion") is at least the fifth time the government has sought to prevent United 4 from obtaining discovery at the heart of this case. This latest attempt is no more 5 persuasive than the rest of the handful. The Motion should be denied.

6 First, the Motion flouts this Court's standing order, runs afoul of this 7 Court's comments during the scheduling conference, and ignores repeated
8 statements from Magistrate Judge Segal that the government cannot unilaterally
9 control the flow of discovery. Despite these directives, the government continues 10 to withhold relevant information and then seek judicial approval of its ongoing 11 "pocket veto" strategy. The government's persistent recalcitrance must end.

12 Second, the evidence the government seeks to withhold easily passes the low 13 bar required for discovery, particularly this early and in a case of this magnitude.
14 The government's contrary position (at 1) is that because its Amended Complaint
15 asserts only that United had a duty to delete codes it allegedly knew from its chart 16 review program were unsupported, any evidence about a "general duty to verify 17 diagnosis codes" cannot be relevant in this case. That is incorrect.

18 To begin, the government errs in describing the Amended Complaint as 19 limited to an attack on United's chart review program. The Amended Complaint 20 contains more than 20 pages of allegations about supposed deficiencies in the 21 design and scope of a different program, called the "Risk Adjustment Coding and 22 Compliance Review" Program ("RACCR"). And those allegations absolutely are 23 based on the assertion that United had a "general duty" to search affirmatively for 24 unsupported codes. In seeking to preclude discovery into whether such a duty 25 existed—and, if so, the nature and extent of that duty—the government ignores 26 RACCR entirely.

27 The government also ignores its two common law claims. As explained in 28 United's Oppositions to the Government's Motion to Strike and Motion for Partial

1 Summary Judgment, the discovery the government seeks to preclude here goes
2 directly to the elements of those two common law claims. See, e.g., Mot. to Strike
3 Opp’n at 4, 16; Mot. for Partial Summ. J. Opp’n at 19. In light of the extensive 4 focus on the importance of those two claims in United’s pending Oppositions, it is 5 difficult to explain the government’s failure even to acknowledge those claims in 6 this later-filed Motion.

7 The discovery the government seeks to foreclose also is relevant to 8 numerous issues concerning the government’s sole remaining False Claims Act 9 count. That count alleges United retained monies to which it was not entitled by 10 failing to conduct so-called “two-way looks” during chart review. The discovery 11 the government seeks to preclude is relevant to that claim for many reasons, 12 including to show that: (1) CMS officials themselves believe that conducting one-
13 way reviews is proper; (2) United did not receive an overpayment; (3) United did 14 not improperly retain an overpayment; and (4) United’s failure to delete codes did 15 not materially impact the government’s decision to continue paying and 16 contracting with United. More generally, the discovery will shed light on the 17 contractual and regulatory provisions on which the government bases this claim.

18 Third, the government is wrong that this Court and the Ninth Circuit already 19 have decided as a matter of law that Medicare Advantage (“MA”) plans have an 20 obligation to delete codes they purportedly know though their chart review 21 programs are unsupported, and that such codes are material, thus rendering 22 discovery on those points unnecessary. All of the decisions on which the 23 government relies—this Court’s Order on United’s Motion to Dismiss, as well as 24 United States ex rel. Swoben v. United Healthcare Ins. Co., 848 F.3d 1161 (9th
25 Cir. 2016), and United States ex rel. Silingo v. Wellpoint, Inc., 895 F.3d 619 (9th 26 Cir. 2018)—involved motions to dismiss, and the courts thus accepted as true the 27 allegations in the complaint and drew all inferences in favor of the government. A 28 holding that a plaintiff has stated a cognizable claim at the pleading stage is hardly

1 the same as a holding that a defendant has violated the False Claims Act as a
2 matter of law. Moreover, neither Ninth Circuit decision addressed Reverse False
3 Claims Act counts (the only remaining False Claims Act claim left in this case), 4 and neither purported to analyze any of the factual or legal issues in this case (such 5 as materiality or the validity of the contractual and regulatory provisions at issue
6 here). And in fact, the allegations here veer far afield from the allegations in 7 Silingo of deliberate fabrication of complex diagnosis codes and forging of medical 8 records by the MA plan. Certainly, no decision has held that United's chart review
9 program is unlawful, and United contests the notion that chart review gives an MA 10 plan "knowledge" that codes separately submitted by the providers who saw the 11 actual patients are unsupported. United is entitled to discovery in the 12 government's possession that tests the veracity of the government's allegations and 13 demonstrates that the government cannot sustain its burden of proof on any of its 14 remaining claims.

15 Fourth, the government has not demonstrated that the discovery United 16 seeks is unduly burdensome. Nor could it. The government investigated this case 17 for more than five years before choosing to bring this action. The government 18 determined the size, scope, and nature of the case, and it cannot now complain that 19 United is defending itself. Any burden on agency resources is a direct 20 consequence of the case the government decided to bring.

21 In reality, the government's assertions about discovery burdens reflect 22 concerns about litigation strategy, not agency resources. As United explains
23 further below, the limited discovery United has conducted to date has confirmed 24 the validity of United's defenses, including on issues at the core of this case. See,
25 e.g., infra at 10 n.7, 12 n.9. The government should not be permitted to force 26 United to litigate those issues with one arm tied behind its back.

27 The government's arguments are especially unpersuasive given the 28 asymmetrical discovery burdens the parties have faced to date. United has

1 produced more than 22 times as many documents, and more than 10 times as many 2 witnesses, as the government. United has collected more than 70 million
3 documents amounting to over 14 terabytes of data throughout the course of this 4 litigation alone. The government's claimed burden pales in comparison and does 5 not justify refusing to provide United the discovery it needs to defend itself.

6 In sum, this Motion is meritless for many reasons. United describes those 7 reasons in further detail below not because the Motion raises serious questions, but 8 because United and the government both know how important the information is 9 that the government is trying so desperately to withhold.

10 II. PROCEDURAL & FACTUAL BACKGROUND

11 Before filing its Complaint-in-Intervention on May 17, 2017, the 12 government conducted a five-year investigation during which United produced 13 over 600,000 documents, compiled detailed responses (including over 125,000 14 lines of data) to dozens of complex interrogatories, and produced more than 20 15 witnesses for oral examinations.

16 On November 17, 2017, the government filed a 166-page, 364-paragraph 17 Amended Complaint-In-Intervention, which alleged violations of the False Claims
18 Act and two common law claims for Payment By Mistake and Unjust Enrichment, 19 and which sought substantial damages and other remedies. On February 12, 2018, 20 this Court dismissed the government's three affirmative False Claims Act counts, 21 leaving only a Reverse False Claims Act count and the two common law claims.

22 United served its first document requests on the government in August 2017.
23 More than a year later, the government has produced only about 44,000
24 documents. Meanwhile, United has produced over 376,000 documents¹ since 25 receiving the government's first document requests in October 2017, in addition to

27 ¹ This figure includes United's upcoming monthly production, which includes over 28 100,000 documents.

1 the over 600,000 documents produced during the course of the investigation.
2 Including the parties' productions in the Swoben case, United has produced more 3 than 22 times as many documents as the government.

4 Ever since this lawsuit was unsealed, the government has sought to prevent 5 United from "catching up" to the discovery the government obtained during its 6 five-year investigation. The government's recurring attempts to deprive United of 7 discovery have required United to seek judicial intervention on multiple occasions.
8 On each occasion to date, United's requests have been successful.

9 United first sought judicial intervention after the government refused to 10 make two CMS officials available for depositions, arguing that depositions should 11 be delayed because of the possibility that motion practice might alter the scope of 12 discovery. See Ex. 1, Tr. of Dec. 18, 2017 Conf. at 5:1–4.² Magistrate Judge Segal 13 rejected this argument, stating that United was entitled to proceed with the 14 depositions. Id. at 10:12–11:15. These depositions confirmed United's positions
15 on several critical issues. See, e.g., infra at 10 n.7, 12 n.9.

16 The government next asked this Court to enter a phased discovery order, 17 arguing that United should be barred from taking further depositions until after 18 resolution of the government's anticipated motions. This Court rejected that 19 request and made clear that the government could not unilaterally dictate the pace
20 of discovery. See, e.g., Ex. 2, Tr. of Apr. 9, 2018 Scheduling Conf. at 21:7–9.

21 In February 2018, United again was forced to seek judicial assistance after 22 the government had failed to produce a single document more than five months
23 after United served document requests. Magistrate Judge Segal made clear that 24 United "has a right to . . . vigorously and quickly defend itself," that she "wouldn't 25 want to delay the case and delay [United's] ability to defend themselves," and that,

27 ² Citations to "Ex." materials refer to exhibits to the Declaration of Abid R.
28 Qureshi filed concurrently herewith.

1 “given the complexity of this case, . . . I don’t think it’s inappropriate for a 2 defendant to be moving quickly to try and gather information and prepare its 3 defenses.” See Ex. 3, Tr. of Feb. 8, 2018 Conf. at 25:14–15, 27:8–10, 32:3–4.

4 United next sought and received judicial assistance earlier this month, after 5 the government informed United that it had unilaterally decided it would no longer
6 produce privilege logs until the Court ruled on this Motion and the government’s 7 Motion to Strike Affirmative Defenses and Motion for Partial Summary Judgment, 8 all of which are designed to prevent United from obtaining discovery related to the 9 government’s and other MA plans’ understanding and interpretations of the factual
10 issues and legal obligations squarely at issue in this case. Magistrate Judge Segal 11 noted that “we’re back to a place that we were previously at with the United 12 States.” She then captured the fundamental issue with the government’s position:
13 “[Y]ou initiated this case; you knew the volume of the case; you knew the response 14 that you would likely get from United; you are not new to this kind of 15 litigation. . . . [T]he volume of work involved in responding to discovery requests 16 and participating in this case was something the Government needed to kind of 17 assess before they filed the complaint in this action.” See Ex. 4, Tr. of Aug. 16, 18 2018 Conf. at 20:9–15.

19 This Motion is more of the same. It should be denied for many reasons.

20 III. ARGUMENT

21 The government faces a heavy burden to prevail on this Motion, which seeks 22 to curtail discovery at an early stage of a significant lawsuit. See, e.g., In re 23 Allergan, Inc. Sec. Litig., No. 14-CV-02004, 2016 WL 5929250, at *2 (C.D. Cal.
24 Oct. 5, 2016) (“The Federal Rules of Civil Procedure provide for broad factual 25 discovery. A party ‘may obtain discovery regarding any non-privileged matter that 26 is relevant to any party’s claim or defense and proportional to the needs of the 27 case’” (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(b)(1)). As discussed below and in United’s 28 Partial Summary Judgment and Motion to Strike Oppositions, the evidence the

1 government seeks to preclude is directly relevant to the claims and defenses in this 2 case, and United is entitled to a full and fair opportunity to explore these issues.

3 A. The Government Misrepresents Its Own Allegations and Ignores
4 Its Common Law Claims

5 The government seeks to foreclose discovery on “any obligation or 6 requirement that MA plans validate the accuracy of diagnosis codes submitted on 7 claims data” by arguing that this “issue . . . is not presented by this case.” (Mot. at 8 1.) In support, the government argues (at 1) that it “has not alleged that United had 9 a general duty to verify diagnosis codes, but rather that where, as here, it undertook 10 reviews of those codes, it had a duty to delete any unsupported codes it found.” 11 The government goes so far as to assert (at 7) that allegations that “United was 12 required to look for errors beyond those revealed by the chart reviews it 13 indisputably conducted” form “no part of this case” (emphasis in original).

14 This assertion is astonishing. The Amended Complaint expressly alleges 15 that “Defendants engaged in other conduct (unrelated to their Chart Review 16 Program) that violated the FCA,” Am. Compl. ¶ 15 (emphasis added), and is 17 replete with allegations that United did not do enough affirmatively to audit and 18 review unsupported diagnosis codes through its RACCR Program—a voluntary 19 compliance program that served as a safeguard against potential up-coding by 20 capitated provider groups. For example, the Amended Complaint alleges that:

- 21 • “[Defendants’] effort to identify the invalid codes submitted by these 22 incentivized providers was limited to the RACCR Program. Moreover, 23 [Defendants] designed and implemented the RACCR Program to limit its 24 scope and to minimize the number of invalid diagnoses for which 25 [Defendants] would have to return overpayments to CMS,” id. ¶ 239;
- 26 • “[Defendants] knew they had an obligation to review diagnoses reported 27 by incentivized providers to determine their validity,” id. ¶ 244;
- 28 • “Despite [Defendants’] understanding that the RACCR Program was part of UHG’s effort to comply with CMS’s accuracy requirements, they structured the RACCR Program to limit its utility in identifying invalid

1 diagnosis codes. There were various fundamental limitations on the 2 RACCR Program,” id. ¶ 245

3 None of these allegations relate in any way to unsupported codes allegedly 4 “revealed” (at 7) by United’s chart reviews.

5 It is wholly disingenuous for the government to ignore more than 20 pages
6 of allegations in its own pleading against United regarding the supposed 7 inadequacy of its efforts to validate provider-submitted diagnosis codes, see Am.
8 Compl. at ¶¶ 15–18, 239–92, and then complain about United’s request for 9 documents related to whether any such obligation or requirement existed in the 10 first place.³ The government’s allegations are not limited to United’s alleged 11 failure to delete unsupported codes “revealed” through chart reviews, and extend to 12 allegations that United should have done more to discover unsupported codes.

13 The government also ignores its common law claims. United’s Partial 14 Summary Judgment and Motion to Strike Oppositions—which the government had 15 for two weeks before filing its Motion—detail why the discovery the government
16 seeks to foreclose goes to the very elements of these common law claims. See,
17 e.g., Mot. to Strike Opp’n at 2 (“The government wholly ignores . . . its pending
18 claim for Payment by Mistake, but that claim requires the government to prove 19 what it knew and what it would have done differently if it had the knowledge it
20 claims it lacked.”); Partial Summ. J. Opp’n at 19 (“[A]s with its Motion to Strike, 21 the government’s brief completely ignores the remaining two common law 22 claims.”). This Motion suffers the same problem. It seeks to prevent United from 23 obtaining discovery relevant to the government’s own knowledge of unsupported

25 ³ For example, United is seeking discovery “regarding any obligation or 26 requirement that MA Plans validate the accuracy of diagnosis codes submitted on 27 claims data before they submit claims data to CMS,” United’s Request for 28 Production (“RFP”) No. 39, and “relating to CMS guidance to MA Plans regarding oversight of Providers, including Documents relating to MA Plans’ obligations to oversee Providers’ submission of accurate risk adjustment data.” Id. No. 2-17.

1 codes and the steps it took in response to that knowledge,⁴ for example, but never 2 even attempts to explain how that evidence could not be relevant to its claim for 3 Payment By Mistake. See, e.g., Mot. to Strike Opp’n at 2, 16; Mot. for Partial 4 Summ. J. at 19. Having seen United’s Oppositions to its other motions, if the 5 government had an argument on that score, it was required to offer it up front—not 6 wait to address it until reply, at which point United will have no ability to respond.

7 B. The Discovery Sought By United Is Critical To The Claims and 8 Defenses Related To The Only Remaining False Claims Act Count

9 The information the government seeks to shield also is relevant to the only 10 remaining False Claims Act count and United’s defenses. Such discovery is 11 relevant to whether United received an overpayment; whether United believed it 12 received an overpayment and, thereafter, improperly retained that overpayment; 13 whether CMS officials themselves believe that conducting one-way reviews is 14 improper or allegedly violates any general duty to delete codes allegedly known to 15 be unsupported; and whether United’s purported actions materially impacted the 16 government’s decisions to continue paying and contracting with United.

17 1. The Discovery the Government Seeks to Foreclose is Relevant to 18 Whether United Received an Overpayment

19 To prevail on its Reverse False Claims Act count, the government must 20 prove that United “knowingly conceal[ed] or knowingly and improperly avoid[ed] 21 or decrease[d] an obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the 22 Government.” 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(G); see id. § 3729(b)(3) (an “obligation” is 23 “an established duty, whether or not fixed, arising from . . . the retention of any 24 overpayment”); Partial Summ. J. Opp’n at 19–20; Mot. to Strike Opp’n at 4–5.
25 The Amended Complaint contains numerous references to alleged overpayments to 26

27 ⁴ For example, United seeks discovery related to the government’s knowledge as to 28 whether MA Plans were (1) validating the accuracy of diagnosis codes, (2) deleting unsupported diagnosis codes, and (3) looking both ways. RFP Nos. 17–19.

1 United, see, e.g., Am. Compl. ¶¶ 267–70, and the theory that United improperly 2 retained overpayments is central to the government’s remaining statutory claim.

3 Among other things, the government seeks to foreclose discovery showing 4 the error rate in CMS’s own data,⁵ which CMS formally has acknowledged in the 5 audit context must be taken into account before determining whether the existence
6 of unsupported codes in MA plans’ data equates to an overpayment. See Partial 7 Summ. J. Opp’n at 11–13; Schindler Decl. Ex. 18, 2010 RADV Rule (Dkt. 254-
8 1).⁶ Evidence about the presence and extent of unsupported codes in CMS’s own
9 data will help United show that requiring United to delete unsupported codes
10 without CMS doing the same in its data would result in a systematic underpayment
11 and violate the statutory (and contractual) requirement of actuarial equivalence.
12 See, e.g., Partial Summ. J. Opp’n at 22–23, 44–46. The government seeks to avoid 13 discovery into such evidence because it knows the evidence United has to date 14 supports United’s arguments and undermines the government’s theories.⁷ United 15 is entitled to obtain evidence to show that, contrary to the government’s core

18 ⁵ United seeks documents “regarding the RADV Medicare fee-for-service (‘FFS’) error rate adjuster,” including documents describing the government’s efforts to 19 calculate a Medicare FFS error rate and analyses related to measuring the accuracy of diagnoses submitted on FFS claims. RFP No. 6.

20 ⁶ Citations to “Schindler Decl.” refer to exhibits to the Declaration of David J.
21 Schindler in Support of United’s Opposition to Plaintiffs’ Motion for Partial Summary Judgment (Dkt. 254).

22 ⁷ The government produced a document in response to a FOIA request—though it
23 attempted to shield that document in this litigation—that contains notes from an internal CMS presentation about the need to account for CMS’s own error rate in 24 determining overpayments and states that adopting an FFS adjuster “from a technical point of view is the right thing to do” and would “put[] us in the best
25 position to withstand litigation challenges.” Schindler Decl. Ex. 16, Agenda (Dkt. 254-1). As another example, Jeffrey Grant (one of only two CMS officials 26 deposed in this case to date) testified that, assuming the coding intensity adjustment fully offsets any activities that an MA plan undertakes to code more
27 completely, if a plan were to audit twenty-five percent or fewer of its members’ charts and delete unsupported codes it found, without CMS deleting such codes in 28 the FFS data, the MA plan would be underpaid. See Schindler Decl. Ex. 7, Grant Dep. 208:15–17 (Dkt. 254-1); Partial Summ. J. Opp’n at 44–45.

1 contention, United was not overpaid merely because it may have received
2 payments based on some unsupported codes.⁸

3 As the Court is aware, United argued this actuarial equivalence point in its 4 Partial Summary Judgment Opposition, and this issue goes to the heart of United's 5 APA challenge—the extensive briefing for which United previously submitted to 6 this Court. See, e.g., Partial Summ. J. Opp'n at 20–26, Schindler Decl. Exs. 37–40.
7 (Dkt. 254-2). The government's Motion here is one last desperate attempt to get in 8 front of the APA case and prevent United from fully defending itself by refusing to 9 produce relevant discovery. Judge Collyer held oral argument in the APA case on 10 August 8, 2018, and a decision on United's substantial challenge is forthcoming.
11 See Ex. 5, Tr. of Aug. 8, 2018 Mots. Hr'g; see, e.g., id. at 40:8–12 (Judge Collyer:
12 “[H]ow can you impose on Medicare Advantage insurers compliance requirements 13 that CMS itself does not follow? Because as a program, it comes out not 14 actuarially equivalent, and it's predictable and intended to come out that way.”). If 15 United prevails in the APA case, that will confirm by law the presence of 16 unsupported codes does not result, without more, in an overpayment. And if the 17 presence of unsupported codes does not result in overpayments, then those codes 18 are not material, either, because the government could not have reduced its 19 payment based on them without violating statutory and contractual obligations.
20 United is entitled to discovery showing the government's awareness of that

24
25
26
27 ⁸ For example, United seeks discovery “relating to CMS policies, guidance, or 28 procedures relating to the requirement . . . that CMS pay MA plans in a manner that ‘ensures actuarial equivalence.’” RFP No. 2-19.

2 Scienter

3 The government argues (at 11) that “[s]cienter in this case involves whether 4 United ‘knew,’ as that term is defined in the FCA, that submitted diagnosis codes
5 were unsupported by patient charts.” Such a circumscribed view of scienter is 6 unfounded. Proving that United improperly retained overpayments requires the 7 government to show that United knew about unsupported codes simply by virtue of 8 its one-way looks and that United knew that unsupported codes necessarily 9 resulted in overpayments. See 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(G). That, in turn, requires 10 the government to prove United knew that there was something improper or 11 fraudulent in conducting one-way chart reviews and that United was objectively 12 unreasonable in its belief that there was no overpayment so long as the rate of its 13 unsupported codes did not exceed CMS’s. See Mot. to Strike Opp’n at 17–18.

14 Thus, evidence related to both the objective reasonableness of United’s 15 interpretations of its obligations and the subjective beliefs held by United is 16 relevant to scienter. See id.; Safeco Ins. Co. v. Burr, 551 U.S. 47, 69–71 & n.20 17 (2007) (stating that where multiple “objectively reasonable” interpretations of a 18 provision exist, “it would defy history and current thinking to treat a defendant 19 who merely adopts one such [objectively reasonable] interpretation as a knowing 20 or reckless violator”); United States ex rel. McGrath v. Microsemi Corp., 690 F.
21 App’x 551, 552 (9th Cir. 2017) (applying Safeco to scienter requirement of False 22 Claims Act). For example, evidence of CMS’s error rate and other witnesses like 23 Jeffrey Grant would support United’s argument that its interpretations were 24 objectively reasonable and, therefore, not a willful violation of its legal 25 obligations.⁹ See, e.g., United States v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 178 F. Supp. 3d 927,

26 _____
27 ⁹ Jeffrey Grant—a CMS official who oversaw the creation of the risk adjustment
28 program—testified that he believed an MA plan’s submission of an unsupported code would be improper only if it was making the “very specific submission of a

1 963 (N.D. Cal. 2016) (holding that evidence of government’s or other regulated
2 entities’ interpretation of regulations was relevant to reasonableness of defendant’s
3 interpretation, regardless of whether defendant actually knew of that evidence);
4 Mot. to Strike Opp’n at 17–18; see also Partial Summ. J. Opp’n at 19–20.

5 United has every reason to believe that discovery will continue to support its 6 theory that its interpretations were objectively reasonable. See, e.g., Mot. to Strike
7 Opp’n at 17–18; Partial Summ. J. Opp’n at 2–3, 19–20, 40–42. The government’s 8 motive for attempting to suppress relevant evidence is clear: the limited amount of 9 evidence in United’s possession to date directly supports United’s theory that CMS
10 officials shared its views. Evidence that government officials did not believe one-11 way looks were problematic or improper is plainly relevant and, at a minimum, 12 demonstrates that United’s interpretations were reasonable.

13 The lone contrary case cited by the government—a pre-Safeco district court 14 decision—is inapposite. In United States v. Tenet, No. CV-03-206 (C.D. Cal. Sept.
15 7, 2005), the defendants moved to compel documents relating to “complaints or 16 confusion by or amongst the general public” regarding coding-related issues. Id.
17 at 4. Although the district court upheld the magistrate judge’s denial of the motion 18 to compel, it acknowledged that the Ninth Circuit previously held that the 19 “‘reasonableness of [a defendant’s] interpretation of the applicable . . . standards 20 may be relevant to whether it knowingly submitted a false claim,’ i.e., to the third 21 element of FCA claims—scienter.” Id. at 7 (emphasis in original). Here, United is 22 not seeking discovery about the general public’s confusion about risk adjustment.
23 United is seeking discovery into the knowledge and interpretations of the very 24 agency officials tasked with administering the MA program. Similarly, United is 25 very specific data element . . . that [it] know[s] is wrong.” Schindler Decl. Ex. 7, 26 Grant Dep. at 321:21–23 (Dkt. 254-1). He stated that performing one-way reviews

27 that add diagnosis codes, without looking at whether previously-submitted codes
28 lack such support, would not create the requisite knowledge. Id. at 322:18–323:15.
He further testified that he did not believe it was “improper” or “fraud” for an MA plan to perform such one-way reviews. Id. at 307:11–310:16.

1 seeking discovery into the knowledge and interpretations of other MA plans—not 2 the general public—because such evidence will support United’s argument (among 3 others) that its interpretations were objectively reasonable. See Mot. to Strike
4 Opp’n at 17–18; United States v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 178 F. Supp. 3d at 963.

5 3. The Discovery the Government Seeks to Foreclose is Relevant to 6 Materiality

7 The government also seeks to foreclose discovery of internal CMS
8 documents and materials relevant to materiality, including investigations of other 9 MA plans.¹⁰ (Mot at 8-11.) Evidence of how the government responded to 10 allegations that MA plans were engaging in conduct similar to the conduct at issue 11 here goes directly to the materiality of any alleged wrongdoing by United. See 12 United Health Servs., Inc. v. United States ex rel. Escobar, 136 S. Ct. 1989, 2003
13 (2016); United States ex rel. Worthy v. E. Me. Healthcare Sys., No. 2:14-cv-00184-14 JAW, 2017 WL 211609, at *24 (D. Me. Jan. 18, 2017) (evidence regarding 15 government’s prior investigations of similar allegations and prior actions to 16 prevent the same type of conduct at issue relevant for materiality purposes); see 17 also United States ex rel. Scharff v. Camelot Counseling, No. 13-cv-3791, 2016
18 WL 5416494, at *17 (S.D.N.Y. Sept. 28, 2016) (complaint failed to allege 19 sufficient facts to support materiality where it did not allege whether the 20 government refused to reimburse clinics that engaged in conduct similar to 21 defendant’s). For example, if the government investigated or otherwise knew that 22 other MA plans were performing one-way chart reviews, evidence of the 23 government’s decision to continue paying and contracting with those MA plans 24 plainly would be relevant to materiality.

27 ¹⁰ For example, United is seeking discovery relating to the government’s 28 knowledge of MA plans’ efforts to exercise ‘reasonable diligence’ to report and return overpayments to CMS. RFP No. 20; see also supra at 9 n.4.

1 Additionally, the government misses the mark when it argues (at 10) that the 2 discovery United seeks is irrelevant because the “government’s suspicions about 3 United’s compliance with accuracy requirements did not mean CMS had 4 information about which particular diagnoses were unsupported.” United is 5 entitled to discovery showing that CMS did not think there was anything improper 6 about the common industry practice of performing one-way chart reviews, despite 7 knowing that unsupported codes previously submitted would not be ferreted out or 8 deleted as part of this process and would therefore be reflected in the payment to 9 the MA plan. United is likewise entitled to discovery as to steps that CMS could 10 have taken to learn which “particular diagnoses were unsupported” and whether 11 CMS chose not to pursue those steps because it had no concern with one-way
12 reviews. Such evidence is probative of materiality, regardless of whether CMS 13 had obtained information about which particular diagnoses were unsupported.

14 Furthermore, the government argues (at 2) that United’s discovery requests 15 are irrelevant because they ignore certain “facts” about the MA program that 16 allegedly render the failure to delete diagnostic codes “inexorably” material. But 17 the so-called facts the government relies on are in reality disputed factual
18 allegations to which United is entitled to discovery and that cannot form the basis
19 for foreclosing discovery relevant to Escobar’s demanding materiality standard.
20 See Escobar, 136 S. Ct. at 2003. For example, the government argues that the 21 allegedly automated nature of the Medicare Advantage payment system renders the 22 codes automatically material. See Mot. at 9; Am. Compl. ¶ 333. This is a disputed 23 allegation that ignores the fact that this case largely is about unsupported codes that 24 were allegedly “revealed” and should have been deleted after the deadline for 25 submitting codes (“closed period deletes”),¹¹ and that closed period deletes involve

27 ¹¹ The deletes the government alleges United should have made would be “closed 28 period deletes” for both legal and factual reasons. Legally, the statute defines overpayment as amounts to which a plan is not entitled “after applicable much more than merely submitting “delete files” electronically to CMS—they involve affirmative decisions by CMS officials to process the deletes and adjust prior payments based on CMS’s reconciliation of the submitted data. See generally Martin Decl.; Declaration of MaryBeth Meyer (filed concurrently herewith). United cannot be foreclosed from relevant discovery on the element of materiality based on the government’s incorrect and untested factual allegations about the MA payment processing system.

4. The Discovery the Government Seeks to Foreclose is Relevant to the Meaning of Contractual Provisions and Regulatory Requirements

Additionally, the discovery the government seeks to foreclose is relevant to interpreting the meaning of contractual and regulatory provisions on which the government relies in its Amended Complaint, Motion for Partial Summary Judgment, and this Motion (at 12). As United has explained, the regulatory provisions invoked by the government do not state that an MA plan is required to delete all codes it allegedly determines to be unsupported, regardless of the rate of unsupported codes in CMS’s own data on which its payments are based, or that it is overpaid every time it receives a payment associated with an unsupported code. See, e.g., Partial Summ. J. Opp’n at 26–46. At the very least, extrinsic evidence is necessary to determine their meaning. Id. United also believes the contractual provisions at issue are ambiguous, and thus extrinsic evidence also is necessary to reconciliation,” which CMS has defined as being the deadline for submission of data. See 42 C.F.R. § 422.326; see also Exhibit A to the Declaration of Rebecca Martin (filed concurrently herewith) (“Martin Decl.”), CMS, “CORRECTION—Updated Announcement Regarding Encounter Data Deadlines for Payment Years 2016 and 2017 Final Reconciliation” (Feb. 20, 2018) (deletes submitted within the extended deadlines “are not overpayments as defined in Section 1128J(d) of the Social Security Act and 42 CFR § 422.326”). Thus, as a legal matter, any overpayments that United allegedly identified and failed to delete would necessarily be closed period deletes. Factually, the deletes the government alleges United should have made includes many deletes that would have been made in the closed period because United performs chart reviews on an annual cycle that continues until near the end of the submission deadline—and thus the claims verification process United previously employed often occurred in the closed period.

1 resolve their meaning. See, e.g., id. at 43–46. The government cannot plausibly
2 argue against the relevancy of evidence that its own views mirror United’s.

3 C. The Government Is Wrong That This Court And The Ninth
4 Circuit Have Decided Contested Issues As A Matter Of Law

5 The government relies heavily on the claim that certain issues already have 6 been decided by this and other courts as a matter of law in an attempt to 7 characterize the discovery United seeks as irrelevant and unnecessary. (See, e.g., 8 Mot. at 7–10.) This reliance on these prior decisions is misplaced, and its 9 discussion of these cases is flawed. The government argues (at 7) that United is 10 not entitled to discovery on “the government’s understanding of whether [MAOs]
11 were required to ‘look both ways’”¹² because (i) the Ninth Circuit “held as a matter
12 of law that United had an obligation to correct diagnosis codes that it knew to be 13 invalid,” and (ii) this Court effectively held the same by denying (in part) United’s 14 motion to dismiss.

15 That assertion is simply wrong. Initially, as explained elsewhere, United 16 denies the contention that it had knowledge of unsupported codes or that it had 17 been overpaid, and the discovery United seeks is relevant to that factual question.
18 See, e.g., supra at 3. Just as important, neither this Court nor the Ninth Circuit 19 have conclusively determined issues in favor of the government as a matter of law.
20 Rather, as the decisions make perfectly clear, these courts—as they were required 21 to do on a motion to dismiss—“assumed the facts alleged in the Complaint [were] 22 true and construe[d] any inferences arising from those facts in the light most 23 favorable to [the plaintiffs].” United States ex rel. Poehling v. UnitedHealth Grp., 24 Inc., Order re Mot. to Dismiss at 2, Feb. 12, 2018 (Dkt. 212); Swoben, 848 F.3d at 26 ¹² For example, United is seeking discovery related to “whether MA Plans validate 27 or validated the accuracy of diagnosis codes submitted on claims data to CMS for 28 purposes of Risk Adjustment and whether MA Plans “look both ways” when reviewing medical charts.” RFP No. 38.

1 1179 (“Under Rule 8, we assume the veracity of a complaint’s factual
2 allegations”); Silingo, 895 F. 3d at 628 (“We . . . accept[] as true all well-3 pleaded allegations of fact in the complaint and constru[e] them in the light most 4 favorable to [the plaintiff].”) (citation and internal quotation omitted).¹³

5 As one example, in addressing the potential implications of certain one-way 6 looks on an MA plan’s attestations, the Ninth Circuit did not have before it the 7 evidence that CMS’s Coding Intensity Adjustment already offsets for the financial 8 impact of codes added by MA plans through their chart reviews. As another
9 example, the government argues (at 10) that this Court recognized the automated
10 nature of the Medicare Advantage payment system and impact of diagnosis codes 11 on payments to MA plans. Not only does United dispute these allegations (see 12 supra at 15–16), but the Court made clear it was only assessing whether the 13 government’s allegations were sufficient to withstand a motion to dismiss. See, 14 e.g., Order re Mot. to Dismiss at 2 (“[T]he Court accepts the following facts as 15 true”). Now that the case has moved past the pleading stage, the government
16 must actually prove—and United is entitled to discovery that tests the veracity 17 of—its allegations. This Motion is an attempt to prevent United from doing just 18 that. Indeed, what little discovery United has been able to obtain to date directly 19 corroborates United’s fundamental assertions in this case and directly contradicts 20 the government’s allegations and undermines the government’s remaining claims.
21 See, e.g., supra at 10 n.7. The government cannot preclude United from obtaining 22 relevant evidence just by pointing to decisions that, by procedural necessity, 23 assumed such evidence did not even exist.

24 As United detailed in its Partial Summary Judgment Opposition (at 46–49), 25 the government also fails to recognize the fundamental differences between the 26 _____

27 ¹³ The Silingo court went so far as to state: “We assuredly do not hold now that 28 Silingo showed enough to get to trial, but rather only that her complaint is adequate to proceed to discovery.” Silingo, 895 F. 3d at 633.

1 allegations and claims remaining in this case and those at issue in Swoben. The 2 Ninth Circuit expressly stated it was not addressing a Reverse False Claims Act
3 theory—the only surviving False Claims Act theory in this case. See Swoben, 848
4 F.3d at 1172 n.6 (“Swoben, however, did not rely on [the reverse false claims]
5 provision in his opening and reply briefs. We therefore do not address it here.”).
6 The Ninth Circuit made clear it was not deciding whether unsupported codes were 7 false claims. Id. at 1183 (“Under Swoben’s theory . . . the false claims are the 8 allegedly false § 422.504(l) certifications, not the erroneously reported diagnosis
9 codes” (emphasis added)). Nor did the Ninth Circuit address materiality or 10 overpayments. See id. at 1173 & n.7 (stating that the court was not addressing 11 whether the allegedly false certifications were “material” or “caus[ed] the 12 government to pay out money or forfeit moneys due”). The Ninth Circuit thus did 13 not contemplate, let alone decide, that codes were material. And its motion-to-14 dismiss-stage decision certainly did not suggest that the codes would be treated as 15 material regardless of whether there was evidence showing that the government 16 knowingly paid MA plans based on unsupported codes—exactly the sort of 17 evidence that the government is trying so desperately to withhold from United.

18 The government’s reliance on Silingo likewise is misplaced. Like Swoben, 19 Silingo did not analyze the Reverse False Claims Act or the materiality element of 20 such a claim. The district court had dismissed with prejudice Silingo’s Reverse 21 False Claims Act count, and the Ninth Circuit held that she could not revive it on 22 appeal. Silingo, 895 F.3d at 632. Thus, the Ninth Circuit did not analyze any 23 implications of the factual allegations on a Reverse False Claims Act count.
24 Furthermore, the Ninth Circuit did not address materiality whatsoever—in fact, the 25 only reference to “material” in the decision is a quotation of the statutory language
26 related to a false records affirmative False Claims Act claim. See Silingo, 895 F.3d
27 at 627. Moreover, the factual allegations in Silingo are fundamentally different 28 than those at issue here. Silingo involved allegations that MA plans themselves

1 fraudulently fabricated complex diagnoses and edited and forged medical records.
2 Id. at 626. In contrast, the government’s theory here is not that United fabricated
3 codes in conducting chart reviews; it is instead that United’s reviews supposedly 4 revealed that other codes separately submitted by providers in good faith were 5 inadequately documented. Those are not remotely the same thing.¹⁴

6 Finally, neither Swoben nor Silingo addressed the validity of the contractual 7 and regulatory provisions at issue here—which United vigorously disputes, as 8 detailed above—and thus necessarily did not construe those provisions so as to 9 render them valid. In sum, neither Swoben nor Silingo resolved issues—factual or 10 legal—into which the government seeks to prevent discovery. As Judge Collyer 11 stated when describing Swoben, these cases are “not the droid the [government] is 12 looking for.” Schindler Decl. Ex. 57, APA Order at 2 (Dkt. 254-3).

13 D. The Government Has Not Demonstrated Any Undue Burden That 14 Would Warrant Its Avoidance Of Basic Discovery

15 The government conducted a five-year investigation before deciding to file 16 this action, during which United produced over 600,000 documents and detailed 17 responses to dozens of complex interrogatories, and the government conducted oral 18 examinations of more than 20 witnesses. Armed with the substantial amount of 19 materials and information it had gathered, the government filed its 166-page, 364-20 paragraph Amended Complaint after determining the nature, scope, and size of its 21 case. Yet, the government continues to balk at the notion of engaging in discovery
22 and allowing United a fair opportunity to defend itself, asserting that doing so 23 would be burdensome. But as Magistrate Judge Segal recently told the 24 government, “[Y]ou initiated this case; you knew the volume of the case; you 25 knew the response that you would likely get from United; you are not new to this

26 _____
27 ¹⁴ The Ninth Circuit also stated that Silingo was “entitled to continue taking 28 discovery before her claims are resolved on summary judgment or at trial.” Id. at
633. United similarly is entitled to discovery.

1 kind of litigation. . . . [T]he volume of work involved in responding to discovery
2 requests and participating in this case was something the Government needed to 3 kind of assess before they filed the complaint in this action.” Ex. 4, Tr. of Aug. 16, 4 2018 Conf. at 20:9–15. United should not be prejudiced by limited discovery
5 simply because the government now regrets the burdens of litigating the case it 6 chose to bring.

7 Additionally, both this Court and Magistrate Judge Segal have given clear 8 instructions and guidance that discovery is to proceed in this matter, that there will 9 be no phased discovery as the government sought, and that pending motions do not 10 alter a party’s discovery obligations. See, e.g., Order Setting Scheduling Conf. at 2
11 (Dkt. 219) (“The Court encourages counsel to agree to begin to conduct discovery 12 actively before the Scheduling Conference. At the very least, the parties shall 13 comply fully with the letter and spirit of Rule 26(a) and thereby obtain and produce 14 most of what would be produced in the early stage of discovery, because at the 15 Scheduling Conference the Court will impose strict deadlines to complete 16 discovery.”); Ex. 1, Tr. of Dec. 18, 2017 Conf. at 13:16–14:2 (“[W]e tend not to 17 halt discovery in the anticipation that [a party] may win their motion for partial 18 summary judgment. . . . [W]e generally let the defendant proceed to address the 19 allegations in the complaint through discovery and we don’t [] wait.”); Ex. 3, Tr. of 20 Feb. 8, 2018 Conf. at 25:14–15 (“[United] has a right to [] vigorously and quickly 21 defend itself.”). Despite express instructions and obligations, however, the 22 government has consistently tried to dictate the course of discovery and prevent 23 United from obtaining discovery to which it is entitled.

24 The government claims that United is seeking “burdensome discovery” and 25 laments that it must collect and review an “inordinate volume of documents.”
26 (Mot. at 3, 14.) The government’s complaints ring hollow, given that the 27 government opted to bring this action and knew the scope of this case, the volume 28 of work it would involve, and that United would defend itself. Furthermore, the 1 government has made no particularized showing of the burden it allegedly faces,

2 instead relying on broad, conclusory statements. Nor can it. The government
3 cannot plausibly argue that engaging in basic discovery is somehow unduly 4 burdensome or disproportionate to the claims in the case, especially given the 5 amount of damages it seeks (see Am. Compl. at ¶ 122)—damages that would be 6 trebled under the False Claims Act. The government’s assertions do not come 7 close to satisfying Rule 26(c)’s standard for a protective order, for which the 8 government has moved in the alternative. See Indep. Living Ctr. of S. Cal. v. City
9 of Los Angeles, 296 F.R.D. 632, 637 (C.D. Cal. 2013) (rejecting the government’s 10 burden-related arguments where the government did not submit declarations or 11 make any effort other than providing conclusory statements to establish burden);
12 see also Phillips ex rel. Estates of Byrd v. Gen. Motors Corp., 307 F.3d 1206, 13 1210–11 (9th Cir. 2002) (“For good cause to exist, the party seeking protection
14 bears the burden of showing specific prejudice or harm will result if no protective 15 order is granted.” (citing Beckman Indus., Inc. v. Int’l Ins. Co., 966 F.2d 470, 476 16 (9th Cir. 1992) (“[B]road allegations of harm, unsubstantiated by specific 17 examples or articulated reasoning, do not satisfy the Rule 26(c) test”).).

18 Finally, despite the government’s efforts to prevent United from obtaining 19 discovery, United is expending significant efforts engaging in meaningful 20 discovery:

Discovery by United	Discovery by the Government
Over 70 million documents amounting to 14.3 terabytes of data collected in response to the government’s document requests	Over 7 million documents amounting to 5 terabytes of data collected in response to United’s document requests
Over 376,000 documents produced in this litigation	About 44,000 documents produced in this litigation
Over 600,000 documents produced in the investigation; over 34,000 documents produced in Swoben	About 600 mostly publicly available produced documents in Swoben

7 billion records on 4 2-terabyte hard drives produced in response to the government's data requests	About 3.6 terabytes of pre-packaged data available for sale on CMS's website for research purposes produced in response to United's data requests
5 spreadsheets of over 125,000 lines of data produced in response to the government's interrogatories ¹⁵	N/A. United has not served any Interrogatories to date.
About 2,500 privilege log entries in this litigation; over 26,000 privilege log entries during the investigation ¹⁶	About 19,760 privilege log entries, about 16,400 of which are being withheld solely on the basis of the deliberative process privilege

United's significant discovery efforts reflect the case the government chose to bring. The government must undertake reciprocal efforts.

The government claims (at 3) it has over 675,000 documents that must be reviewed for privilege, which implies the government has determined that it will produce those documents absent an assertion of privilege. Despite claiming to have identified over 675,000 for potential production, however, the government has produced only about 44,000 documents since receiving United's first document requests over a year ago. Given the volume of documents that the government forced United to review and produce in the course of the investigation and during the course of this litigation, it is sheer hypocrisy for the government to complain that it is being forced to engage in discovery that is a standard part of any litigation. Furthermore, much of any purported burden facing the government stems from its inappropriate and overly broad assertions of the deliberative process privilege.

¹⁵ The interrogatories focused on United's RACCR Program, which the government omits from its discussion about the nature of its case. See supra Section III.A.

¹⁶ The government demanded that United revise its privilege logs from both the litigation and investigation. Despite the government's refusal to revise its own privilege logs, United agreed to review and, as appropriate, revise its approximately 28,500 privilege log entries.

1 Indeed, the government's arguments about the deliberative process and law
2 enforcement privileges are red herrings. United recognizes that this Court has told 3 the parties that Magistrate Judge Segal would decide the propriety of any 4 assertions of privilege, such as the government's assertion of the deliberative
5 process privilege. See Ex. 2, Tr. of Apr. 9, 2018 Scheduling Conf. at 24:13–16.
6 United brought this issue to Magistrate Judge Segal's attention recently and 7 anticipates moving to compel documents the government has improperly withheld.

8 As relevant to this Motion, however, the mere possibility that those narrow,
9 qualified privileges apply to a portion of the documents requested by United is no 10 basis to categorically deny United discovery of other relevant information that is 11 outside the scope of those privileges. See United States v. McGraw-Hill Cos., Inc., 12 No. CV 13-779-DOC (JCGx), 2014 WL 1647385, at *7 (C.D. Cal. Apr. 15, 2014)
13 (stating that “the Government cannot escape its duty to disclose documents by 14 merely brandishing a general claim of privilege” and ordering production of 15 materials related to other market participants). In addition, even if the government
16 had properly invoked the deliberative process privilege (which it has not), United's 17 need for these highly relevant documents outweighs any harm that might result 18 from disclosure. See FTC v. Warner Commc'ns. Inc., 742 F.2d 1156, 1161 (“A 19 litigant may obtain deliberative materials if his or her need for the materials and 20 the need for accurate fact-finding override the government's interest in non-21 disclosure.”).¹⁷ At the very least, the government's argument about the burdens
22 associated with the deliberative process privilege is premature.

25
26 ¹⁷ If United prevails on its motion to compel such documents, any alleged burden 27 the government faces related to its privilege logs would be significantly reduced 28 because it would no longer be withholding documents solely on the basis of the deliberative process privilege—which currently accounts for approximately 83% of the documents on the government's privilege logs.

1 IV. CONCLUSION

2 The Court should deny the government's latest attempt to foreclose relevant 3 discovery. Despite this Court's and Magistrate Judge Segal's admonitions, the 4 government continues to pull out all the stops to prevent United from obtaining 5 discovery. The government cannot accuse United of fraud and then turn around 6 and prevent discovery into what the alleged victim of that fraud knew. The 7 discovery the government seeks to foreclose is critical to the claims and defenses
8 in this case—including the common law claims the government failed to mention
9 in its Motion, the RACCR theory the government similarly ignores, and the only 10 remaining False Claims Act count in this case. Contrary to the government's 11 assertions, these issues have not been decided as a matter of law by this or any 12 other court. The government dictated the size and scope of this case when it filed
13 its Amended Complaint, and any burden associated with engaging in standard 14 discovery stems from the government's own pleadings. Just as United has 15 continued to engage in meaningful discovery that reflects the scale of the 16 government's allegations, so too must the government engage in such discovery.

v.

ALEX M. AZAR II,
Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services, et al.,

Civil Case No. 16-157 (RMC)

Health insurance is provided to most seniors and many disabled Americans through Medicare, paid for by taxes and administered by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS). As amended, the Medicare statute (formally part of the Social Security Act), includes a “Medicare Advantage” program whereby Medicare-eligible individuals can elect to receive their health insurance coverage through a private insurance company. The insurance company must provide at least the same coverage as traditional Medicare, although it often expands coverage, and is to make its profit from Medicare through efficiencies and other cost-saving methods. The statute requires “actuarial equivalence” between CMS payments for healthcare coverage under Medicare Advantage plans and CMS payments under traditional Medicare. In this case, a large group of insurance companies that provide Medicare Advantage coverage challenged a Final Rule, adopted in 2014, by which the documentation used to set the rates to pay the insurance companies is inconsistent with the documentation used to determine if the insurers have been overpaid. The insurers allege that the Final Rule will inevitably fail to satisfy the statutory mandate of actuarial equivalence.

There is a history to this dispute over actuarial equivalence. The government previously had proposed an audit program for Medicare Advantage insurers and some insurers challenged its methodology for determining overpayments. Since government records for traditional Medicare payments are used to set rates but are not audited, the insurers contended that imposing a 100% accuracy requirement on their records, on pain of being required to return any “overpayment,” would violate the statutory requirement for actuarially equivalent payments between traditional Medicare and Medicare Advantage. Heeding the advice of actuaries, the government ultimately adjusted its audit plan to recognize the different data sets. For the 2014 Final Rule at issue here, however, CMS has refused to make such an adjustment although the different data sets are again in use.

After full briefing and oral argument, this Court concludes that the 2014 Final Rule violates the statutory mandate of “actuarial equivalence” and constitutes a departure from prior policy that the government fails adequately to explain. The Court will grant summary judgment to the Medicare Advantage insurers and vacate the Rule.

I. BACKGROUND

This lawsuit is brought by Medicare Advantage (MA) organizations in the UnitedHealth Group family of companies, the nation’s leading provider of Medicare Advantage health benefits plans (collectively, UnitedHealth).¹ Known as Medicare Part C, the Medicare

¹ Plaintiffs are UnitedHealthcare Insurance Company, AmeriChoice of New Jersey, Inc., Arizona Physicians IPA, Inc., Care Improvement Plus South Central Insurance Company, Care Improvement Plus of Texas Insurance Company, Care Improvement Plus Wisconsin Insurance Company, Health Plan of Nevada, Inc., Medica Healthcare Plans, Inc., Oxford Health Plans (CT), Inc., Oxford Health Plans (NJ), Inc., Oxford Health Plans (NY), Inc., Pacificare Life and Health Insurance Company, Pacificare of Arizona, Inc., Pacificare of Colorado, Inc., Pacificare of Nevada, Inc., Physicians Health Choice of Texas, LLC, Preferred Care Partners, Inc., Sierra Health and Life Insurance Company, Inc., UnitedHealthCare Benefits of Texas, Inc., UnitedHealthCare Community Plan of Ohio, Inc., UnitedHealthCare Community Plan of Texas,

Advantage program allows Medicare-eligible individuals to receive healthcare benefits through private insurance companies that have contracted with CMS, a constituent agency of the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS). Alex M. Azar II, HHS Secretary, is sued in his official capacity. CMS administers traditional Medicare and pays its benefits. However, some 20 million Americans, approximately one-third of Medicare-eligible individuals, have opted for Medicare Advantage coverage.

Medicare Parts A, B and C are relevant here. Medicare Part A is mandatory for senior Americans who take Social Security benefits; Part A provides coverage for hospital expenses. Medicare Part B is voluntary and provides partial coverage for doctor expenses. Medicare Part C offers the Medicare Advantage program through which private insurance companies replace CMS and provide full Medicare coverage to beneficiaries.

Initially, Medicare paid all “reasonable costs” (“fee for service”) to a hospital caring for a Medicare beneficiary. See Methodist Hosp. of Sacramento v. Shalala, 38 F.3d 1225, 1227 (D.C. Cir. 1994). Over time, that standard has changed and Medicare now pays a hospital based on the “Diagnosis-Related Group” (DRG) shown by the patient’s diagnoses at the time of discharge. Medicare Part B also started by paying doctors a reasonable “fee for service,” but now pays them according to fee schedules that limit the amount they may charge and be paid for each defined service. See United Seniors Ass’n, Inc. v. Shalala, 182 F.3d 965, 968 (D.C. Cir. 1999). Under Part B, doctors must submit diagnosis codes to identify the reason a patient received treatment, but “payments depend only on the services (or durable goods) provided [office visit, examination, shot, etc.] and not in any way on the diagnoses submitted.” Defs.’ Mem. in Support of Their Cross-Mot. for Summ. J. and Opp’n to Pls.’ Mot. for Summ. J. (CMS Mot.) [Dkt. 57-1] at 7.² In contrast, Medicare Advantage insurers are not paid based on medical services but “are paid a pre-determined monthly sum for each person they cover, based in part upon the characteristics of the particular beneficiary being covered.” Id. (internal citation omitted).

A Medicare Advantage insurer must provide, at a minimum, the same level of benefits provided by traditional Medicare itself, except for hospice care. See 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-22(a). Under a Medicare Advantage policy, the insurance companies pay doctors, other healthcare providers, and hospitals for their services and are reimbursed by CMS on a per-member-per-month rate that is determined beforehand. See id. § 1395w-23(a).

By law, CMS must pay Medicare Advantage insurers in a manner that ensures “actuarial equivalence” between payments for healthcare under Medicare and Medicare Advantage plans:

[T]he Secretary shall adjust the payment amount [of fixed monthly payments to Medicare Advantage insurers] for such risk factors as age, disability status, gender, institutional status, and such other factors as the Secretary determines to be appropriate, including adjustment for health status . . . , so as to ensure actuarial equivalence.

² Although all parties used the initials “FFS” (fee-for-service) to reference traditional Medicare (and compare it to Medicare Advantage), this term is “now, something of a misnomer” because CMS has changed its fee structures for hospitals and doctors. See CMS Mot. at 4. The Court eschews the use of the acronyms for clarity, except when quoting. See D.C. Circuit Handbook of Practice and Internal Procedures 41 (2016).

Id. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i). Risk factors represent the risk that a given beneficiary, or beneficiary population, will need healthcare from doctors or hospitals in the next year as it may be diagnosed. “A risk adjustment model is required to translate the diagnosis data into expected costs of coverage.” CMS Mot. at 14. For this purpose, CMS relies on its model, the CMS Hierarchical Condition Category (CMS-HCC) risk-adjustment model, to “perform that conversion”:

CMS-HCC is a complex regression model built to estimate the costs associated with certain characteristics of Medicare beneficiaries. The inputs to the model are data from individuals who receive their benefits through the traditional, fee-for-service Medicare system. Its outputs are a set of multipliers—that is, “coefficients”—that “represent the marginal (additional) cost” of each medical “condition or demographic factor (e.g., age/sex group, Medicaid status, disability status).” The coefficients are added together to form a “risk score,” and then computed against a base payment rate (which varies depending on geography and the bid submitted by the insurer, among other things).

Id. (internal citations omitted).

By this process, CMS calculates the average monthly expenditure for an average beneficiary under traditional Medicare in the past year. The “base rate establishes . . . what it would cost to treat a beneficiary of average risk in a given area.” See Transcript of Aug. 8, 2018 Motions Hearing (Hearing Tr.) [Dkt. 73] at 5. CMS adds a geographical differential, based on data from the past year, to calculate an average per-capita monthly payment for each county in the nation.

This is no straightforward task. Each traditional Medicare beneficiary has a “demographic risk coefficient” which reflects that person’s age, gender, institutional status, and disability status, among others. See id. at 4. Additional coefficients represent the health status of the beneficiaries in traditional Medicare, taken from their diagnosis codes as reported to CMS by their doctors. Using such CMS data, “the model estimates the marginal cost of each disease and cluster of demographic characteristics. . . . By mapping known expenditures . . . , the model calculates the expected cost of each medical condition and demographic factor.” CMS Mot. at 17. Using the data from the demographic characteristics, reported diagnoses, and Medicare expenses of the beneficiaries in traditional Medicare, the model can estimate the marginal cost of each condition, disease and cluster of demographic characteristics.

The “average beneficiary” is given a risk score of 1.0, which is then adjusted upwards or downwards according to the risk score determined by an individual’s demographic and health status information. For example, if a beneficiary has a condition that CMS has determined based on its Medicare data increases average costs by 20%, that person will have an adjusted risk score of 1.2 and the Medicare Advantage payment rate applicable to that person will be set at 120% of the average benchmark rate. See, e.g., Advance Notice of Methodological Changes for CY 2004 Part C Rates (Mar. 28, 2003) (2004 Advance Notice) at AR3895-97 (describing how CMS uses the model to “associate diseases categories with incremental costs”).³ Thus, the costs in a prior year of the “risk coefficients” in the traditional Medicare system are used to determine the costs of similar risk coefficients for Medicare Advantage beneficiaries. The underlying logic is that developing risk coefficients with data from traditional Medicare, and then adjusting a Medicare Advantage beneficiary’s risk score (and the payment to the Medicare Advantage insurer accordingly), will render the cost to CMS under traditional Medicare and the cost to the insurer under Medicare Advantage actuarially equivalent.

³ CMS publishes annual Advance Notices of changes to its risk-adjustment methodology for the coming year. See 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b).

In conducting these analyses, CMS relies entirely on the diagnosis codes submitted by healthcare providers under traditional Medicare. “[T]he risk adjustment model is built on unaudited [traditional Medicare] data . . . which must contain errors.” CMS Mot. at 37. Indeed, doctors treating traditional Medicare patients are paid based on their services and not the diagnosis codes they might submit to report why the patient saw the doctor. As UnitedHealth’s counsel explained at argument, physicians bill traditional Medicare by procedure, not diagnosis codes, so that “physicians are essentially indifferent to the diagnosis There’s no financial incentive to be particularly careful.” Hearing Tr. at 13. “[W]hat matters is the procedure they did.” Id. at 14; see also CMS Mot. at 7 (agreeing that traditional Medicare payments to doctors “depend only on the services . . . and not in any way on the diagnoses submitted”). Given this incentive scheme, it can be no surprise that diagnosis reports for Medicare Part B are considered much less reliable than hospital diagnosis reports for Part A. See CMS Mot. at 7 (noting “the quality of the Part B diagnosis data is generally understood to be inferior to the Part A diagnosis data”).

Medicare Advantage insurance companies bid annually after CMS issues notice of each county’s benchmark rate for the forthcoming year. See 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(1)(B). The insurers are paid on a per-capita basis for each covered individual, including applicable risk scores. As a result, a Medicare Advantage insurer undertakes to provide insurance coverage at least identical to Medicare at annual fixed rates even though the health care needs of the covered populations, mostly the elderly, vary greatly.

Humans being human, diagnoses in healthcare records may be miscoded, inappropriately added, or otherwise faulty by accident or mal intent. UnitedHealth suggests that the error rate can be as high as 20%. See Compl. [Dkt. 1] ¶ 38; see also Hearing Tr. at 28. In the past, neither CMS nor the insurers made efforts to review proactively the diagnosis codes assigned by healthcare providers. Indeed, as stated above, CMS treats diagnosis codes as categorically valid for its own purposes under traditional Medicare, including for setting rates for Medicare Advantage. Nonetheless, CMS has long required Medicare Advantage insurers to certify “based on best knowledge, information and belief” that the information they provide to CMS, including all diagnosis codes, is “accurate, complete, and truthful.” 42 C.F.R.

§ 422.504(l)(2). CMS contends that this pre-existing regulation, and other existing agency practices, have long required that diagnosis codes submitted by Medical Advantage insurers be supported by underlying medical records (i.e., patient medical charts). UnitedHealth responds that neither this pre-existing regulation, nor any other law or regulation, has previously obligated the insurance companies who provide Medicare Advantage insurance to validate independently the underlying medical records that support diagnosis codes submitted by health care providers.

For more than a decade, CMS has conducted audits of a subsection of insurers in the Medicare Advantage program, through which it has compared the diagnosis codes in bills paid by the insurance companies to the underlying patient medical charts and records, which it requires the insurers to obtain for this purpose. It has then required repayment to CMS of any costs that were based on unsupported diagnosis codes. In 2008, CMS announced that it would begin applying these “Risk Adjustment Data Validation (RADV)” audits to extrapolate the error rate in the audited sample across an entire insurance contract.⁴ The insurer would be responsible for returning any overpayment to CMS, based on the extrapolated error rate.

⁴ See Policy and Technical Changes to Parts C and D, 74 Fed. Reg. 54,634, 54,674 (Oct. 22, 2009) (2009 Proposed RADV Rule) at AR2409 (summarizing the history of the RADV audit program); Policy and Technical Changes to Parts C and D, 75 Fed. Reg. 19,678, 19,742-53 (Apr. 15, 2010) (2010 RADV Rule) at AR2819; Medicare Advantage Risk Adjustment Data

When CMS sought comments on its new methodology for conducting RADV audits, Medicare Advantage insurers immediately protested that the rates paid for each diagnosis code are based on traditional Medicare records that are not audited or verified in any way; requiring repayment of all amounts seemingly “overpaid” to a Medicare Advantage insurer based on audited records would ignore errors in CMS records and violate the statutory requirement of actuarial equivalence.⁵

This argument ventures deep into the weeds of actuarial science but is not actually disputed by the parties. Nor could CMS really debate it: as a result of the comments it received, CMS adopted a “Fee-for-Service Adjuster” or “FFS Adjuster” to the results of RADV audits of Medicare Advantage insurance contracts. The FFS Adjuster reflects CMS’s own estimate of the error rate in risk factors and diagnosis codes submitted by healthcare providers and paid by CMS for its traditional Medicare participants; applied to the results of a RADV audit of a Medicare Advantage insurer, it is designed to achieve actuarial equivalence between the two. Thus, Medicare Advantage providers must return to CMS any audited “overpayments” to the extent that the insurer’s errors exceed the estimated error rate in CMS payments under traditional Medicare. See Notice of Final Payment Error Calculation Methodology for Part C Medicare Advantage Risk Adjustment Data Validation Contract-Level Audits (Feb. 24, 2012) (RADV Final Methodology) at AR5311-15.

UnitedHealth asserts that the 2012 FFS Adjuster works to counteract the fact that per-capita payments to Medicare Advantage insurers are based on a less precise set of data—belonging to CMS—than that which is reviewed during an audit. Their argument, and CMS’s eventual concurrence, are supported by the American Academy of Actuaries, which strongly advised CMS that it was not actuarially sound to compare unaudited figures to calculate per-capita payments and then audited figures to calculate overpayments. See Academy of Actuaries Comment at AR5236 (“This type of data inconsistency not only creates uncertainty, it also may create systematic underpayment, undermining the purpose of the risk-adjustment system and potentially resulting in payment inequities.”).

The passage of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (ACA), Pub. L. No. 111-148, 124 Stat. 119 (2010), is also directly relevant here. The ACA imposed an obligation on Medicare Advantage insurers to report and return any overpayments that an insurer discovers on its own. See 42 U.S.C. § 1320a-7k(d)(1) (2012). This section of the ACA defined “overpayment” as “any funds that a person receives or retains under [Medicare Advantage] to which the person, after applicable reconciliation, is not entitled.” Id. § 1320a-7k(d)(4)(B). The law further required that any “overpayment . . . be reported and returned [within] 60 days after the date on which the overpayment was identified.” Id. § 1320a-7k(d)(2). If an insurer in the Medicare Advantage program fails to return such a discovered overpayment within 60 days of identifying it, that failure renders the insurer’s initial but faulty claim for payment a violation of the False Claims Act (FCA). Id. § 1320a-7k(d)(3) (“Any overpayment retained by a person after the deadline for reporting and returning the overpayment . . . is an obligation (as defined in section 3729 (b)(3) of title 31) for purposes of section 3729 of such title.”); cf. False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3729(b)(3). Claims for overpayments under the False Claims Act carry the potential for treble damages, civil penalties, and debarment from Medicare. See 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(G) (providing for civil penalties and treble damages); 42 C.F.R. § 424.535(a) (describing grounds for revocation of enrollment in the Medicare program). Further, non-government qui tam plaintiffs may bring FCA claims in federal court. See 31 U.S.C. § 3730(b).

The Affordable Care Act established a basic statutory framework but left several crucial terms undefined. It did not define at what point an insurer might be said to have “identified” an overpayment, thus triggering the 60-day clock; nor did it outline the scope of “applicable reconciliation” or state how “overpayments” and “actuarial equivalence” in payments are related.

We come to the 2014 Final Rule at issue here. CMS issued a notice of proposed rulemaking in January 2014 and sought comments.⁶ CMS proposed to “clarify the statutory definition of overpayment” with a new regulation titled “Reporting and Returning Overpayments,” to be codified at 42 C.F.R. § 422.326. See 79 Fed. Reg. at 1996, 2055-56 (June 29, 2000) (AR80 at AR139-40).

CMS published its Final Rule on May 23, 2014, and in so doing finalized 42 C.F.R. § 422.326 concerning overpayments.⁷ Under the 2014 Overpayment Rule, any diagnostic code that is inadequately documented in a patient’s medical chart results in an “overpayment.” Id. at 29,921 (AR1313). Further, an overpayment is “identified” whenever a Medicare Advantage insurer determines, “or should have determined through the exercise of reasonable diligence,” that it had received an overpayment. Id. at 29,923 (AR1315). CMS further defined reasonable diligence as requiring “at a minimum . . . proactive compliance activities conducted in good faith by qualified individuals to monitor for the receipt of overpayments.” Id.

UnitedHealth alleges that these obligations apply a simple negligence standard for purposes of False Claims Act liability, which is contrary to the standards in the False Claims Act itself. See 31 U.S.C. § 3729(b)(1) (defining “knowing” and “knowingly” to include “actual knowledge,” “deliberate ignorance,” or “reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information”). At oral argument, CMS essentially conceded that the 2014 Overpayment Rule imposed a negligence standard with a purported False Claims Act enforcement mechanism:

The Court: It’s a negligence standard, knew or should have known?

[Defense Counsel]: [T]he rule does interpret the statutory language identified to mean not only literally knew about the overpayment, but also if you for instance have an entirely deficient compliance program and that is the reason, and your failure to have the appropriate compliance program is the reason you didn’t learn of an overpayment that you should have learned of, then we will also begin the clock on that

The Court: The definition of identified doesn’t mean knew, it means knew or with reasonable diligence should have known or maybe didn’t care to look.

[Counsel]: Yes, your Honor.

The Court: That’s all negligence.

[Counsel]: It bears some similarities to negligence, your Honor.

The Court: Right. So it’s not a knowledge based thing?

[Counsel]: Not as it has been interpreted in the overpayment rule.

Hearing Tr. at 34-36.

Most critically for the present challenge, the 2014 Overpayment Rule did not adopt something like an “FFS Adjuster” to recognize that the sources of data are not compatible, i.e., unaudited traditional Medicare records to determine payments to Medicare Advantage insurers and audited medical charts to determine overpayments. UnitedHealth argues that the 2014 Overpayment Rule thus fails to ensure “actuarial equivalence” between CMS’s own costs and what CMS pays Medicare Advantage insurers to provide the same coverage. Rather, it subjects the insurers to a more searching form of scrutiny than CMS applies to its own enrollee data, thus resulting in a false appearance of better health among Medicare Advantage beneficiaries compared to traditional Medicare participants and systemic underpayments for healthcare costs to Medicare Advantage insurers. UnitedHealth also argues that the “negligence” standard of liability imposed by the 2014 Overpayment Rule constitutes an unlawful departure from the standard for liability under the False Claims Act.

The original Complaint in this matter was filed January 29, 2016, and CMS filed a motion to dismiss, which the Court denied on March 31, 2017. See 3/31/2017 Order [Dkt. 26]; Mem. Op. [Dkt. 25]. The parties proceeded to summary judgment briefing. Defendants filed the Administrative Record on July 14, 2017, see Notice of Filing and Serv. of Admin. Record [Dkt. 40], and UnitedHealth moved to supplement it. See Mot. for Leave to File Suppl. to the Admin. Record [Dkt. 44]. After full briefing, the Court granted the motion to supplement with two documents related to the FFS Adjuster for RADV Audits, see Mem. Op. [Dkt. 68]; 8/1/18 Order [Dkt. 69]; the parties filed a joint appendix to the administrative record including the additional documents. See Notice of Submission of Suppl. Joint Appx. Summary judgment is now fully briefed,⁸ with the addition of a brief amicus curiae in support of Plaintiffs, without objection from CMS, by America's Health Insurance Plans. See Amicus Brief [Dkt. 62]. The Court heard oral argument from the parties on August 8, 2018. See Hearing Tr.

III. LEGAL STANDARD

Summary judgment is available when “the movant shows that there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact and the movant is entitled to judgment as a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). A fact is material if it is capable of affecting the outcome of litigation. Anderson v. Liberty Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 247-48 (1986). A dispute is genuine if the evidence is such that a reasonable jury could return a verdict for the non-moving party. Id.

Summary judgment is the proper stage for determining whether, as a matter of law, an agency action is supported by the administrative record and is consistent with the Administrative Procedure Act (APA). Richards v. INS, 554 F.2d 1173, 1177 (D.C. Cir. 1977). The APA provides that “[t]he reviewing court shall . . . hold unlawful and set aside agency action” that is “arbitrary, capricious, an abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law,” or that is “in excess of statutory jurisdiction, authority, or limitations, or short of statutory right.” 5 U.S.C. §706(2)(A), (C). Arbitrary and capricious review is “narrow.” Citizens to Preserve Overton Park, Inc. v. Volpe, 401 U.S. 402, 416 (1971). The Court is not to “substitute its judgment for that of the agency.” Motor Vehicle Mfrs. Ass’n of U.S., Inc. v. State Farm Mut. Auto. Ins. Co., 463 U.S. 29, 43 (1983). Rather, the Court must determine whether the agency “examine[d] the relevant data and articulate[d] a satisfactory explanation for its action, including a ‘rational connection between the facts found and the choice made.’” Id. (quoting Burlington Truck Lines v. United States, 371 U.S. 156, 168 (1962)). The Court’s review is limited to the administrative record, Holy Land Found. For Relief and Dev. v. Ashcroft, 333 F.3d 156, 160 (D.C. Cir. 2003), and the party challenging an agency’s action bears the burden of proof, City of Olmsted Falls v. FAA, 292 F.3d 261, 271 (D.C. Cir. 2002).

III. ANALYSIS

A. Statutory Requirement of “Actuarial Equivalence”

The statutory provision at issue states that “the Secretary shall adjust the payment amount” of fixed monthly payments to Medicare Advantage insurers “for such risk factors as age, disability status, gender, institutional status, and such other factors as the Secretary determines to be appropriate, including adjustment for health status . . . so as to ensure actuarial equivalence.” 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i). A traditional rule of statutory interpretation renders the use of “shall” a mandatory obligation. See Anglers Conserv. Network v. Pritzker, 809 F.3d 664, 671 (D.C. Cir. 2016) (citing Antonin Scalia & Bryan A. Garner, READING LAW: THE INTERPRETATION OF LEGAL TEXTS 112 (2012)).

UnitedHealth argues that the 2014 Overpayment Rule violates the statutory mandate of “actuarial equivalence.” CMS responds that Medicare Advantage insurers are paid “a sum equal to the cost that CMS would expect to bear in providing traditional Medicare benefits to a given beneficiary” and there is thus “equivalence between an expected cost, on the one hand, and a known payment, on the other.” CMS Mot. at 36.

In its briefs, CMS fails adequately to address the actuarial problem posed by the 2014 Overpayment Rule because of the different data sources on which it rests; the same actuarial problem was recognized and mitigated by CMS in 2012 with the FFS Adjuster for RADV audits but, surprisingly, omitted in 2014. The record is clear that payments for care under traditional Medicare and Medicare Advantage are both set annually based on costs from unaudited traditional Medicare records, but the 2014 Overpayment Rule systemically devalues payments to Medicare Advantage insurers by measuring “overpayments” based on audited patient records. This distinction makes an actuarial difference.

In plain English, doctors treating patients under traditional Medicare bill CMS by the procedure involved and not by diagnosis code(s). While the doctors are required to enter diagnosis codes, that information is irrelevant to payment. As far as the record reveals, the diagnosis codes in traditional Medicare are never verified because they do not matter to payment. “[T]he risk adjustment model is built on unaudited data about traditional, fee-for-service Medicare beneficiaries, which must contain errors.” CMS Mot. at 37. However, those very same diagnosis codes are presumed to have been accurate when CMS inputs all the data concerning beneficiaries of traditional Medicare into its regression model, which ultimately computes a value for each diagnosis. In consequence, the rates at which CMS pays Medicare Advantage insurers are based on flawed data across the millions of people in traditional Medicare. Yet the 2014 Overpayment Rule ignores those flaws when defining an “overpayment.”

It is critical to appreciate that CMS does not claim that it audits traditional Medicare patient records; to the contrary, it accepts their diagnosis codes as given. See CMS Mot. at 7 (agreeing that traditional Medicare payments to doctors “depend only on the services . . . and not in any way on the diagnoses submitted”). It is also critical to appreciate that CMS does not show more errors or fraud in the charts of Medicare Advantage beneficiaries than in the charts of traditional Medicare beneficiaries. But the effect of the 2014 Overpayment Rule, without some kind of adjustment, is that Medicare Advantage insurers will be paid less to provide the same healthcare coverage to their beneficiaries than CMS itself pays for comparable patients. This inequity is inevitable because CMS sets Medicare Advantage rates based on costs that are presumed, based on traditional Medicare diagnosis codes, to be associated with particular health status information that is not verified in underlying patient records. The same unverified diagnosis is, under the 2014 Overpayment Rule, treated as an overpayment that must be repaid, thus reducing the reimbursement to a Medicare Advantage insurer while requiring no such reduction in payment under traditional Medicare. Similarly auditing CMS records for errors or fraud could resolve the difference, if the audits were timely and if CMS were able to construct a legitimate program to carry out such audits. See Hearing Tr. at 26 (Plaintiffs' counsel explaining that CMS data is not audited prior to determining risk coefficients). This statement is not made to denigrate CMS but to recognize the difficulty involved.

Neither party cites, and the Court has not located, any case in which a court has defined the precise meaning of "actuarial equivalence" as used in 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i). Congress used the same language in the Employee Retirement Income Security Act (ERISA), 29 U.S.C. § 1054(b)((1)(H)(iii)(I), (c)(3); and the D.C. Circuit has construed its meaning in that context. In Stephens v. U.S. Airways Grp., Inc., 644 F.3d 437 (D.C. Cir. 2011), the Circuit "assume[d]" that "Congress intended that term of art to have its established meaning," that "[t]wo modes of payment are actuarially equivalent when their present values are equal under a given set of actuarial assumptions." Id. at 440 (emphasis added). The Seventh Circuit has found that ERISA requires "actuarial equivalence between a lump sum and an accrued pension benefit," and determined that this comparison was comparable to equivalence

“between a present and a future value.” Berger v. Xerox Corp. Ret. Income Guar. Plan, 338 F.3d 755, 759 (7th Cir. 2003).

The term also appears in the Medicare Part D statute, which provides that certain prescription-drug coverage is subject to an “actuarial equivalence requirement” that is described in implementing regulations as “a state of equivalent value demonstrated through the use of generally accepted actuarial principles and in accordance with . . . CMS actuarial guidelines.” 42 C.F.R. § 423.4; see also 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-113(b)(5). According to CMS, the Medicare Part D provision requires “actuarial equivalence to compare the expected value [of covered prescription drugs] to the beneficiary (or, seen differently, the expected cost to the insurer) of different benefit plans.” CMS Mot. at 29.

Based on these references to actuarial equivalence, CMS argues that the term “means to equate either an expected value with a known value (as in the case of an annuity and a lump sum payment) or two expected values (as in the case of benefit plans).” Id. at 30. In particular, CMS insists that the risk adjustment model for determining Medicare Advantage payment rates for each diagnostic code results in actuarial equivalence between the per capita payments to the insurers and payments for services by traditional Medicare. In this argument, CMS happily ignores the requirements of the 2014 Overpayment Rule that an insurer repay within 60 days any overpayment, no matter its degree, about which it knew or “should have determined through the exercise of reasonable diligence.” 42 C.F.R. § 422.326(c).

Of particular assistance here, the D.C. Circuit specifically noted that two figures are actuarially equivalent only when they share “a given set of actuarial assumptions.” Stephens, 644 F.3d at 440. In the Stephens context and here, this Court interprets “given” to mean “the same,” as in two figures are actuarially equivalent when they share the same set of actuarial assumptions. Different assumptions behind the elements of a calculation would, necessarily, result in actuarially non-equivalent results.

CMS is the insurer for traditional Medicare. Under the 2014 Overpayment Rule, however, the “expected cost” to the government insurer for traditional Medicare, i.e., CMS, would be less than the “expected cost” to a private insurance company offering Medicare Advantage coverage. The problem would immediately arise when a Medicare Advantage insurer found its payments from CMS lower than traditional Medicare payments for comparable patients, due to reductions for any “overpayments” as defined by the 2014 Overpayment Rule. The use of unaudited CMS data, with its known and unknown errors, to set the rates by which Medicare Advantage insurers are paid and then the use of audited data to define “overpayments” will lead to this result. See Academy of Actuaries Comment at AR5235 (“An underlying principle of risk-adjustment systems is that there needs to be consistency in the way the model was developed and how it is used. The [model’s] risk-adjustment factors were developed with FFS data that, to the best of our knowledge, were not validated or audited for accuracy.”).

RADV audits, of course, are conducted for the same purpose as the 2014 Overpayment Rule: to identify those claims for medical care that are not supported by medical diagnoses. In the context of an RADV audit, a contract-wide “error rate” is extrapolated from a sample and extended to an entire contract; a Medicare Advantage insurer may be required to return monies to CMS based on the extrapolated error rate. In that context, CMS heeded the advice of actuaries and adopted the FFS Adjuster to achieve actuarial equivalence between Medicare Advantage and traditional Medicare. Under an RADV audit, therefore, an “overpayment” is shown when, and only when, the error rate for a Medicare Advantage contract is greater than the CMS error rate. See RADV Final Methodology at AR5314 (“[T]o determine the final payment recovery amount, CMS will apply a Fee-for-Service Adjuster . . . as an offset to the preliminary recovery amount.”).

The base rate for the “average Medicare beneficiary” and specific rates for diagnosis codes are determined using unverified CMS data. From this uncontested fact, UnitedHealth argues that relying on audited data to identify alleged overpayments to Medicare Advantage insurers is actuarially unsound and violates the statute. It contends that the statutory mandate of actuarial equivalence requires CMS to use the “same methodology” for each. See 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(4)(D). According to the argument, CMS cannot subject the diagnosis codes underlying Medicare Advantage payments to a different level of scrutiny than it applies to its own payments under traditional Medicare without impermissibly skewing the calculus: by doing so, it ensures that there will not be actuarial equivalence between traditional Medicare payments and Medicare Advantage payments for comparable patients.

CMS fails to respond adequately. The agency has been explicit that the 2014 Overpayment Rule requires “proactive compliance activities” and other measures to ensure that overpayments, defined as any unsupported diagnosis, are identified and repaid promptly. 79 Fed. Reg. at 29,923 (AR1315). Given its definitions and this proactive obligation, the “expected” value of payments from CMS for healthcare costs under Medicare Advantage plans will be lower than the “expected” payments CMS itself will make under traditional Medicare, since CMS does not audit or engage in similar self-examination for accuracy of its own records. The consequence is inevitable: while CMS pays for all diagnostic codes, erroneous or not, submitted to traditional Medicare, it will pay less for Medicare Advantage coverage because essentially no errors would be reimbursed. See Academy of Actuaries Comment at AR5235.

The Court finds that the 2014 Overpayment Rule establishes a system where “actuarial equivalence” cannot be achieved.

B. Statutory Requirement of “Same Methodology”

UnitedHealth argues that the 2014 Overpayment Rule violates other statutory requirements as well. In computing expenditures for traditional Medicare (information that determines patient risk scores and Medicare Advantage payment rates), CMS must “us[e] the same methodology as is expected to be applied in making payments” to Medicare Advantage plans. 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(4)(D). UnitedHealth insists that CMS fails to comply with this mandate because the “methodology” applied in “making payments” to the insurers involves reconciliation based strictly on audited diagnosis codes for Medicare Advantage patients, in sharp contrast to unverified diagnosis codes for traditional Medicare patients from which payment rates were set. The argument also raises the question of the meaning of “applicable reconciliation” contemplated by the statute. Id. § 1320a-7k(d)(4)(B). The logic of the earlier discussion of “actuarial equivalence” commands the results here.⁹

For present purposes, the fly in the ointment is that CMS recognized the actuarial need to apply an FFS Adjuster to the RADV audit program because of its failure, as proposed, to maintain actuarial equivalence in payments between traditional Medicare and Medicare Advantage but CMS refused to maintain such actuarial equivalence in the 2014 Overpayment Rule. Yet without some adjustment, the entire Rule would fail. Whether analyzed as a direct question of the statutory requirement of actuarial equivalence or an indirect question of the requirements of explicit statutory language concerning “same methodology,” the result is the same: the 2014 Overpayment Rule fails to recognize a crucial data mismatch and, without correction, it fails to satisfy 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(4)(D).

⁹ The parties argue about the validity of CMS risk factors and risk scores, which, as stated, form the basis for (unaudited) CMS payments to traditional Medicare beneficiaries and payments to Medicare Advantage plans (subject to RADV audits and to the 2014 Overpayment Rule). Going back to these basics and redefining all the risk factors and all the diagnostic codes to account, within that structure, for actuarial equivalence may be the preferred approach but the very heart quakes at the thought, if one or more actuarially-sound “adjusters” might resolve the obvious dissonance in the 2014 Overpayment Rule.

C. Arbitrary and Capricious

It is established law that an agency must provide a legitimate reason for departing from or rejecting a previous rule. See Motor Vehicle Mfrs. Ass’n of U.S., Inc. v. State Farm Mutual Auto. Ins. Co., 463 U.S. 29, 42 (1983). This principle also applies to changes to an agency’s policy. See Nat’l Cable & Telecomms. Ass’n v. Brand X Internet Servs., 545 U.S. 967, 1001 (2005) (“[T]he Commission is free within the limits of reasoned interpretation to change course if it adequately justifies the change.”) (emphasis added). UnitedHealth complains that the 2014 Overpayment Rule departs from prior CMS policies and pronouncements without rationale or justification and is therefore arbitrary and capricious. It identifies four categories of prior statements by CMS that arguably established an agency position that is contrary to the 2014 Overpayment Rule.

The first, most recent, and most apt is the stated rationale on which CMS ultimately included the FFS Adjuster in the RADV audit process, as explained in the official notice of the methodology CMS would use to extrapolate payment errors to a contract-wide error rate. See RADV Final Methodology at AR5311-15. After notice and comment on the proposed audit process, including from the American Academy of Actuaries, CMS explained:

CMS will apply a Fee-for-Service Adjuster (FFS Adjuster) amount as an offset to the preliminary recovery amount. . . . The FFS adjuster accounts for the fact that the documentation standard used in RADV audits to determine a contract’s payment error (medical records) is different from the documentation standard used to develop the [MA] risk-adjustment model (FFS claims). The actual amount of the adjuster will be calculated by CMS based on a RADV-like review of records submitted to support FFS claims data.

RADV Final Methodology at AR5314-15 (emphasis added). 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(4)(D).

(At oral argument, counsel for CMS stated that the anticipated audit, whose goal is to “publish[] a finalized FFS adjuster,” is not concluded. See Hearing Tr. at 31-32.) UnitedHealth urges the Court to find that this CMS explanation of the need for an FFS Adjuster for audits, due to the different data sources from which pay rates and error rates are determined, is a singular and strong demonstration of the inadequacies of the 2014 Overpayment Rule, which is based on the same dissimilar data sources but lacks such an adjustment.

Second, UnitedHealth points to two notices from CMS that recognized the differences in data for traditional Medicare and Medicare Advantage healthcare coverage. It notes the CMS rationale for applying a “Coding Intensity Adjustment” to Medicare Advantage insurers. Medicare Advantage plans contain more diagnosis codes than does traditional Medicare, which could lead to overpayments relative to traditional Medicare costs for the same patient. CMS implemented a Coding Intensity Adjustment to adjust for the higher prevalence of diagnosis codes in Medicare Advantage plans. When it did so, CMS emphasized that it was concerned about the imbalance in the number of diagnosis codes between traditional Medicare and Medicare Advantage and not “improper coding.” Advance Notice of Methodological Changes for CY 2009 Parts C and D Rates and Policies (Feb. 22, 2008) (2009 Advance Notice) at AR4231 (“We do not assume that the coding pattern differences that we found in our study are the result of improper coding. . . . However, because MA coding patterns differ from FFS coding patterns, the normalization factor (which is calculated based on FFS coding) does not currently adjust for these different coding patterns.”). In addition, UnitedHealth points to a CMS 2010 rate announcement for Medicare Advantage plans which recognized that because “MA payment methodology is based on fee-for-service payments” by traditional Medicare, such “plans must code the way Medicare Part A and B providers do in order for risk adjustments to be valid.” Announcement of CY 2010 Parts C and D Rates and Policies (Apr. 6, 2009) at AR4335.

Third, UnitedHealth argues that an Advance Notice for 2004 defined “diagnosis” as “keyed to the presence of a diagnosis code in the claims data,” which definition is contradicted by the 2014 Overpayment Rule that declares that a “diagnosis” must be supported by underlying medical charts. See 2004 Advance Notice at AR3903.

CMS dismisses these earlier statements as only “varied comments about the purpose of the coding difference adjuster, made in an effort to explain why insurers’ search for every supportable diagnosis would lead to overpayment.” CMS Mot. at 35. It insists that the agency “has always understood a certification of the ‘accuracy’ and ‘truthfulness’ of risk adjustment data to require that any reported diagnosis be substantiated” by underlying records. Id. at 35 (citing 42 C.F.R. § 422.31(d), (e)); see also 79 Fed. Reg. at 29,921-22 (AR1313-14).

The CMS argument does not misstate its regulations but misses the point. UnitedHealth does not contend that Medicare Advantage insurers should be permitted knowingly or recklessly to bill CMS for erroneous diagnosis codes. Instead, it argues that the Medicare statute requires CMS to pay for the healthcare of Medicare Advantage beneficiaries in the same manner, and by the same standards, by which CMS pays for traditional Medicare beneficiaries. That means, for the millions of Americans covered by Medicare and Medicare Advantage, that there are error rates; UnitedHealth argues that it should not be subject to lesser payments, False Claims Act liability, or debarment for errors over these huge populations that are fewer than those errors made by CMS itself.

CMS fails to address the central issue here. The question is whether the documents cited by UnitedHealth constitute an agency policy or position from which the 2014 Overpayment Rule deviated without a reasoned explanation. More specifically, UnitedHealth argues that the analysis in the RADV Final Methodology constituted an agency decision or policy that recognized the necessity of an FFS Adjuster-type procedure to account for discrepancies between the documentation for setting payments to Medicare Advantage insurers and that used for determining whether an “overpayment” had occurred. As to this argument, CMS is essentially silent.

Agency policies and practices may take many forms and still be sufficiently established so that any change in the policy must be explained. Republic Airline Inc. v. U.S. Dept. of Transp., 669 F.3d 296 (D.C. Cir. 2012), provides a good example. That case involved the transfer of “slot exemptions,” by which airlines operate out of high-traffic airports. Specifically, after a corporate acquisition, the new parent corporation planned to use an existing slot exemption exactly as it had been used before the acquisition took place. Because the corporate entity operating the flight had “ceased to exist as a carrier,” the Department of Transportation (DOT) decided that the new entity’s use of the predecessor’s slot exemption would constitute a transfer in violation of federal law. Id. at 301 (quoting DOT letter). In isolation, its reasoning was not illogical but the D.C. Circuit overruled it nonetheless. Since DOT had previously permitted slot exemptions to continue in use after similar corporate changes, its decision that Republic Air resulted in an impermissible “transfer” was found to be arbitrary and capricious. Id. at 300-02.

This Court comes to the same conclusion. Having recognized that actuarial equivalence, mandated by statute, required an FFS Adjuster for purposes of defining overpayments because of dissimilar data for RADV audits, CMS provides no legitimate reason for abandoning that statutory mandate in the context of the 2014 Overpayment Rule. The Court finds that CMS was arbitrary and capricious in adopting the 2014 Overpayment Rule without explaining its departure from prior policy.¹⁰

D. False Claims Act Liability

1. Negligence Standard

UnitedHealth further complains that the 2014 Overpayment Rule unlawfully imposes a negligence standard on Medicare Advantage insurers to identify and report “overpayments,” which is inconsistent with the standards of the False Claims Act to which it would otherwise align enforcement. CMS objects, contending that the standard adopted in the 2014 Overpayment Rule, including its requirement of “reasonable diligence,” is indistinguishable from the CMS 2000 Rule that required Medicare Advantage insurers to certify to the accuracy of risk adjustment data. See Medicare + Choice Program, 65 Fed. Reg. 40,170, 40,268 (June 29, 2000) (2000 Rule) (AR2006)). CMS insists that the 2014 Overpayment Rule only “prevents . . . willful ignorance (or reckless disregard), but no more.” CMS Mot. at 44.

Back to basics. The ACA requires that “[a]n overpayment must be reported and returned” within “60 days after the date on which the overpayment was identified.” 42 U.S.C.

§ 1320a-7k(d)(2). The 2014 Overpayment Rule provides: “The MA organization has identified an overpayment when the MA organization has determined, or should have determined through the exercise of reasonable diligence, that the MA organization has received an overpayment.” 42 C.F.R. § 422.326(c). In the preamble to the 2014 Overpayment Rule, CMS explained that such reasonable diligence “at a minimum . . . would include proactive compliance activities conducted in good faith by qualified individuals to monitor for the receipt of overpayments.” 79 Fed. Reg. at 29,923 (AR1315). Failure to do so could place a Medicare Advantage insurer at risk of liability under the False Claims Act.

In contrast, the False Claims Act—which the ACA refers to for enforcement, see 42 U.S.C. § 1320a-7k(d)(3)—imposes liability for erroneous (“false”) claims for payment submitted to the government that are submitted “knowingly.” “Knowingly” is a term of art defined in the FCA to include false information about which a person “has actual knowledge,” “acts in deliberate ignorance of the truth or falsity of the information,” or “acts in reckless disregard of the truth or falsity of the information.” 31 U.S.C. § 3729(b)(1)(A).¹¹ In summary, the FCA and the ACA require actual knowledge, deliberate ignorance, or reckless disregard before liability can be found. This, indeed, is the standard CMS itself once adopted: the preamble to the 2000 Rule required certification to the “best knowledge, information, and belief” of an insurer, with a sanction only in cases of “[a]ctual knowledge of falsity,” “reckless disregard,” or “deliberate ignorance.” See 2000 Rule, 65 Fed. Reg. at 40,268 (AR2006). The standard in the 2000 Rule (or the FCA or the ACA) is certainly not the standard in the 2014 Overpayment Rule, however much CMS might want to make it so.

“Congress clearly had no intention to turn the FCA, a law designed to punish and deter fraud, into a vehicle for either ‘punish[ing] honest mistakes or incorrect claims submitted through mere negligence’ or imposing ‘a burdensome obligation’ . . . rather than a ‘limited duty to inquire.’” United States v. Sci. Applications Int’l Corp., 626 F.3d 1257, 1274-75 (D.C. Cir. 2010) (quoting S. Rep. No. 99-345, at 6, 19 (1986)). With these proscriptions in mind, the 2014 Overpayment Rule extends far beyond the False Claims Act and, by extension, the Affordable Care Act. Not being Congress, CMS has no legislative authority to apply more stringent standards to impose FCA consequences through regulation.

2. Definition of “Identified”

UnitedHealth also notes that the proposal for the 2014 Overpayment Rule stated that a Medicare Advantage insurer would have “‘identified” an overpayment when “it has actual knowledge of the existence of the overpayment or acts in reckless disregard or deliberate ignorance of the existence of the overpayment.” 2014 Proposed Rule at 1997 (AR81). However, the final 2014 Overpayment Rule stated that a Medicare Advantage insurer would have “‘identified” an overpayment when “it has determined, or should have determined through the exercise of reasonable diligence, that the MA organization has received an overpayment.” 42 C.F.R. § 422.326(c). The proposed language was consistent with the 2000 Rule, the FCA and the ACA’s reference to the FCA. The CMS proposal intimated nothing about what Medicare Advantage insurers should have known, nor about “proactive compliance activities.” While CMS argues that there is no new requirement, its change of standards is obvious. Cf. 2000 Rule, 65 Fed. Reg. at 40,268 (AR2006) (providing for sanctions only if insurers certify information despite their “actual knowledge,” “reckless disregard,” or “deliberate ignorance” of its falsity).

A regulation “violates the APA, if it is not a ‘logical outgrowth’ of the agency’s proposed regulations.” Ass’n of Private Sector Colleges and Univs. v. Duncan, 681 F.3d 427, 442 (D.C. Cir. 2012). In such cases, the regulated parties must be afforded “an opportunity to comment on new regulations.” Id. “A final rule is a logical outgrowth if affected parties should have anticipated that the relevant modification was possible.” Allina Health Servs. v. Sebelius, 746 F.3d 1102, 1108 (D.C. Cir. 2014). In point of fact, regulated insurers apparently did not anticipate that CMS might ultimately define “identified” to include overpayments about which an insurer should have known because of “proactive compliance activities.” In the position of insurance companies that do not regularly see patient medical records, but only doctor bills, Medicare Advantage insurers argued that “identified” overpayments should be identified as ones that are “known” to the insurer. UnitedHealth draws attention to its own comment on the Proposed Rule argued that “an identified overpayment should be limited to actual knowledge of an overpayment.” UnitedHealth Group Comment (Mar. 7, 2014) at AR1040. Agencies may not “pull a surprise switcheroo on regulated entities” by adopting an interpretation that significantly departs from the one proposed. Env’tl. Integrity Project v. EPA, 425 F.3d 992, 996 (D.C. Cir. 2005). The Court agrees that CMS did so here, and that 2014 Overpayment Rule imposed a distinctly different and more burdensome definition of “identified” without adequate notice.

For the foregoing reasons, the Court will grant UnitedHealth's Motion for Summary Judgment, Dkt. 47; deny CMS's Cross-Motion for Summary Judgment, Dkt. 57; and vacate the 2014 Overpayment Rule. A memorializing Order accompanies this Opinion.

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 The government's motion for partial summary judgment is flawed for many 3 reasons. It is procedurally improper because it does not seek judgment—partial or 4 otherwise—and instead seeks a kind of “issue resolution” that Rule 56 prohibits. It
5 is premature because it asks this Court to resolve a question now, based on limited 6 evidence, that depends heavily on ambiguous pronouncements (requiring further 7 extrinsic evidence) and disputed facts (requiring further discovery). It proposes a 8 rule that is unsupported by the regulations, contractual provisions, and sub-9 regulatory guidance on which it relies, and it requests relief that would be contrary 10 to a controlling federal statute. Its real purpose is to prevent further discovery of 11 facts that already have begun to show the Achilles' Heel of the government's 12 case. And ultimately it is pointless because that same discovery clearly will be 13 relevant to many other issues in this case no matter how the Court rules here. Each 14 of these reasons independently warrants denying the motion.

15 The motion is doomed at the very outset because, although styled as a 16 motion for partial summary judgment, it instead asks this Court to resolve a “legal 17 issue” that will not resolve any claim, or even any element of any claim, in this 18 case. Pls.' Mem. of P. & A. in Supp. of Pls.' Mot. for Partial Summ. J. at 1, ECF
19 No. 234-1 (“Mem.”). The motion thus seeks “an impermissible advisory opinion,” 20 Hanks v. Briad Rest. Grp., L.L.C., No. 2:14-cv-00786-GMN-PAL, 2015 WL
21 770422, at *7 (D. Nev. Feb. 24, 2015), and is “entirely inappropriate under any 22 provision of Rule 56.” Powers v. Emcon Assocs., No. 14-cv-03006-KMT, 2017
23 WL 4102752, at *2 (D. Colo. Sept. 14, 2017).

24 Like the government's Motion to Strike Affirmative Defenses, this motion
25 also is a colossal waste of time. The government's stated purpose for moving now 26 is to avoid discovery into “actuarial equivalence.” Having just begun—finally—to 27 start producing discovery, the government has come to appreciate that documents
28 and testimony from within the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services

1 (“CMS”) about that precise issue will undermine any suggestion that the conduct it
2 has targeted in this case was improper. Already, the limited evidence United has 3 obtained shows that CMS’s internal experts agree with United that (1) the key to 4 ensuring appropriate payments in the Medicare Advantage (or “MA”) program is 5 to draw accurate comparisons between MA beneficiaries and traditional Medicare 6 beneficiaries, and (2) determining whether a plan has been overpaid therefore 7 requires measuring actuarial risk in the two programs in the same way, or at least 8 accounting for any differences in the measurement method. And so rather than 9 bearing the risk that its case will unravel slowly through discovery, the government 10 has filed an extraordinary motion asking this Court to lay this central issue to rest 11 at the outset, on the theory that the government will then be able to withhold all of 12 that damaging—the government says (at 2) “burdensome”—evidence.

13 Even if avoiding discovery were a legitimate basis for filing a premature 14 motion like this one in a case of this magnitude, the government’s requested 15 declaration here would not actually produce that result. The same discovery into 16 the government’s rate of unsupported codes, the impact of those codes on the 17 calculation of United’s payments, and numerous other related issues all still would 18 be necessary even if the Court granted this motion, because that evidence clearly is 19 relevant to the elements of scienter and materiality, and to show that United did not 20 receive any overpayments and was not unjustly enriched.

21 Nor would a decision in the government’s favor streamline other aspects of 22 the case. Even if the Court agreed with the government’s contention (at 1) that 23 MA plans are required to delete every code they know is unsupported, that would 24 not meaningfully advance the government’s case, which rests primarily on the 25 notion that plans are required to delete unsupported codes they could possibly have 26 discovered were unsupported by auditing separate submissions by providers.
27 Those are very different things. Blind chart review by an MA plan based on the 28 inexact science of coding does not give the plan “knowledge” under the False

1 Claims Act (“FCA”) that other specific codes separately submitted by providers
2 who saw the actual patients are unsupported. Indeed, Jeffrey Grant, a senior CMS
3 official, testified in this case that—even from CMS’s perspective—a plan need 4 only delete a code if it has “specific” knowledge the code is unsupported, and that 5 there is nothing “improper” or “fraudulent” in a plan reviewing medical records to 6 look for unreported diagnoses without also looking to see whether previously 7 submitted codes were unsupported.

8 The government knows all of this. It knows there is a difference between 9 the question whether an MA plan must delete codes it knows are unsupported and 10 the question whether an MA plan must try to reconcile the results of its own chart
11 review with the codes separately submitted by doctors. It knows CMS proposed 12 and then withdrew a rule that would have required the latter for the first time, 13 prospectively, in 2014. It knows that United had conversations with senior CMS
14 officials confirming United’s understanding that the rules did not require the latter.
15 It knows that United confirmed that understanding in bids and contracts CMS 16 accepted for payment. And it knows that the only witness to testify for the 17 government to date on this issue agrees with United’s position. No wonder the 18 government seeks to avoid discovery on the issue at the heart of this case. But that 19 discovery will take place regardless of how the Court rules here.

20 The motion also is premature. Many legal ambiguities and factual disputes 21 preclude entry of summary judgment, especially at this early stage of the litigation.
22 The regulations, contracts, and sub-regulatory guidance on which the government 23 relies do not remotely impose the rule it requests. At most, the provisions are 24 ambiguous, which means that in interpreting them the Court should look to 25 extrinsic evidence about their meaning—evidence the government’s motion is 26 designed to keep from the Court.

27 The proposed rule the Government requests also is contrary to statute. As 28 United has argued in its Administrative Procedure Act (“APA”) challenge before

1 Judge Collyer, the Medicare Act mandates that CMS “shall . . . ensure actuarial
2 equivalence” when performing risk adjustment, 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i),
3 and that CMS “us[e] the same methodology” when calculating the risk that patients
4 present in both the MA and traditional Medicare programs, id. § 1395w-23(b)(4).
5 Requiring MA plans to delete every diagnosis code they determine was 6 unsupported or “should have known” was unsupported, without adjusting for the 7 presence of such codes in CMS’s own traditional Medicare data, would violate 8 both of those requirements.

9 The government’s attempts to excuse that violation are not persuasive. The 10 government asserts that the Medicare Act’s commands are “discretionary,” but 11 CMS has conceded that they are obligatory. The government also suggests that it 12 would “not [be] a defense to liability in this FCA action” to show that its proposed 13 rule is inconsistent with the Medicare Act. But that is directly contrary to what it
14 said to Judge Collyer, when it urged her to stay the APA case so that the “actuarial 15 equivalence” issue could be resolved as a defense in this case, with (it said then) 16 the “benefit [of] a full factual record.” Ex. 54, APA U.S. Mot. for Stay, at 7.¹ On 17 this issue the government’s representations to Judge Collyer were correct: CMS 18 expressly agreed in its contracts with MA plans both that it would comply with the 19 actuarial equivalence mandate when setting payments, and that in the event of any 20 conflict between the contract and the statute, the latter would prevail.

21 The government’s proposed answer to much of this is the Ninth Circuit’s
22 decision in United States ex rel. Swoben v. United Healthcare Ins. Co., 848 F.3d
23 1161, 1176 (9th Cir. 2016). But that case—in which all of the government’s 24 claims eventually were dismissed—did not even raise, let alone resolve, the 25 meaning of the Medicare Act’s mandate to “ensure actuarial equivalence” or the 26

27 ¹ In this brief, citations to “Ex.” materials refer to exhibits to the Declaration of 28 David J. Schindler filed herewith.

1 implications of that mandate for MA plans' risk adjustment data submissions. The 2 Ninth Circuit made clear that it was not addressing a reverse false claim theory,
3 that it was addressing only the narrow question of when a plan's affirmative risk
4 adjustment attestations might be rendered false, and that "[u]nder Swoben's theory 5 ... the false claims are the allegedly false § 422.504(I) certifications, not the 6 erroneously submitted diagnosis codes." Id. at 1183 (emphasis added). The Court
7 specifically noted that it was not deciding whether the allegedly false certification 8 caused "the government to pay out money or forfeit moneys due," which would be 9 central to any case alleging overpayments. Id. at 1173 & n.7. And here, the 10 government's false certification claims have been dismissed, and the only 11 remaining False Claims Act claim is precisely the same one the Ninth Circuit made 12 clear it was not deciding. Thus, as Judge Collyer put it when presented with a 13 similar argument, "Swoben is not the droid the [government] is looking for." Ex.
14 57, APA MTD Order, at 12.

15 Accordingly, the Court should deny the government's motion and allow the 16 case to continue in its normal course.

17 II. BACKGROUND

18 A. Medicare Advantage and the Risk Adjustment Process

19 This case concerns the MA program Congress created as an alternative to 20 traditional Medicare. See 42 U.S.C § 1395w-21 *et seq.*² In traditional Medicare, 21 CMS reimburses providers directly for the services they render to eligible 22 individuals. For this reason, traditional Medicare beneficiaries are often referred to 23 as fee-for-service ("FFS") beneficiaries. Under the MA program, by contrast, 24 private insurers like United create insurance plans ("MA plans") in which 25 Medicare-eligible individuals may choose to enroll. MA plans cover at least the 26

27 ² Some of the government's allegations also concern the Medicare Part D
28 program. United's arguments here apply equally to that program.

1 same benefits as traditional Medicare, and pay providers for their services. In 2 return, CMS makes fixed per-member per-month payments to MA plans—
3 effectively insurance premiums. See generally id. § 1395w-23. Those payments 4 are not made to cover care that patients already have received, but rather to 5 compensate plans for the risk they take on in agreeing to pay for future costs the 6 patients may incur while under the MA plans’ coverage.

7 It costs more to insure sicker beneficiaries or beneficiaries who are projected 8 to be sicker in the near future, of course, than to insure healthier beneficiaries. The 9 MA program addresses that through an annual risk adjustment process. Each year, 10 an MA plan agrees with CMS on the payment it will receive for providing benefits
11 to a Medicare “enrollee with a national average risk profile.” Id. § 1395w-
12 24(a)(6)(A); see also 42 C.F.R. § 422.254(b)(1). CMS then adjusts that payment 13 amount to reflect the level of risk posed by the MA plan’s actual beneficiaries. If 14 the MA plan’s beneficiaries are riskier than the average CMS beneficiary, the 15 plan’s payment amount will go up; if they are less risky, it will go down.

16 CMS uses an actuarial model—the “CMS-HCC,” or “Hierarchical Condition 17 Category,” model—to calculate those risk-based adjustments. See Compl. ¶ 63.
18 The model relies on diagnosis codes that CMS has found to be predictors of future 19 healthcare costs. See Ex. 58, 2014 Advance Notice, at AR4814-20 (listing the 20 included codes). To assess the predicted added costs associated with these 21 diagnosis codes, CMS analyzes the claims data of traditional FFS beneficiaries.
22 CMS identifies FFS beneficiaries with the diagnosis codes in a base year, 23 determines those beneficiaries’ actual healthcare costs the following year, and then 24 uses regression analysis to estimate how much the various diagnoses, as well as 25 demographic factors (such as age and sex), contribute to costs. Ex. 53, 2004
26 Advance Notice, at AR3895-96 & n.1. CMS then converts these estimates into a 27 numerical risk “coefficient” for each diagnosis code or demographic status. The 28 model is designed so that a beneficiary with average healthcare costs has a risk

1 score of 1.0, meaning that if you added up all of the risk coefficients associated 2 with her diagnosis codes and demographic status, the total would be 1.0.

3 Having established the value of the various risk coefficients based on the 4 FFS data, CMS then applies those same coefficients in the same way to MA
5 beneficiaries. Id. at AR3903. An MA plan submits “risk adjustment data” that 6 includes the diagnosis codes its beneficiaries received in a given year. CMS adds
7 up the corresponding risk coefficients to arrive at a total risk score for each
8 beneficiary. CMS then uses the risk scores to adjust the plan’s payments. An MA
9 beneficiary with a risk score of 2.00, for instance, would trigger an MA payment
10 that is twice the standard payment. As CMS has acknowledged, the Medicare Act 11 mandates that these adjustments ensure equivalence “between the average 12 payments that CMS would expect to make on behalf of a given beneficiary under 13 traditional, fee-for-service Medicare, and the payments made to Medicare
14 Advantage insurers for covering an individual with those same characteristics.”
15 Ex. 38, APA CMS Opening Br., at 8.

16 B. The Impact Of Diagnosis Coding Discrepancies On the Payment
17 Rates Calculated by CMS

18 In both traditional Medicare and MA, providers sometimes submit diagnosis 19 codes that do not correspond perfectly with patients’ medical charts. See, e.g., Ex.
20 15, Presentation from Division of Payment Validation, at CMS0005886 (CMS 21 presentation acknowledging that “In FFS Medicare, some portion of diagnoses on 22 FFS claims are not documented in medical records.”). When CMS calibrates its 23 risk adjustment model, however, it does not attempt to correct for those 24 discrepancies by auditing the FFS claims data to confirm that the diagnosis codes 25 are properly supported by charts. Instead, it assumes that every diagnosis code in 26 its FFS claims data represents an individual with the condition in question.

27 By design, therefore, the existence of beneficiaries whose provider assigned 28 them a particular diagnosis code but who do not actually have the associated

1 condition is built into the payment model. In other words, CMS's model assumes 2 that some of the diagnosis codes in the data will be unsupported. And because 3 beneficiaries who do not actually have a given condition obviously are unlikely to 4 incur healthcare costs associated with that condition, their inclusion reduces the 5 overall average, incremental risk coefficient the model calculates for that particular 6 diagnosis code. See, e.g., Ex. 7, Grant Dep. 231:11–15.

7 CMS's own Division of Payment Validation used an example to explain this 8 concept to senior CMS leaders in a presentation. The Division hypothesized a 9 scenario in which, when calibrating the CMS-HCC model, CMS identifies four 10 FFS beneficiaries with the diagnosis code for diabetes and determines that their 11 aggregate incremental healthcare costs the following year were $12,000. Ex. 15 at 12 CMS0005888. In that scenario, CMS would conclude that the average per-patient 13 cost associated with diabetes is $3,000, and would set the diabetes risk coefficient 14 accordingly. Id. But, the presentation explained, suppose further that one of these 15 diagnosis codes was a false positive; the beneficiary did not in fact have diabetes.
16 That means that the $12,000 was in reality attributable to just three beneficiaries,
17 such that the true per-patient cost of diabetes was actually $4,000 ($$12,000 \div 3$ 18 beneficiaries). Id. at CMS0005887-5888. By averaging the cost over the four 19 beneficiaries with the diagnosis code, rather than just the three beneficiaries who 20 actually have diabetes, CMS's model produces a lower risk coefficient than it
21 would have done if the diagnosis codes in the FFS data had been perfectly 22 accurate. As the CMS presentation put it, "Inclusion of undocumented diagnoses 23 [in the FFS data] tends to reduce risk adjustment values." Id. at CMS0005887.

24 The existence of FFS beneficiaries who have no costs associated with their 25 reported conditions will not necessarily make risk adjustment payments to MA 26 plans inaccurate, however. Suppose an MA plan also has four beneficiaries with 27 the diagnosis code for diabetes. Applying the risk coefficient derived from the 28 FFS data, CMS would pay the plan an incremental total of $12,000 ($$3,000 \times 4$)

1 for the diabetes diagnoses. If all four beneficiaries actually have diabetes, the 2 $12,000 would undercompensate the plan for its presumptive incremental costs,
3 which would be $16,000 ($4,000 per beneficiary who actually has diabetes). If 4 only two have diabetes, the payment will overcompensate the plan for its 5 presumptive incremental costs ($8,000). But if the proportion of beneficiaries
6 among the MA plan's population who do not have the condition is the same as in 7 the FFS population, such that three of the beneficiaries actually have diabetes, then 8 the total payment of $12,000 equals the plan's expected costs ($4,000 × 3). For 9 this reason, in determining whether a plan has received an overpayment, the 10 relative accuracy of diagnostic coding in FFS and MA claims is the key metric.

11 C. CMS Recognition Of The Need To Assess MA Plans' Diagnosis
12 Codes In Light Of The Codes Submitted In Traditional Medicare

13 Both Congress and CMS have acknowledged the importance of considering 14 the relative accuracy of MA and FFS diagnostic coding when assessing whether 15 MA plans have been paid appropriately. Two different aspects of the MA risk
16 adjustment process make this clear: (1) Congress's enactment and CMS's
17 implementation of a statutory "Coding Intensity Adjustment," and (2) CMS's 18 recognition of the need for an "FFS adjuster" as part of its audit procedures.

19 1. The Coding Intensity Adjustment

20 MA plans have an incentive "to find and report as many diagnoses as can be 21 supported by the medical record," which is referred to as coding with high 22 "intensity." Ex. 5, Richard Kronick & W. Pete Welch, Measuring Coding Intensity
23 in the Medicare Advantage Program, 4 Medicare & Medicaid Research Review, 24 No. 2, 2014, at E3-E4. MA plans therefore arrange for "chart reviews" to look for 25 diagnoses documented in their beneficiaries' charts that a provider failed to code.
26 By contrast, reimbursement under traditional Medicare generally is not tied to 27 diagnoses, so the incentive for comprehensive coding is weaker. See id. at E3.
28 This can lead to different coding patterns that can affect risk adjustment payments.

1 To see why, suppose that an MA plan's beneficiaries are identical to a 2 sample of FFS beneficiaries used to calibrate the risk adjustment model. Because 3 the two sets of beneficiaries have the same medical conditions, they have the same 4 expected future costs and should have the same risk scores. If, however, some 5 documented diagnoses were not coded for the FFS beneficiaries but were coded for 6 the MA beneficiaries, the MA beneficiaries will wind up with higher risk scores.
7 That is, even though the MA beneficiaries' diagnosis codes are perfectly accurate 8 in the absolute sense (i.e., are supported by the medical charts), because they are 9 more complete than those of their FFS counterparts, the MA plan will artificially 10 appear to have taken on more risk, and might therefore be overpaid.

11 For this reason, Medicare experts have recognized that "for the purposes of 12 creating an equitable MA payment system, the relevant question is whether MA 13 risk scores are systematically different than those risk scores would be in FFS, and 14 not which set of scores is more accurate" in an absolute sense. Id. at E4 (emphasis 15 added). Congress understands this, too, and in 2006 it instructed CMS to analyze 16 any "differences in coding patterns between Medicare Advantage plans and 17 providers under [traditional Medicare]." Ex. 22, Pub. L. No. 109-171, 18 § 5301(b)(2), 120 Stat. 4, 51 (2006) (emphasis added). Congress further said that, 19 "to ensure payment accuracy," CMS should adjust MA beneficiaries' risk scores in 20 light of those different coding patterns. Id.

21 In 2010, therefore, CMS began reducing MA plans' risk scores by a set 22 percentage each year in order to replicate the risk score-adjusted payments that it 23 calculated plans would have received if they had not engaged in activities such as 24 chart reviews. Ex. 1, 2010 Rate Announcement, at AR4334. In doing so, it 25 rejected commenters' argument that a downward adjustment would be appropriate
26 only if MA plans were submitting unsupported codes. CMS recognized that MA
27 plans might simply "be coding more completely than FFS," Ex. 21, 2009 Advance
28 Notice, at AR4231, and was careful to say that it had not concluded that MA plans

1 had engaged in any “improper coding,” id.; see also Ex. 1, 2010 Rate
2 Announcement, at AR4335. But even if none of a plan’s codes were “incorrect,” 3 the mere fact that the plan’s coding “differs from FFS” coding was enough to 4 require adjustment. Ex. 1, 2010 Rate Announcement, at AR4341. CMS explained
5 that, because the risk adjustment model is calibrated on FFS data,

6 MA plans must code the way Medicare Part A and B providers do in 7 order for risk adjustments to be valid. This means that MA
8 organizations are coding “accurately” when they are coding in a 9 manner similar to [FFS] coding used on the beneficiaries to whom 10 MA plan enrollees are being compared. In this sense, “differences” in coding patterns, regardless of the source, would make the MA plan coding “inaccurate” for purposes of implementing risk adjustment.

11 Id. at AR4335 (emphases added). CMS noted that several members of Congress 12 had expressly recognized this relative notion of accuracy. Senator Grassley, for 13 instance, had explained that the intensity adjustment provision was intended to 14 address “coding that is inaccurate or incomplete for the purpose of establishing risk
15 scores that are consistent across both fee-for-service and Medicare Advantage 16 settings, even if such coding is accurate or complete for other purposes.” Id. at 17 AR4336 (emphasis added) (quoting 152 Cong. Rec. 511 (2006)).

18 CMS has applied the Coding Intensity Adjustment in every year since 2010.
19 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(ii). It never has found that higher MA coding 20 intensity reflects the inclusion of codes unsupported by medical records; to the 21 contrary, it has said the data “fail[] to show a systematic correlation between 22 coding pattern differences and errors in the reporting of documented coding.” Ex.
23 1, 2010 Rate Announcement at AR4337. Nevertheless, each year CMS reduces by 24 a certain percentage the risk adjustment payments that an MA plan would 25 otherwise have received based on the diagnosis codes it had submitted, in order to 26 account for the MA plans’ more complete coding. CMS has insisted that “we 27 believe that our methodology results in an accurate measure of the coding 28 differential between FFS and MA.” Ex. 25, 2013 Rate Announcement, at AR4712.

1 2. *The RADV FFS Adjuster

2 CMS also acknowledges the importance of comparing coding in MA and 3 traditional Medicare through regulations on the “risk adjustment data validation”
4 (RADV) audits it uses to determine whether MA plans have been overpaid.

5 When it initiates a RADV audit, CMS selects a sample of an MA plan’s
6 enrollees, collects their medical records, and then assesses whether those records
7 support the enrollees’ diagnosis codes. Ex. 26, Final RADV Methodology, at 8 AR5312-13. Beginning in 2008, it became clear that in doing so, it was important 9 to account for the presence of unsupported codes not only in the audited plan’s 10 data, but also in CMS’s own FFS data. In that year, CMS announced that it would 11 start using its RADV audit findings to make “contract-level payment adjustments,” 12 meaning that it would extrapolate the results from the audited sample to all of a 13 plan’s enrollees, producing a payment adjustment for the plan’s entire MA 14 contract. MA plans objected, however, on the ground that the FFS data used to 15 calibrate the risk adjustment model contained coding discrepancies of its own, such 16 that MA payment amounts already accounted for the existence of some 17 unsupported codes (because they were lower than they would have been if CMS 18 had used only cost data from FFS beneficiaries who actually had the conditions in 19 question). See Ex. 18, 2010 RADV Rule, at AR2826. As the American Academy 20 of Actuaries later explained, CMS had developed risk coefficients “with FFS data 21 that . . . were not validated or audited for accuracy,” and it would therefore be 22 inappropriate to “apply those factors only to MA data that are validated.” Ex. 33, 23 Am. Academy of Actuaries Pub. Comments, at AR5235-36. Doing so, it said,
24 could result in “systematic underpayment.” Id. at AR5236.

25 In 2012, CMS acknowledged that the commenters were right. It agreed that 26 in determining any contract-level payment adjustments, it would apply a “FFS 27 adjuster.” Ex. 26, Final RADV Methodology, at AR5314. “The FFS adjuster,” 28 CMS explained, would “account[] for the fact that the documentation standard

1 used in RADV audits to determine [an MA] contract’s payment error (medical 2 records) is different from the documentation standard used to develop the Part C 3 risk-adjustment model (FFS claims).” Id. at AR5314-15. If the effect of the 4 unsupported codes in CMS’s data was greater than or equal to the effect of the 5 unsupported codes in the plan’s data, the audit would conclude with a finding that 6 there has been no overpayment such that “the final recovery amount is equal to 7 zero.” Id. at AR5314. CMS explained that the “amount of the adjuster” would “be 8 calculated by CMS based on a RADV-like review of records submitted to support
9 FFS claims data.” Id. at AR5315.

10 D. Administrative Challenges To The Government’s Current 11 Overpayment Theory

12 In 2014, in connection with CMS’s proposal of regulations about the 13 “Reporting and returning of overpayments,” multiple MA plans urged CMS to 14 make explicit in its overpayment regulation the point that it had already recognized
15 in its audit regulation: That “an overpayment cannot exist for an MA
16 organization’s particular contract unless CMS’s payments to the [plan] as a whole 17 are inaccurate in light of an appropriate Fee-for-Service Adjuster that is applied to 18 the entire contract.” Ex. 34, Pub. Comments of Humana, at AR907.

19 CMS refused. In its final rule (known as the “Overpayment Rule”), CMS
20 instead adopted an understanding more like the one that the Department of Justice 21 was developing in its then-sealed investigation of this case, under which “a risk 22 adjustment diagnosis that has been submitted for payment but is found to be 23 invalid because it does not have supporting medical record documentation would 24 result in an overpayment,” regardless of the unsupported codes in the agency’s
25 own FFS data. Ex. 36, Overpayment Rule, at AR1313 (emphasis added). CMS
26 made no attempt to reconcile that view with its prior recognition of the need for a 27 FFS adjuster when identifying overpayments through RADV audits. Instead, it 28 argued that MA plans’ contracts with CMS required them to “certify (based on best

1 knowledge, information, and belief) the accuracy, completeness, and truthfulness
2 of the risk adjustment data they submit to CMS.” Id. It also asserted that the 3 agency had a “long-standing risk adjustment data requirement that a diagnosis
4 submitted to CMS by an MA organization for payment purposes must be supported 5 by medical record documentation.” Ex. 36, Overpayment Rule, at AR1313-14.

6 United brought an APA suit challenging the Overpayment Rule in the U.S.
7 District Court for the District of Columbia. United has argued there that unless 8 CMS implements a mechanism to account for unsupported diagnosis codes in 9 CMS’s own FFS data, requiring MA plans to delete unsupported codes in their 10 provider-submitted data would violate CMS’s statutory obligation under 42 U.S.C.
11 § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i) to “ensure actuarial equivalence” between the MA and 12 traditional Medicare programs. See Ex. 37, APA United Opening Br., at 8. In 13 addition, United has argued that requiring deletions by MA plans without comparable 14 adjustments in the FFS data would violate CMS’s statutory obligation to “us[e] the 15 same methodology” when calculating risk scores of patients in the traditional 16 Medicare program that it “expect[s] to be applied in making payments” to MA plans.
17 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(4).

18 In response, CMS has argued that the Overpayment Rule does not present a 19 proper opportunity to litigate whether every unsupported code submitted by an MA
20 plan results in an overpayment and must therefore be deleted. See, e.g., Ex. 40, 21 APA CMS Reply Br., at 5-9. Relying on the same contractual, regulatory, and 22 sub-regulatory provisions the government has invoked here, CMS has argued there 23 that MA plans long have been required to delete all unsupported codes they 24 identified, and that the Overpayment Rule changed nothing. *Id.*³ United has

25 _____
26 ³ Although CMS continues to defend the Overpayment Rule in court, it is not 27 clear whether the agency in fact continues to have confidence that the position 28 articulated there is consistent with the requirements of the Medicare Act. As United explains elsewhere in this brief, discovery in connection with this case has already resulted in evidence that shows senior agency officials’ recognition that

1 argued in turn that the contracts, manuals, and regulations are at best ambiguous,
2 that they can and should be read in a manner consistent with CMS's adoption of a
3 FFS Adjuster, and that if they are not read that way—and instead read to require 4 deletion of all unsupported codes without any adjustment for the FFS data—then 5 those provisions would be just as unlawful as the Overpayment Rule itself. Ex. 39,
6 APA United Resp. Br., at 28-39.

7 The parties completed summary judgment briefing in February (totaling over 8 200 pages, including related motions and amicus filings), and Judge Collyer has 9 scheduled argument for August 8, 2018.

10 E. The Government's Motion For Partial Summary Judgment Here

11 Months after the close of the parties' briefing in the APA case, the 12 government filed its present motion for partial summary judgment in this Court.
13 See ECF No. 234. In it, the government asks for "partial summary judgment in 14 this case on the legal issue of whether defendants were required to delete diagnosis
15 codes they knew (as that term is used in the False Claims Act) were unsupported 16 by their beneficiaries' medical records." Mem. 1.

17 III. ARGUMENT

18 A. The Government's Motion Is Procedurally Improper

19 1. The Government's Motion Seeks An Improper Advisory Opinion

20 The first problem with the government's motion is that it does not actually 21 seek a partial summary judgment. As Wright & Miller explain, Rule 56 "adopts 22 the terminology 'Partial Summary Judgment' for cases in which summary 23 judgment is issued solely on liability." 10B Charles Alan Wright et al., Federal 24 Practice & Procedure § 2736 (4th ed. 2017) (hereinafter "Wright & Miller"). But 25 the government does not seek a judgment as to liability (or anything else). Instead, 26

27 requiring MA plans to delete substantial numbers of unsupported diagnosis codes 28 would result in those plans being underpaid unless adjustments were made for the presence of unsupported codes in CMS's own data. See, e.g., infra at 44-45.

1 it asks this Court to resolve a bare “legal issue,” Mem. 1, which even the 2 government does not contend will result in judgment on any claim or any element
3 of any claim. Such a motion is a request for “an impermissible advisory opinion.”
4 Hanks, 2015 WL 770422, at *7.

5 Rule 56(a) states that “[a] party may move for summary judgment, 6 identifying each claim or defense—or the part of each claim or defense—on which 7 summary judgment is sought.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(a). Under that rule, a party may 8 seek judgment on individual claims (or its entire case) “as a matter of law” if 9 “there is no genuine dispute as to any material fact.” Id. Or a party may seek 10 judgment as to some but not all of the claims in the case, such as in a case where 11 some claims are barred by the statute of limitations and others are not. See, e.g.,
12 Ely v. Sci. Applications Int’l Corp., 716 F. Supp. 2d 403, 409 (D. Md. 2010)
13 (granting partial summary judgement because some of plaintiff’s claims were time 14 barred). Or a party may seek judgment on liability, while reserving for trial the 15 question of damages (or vice versa). See, e.g., Wright & Miller, supra, § 2736.

16 The government does not seek any of those things. Instead, it asks this 17 Court to resolve a “legal issue” that might—depending on what facts the 18 government later proves—be relevant to one element of its claims, but that would 19 not itself produce a judgment for the government on any claim or even any element 20 in the case. Such a motion, which asks a court “to resolve only one issue relevant 21 to a plaintiff’s claims,” as opposed to “proffering a claim . . . upon which judgment
22 could be granted,” is “entirely inappropriate under any provision of Rule 56.”
23 Powers, 2017 WL 4102752, at *1.

24 Far from promoting the “just, speedy, and inexpensive” resolution of 25 litigation, entertaining such motions would “encourage[] wasteful motion work” in 26 which parties would ask the court to resolve independent legal issues one-by-one, 27 disconnected from any ultimate judgment. Cardenas v. KanCo Hay, L.L.C., No.
28 14-1067-SAC, 2016 WL 3881345, at *7 (D. Kan. July 18, 2016). Courts therefore

1 routinely reject such requests “to piecemeal and separately decide” non-dispositive
2 issues. Moses H. Cone Mem’l Hosp. Operating Corp. v. Conifer Physician Servs.,
3 No. 1:13CV651, 2017 WL 1378144, at *5 (M.D.N.C. Apr. 11, 2017).⁴

4 The government cites just one case for its contrary assertion that “[p]artial
5 summary judgment is appropriate to resolve purely legal questions.” Mem. 14
6 (citing In Re Pharm. Indus. Average Wholesale Price Litig., 460 F. Supp. 2d 277, 7 288 (D. Mass. 2006)). But there, the court did not just resolve a legal issue in the 8 abstract. Instead, the defendants argued that if they were right on the disputed 9 legal questions, then they were entitled to judgment on all of their claims. See 460
10 F. Supp. 2d at 288 (D. Mass. 2006). The court agreed with the defendants on some 11 of the legal questions but not others, and entered final judgment against the 12 plaintiffs’ claims for one year but not others. Id. The government does not even 13 suggest that it is entitled to such a judgment here.⁵

15 ⁴ See also, e.g., Hamer v. City of Trinidad, No. 16-cv-02545-NYW, 2017 WL
16 5969815, at *5 (D. Colo. Dec. 1, 2017) (rejecting a plaintiff’s partial summary 17 judgment claim because “[w]hile it would be dispositive had Defendant moved for 18 summary judgment on the basis that Mr. Hamer is not a qualified individual, an 19 affirmative finding in favor of Mr. Hamer that he is a qualified individual . . . is not 20 dispositive as to any entire claim before the court”); Cardenas, 2016 WL 3881345, 21 at *7 (“‘Judgment’ cannot be entered upon a finding of foreseeability or the other ‘elements’ of the claims upon which plaintiff moves for partial summary judgment.
Nor can the court enter judgment for plaintiff merely on a finding that KanCo owed a duty of care.”); Hanks, 2015 WL 770422, at *7; Home Design Servs. v.
Schroeder Constr., No. 09-cv-01437-WJM-GJR, 2012 WL 527202, at *1-2 (D.
Colo. Feb. 16, 2012) (rejecting a plaintiff’s motion “for summary judgment on only the first element of its [copyright] claim”).

22 ⁵ Elsewhere, the government describes Parra v. Wright, No. 11-CV-6270 CJS, 23 2013 WL 6669235, at *7-8 (W.D.N.Y. Dec. 18, 2013) as “granting pre-discovery 24 summary judgment . . . where ‘the legal principles are clear.’” Mem. 14. That 25 case does not support its request for partial summary judgment on a “legal issue,” 26 either. There, the defendants sought summary judgment on all of the plaintiffs’
27 claims. The court denied the defendants’ argument in part based on the principle 28 that “[o]nly in the rarest of cases may summary judgment be granted against a plaintiff who has not been afforded the opportunity to conduct discovery.” Parra, 2013 WL 6669235, at *7 (citation omitted). But on one set of claims, as to which it was plain that the plaintiff had not exhausted his administrative remedies and thus could not prevail as a matter of law, the court granted the defendants summary judgment. Id. Doing so resulted in a complete judgment on those claims, not just a legal opinion about an issue that might or might not later prove relevant.

1 The government’s reliance (at 14) on Wright & Miller fares no better. The 2 part of the treatise to which it points does not deal with partial summary judgment 3 motions at all, but rather with instances in which “the only issues to be decided in 4 the case are issues of law” because, for example, “the parties agree on the facts.”
5 10A Wright & Miller § 2725 (4th ed. 2017) (emphasis added). In such 6 circumstances, deciding the legal issues will provide final resolution of all claims,
7 and is thus appropriate. Id. But this is not such a case.

8 2. The Government is Seeking to Preempt Judge Collyer

9 The government’s motion is all the more inappropriate because it is so 10 plainly intended to hedge the government’s bets against a decision in the APA case
11 on similar issues. CMS, United, and America’s Health Insurance Plans (a trade 12 association participating in the case as an amicus) have filed more than 200 pages 13 of briefing in connection with the cross-motions for summary judgment in that 14 case, based on a 12,000-page administrative record. The briefing addressed not 15 only the statutory requirements of “actuarial equivalence” and “same 16 methodology,” but also the government’s contention that the Overpayment Rule 17 was merely a continuation of the very same regulations, contractual provisions, and 18 sub-regulatory guidance that it draws on in its motion here. See supra at 14-15
19 (discussing briefing). And a decision there is imminent, with argument scheduled
20 for August 8, 2018. As a result, denying the government’s motion as procedurally 21 inappropriate, and reserving resolution of the underlying merits issue for the close 22 of discovery, will enable this Court to consider not only a full factual record but 23 also a decision addressing similar issues in the APA case.⁶

25 ⁶ If Judge Collyer rules that CMS cannot require MA plans to delete all 26 unsupported diagnosis codes without making an adjustment for the presence of 27 such codes in CMS’s own FFS data, United likely would move for summary 28 judgment in this case, too, on that basis. Even if Judge Collyer resolve the merits of that issue against United, however, there will be numerous other defenses that the parties will need to brief at the close of discovery.

1 3. *Granting the Government's Motion Would Do Nothing To 2 Streamline This Case

3 In addition to being procedurally improper, the government's motion—like 4 its simultaneously filed Motion to Strike—also is a waste of judicial and party
5 resources. The only specific reason the government claims that granting this 6 motion now will promote efficiency is that it would avoid discovery into facts
7 relating to “actuarial equivalence.” Mem. 2, 15. But for many reasons, discovery
8 into the unsupported codes in the government's own data, the impact those codes 9 had on the calculation of United's payments, and related issues would all still be 10 necessary irrespective of the outcome of this motion.

11 For one thing, as with its Motion to Strike, the government's brief 12 completely ignores the remaining two common law claims. One of those claims is 13 for Unjust Enrichment. At their simplest, United's “actuarial equivalence” and 14 “same methodology” arguments are that because CMS's payment model utilizes 15 unaudited claims data that contain numerous unsupported codes, the resulting 16 payment amounts that CMS sets already account for the existence of unsupported 17 codes. Requiring plans to repay funds associated with unsupported codes, without 18 first determining whether the plan's rate of unsupported codes exceeds the rate 19 already implicit in the payment model, would thus confer an unfair windfall on the 20 government: the government would first have the benefit of lower payment rates 21 that reflect the inclusion of unsupported codes in the model, and then would lower 22 its payments a second time on the back end due to the presence within MA plan
23 data of the same unsupported codes that the model already factored in. Evidence 24 showing that the government's recovery here would produce that inequitable effect 25 would support United's defense that it has not been unjustly enriched, and thus 26 granting this motion would do nothing to avoid discovery on these subjects.

27 In addition, evidence that CMS itself recognized that plans would be 28 underpaid if they were required to delete all unsupported codes also would be

1 relevant to whether the government had proven an “overpayment,” as it must in 2 order to demonstrate the “obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the 3 Government” that its remaining False Claims Act count requires. 31 U.S.C.
4 §3729(a)(1)(G); id. § 3729(b)(3) (defining “obligation” to include “an established
5 duty, whether or not fixed, arising from . . . retention of any overpayment”). And 6 as United has argued in its opposition to the Motion to Strike, that evidence also 7 would be relevant to scienter, because it would support United’s arguments that its 8 interpretations were reasonable. See Opp’n to Mot. to Strike at 17-18. Such 9 evidence would likewise weigh on questions like materiality, and should the case 10 ever come to it, damages.

11 In short, granting this motion now would not actually change anything about 12 the scope of discovery in the case. All it would do is ensure that this critical 13 question is decided without the benefit of a full understanding of the facts.

14 B. The Applicable Statutes, Contracts, And Regulatory Backdrop
15 All Foreclose The Government’s Legal Argument On The Merits

16 As just described, the government’s motion is improper, premature, and 17 pointless, and should be denied as procedurally deficient. But on the merits, too, 18 the government is wrong several times over.

19 First, the government’s view is contrary to statute. Congress has mandated 20 that CMS pay MA plans in a manner that ensures they are paid for risk measured
21 in the same way that risk is measured in the traditional Medicare program. CMS 22 has committed to comply with that requirement in its contracts with MA plans (an 23 aspect of the contracts that the government completely ignores). And CMS has 24 acknowledged that when auditing plans to determine whether they have been 25 overpaid, it cannot just look to the rate of unsupported codes in the MA plans’ data 26 but must compare that rate to the comparable figure in CMS’s own data.

27 Second, the government’s proposed rule—which would require MA plans to 28 delete unsupported codes without the necessary adjustment for CMS’s own data—

1 is not borne out by the regulatory, sub-regulatory, and contractual provisions on 2 which the government relies. At the very least, those materials do not
3 unambiguously support its position. The government thus would need to grapple 4 with extrinsic evidence showing, among other things, that its own officials
5 interpreted the pertinent provisions in the same way as United—evidence that 6 would support reading any ambiguity in the contracts in favor of United and 7 against the government. Just as the government’s prosecution theory about the 8 materiality of United’s attestations turned out not to align with CMS’s own view
9 about the significance of those attestations, discovery will show that many CMS 10 officials (consistent with the agency’s own past position) do not agree with the 11 government’s current prosecution theory that MA plans are required to delete 12 every unsupported code they find. The limited amount of evidence United has 13 obtained through FOIA and the government’s slow productions to date validates 14 that suspicion. But it appears that the government is sitting on a mountain of 15 additional evidence that likewise would be helpful to United’s arguments. This 16 Court should not facilitate the government’s attempt to have this important 17 question resolved before that evidence comes to light.

18 1. MA Plans Cannot Be Required To Use A Stricter Standard
19 For Measuring Risk Than CMS Uses In Traditional Medicare

20 Congress established the framework for determining payments to Medicare 21 Advantage plans in Section 1853 of the Medicare Act, codified at 42 U.S.C.
22 § 1395w-23. Two specific requirements found in that section are relevant here.

23 First, Section 1395w-23(b)(4) provides that when CMS calculates the risk
24 scores of its traditional Medicare beneficiaries—which then affects the amounts 25 that MA plans are paid for equivalent beneficiaries—CMS must “us[e] the same 26 methodology as is expected to be applied in making payments” to MA plans. 42
27 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(4). Second, Section 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i) mandates that 28 when CMS risk adjusts an MA plan’s payment amount, it “shall” do so in a

1 manner that will “ensure actuarial equivalence.” 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-
2 23(a)(1)(C)(i). CMS has acknowledged that this means it is required to achieve
3 equivalence “between the average payments that CMS would expect to make on 4 behalf of a given beneficiary under traditional, fee-for-service Medicare, and the 5 payments made to Medicare Advantage insurers for covering an individual with 6 those same characteristics.” Ex. 38, APA CMS Opening Br., at 8. Thus, CMS
7 must both 1.) measure actuarial risk in the two programs in the same way, and 2.)
8 ensure that it is paying equivalent amounts in the two programs for patients who 9 present equivalent levels of risk under that common measurement approach.

10 Those statutory requirements are relevant to the “legal issue” about which 11 the government asks this Court to opine. CMS does not delete or otherwise 12 account for the unsupported diagnosis codes in its FFS data when it is calculating 13 risk scores for its traditional Medicare enrollees or calibrating the CMS-HCC
14 model. See id. at 37 As a result, requiring MA plans to delete unsupported codes 15 for purposes of calculating the risk scores of their enrollees, without accounting for 16 the presence of such codes in CMS’s traditional Medicare data, would violate the 17 “same methodology” provision. 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(4). The government 18 does not even try to argue otherwise here.

19 The government’s proposed rule likewise would violate the Medicare Act’s 20 “actuarial equivalence” mandate, because it would result in identical groups of 21 people being assigned different risks scores (and thus different anticipated costs or 22 MA payment amounts) based solely on whether they are enrolled in MA or 23 traditional Medicare. 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i). To see how, imagine two 24 perfectly identical groups of 1,000 patients—one in traditional Medicare, one in 25 MA. Both groups have the same 1,000 different demographic statuses, the same 26 true health conditions, and the same collection and distribution of diagnosis 27 codes—say, 5,000 diagnosis codes, including precisely the same 500 unsupported
28 diagnosis codes. CMS might calculate, based on its traditional Medicare

1 expenditure data, that it had cost $10 million to insure those patients in a given 2 year in the traditional Medicare program. It would then regress that $10 million in 3 expected costs across the 1,000 different demographic statuses and 5,000 different
4 diagnosis codes from traditional Medicare. For present purposes, it is irrelevant
5 what precise value it assigns to each of the 5,000 diagnosis codes and 1,000 6 demographic statuses in particular; what matters is that taken together, the 7 incremental costs for all 6,000 would add up to exactly $10 million. If CMS then 8 requires the MA plan to delete the 500 unsupported codes without any offsetting 9 adjustment, the result is that the plan will be underpaid, because it will not receive 10 whatever portion of the $10 million in actual traditional Medicare costs CMS had 11 allocated to those 500 codes.

12 The same principle can also be seen by looking at individual beneficiaries 13 who are otherwise identical but for the fact that one is enrolled in an MA plan and 14 the other in traditional Medicare. In the APA case, for example, CMS offered a 15 hypothetical FFS beneficiary with $10,000 in costs and three risk adjustment 16 factors: (1) her demographic group; (2) an unsupported diabetes diagnosis code;
17 and (3) a chart-supported multiple sclerosis diagnosis code. See Ex. 38, APA CMS
18 Opening Br., at 16-18. In that scenario, the CMS-HCC model would distribute the 19 $10,000 in costs across the beneficiary's three different risk factors. Thus, while 20 the unsupported diabetes code might not in fact reflect that the beneficiary actually 21 has diabetes, the costs assigned to that code would nevertheless reflect real risks 22 presented by the patient because—as CMS acknowledged there—the model would 23 “assign to diabetes some portion of the cost actually due to demographics, and 24 some portion of the cost actually due to multiple sclerosis.” Id. Only by adding up 25 all three factors, therefore, would you arrive at the $10,000 in costs for this patient.
26 So if CMS required an MA plan to delete the unsupported diabetes code of an 27 identical MA beneficiary (someone with the same real-world health conditions, 28 same demographics, and same mix of supported and unsupported codes), its

1 payment for that MA plan beneficiary would be less than $10,000, even though the 2 expected cost for an identical beneficiary in traditional Medicare is $10,000.

3 The government cannot dispute that the legal rule it asks this Court to adopt 4 in its motion would produce that result. Nor can it reconcile that result with its 5 acknowledgment that actuarial equivalence means “paying MAOs a sum
6 commensurate with the expected costs of providing traditional Medicare benefits
7 to a given beneficiary.” Mem. 23. Instead, it offers (at 24) that it would be 8 “absurd” to pay United based on unsupported codes, because that would amount to 9 “payments for conditions it knows are not substantiated by its beneficiaries’
10 medical records.” But that is simply a distortion. In the example of the 1,000 11 patients above, for example, the MA plan is not being paid for conditions its 12 patients do not have if it receives the full $10 million payment. To the contrary, 13 the plan in that circumstance is being paid appropriately for the conditions its 14 beneficiaries do have. The fact that CMS’s model assigns some of those actuarial 15 costs to the 500 unsupported diagnosis codes does not make the costs any less real 16 (or payments based on those costs any less valid).

17 CMS’s adoption of a FFS adjuster for its RADV audits was based on 18 acceptance of this very point. CMS recognized that if the level of unsupported
19 codes in an MA plan’s data is the same as or less than the level of unsupported
20 codes in CMS’s FFS data, then the plan is not being paid for a level of risk higher 21 than its beneficiaries actually present, and has not received an overpayment. See 22 supra at 12-13. Only by evaluating unsupported codes across both sets of data can 23 an auditor determine whether an overpayment had been made.

24 Unable to reconcile its proposed rule with the “actuarial equivalence” 25 requirement, the government contends (at 22-23) that the requirement is merely 26 “discretionary.” Not so. The statute provides that “the Secretary shall adjust the 27 payment amount . . . so as to ensure actuarial equivalence.” 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-28 23(a)(1)(C)(i) (emphases added). While Congress gave CMS some flexibility in 1 how to ensure actuarial equivalence, it did not give CMS flexibility about whether

2 to ensure actuarial equivalence. By law, the government cannot impose a risk
3 adjustment methodology that systematically fails to ensure actuarial equivalence
4 between the MA and traditional Medicare programs. Indeed, CMS has conceded
5 the point in the APA litigation. See Ex. 38, APA CMS Opening Br., at 28
6 (conceding that the actuarial equivalence mandate is a “statutory requirement”).
7 The government’s present suggestion that its statutory obligations are simply 8 optional cannot be taken seriously.⁷

9 The government also argues (at 3-4, 20-21) that even if it would in some 10 circumstances be necessary to account for unsupported codes in CMS’s own data, 11 CMS need not do so here because United has engaged in chart reviews that lack a 12 direct parallel in traditional Medicare. It suggests (at 4) that “United’s position 13 [is] that the [actuarial equivalence] principle works in only one direction, and 14 permits United to submit additional codes [identified in chart reviews] but does not 15 permit the government to require the deletion of unsupported diagnoses.” But the 16 government has it completely backwards. It is the government that is trying to 17 employ the actuarial equivalence principle when it is beneficial to it, and then 18 ignore it when it is not. As explained above, see supra at 9-11, through the Coding 19 Intensity Adjustment CMS reduces MA plans’ payments for supported codes by an 20 amount that is calculated to offset the greater “intensity” of coding by MA plans.
21 CMS has determined that the Coding Intensity Adjustment fully accounts for that 22 differential intensity of coding. See 2013 Rate Announcement, AR4712. And it is 23 a substantial adjustment. In 2017, for example, CMS will reduce its payment to

25 ⁷ In a footnote (at 23 n.14), the government claims that “[s]uch language has also 26 been held to be procedural only and not a basis for creating substantive rights,” 27 pointing to cases involving statutes that called for the government to provide its 28 “best estimate.” But a call for the government to provide its “best estimate” is worlds away from the requirement here that CMS, when making payments to MA plans, “shall . . . ensure actuarial equivalence.” 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i).

1 United by approximately $2.9 billion precisely to account for the fact that United 2 adds codes through chart reviews that CMS does not perform in traditional 3 Medicare. See Ex. 24, Decl. of Mary Murley, ¶ 9. But having subtracted billions
4 of dollars annually from its payments to United in order to maintain actuarial
5 equivalence in the face of activities that tend to increase United’s risk scores as 6 compared to those in traditional Medicare, the government then refuses to 7 acknowledge that the same principle applies in reverse: If CMS were to require 8 MA plans to engage in activities (such as identifying and deleting codes that are 9 not supported by charts) that CMS itself does not engage in, the effect of which is 10 to decrease plans’ risk scores, then it would likewise need to impose an offsetting 11 adjustment to ensure that risk adjustment comparisons remain valid. The 12 government’s willingness to use a comparative standard when that is to its 13 advantage, then disavow it when it is not, is (to borrow the government’s terms)
14 “transparently self-serving and logically untenable.” Mem. 4.

17 Government’s Requested Rule

18 The congressional mandates in Sections 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i) and 1395w-
19 23(b)(4) foreclose the government’s argument in its present motion. That is true 20 for two reasons. The first—which the government never acknowledges—is that 21 the contract CMS signs with MA plans specifically obligates CMS to pay plans in 22 compliance with those statutory requirements. See Decl. of Cheri Rice (“Rice 23 Decl.”), Ex. 1 at 10.⁸ Article IV of the contract, which addresses “CMS Payment
24 to MA Organization”—the core subject of this lawsuit—provides that “CMS 25 agrees to pay the MA Organization under this contract in accordance with the 26 _____

27 ⁸ Citations herein to the Decl. of Cheri Rice refer to the Declaration of Cheri Rice

(ECF No. 234-2).

1 provisions of section 1853 of the [Medicare] Act and 42 CFR Part 422 Subpart G.”
2 Id. And Section 1853 of the Medicare Act, as discussed, is the portion of the Act
3 that includes the “actuarial equivalence” and “same methodology” provisions.

4 The second reason is that CMS cannot enforce contracts that violate federal 5 law. United explains below (as it has explained at length in the APA case) that the 6 regulatory and contractual provisions the government invokes do not state,
7 unambiguously or otherwise, that a plan is overpaid every time it receives a 8 payment associated with an unsupported code. See infra at 29-42. Nor do they 9 state that an MA plan is required to delete every such code. But if those provisions 10 were interpreted in that manner, they would be “invalid or void” as inconsistent 11 with the Medicare Act. Am. Airlines, Inc. v. Austin, 75 F.3d 1535, 1538 (Fed. Cir.
12 1996) (“Generally, a provision in a government contract that violates or conflicts 13 with a federal statute is invalid or void.”). Indeed, the MA contract itself 14 recognizes that if “any provision of this contract conflicts with the provisions of 15 any statute or regulation applicable to an MA Organization, the provisions of the 16 statute or regulation shall have full force and effect.” Rice Decl., Ex. 1 at 19.

17 Remarkably, the government claims (at 16) that even if the legal obligation
18 that it is advocating for violates the Medicare Act, that is “not a defense to liability
19 in this FCA action.” In doing so, it seeks to make the Medicare Act’s requirements
20 irrelevant in this case. In prior filings, however, the government has recognized 21 that those same requirements are central here. The government sought to delay a 22 decision in the APA case by urging Judge Collyer to enter a stay until this Court 23 had resolved the “actuarial equivalence” issue, arguing that this Court would 24 “benefit from a full factual record.” Ex. 54, APA U.S. Mot. for Stay, at 7.
25 Necessarily implicit in that argument was that if United were correct about its 26 “actuarial equivalence” and related legal arguments, then they would constitute 27 proper and valid defenses to enforcement—otherwise, this Court would have no 28

1 occasion to resolve them.⁹ Having previously argued that the actuarial equivalence
2 issue could (and should) be resolved here, the government cannot now claim that 3 the issue is not even relevant.

4 The government's present argument is also wrong on the merits. To prevail
5 on its reverse false claim suit, the government must show (among other things) that 6 United had, and knew it had, a legal "obligation to pay or transmit money or 7 property to the Government," and that United "improperly avoid[ed]" that 8 obligation. 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(G). An invalid contractual or regulatory 9 provision cannot give rise to a legal "obligation to pay," and refusing to comply 10 with an unlawful requirement is certainly not "improper." See American Airlines, 11 75 F.3d at 1538. If the "actuarial equivalence" mandate means that the 12 government cannot demand United return all payments made on the basis of 13 unsupported diagnosis codes until it first accounts for the unsupported codes in its 14 own data, then the government certainly cannot demand that United return those 15 amounts trebled by bringing a False Claims Act suit. To hold otherwise would 16 create perverse incentives for agencies to convert ordinary regulatory disputes into 17 False Claims Act cases in order to avoid the limits of their organic statutes.

18 The "self-help" cases the government points to (at 17-18) are not to the 19 contrary. Each of those cases rested on affirmatively false claims that were 20 independently fraudulent, not on obligations unlawfully imposed by an invalid
21 contract or regulation. See, e.g., City & Cty. of San Francisco v. Tutor-Saliba

23 ⁹ Judge Collyer declined the government's requested stay on the ground that 24 evaluation of the Overpayment Rule "would be limited to the administrative record 25 behind the 2014 Overpayment Rule." Ex. 56, APA Stay Order, at 4. But neither 26 Judge Collyer nor United has disputed that actuarial equivalence was a central 27 issue in this case. United did argue that the actuarial equivalence issue might never 28 be reached here because this case might be resolved in United's favor on other grounds, such as "the government's inability to prove the materiality of any allegedly false claim." Ex. 55, APA United Stay Opp'n, at 10. But United also has maintained that it cannot be held liable under the False Claims Act on the basis of an obligation that the government could not lawfully impose.

1 Corp., No. C 02-5286 CW, 2005 WL 645389, at *7 (N.D. Cal. Mar. 17, 2005)
2 (“Plaintiffs’ claims . . . are not based upon the illegal contract, but upon the 3 misrepresentations made by the Tutor Defendants in attempting to obtain and then 4 to comply with the contracts.”). Here, however, the government abandoned its 5 affirmative FCA counts after it was unable even to allege that the supposedly false
6 statements on which they rested were material. And it offers no authority
7 whatsoever for the proposition that it could seek treble damages under the reverse
8 false claims provision on the basis of legally invalid obligations. That is all the 9 more true when the legally invalid obligations violate CMS’s commitments to 10 United under Article IV of the contract itself.¹⁰

12 “Same Methodology” Requirements Aside, The Government Has 13 Not Identified Any Statutory, Regulatory, Or Contractual
14 Provision Supporting Its Proposed Rule

15 To prevail on its motion, the government must identify a statutory, 16 regulatory, or contractual provision that requires MA plans to delete every 17 unsupported code they find, regardless of how many such unsupported codes exist
18 in the FFS data. Because it asks the Court to resolve that issue in a summary 19 judgment-type posture early in discovery, moreover, the government must further 20 show that the provision is unambiguous on this point, and that no evidence the 21 government might turn over in the future could have any bearing on its 22 interpretation.

23 The government fails to make that showing.

24 ¹⁰ The government’s analogy (at 3) to a physician who bills for procedures she did 25 not perform because she believes the government’s payment amounts are too low 26 is wholly inapposite. The physician in that example does not dispute the legal 27 validity of the prohibition on billing for procedures that were not performed, and is 28 simply invoking a “two wrongs make a right” argument. Here, though, United is most assuredly challenging the legality of any obligation to delete unsupported provider-submitted codes without accounting for CMS’s own errors and their impact on United’s payment amounts.

1 1. No Statute Or Regulation Supports The Government's Proposed
2 Rule

3 In its motion for “partial summary judgment,” the government does not 4 contend that there is any statutory provision that requires MA plans to delete every 5 unsupported code they identify.¹¹ The government does, however, point to 6 regulatory provisions that it claims create such a requirement. None of them does.

7 First, the government invokes (at 9) regulatory provisions requiring 8 compliance with “laws and regulations designed to prevent or ameliorate fraud, 9 waste, and abuse,” and implementation of a compliance program for that purpose.
10 Unless specific “laws and regulations” obligated United to delete all unsupported 11 codes, though, there was no relevant obligation for United to carry out through its 12 compliance program. And while no one disputes that United was required to 13 “conduct appropriate corrective actions (for example, repayment of overpayments 14 . . .),” 42 C.F.R. § 503(b)(4)(vi)(G)(2), that does not in any way answer the 15 question underlying this motion: Does every unsupported code result in an 16 overpayment? Without a provision speaking to that, reliance on regulations about 17 general compliance programs is entirely circular. And the only regulatory 18 document in which CMS addressed that issue was the RADV methodology, in 19 which it concluded there is no overpayment to recover unless the plan’s rate of 20 unsupported codes exceeds CMS’s. See supra at 12-13.

21 Second, the government points (at 10-11) to the requirement in 42 C.F.R.
22 § 422.310(e) that MA organizations “submit a sample of medical records for the 23 validation of risk adjustment data.” But that requirement concerns a plan’s 24 obligation to cooperate with the government’s validation of risk adjustment data,

25 _____
26 ¹¹ That omission contrasts starkly with the government’s Motion to Strike, which 27 appears to suggest that such a requirement can be found in Section 1395w-28 23(a)(1)(C)—the “actuarial equivalence” provision. See Memo In Support of Mot. to Strike at 8, ECF No. 235-1. As United has explained at length above, that section forecloses the government’s case—it certainly does not support it.

1 not an MA plan's responsibility to delete data on its own. And more importantly,
2 when the government carries out those validation responsibilities to determine if 3 the plan has received an overpayment, it does not recover funds associated with all 4 diagnosis codes that lack chart support. To the contrary, as just discussed, it has 5 recognized the need to apply a FFS Adjuster that compares the rate of unsupported 6 codes in the MA plan's data with the rate in CMS's traditional Medicare data, and 7 determines that a plan has been overpaid on its contract only if its rate of 8 unsupported codes exceeds CMS's. That regulation thus provides no support 9 whatsoever for the ruling the government seeks here.

10 Third, the government points (at 10) to regulations requiring MA plans to 11 attest "based on best knowledge, information and belief" that the risk adjustment
12 data they have submitted were "accurate, complete, and truthful." See 42 C.F.R.
13 § 422.504(l). These are the same attestations for which the government could not 14 get CMS approval to allege materiality, resulting in the dismissal of its entire case
15 in Swoben and its affirmative False Claims Act counts here. They say nothing 16 about whether a plan is overpaid whenever it submits an unsupported diagnosis 17 code, such that it would be required to delete that code in order to return an 18 overpayment. And in any event, as United has argued at length in the APA case, 19 see Ex. 39, APA United Resp., at 30-34, the attestations' terms when used in the 20 context of the MA program require a comparative standard rather than an absolute 21 one. See, e.g., Accurate, American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language
22 (4th ed. 2000) ("Deviating only slightly or within acceptable limits from a 23 standard.").¹² CMS has itself previously acknowledged that in the context of risk
24 adjustment "MA organizations are coding 'accurately' when they are coding in a 25 manner similar to fee-for-service coding used on the beneficiaries to whom MA 26

27 ¹² See also Truth, American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language (4th ed.
28 2000) ("Fidelity to an original or standard.").

1 plan enrollees are being compared.” Ex. 1, 2010 Rate Announcement, at AR4335.

2 Indeed, under an absolute interpretation, no plan could ever submit the 3 attestation. That is because the attestation does not speak just to specific 4 knowledge about individual codes but about the plan’s “belief” about whether the 5 data as a whole are “accurate” and “truthful.” CMS itself has said that the 6 presence of at least some unsupported codes is “inevitable.” Ex. 41, 2001
7 Medicare Managed Care Manual § 110.2, at AR5349. The only way that CMS can 8 expect the plans to actually sign the attestation, therefore, is if the attestation is 9 understood to communicate a belief that the plan’s data “are cod[ed] in a manner 10 similar to fee-for-service coding,” Ex. 1, 2010 Rate Announcement, at AR4335, or 11 that any differences in the coding patterns have been accounted for. At the very 12 least, that prospect renders the attestations ambiguous.

13 2. No Sub-Regulatory Provision Supports The Government’s Proposed
14 Rule

15 Lacking any statutory or regulatory provision that speaks directly to the 16 requirement it asks this Court to impose, the government relies heavily on sub-
17 regulatory materials, including most prominently the Medicare Managed Care
18 Manual (hereinafter “Manual”). Such sub-regulatory guidance makes up the bulk 19 of the materials in the section of the government’s Amended Complaint purporting 20 to set forth “Obligations to Delete Invalid Diagnoses.” Compl. ¶¶ 103-114.

21 The threshold problem with the government’s reliance on that sub-regulatory 22 guidance is that it does not create binding legal obligations enforceable through a 23 False Claims Act suit. As the Secretary of Health and Human Services explained
24 in a recent brief, such “manuals are non-binding, interpretive guidelines.” Final 25 Brief for Secretary Burwell, Defendant-Appellee at 43 n.10, Regents of the Univ.
26 of Cal., Inc. v. Burwell, No. 16-5098 (D.C. Cir. Nov. 10, 2016). For that reason, 27 “agency manuals lack the force of law.” Moore v. Apfel, 216 F.3d 864, 869 n.2
28 (9th Cir. 2000); see also Phoenix Baptist Hosp. & Med. Cntr. v. Heckler, 767 F.2d

1 1304, 1307 (9th Cir. 1985) (“The [Provider Reimbursement Review] Manual is a
2 guide for intermediaries in applying the Medicare statute and reimbursement
3 regulations and does not have the binding effect of law or regulation.”); 31 U.S.C.
4 §3729(b)(3) (omitting sub-regulatory guidance from the types of authority that can 5 give rise to a legal “obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the 6 Government” for purposes of the False Claims Act). And the Department of 7 Justice itself recently acknowledged that it would be improper to “use its 8 enforcement authority to effectively convert agency guidance documents into 9 binding rules” or to “use noncompliance with guidance documents as a basis for 10 proving violations of applicable law” in False Claims Act Cases. Mem. for Heads 11 of Civil Litigating Components & U.S. Att’ys from Assoc. Att’y Gen., Rachel 12 Brand, Limiting Use of Agency Guidance Documents In Affirmative Civil 13 Enforcement Cases at 2 (Jan. 25, 2018), <http://src.bna.com/vY4>.

14 The government knows this is a problem. Because it cannot enforce the 15 Manual and other sub-regulatory guidance directly, it tries to do so indirectly, 16 claiming (at 9) that United agreed by contract to comply with whatever policies 17 CMS might adopt about how plans’ payment amounts would be calculated. But as 18 United explains in the ensuing sections, that argument raises four distinct issues 19 that the government’s motion does not even address, let alone show can be 20 unambiguously resolved in its favor at this early stage of the case.

21 a. The MA Contracts Do Not Unambiguously Require MA Plans
22 To Comply With Informal CMS Guidance Relating To Risk
23 Adjustment Payment Policies

24 The first issue is that the contracts do not require—and certainly do not 25 unambiguously require—MA plans to comply with CMS “policies” in informal 26 guidance about the risk adjustment payment system. The government’s contrary 27 argument depends on a provision in Article II of the contracts with United, titled 28 “Coordinated Care Plan,” in which United “agrees to operate one or more coordinated care plans as defined in 42 CFR 422.4(a)(1)(iii) . . . as described in its

1 final Plan Benefit Package (PBP) bid submission (benefit and price bid) proposal
2 as approved by CMS . . . , and in compliance with . . . applicable Federal statutes,
3 regulations, and policies (e.g., policies as described in the Call Letter, Medicare
4 Managed Care Manual, etc.).” Rice Decl., Ex. 1 at 6. The government argues
5 that this provision requires United to follow CMS’s informal policies not only in 6 its “operat[ion]” of the Coordinated Care Plan, id., but in all other aspects of its 7 participation in the Medicare program as well.

8 Article II of the contract, however, does not relate to the MA payment
9 system at all. Its function is to clarify that the MA organization will provide a 10 “Coordinated Care Plan” as opposed to one of the other two types of MA plans.¹³
11 The “Plan Benefit Package” referenced in Article II, in conjunction with the 12 requirements set out in the Manual, establishes what medical services the plan will 13 provide through that Coordinated Care Plan, the conditions under which those 14 services must be available, the providers through whom the plan will provide them, 15 and so forth. See Ex. 11, 2017 Manual, chapter 1 § 20.2 (listing obligations of 16 operating a Coordinated Care Plan, but making no mention of risk adjustment data 17 submission). Article II’s provisions do not extend, however, to the manner in 18 which CMS will pay the MA plan.¹⁴ Instead, it is Article IV of the contract that 19 sets out the terms governing submission of risk adjustment data and the manner in 20 which MA plans are paid. As discussed above, Article IV provides that CMS will 21 pay MA plans in accordance with Section 1853 of the Medicare Act and applicable

23 ¹³ The other two types of MA plan are an “MA MSA plan” and an “MA private 24 fee-for-service plan.” See 42 C.F.R. § 422.4 (describing the different types of MA plans and the requirements applicable to each).

25 ¹⁴ The government claims (at 9 n.7) that “[t]he Attestation of Benefit Plan, which 26 is part of the contract, also requires compliance with the Medicare Managed Care
27 Manual.” But like Article II of the MA contract, the Attestation of Benefit Plan 28 makes clear that the MA plan is agreeing to comply with the Manual in its provision of benefits, not the terms on which it will be paid. See Rice Decl., Ex. 1 at 33 (“[T]hese benefits will be offered in accordance with . . . the Medicare Managed Care Manual . . .”).

1 regulations. See supra at 26-27. Article IV also includes provisions on attestation
2 and validation of risk adjustment data that are required by regulation (which, for 3 the reasons just discussed, see supra at 30-32, do not support the government’s
4 proposed rule). But in conspicuous contrast to Article II, Article IV contains no
5 provision in which plans agree to be bound by CMS “policies” in sub-regulatory 6 guidance. Likewise, in other contract provisions pertaining specifically to risk
7 adjustment data that would affect CMS’s payment obligations, the MA 8 organization agrees to comply with statutes and regulations but does not agree to 9 comply with sub-regulatory policies like the Manual. See, e.g., Section B.1(a)(vii)
10 of the MA Contract (allowing termination of the contract if CMS determines that 11 the MA organization “fails to provide CMS with valid risk adjustment data as 12 required under §422.310 and 423.329(b)(3)”; Section B.7 of Art. VI of the MA 13 Contract (“The MA Organization agrees to comply with the requirements in 14 §422.310 for submitting risk adjustment data to CMS.”))

15 It is hardly surprising that the contract would allow CMS to direct the 16 manner in which services are provided through sub-regulatory guidance, while 17 reserving changes in payment-related issues to statutes and notice-and-comment 18 rulemakings. Like any contractor, MA plans agree to accept direction from their 19 client (here, CMS) about how to provide the specific services they have contracted 20 to provide. Section C of Article II of the contract permits CMS to issue policy 21 changes mid-year, so long as they do not “significant[ly]” increase the plan’s “cost 22 or burden,” and with that protection in place MA plans can generally agree to 23 comply with CMS guidance about issues like whether a new intervention needs to 24 be covered in a given year. That is what Article II accomplishes.

25 Payment decisions, however, are entirely different. No contractor would 26 agree to make the amount it is paid subject to the whims of its client’s “policies.”
27 Yet that appears to be the government’s reading of the contract. On its view, when 28 MA plans sign contracts with CMS, they agree to allow their core payment rights

1 to be modified through a take-it-or-leave-it process of informal staff-level policy
2 pronouncements that are judicially unreviewable. That understanding would also 3 mean that CMS could adopt mid-year changes that significantly reduce MA plans'
4 risk adjustment payments, such as requiring that MA plans delete any diagnosis 5 code that had not been verified by at least three physicians, and make those 6 changes binding on MA plans simply by adding them unilaterally to the Manual.

7 That is not the risk MA plans agree to take. Article IV of the contracts
8 carefully ensures that MA plans' risk adjustment payments will be governed by 9 statutes and regulations that CMS cannot unilaterally change. The government 10 cannot undo those limitations by pointing to a reference to CMS "policies" in a 11 portion of the contract that does not even address the payment system. Just as 12 Congress "does not alter the fundamental details of a regulatory scheme in vague 13 terms or ancillary provisions," Whitman v. Am. Trucking Ass'ns, Inc., 531 U.S.
14 457, 468 (2001), neither would MA plans "hide elephants in mouseholes," id., by 15 using a clause about the services they will provide to beneficiaries to give CMS
16 complete control over the terms on which it will pay MA plans. At a bare 17 minimum, the contract is ambiguous on this point—foreclosing a ruling for the 18 government until it has completed its discovery obligations.

19 b. Reading Article II Of The MA Contract To Govern Payment
20 Terms Would Create Additional Problems For The Government

21 If Article II of the MA contracts did govern MA plans' payment-related 22 rights and responsibilities, then that would just create a different problem for the 23 government. In the same sentence that references CMS policies, Article II also 24 incorporates the "final Plan Benefit Package (PBP) bid submission . . . as approved 25 by CMS." Rice Decl., Ex. 1 at 6. Starting at least as early as 2011, United's final 26 Plan Benefit Package each year explicitly stated that United was not validating 27 provider-submitted codes through review of medical records. "[C]onsistent with 28 our prior year activities," United explained, "[a]s part of the preparation of the 1 bids, we did not attempt to validate any actual or projected risk scores through a 2 review of applicable medical records or of the systems used to submit RAF data to 3 CMS.” Ex. 50, MA Supporting Documentation for CY2012 Bid, at 5; see also Ex.

4 49, MA Supporting Documentation for CY2012 Bid, at 8 (stating in 2015 bid 5 submission that United had “cease[d] one of its prior processes that identified and 6 deleted certain diagnosis codes through the medical record review process”).

7 If Article II incorporates provisions about payment issues, not just program-
8 of-care issues, then those bid limitations were incorporated into the contract’s 9 payment scheme as well. They were express actuarial assumptions supporting 10 United’s bid that CMS required United to specify and on which United relied in 11 setting its bid amounts, and CMS reviewed and approved United’s bid submission
12 prior to execution of the final contract, as required by law. See 42 C.F.R.
13 § 422.256(b). Under settled principles of government contract law (as well as the 14 language of Article II), those conditions became a binding part of the parties’
15 agreement. See, e.g., United Med. Supply Co. v. United States, 63 Fed. Cl. 430, 16 439 (2005) (noting that the government is charged with knowledge of what was 17 contained in contractor’s offer, and thus could not avoid the inclusion of certain 18 proposal language as part of contract); GAI Consultants, Inc., ENGBCA No. 6030, 19 95-2 B.C.A. (CCH) ¶ 27620 (Apr. 4, 1995) (contractor’s proposal specifying 20 outdoor work would be performed during warmer months binding on government).

21 The government may respond that United’s bid provisions conflict with the 22 guidance documents on which its case relies. But even if those guidance 23 documents unambiguously required what DOJ alleges (and they do not, see infra), 24 then that would simply create a conflict between two provisions incorporated into 25 Article II of the contract that would need to be resolved by resort to extrinsic
26 evidence (and thus cannot be resolved at this early stage). See, e.g., United States
27 ex rel. Lindenthal v. Gen. Dynamics Corp., 61 F.3d 1402, 1411 (9th Cir. 1995) 28 (where language in a government contract “is unclear and suggests several

1 speculative interpretations, . . . extrinsic evidence is admissible to show what the 2 parties intended” (citation omitted)); Int’l Bhd. of Elec. Workers, AFL-CIO Local 3 47 v. S. Cal. Edison Co., 880 F.2d 104, 107 (9th Cir. 1989) (holding that when 4 contract terms conflict, “[t]he court should look to parol evidence to determine 5 what the parties intended the conflicting provisions to mean”).

6 c. At Most, The Government’s Interpretation Creates An Internal 7 Contractual Conflict Precluding A Decision At This Stage

8 Apart from the fact that United’s bids specified that United would not be 9 validating its diagnosis codes in a way that CMS itself does not, reading Article II
10 of the contract to cover payment issues would also create a conflict in another way.
11 As discussed, Article IV of the contract specifically required CMS to comply with 12 Section 1853 of the Medicare Act, including the requirements that it “ensure 13 actuarial equivalence” and use the “same methodology” in both programs. If 14 Article II is interpreted to incorporate Manual provisions that would conflict with 15 that requirement (by demanding that MA plans delete all identified unsupported 16 codes, without regard to the presence of such codes in CMS’s own traditional 17 Medicare data), then that would create an additional intra-contractual conflict.

18 The proper way to reconcile that conflict would be by resort to the “standard 19 rule of contract interpretation . . . that when provisions are inconsistent, specific 20 terms control over general ones.” United States ex rel. Welch v. My Left Foot 21 Children’s Therapy, LLC, 871 F.3d 791, 797 (9th Cir. 2017) (citation and internal 22 quotation marks omitted). Here, Article IV speaks specifically to payment
23 questions, and therefore any conflict between Article IV’s unquestionable 24 incorporation of the “actuarial equivalence” and “same methodology”
25 requirements and Article II’s supposed incorporation of informal CMS guidance
26 would be resolved by giving effect to Article IV. But at the very least, that intra-27 contractual conflict would preclude a decision in the government’s favor at this 28 stage, because United has a right to collect additional extrinsic evidence that could

1 shed light on how the parties intended any conflict between the provisions to be
2 resolved. See Int'l Bhd. of Elec. Workers, AFL-CIO Local 47, 880 F.2d at 107.

3 d. The Sub-Regulatory Provisions The Government Invokes Do
4 Not Unambiguously Support The Rule It Proposes

5 Finally, even if Article II of the MA contract did make CMS's sub-
6 regulatory policies related to risk adjustment payment calculations legally binding, 7 and even if Article IV provided no countervailing and superseding rule, that still 8 would not support the rule that the government proposes because those sub-9 regulatory materials do not unambiguously adopt the government's proposed rule.

10 The government first cites (at 10-11) provisions in the Manual and the 11 International Classification of Diseases (ICD) Guidelines stating that diagnoses
12 should be supported in the medical record. Those provisions govern the standard 13 that providers and other coders use for identifying diagnosis codes in claims forms 14 based on reviewing medical charts. But they do not address, explicitly or 15 implicitly, the question the government asks this Court to decide, which is what to 16 do once one determines that an unsupported code already has been submitted, and 17 whether plans are responsible for complying with a standard of accuracy stricter 18 than the one applicable in FFS. After all, the same documentation requirements
19 are equally applicable in the traditional Medicare program. See, e.g., 42 C.F.R.
20 § 424.32(a)(2) ("A [FFS] claim for physician services . . . must include appropriate 21 diagnostic coding for those services using ICD-9-CM."). And yet CMS does not 22 audit and then delete unsupported codes submitted by providers there. See Ex. 38,
23 APA CMS Opening Br., at 37. Given that fact, the government cannot contend 24 that the documentation standards themselves require deletion of such previously 25 submitted codes in the MA program, either. Nor do these provisions address in 26 any way whether a plan has been overpaid if the rate of unsupported codes in its 27 data corresponds to the rate of unsupported codes already built into the payment
28 amounts calculated by CMS. And they certainly do not do so unambiguously.

1 The government also relies on a provision that was added to the Manual in 2 the middle of the 2013 payment year. That provision states that “[i]f upon 3 conducting an internal review of submitted diagnosis codes, the plan sponsor
4 determines that any ICD-9-CM diagnosis codes that have been submitted do not 5 meet risk adjustment submission requirements, the plan sponsor is responsible for 6 deleting the submitted ICD-9-CM diagnosis codes as soon as possible.” 2013
7 Manual, Pub. 100-16, chapter 7 § 40 (Rice Decl. Ex. 5) (emphases added). This 8 provision does not unambiguously support the rule the government asks this Court 9 to adopt, either. In particular, the provision states merely that if a plan chooses to 10 review “previously submitted codes,” it should delete codes it “determines” are 11 unsupported. But the gravamen of the government’s complaint is instead that 12 United should have reviewed the accuracy of previously submitted codes when it 13 conducted chart reviews to look for codes that had not been previously submitted.
14 The 2013 provision does not address this scenario at all, much less unambiguously.
15 Moreover, its statement about deleting codes applies only when a plan
16 “determines” that a code does not satisfy requirements. “Determine” means “[t]o 17 establish or ascertain definitely”—i.e., to obtain actual knowledge. Determine, 18 American Heritage Dictionary of the English Language (4th ed. 2000). It thus 19 provides no support for the broader rule the government seeks, under which 20 something less than actual knowledge would trigger the deletion requirement. See 21 Mem. 1 (requesting ruling that deletion was required if a plan “knew (as that term 22 is used in the False Claims Act)” that a code was unsupported (emphasis added)).

23 What little evidence the government has produced to date supports this 24 reading, and demonstrates that the provision is at most ambiguous. In one of the 25 two depositions that United has taken, a CMS official who oversaw creation of the 26 risk adjustment program—Jeffrey Grant—explained that even in his view, an MA 27 plan’s submission of an unsupported code would be improper only if it was making 28 the “very specific submission of a very specific data element . . . that [it] know[s]

1 is wrong.” Ex. 7, Grant Dep. 321:21-23. He further stated that performing one-2 way reviews that add diagnosis codes supported in the charts, without looking at 3 whether previously submitted codes lack such support, would not create the 4 requisite knowledge. Id. at 322:18-323:15.¹⁵ And he confirmed that it is not 5 “improper” or “fraudulent” for a plan to perform chart reviews that make no 6 systematic effort “to look at [previously submitted] claims data and see if every 7 claim was one-for-one backed by a diagnosis.” Id. 309:17-310:16.

8 That is, moreover, exactly the message senior CMS officials—including the 9 Administrator and Deputy Administrator—communicated to United during a series
10 of calls, correspondence, and in-person meetings in 2014. For example, Larry 11 Renfro, CEO of Optum (a United affiliate), testified that then-Deputy 12 Administrator of CMS Jonathan Blum told him in a call in 2014 that unless and 13 until CMS adopted a regulation requiring MA plans to perform two-way chart
14 reviews, there was no obligation for plans to do so. Ex. 44, Renfro Dep. 134:1 – 15 137:6. CMS Administrator Marilyn Tavenner told Renfro the same thing in a 16 subsequent conversation. Id. 150:21 – 151:10; 160:9 – 163:17. And shortly after 17 that, during a meeting other United executives had with then-Director of the 18 Medicare Plan Payment Group Cheri Rice and four other top CMS officials, 19 United was again told that unless the new regulation was adopted, MA plans had 20 no affirmative obligation to design their chart reviews to measure overall, absolute 21 accuracy. See Ex. 47, Apr. 29, 2014 CMS Meeting Notes, at MARA2157039-40; 22 United’s Statement of Genuine Disputes of Material Fact In Opp’n to Pls.’ Mot.

23
24 ¹⁵ The government will no doubt argue that even if CMS believed that a deletion
25 requirement was only triggered by actual knowledge, the False Claims Act’s 26 broader definition of “knowingly” would apply here. Because the government is 27 proceeding under a reverse false claim theory, however, it must first identify an 28 “obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the Government,” before the scienter standard ever comes into play. 31 U.S.C. §3729(a)(1)(G). Grant’s testimony is strong evidence that CMS did not understand an “obligation” to exist in the first place without actual knowledge.

1 Partial Summ. J. ¶¶ 126-29. In short, CMS officials themselves took a position
2 directly at odds with the rule the government now asks this Court to adopt.

3 3. *The EDI Agreements Do Not Support the Government’s Proposed
4 Rule

5 Finally, the government invokes (at 12-13) the Electronic Data Interchange 6 agreements. They do not unambiguously impose the rule it seeks, either.

7 First and most obviously, the EDI agreements contain no provision requiring 8 adherence to CMS “policies.” Without such language, the EDI agreements cannot 9 convert the Manual provisions on which the government’s present theory rests into 10 binding legal “obligations,” and thus cannot support a reverse false claims theory.

11 The government instead points to the EDI agreement’s provision requiring 12 signatories to “correct encounter data discrepancies.” Rice Decl., Ex. 2 at 43.¹⁶
13 This provision on “data discrepancies,” however, is not directed to whether 14 individual diagnosis codes are supported by medical records. Instead, the 15 Electronic Data Interchange agreement is concerned with the sorts of data glitches
16 that can result from electronic submission of data—which is, after all, the subject 17 of the agreement. That is clear from the very next line of the EDI agreement, in 18 which the signatory agrees “[t]hat it will notify CMS or its contractor within 2 19 business days if any transmitted data are received in an unintelligible or garbled 20 form.” Id. CMS’s countervailing commitments in the agreement likewise relate to 21 data transmission. The government cannot take that requirement pertaining to 22 electronic submission issues and transform it into a substantive requirement that 23 MA plans meet a standard of chart support in their data (perfection) that CMS
24 itself makes no effort to achieve. It certainly cannot, as it must to prevail at this 25 stage, claim that the provision is unambiguous.

26
27 ¹⁶ The government inaccurately quotes the agreement as stating that MA plans
28 will “correct risk adjustment data discrepancies.” Mem. 13 (emphasis added).

D. At The Very Least, The Government Is Not Entitled To A Decision Embracing Its Rule At This Stage Of The Case

The foregoing sections have explained that the “actuarial equivalence” and “same methodology” requirements foreclose the government’s proposed rule, and that even if such a rule were not statutorily invalid, none of the materials the government relies on actually imposed that rule. This Court, however, need not resolve all (or any) of that at this stage. That is because, at the very least, the government’s proposed rule is not unambiguously required by any of the regulatory or contractual provisions to which it points. In such a circumstance, “extrinsic evidence may be utilized to interpret the parties’ intent in light of earlier negotiations, later conduct, related agreements, and industry-wide custom.” United States v. Westlands Water Dist., 134 F. Supp. 2d 1111, 1136 (E.D. Cal. 2001) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted)). Indeed, even if the language of the contracts otherwise appeared “on its face” to support the government’s position, the Ninth Circuit has held that it would still be appropriate to “consider evidence of course of dealing, trade usage, or course of performance” to determine whether that meaning is in fact ambiguous. Mohave Valley Irrigation & Drainage Dist. v. Norton, 244 F.3d 1164, 1166 (9th Cir. 2001).

That forecloses a decision in the government’s favor on this motion for two separate reasons. The first is that the extrinsic evidence United has been able to obtain to date, taking all reasonable inferences in United’s favor, creates at a minimum a genuine issue of material fact precluding a ruling for the government. And the second is that United has a right, under Rule 56(d), to complete its discovery on these issues—almost certainly revealing even more extrinsic evidence supporting its position—before the Court resolves them against it.

1. The Extrinsic Evidence Available To Date Creates A Genuine Issue Of Material Fact Precluding The Government’s Requested Relief

United has already identified ample evidence beyond the four corners of the 1 contracts and regulations that supports its position. Some of that evidence appears

2 above. But there is much more. In notes from an internal CMS presentation about 3 the need for a FFS adjuster, for example, CMS's Division on Payment Validation 4 noted that because "the factors that we developed using FFS data" are "implicit in 5 all of the adjustments we make to plans['] payments to account for the relative risk 6 of their populations," "we should be using the same standard for both" MA and 7 FFS diagnosis code validation in order "[f]or our payments to be as accurate as 8 possible." Ex. 16, Agenda, at CMS0006200. It offered that adoption of an FFS 9 adjuster "from a technical point of view is the right thing to do," and also 10 suggested that it would "put[] us in the best position to withstand litigation 11 challenges." Id. at CMS0006201.

12 In a similar vein, Grant testified during his deposition that when experts talk 13 about "accuracy" or "inaccuracy" in the context of risk adjustment payments, "they 14 are not referring to the accuracy or inaccuracy of any specific code on any specific 15 claim or any specific RAP submission. They're talking about comparable types of 16 data." Ex. 7, Grant Dep. 174:21-175:8. "[T]he definition of accuracy here," he 17 testified, is that MA plans "would be paid consistently with how the model is 18 calibrated." Id. at 182:6-8. Accordingly, Grant testified that if a plan were to 19 audit as little as 25 percent of its members' charts and delete the unsupported codes
20 it found, without CMS deleting such codes in the FFS data, the MA plan would be 21 underpaid.¹⁷ See id. at 274:22-277:25. And because United performed chart
22 reviews that covered more than 25 percent of United's beneficiaries, see Ex. 52, 23 Decl. of Jon Bird ¶ 6, Grant's testimony indicates that adopting the government's 24 _____

25 ¹⁷ In acknowledging that plans would be underpaid in that circumstance, Grant
26 assumed that the Coding Intensity Adjustment fully offsets the effect of MA plan
27 activities that increase the intensity of coding in the MA program. See Ex. 7, Grant 28 Dep. 274:22-275:7. Grant testified that he did not know whether that assumption was accurate. Id. at 275:10-24. CMS, however, has determined that it is. See Ex.
25, 2013 Rate Announcement, at AR4712 ("[W]e believe that our methodology results in an accurate measure of the coding differential between FFS and MA.").

1 proposed rule would result in a substantial underpayment to United here.

2 Grant also testified that CMS had provided oral instructions to MA plans
3 stating that “if they submitted data like fee for service they would be paid
4 equivalent to the calibration.” Ex. 7, Grant Dep. 208:15-17. Such oral instructions 5 would constitute, or at least inform, the “policies” that the government argues are 6 binding on MA plans, see supra at 33-34, and substantially undermine the 7 government’s claim that MA plans’ data should be evaluated without making
8 comparisons to data in the traditional Medicare program. United cites many more 9 pieces of evidence in its Statement of Additional Material Facts. See Statement of 10 Genuine Disputes of Material Fact in Opp’n to Pls.’ Mot. for Partial Summ. J.

11 In deciding the government’s motion, this Court must take that “evidence[,] 12 and all reasonable inferences drawn therefrom[,] in the light most favorable” to 13 United. Furnace v. Sullivan, 705 F.3d 1021, 1026 (9th Cir. 2013). Doing so 14 wholly precludes a decision in favor of the government’s proposed rule. Even if it
15 is possible that notwithstanding this evidence, the parties to the MA contract 16 actually intended to embrace the rule the government advances now, it is certainly 17 reasonable to conclude based on this evidence that they did not. That by itself is a 18 sufficient reason to deny the government’s motion.

19 2. *In The Alternative, United Is Entitled Under Rule 56(d) To Collect
20 Additional Discovery Related To This Issue

21 The materials already discussed are just the tip of the evidentiary iceberg—22 the small portion that United has been able to gather in the face of the 23 government’s persistent resistance to discovery. As the accompanying Rule 56(d)
24 affidavit demonstrates, future depositions with CMS officials and productions of 25 government documents are likely to provide additional evidence that will further 26 support United’s arguments. See Decl. of Abid R. Qureshi Pursuant to Fed. R.
27 Civ. P. 56(D). Evidence about the rate of unsupported codes in CMS’s own data
28 and the effect that such codes have on CMS’s payments to MA plans, for example,

1 would help demonstrate the extent to which United would be underpaid under the 2 deletion rule the government proposes, and that United certainly did not retain an 3 overpayment. Evidence about RADV audits of other health plans will shed
4 additional light on CMS's course of performance in applying these provisions,
5 demonstrating that CMS has understood itself to be obligated to apply a FFS 6 adjuster to account for the unsupported codes in its own data rather than 7 demanding that audited plans delete every unsupported code. Testimony from the 8 CMS officials who reviewed MA plans' bids and attestations will help show that 9 the trade usage of terms like "accurate," in the context of MA risk adjustment, was 10 focused on a comparative rather than an absolute standard. And the accompanying 11 Rule 56(d) Affidavit identifies numerous other examples, including extrinsic
12 evidence relevant to the meaning of the at-most ambiguous MA contract.

13 This prospect is not lost on the government. To the contrary, its explicit 14 purpose in offering its motion now is to try to avoid having to turn over such 15 evidence before this Court resolves the legal issue. See Mem. 15. Especially 16 following the Grant deposition, it knows full well that such evidence will 17 fundamentally undermine its position. But the Court should not let the 18 government's strategic desire for haste hurry it into an unforced error. Given the 19 magnitude of damages the government is pursuing in this case, it certainly is not 20 too much to ask—and Rule 56(d) demands—that the government first produce the 21 documents and other evidence that United can use to defend itself. There will be 22 time enough to resolve these issues later, when they are fully crystalized.

23 B. Swoben Did Not Resolve The Issue That The Government Is 24 Asking This Court To Decide

25 In the face of all this, the government offers a final argument (at 18-20):
26 that the Ninth Circuit resolved all of these issues in its Swoben decision, such that 27 this Court has no choice but to adopt its rule. As Judge Collyer put it when 28 presented with a similar argument, however, "Swoben is not the droid the

1 [government] is looking for.” Ex. 57, APA MTD Order, at 12.

2 First, the Ninth Circuit’s decision in Swoben involved only an affirmative
3 False Claims Act theory, not a claim under the reverse false claims provision that 4 the government invokes here. See Swoben, 848 F.3d at 1172 n.6 (declining to 5 address “the ‘reverse false claims’ provision”). Indeed, the Ninth Circuit was very 6 clear that the only theory before it was a “false certification theory,” and that it was 7 not presented with an “archetypal” case where a contractor overcharges under a 8 contract because the claim for payment is false. 848 F.3d at 1173. It emphasized
9 that “[u]nder Swoben’s theory . . . the false claims are the allegedly false 10 § 422.504(l) certifications, not the erroneously submitted diagnosis codes.” Id. at 11 1183 (emphasis added). The parties therefore had not briefed, and the Court had 12 no occasion to decide, whether and in what circumstances a plan that learned that it 13 had previously submitted an unsupported code would be required to delete that 14 code, which might in turn give rise to an “obligation to pay or transmit money or 15 property to the Government.” 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(G). The Court specifically 16 noted that it was not deciding whether the allegedly false certification caused “the 17 government to pay out money or forfeit moneys due,” which would be central to 18 any case alleging overpayments. 848 F.3d at 1173 & n.7. Nor did it address the 19 implications of the fact that MA payment amounts already account for the presence
20 of some unsupported codes (a point the parties also had not briefed). Its analysis 21 was concerned only with whether under certain circumstances a “one-way review”
22 might cause the attestation to be false—an issue that was relevant to the claims this 23 Court dismissed on materiality grounds, but not to those that remain.

24 Second, Swoben was decided on the pleadings, and thus drew all reasonable 25 inferences in favor of the plaintiff. See, e.g., id. at 1175-76. It emphasized, for 26 example, that it did “not intend to suggest that the practice of concealing 27 previously submitted diagnosis codes from coders conducting retrospective 28 reviews is necessarily a suspect practice,” and that it was holding only that such a

1 practice might be impermissible in some circumstances such that dismissal on the 2 pleadings was inappropriate. Id. In this motion, however, the burdens are 3 reversed. If it is possible to infer from the existing record (or from the record that 4 United’s Rule 56(d) affidavit suggests that discovery will reveal) that the rule
5 which the government seeks did not exist, then the Court must deny the 6 government’s motion. The Ninth Circuit certainly did not say that there was no set
7 of facts that might be relevant to the issue—for example, evidence that CMS
8 officials themselves do not believe that there is anything improper in doing one-9 way looks and that they do not result in a plan identifying an overpayment.

10 Third, the Ninth Circuit’s decision in Swoben did not even involve, let alone
11 decide, the relevance or meaning of the Medicare Act’s “actuarial equivalence”
12 mandate. 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i). Instead, United and the other MA
13 plans there argued that because of a separate regulation, 42 C.F.R. § 422.310(d), 14 “they were not required to take any affirmative steps to find unsupported diagnosis
15 codes.” Swoben, 848 F.3d at 1179 (emphasis added). Under United’s 16 interpretation of that regulation, which the Ninth Circuit rejected, MA plans would 17 have had no obligation to delete unsupported codes even if they knew their rate of 18 unsupported codes far outstripped the rate of unsupported codes in CMS’s
19 traditional Medicare data. The implications of the Medicare Act’s “actuarial 20 equivalence” mandate, however, are materially different. For one thing, as a 21 statutory provision, Section 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i) would displace any contrary 22 regulatory understanding. And for another, United’s present position is 23 significantly more limited than the theory it advanced in the Ninth Circuit based on 24 Section 422.310(d). United does not argue here that MA plans never have any 25 obligation to delete unsupported codes, but rather that their obligation to do so 26 depends on a comparison with the rate of unsupported codes in CMS’s own data.
27 As discussed above, that is the approach CMS itself endorsed with its FFS
28 Adjuster for contract-wide audits of MA plans’ codes. See supra at 12-13. It is a

1 logical corollary to CMS's application of the Coding Intensity Adjustment. See
2 supra at 9-11. And the government has offered no persuasive response to it, either
3 in this case or in the APA case before Judge Collyer. There is simply no basis to 4 conclude that the Ninth Circuit silently resolved that issue without ever considering 5 the applicable statutory text and regulatory history.

6 Fourth, and finally, the Ninth Circuit in Swoben assumed (without deciding) 7 the validity of the Overpayment Rule that United has challenged in its APA suit, as 8 well as the validity of all the regulatory, sub-regulatory, and contractual provisions 9 that United has argued would be unlawful if they were construed in the fashion that 10 the government urges. See Swoben, 848 F.3d at 1169 n.4. Even if this Court were 11 to hold that Swoben interpreted those provisions in the way the government says, 12 and even if this Court were to conclude that the Ninth Circuit's interpretation was a 13 binding holding rather than dicta offered by way of background, there is no
14 conceivable way to read the Ninth Circuit's decision to hold that those provisions 15 can be applied in a way that would violate the Medicaid Act.

16 II. CONCLUSION

17 The motion should be denied for any number of reasons. It is procedurally 18 improper, premature, legally incorrect, and would accomplish nothing even if 19 granted. Above all, though, it is an unfair attempt to prevent United from 20 defending itself in this proceeding. Having chosen to pursue this case, the 21 government cannot deny United the right to discover the facts at the heart of it.
22 Nor can the government complain about the burdens that will be imposed on it by 23 allowing United a full opportunity to explore all the defenses discovery may 24 develop. United has experienced those burdens for six years. Now it is the 25 government's turn to live up to its discovery obligations. The Court should deny 26 the motion and allow this case to continue in its normal course.

A. Medicare Parts A, B, and C
1. Medicare is a federal health insurance program for the elderly and disabled, see 42 U.S.C. § 1395 et seq. , administered by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (“CMS”), an agency of the United States Department of Health and Human Services (“HHS”).	Undisputed.
2. Medicare Part A “covers medical services furnished by hospitals and other institutional care providers.” Ne. Hosp. Corp. v. Sebelius , 657 F.3d 1, 2 (D.C. Cir. 2011) (citing 42 U.S.C. §§ 1395c to 1395i-5).	Undisputed.
3. Medicare Part B “is an optional supplemental insurance program that pays for items and services not covered by Part A, including outpatient physician services,” as well as “clinical laboratory tests, and durable medical equipment,” among other things. Id. at 2 (citing 42 U.S.C. §§ 1395j to 1395w-4).	Undisputed.
4. Medicare Part C, now known as Medicare Advantage, allows people to opt out of Parts A and B and instead enroll in health insurance plans offered by private insurers, the Medicare	Undisputed.

PLAINTIFFS' UNCONTROVERTED FACTS	UNITED'S RESPONSE
8. In contrast, under Part C, MAOs contract with providers to render services to the beneficiaries enrolled in their plans and pay those providers. For each beneficiary in a MA plan, CMS pays the MAO a monthly base amount (which CMS and the MAO agree to before the start of the payment year) which is adjusted for each beneficiary based on that beneficiary's risk score. 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(A).	Undisputed.
9. The adjusted amount is based on the characteristics of each beneficiary, including "such risk factors as age, ... gender, ... and such other factors as the Secretary determines to be appropriate, including adjustment for health status." Id. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i).	Undisputed.
10. Under this "risk adjustment" system, MAOs are paid the predicted cost of providing benefits to a given beneficiary (regardless of the services, if any, actually provided to the beneficiary).	Disputed. Plaintiffs have failed to provide any support for this purported uncontroverted fact as required by Local Rule 56-3. Although it is undisputed that "risk adjustment" payments are not made to cover services already provided to the beneficiary, United disputes the remainder of the statement as incomplete. In determining the "predicted cost of providing benefits to a given beneficiary," CMS' objective is to obtain "[r]isk scores [that] are consistent across both fee-for-service and Medicare Advantage settings," Declaration of David J. Plaintiffs have failed to provide any support for this purported uncontroverted fact as required by Local Rule 56-3. This statement is also argumentative and a legal conclusion that requires no response. United disputes as inaccurate Plaintiffs’ legal characterization regarding the Secretary’s alleged discretion with respect to her ability to deviate from the requirement of actuarial equivalence. See Opp. to Mot. for Part. Sum. J. at 3-4, 14, 21-22, 24-25.
15. Since 2004, the Secretary has used the Hierarchical Condition Category (HCC) model to determine these amounts under Part C.	Undisputed , except that this model was only fully applicable to payments beginning in 2007.
16. The Secretary has used a similar model (the RxHCC model) to risk adjust for health status under Part D. See 42 C.F.R. § 423.329(b)(1), (2).	Undisputed.
17. HCC is a complex regression model that collects and analyzes payment data in order to assign estimated costs to certain characteristics of Medicare beneficiaries such as age, gender, and health status.	Undisputed , provided that “payment data” refers to CMS’s unaudited FFS claims data.

19. The multipliers are determined based on data included in claims submitted to CMS by providers for payments for their services to beneficiaries under Parts A and B of the Medicare Program. See Advance Notice of Methodological Changes for Calendar Year (CY) 2014 for Medicare Advantage (MA) Capitation Rates, Part C and Part D Payment Policies and 2014 Call Letter, at 17 (Feb. 15, 2013) (Exhibit 6).	Undisputed.
20. For each Part C beneficiary, the multipliers are added to form a “risk score” and then computed against the negotiated base (fixed) monthly rate to determine how much CMS will pay an MAO for insuring that beneficiary.³	Disputed. The CMS-HCC risk adjustment model does not purport to predict the precise medical expenses for a given beneficiary in any given year. The model’s explanatory power (as measured by R-squared) of

Moreover, pursuant to their MA Contracts, the Defendant MAOs agreed "to comply with the requirements in § 422.310 for submitting risk adjustment data to CMS" and could be terminated if they "fail[ed] to provide CMS with valid risk adjustment data as required under § 422.310 and 423.329(b)(3)." See Section B.7 of Art. And, because the medical record is the “source of truth” for the determining the validity of risk adjustment data, United’s MA Contracts, in accordance with 42 C.F.R. § 422.504(e)(2), provided the government with the right to audit, evaluate, and inspect “medical records,” “patient care documentation, and other records” in the possession or control of the United MAOs, related entities, and contractors that relate to the “determination of amounts payable under the contract[s].” See, e.g., Section A.2(b), (d) of Article VI of the MA Contract (Exhibit 1).	Disputed. United does not dispute that the language that appears in quotation marks appears in the cited contract and regulation. The rest of the statement is argumentative and a legal conclusion that United disputes and requires no response. PARTIAL SUMMARY JUDGMENT

United presents the following additional material facts and evidence in opposition to the United States' and Ben Poehling's Motion for Partial Summary Judgment. As set forth in the Declaration of Abid R. Qureshi submitted pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 56(d), filed concurrently, United expects to develop additional evidence on many of the factual matters that support the arguments in its Opposition through ongoing discovery in this litigation. See Declaration of Abid R. In determining the predicted cost of providing benefits to a given beneficiary, CMS' objective is to obtain "[r]isk scores [that] are consistent across both fee-for-service and Medicare Advantage settings, Schindler Decl. 6	know everybody's cost, I know that
7	these healthy people coded as sick cost
8	the same as all the other healthy people
9	and I magically already know they all
10	cost $500, an unknowable fact when
11	running a risk adjustment calibration,
12	but in this world I've created I know
13	this. And so I have two people thrown
14	into the sick category from a coding
15	perspective, but from a cost perspective
16	appropriately residing in the healthy
17	category . . . And as you see from this -
18	- and this is only -- by the way, it's a
19	one-directional look at this, I will point
20	out too, just looking at the incorrect
21	coding, not going the other direction.
22	The incorrectly -- incorrectly coded as
23	sick, not healthy, incorrectly coded as
24	healthy. It's not a robust presentation
25	that has both sides. It's a one sided --
26	. . . And then we just walk through it
27	and say we haven't thrown any sick
28	people into the healthy category erroneously, so healthy people still cost 500 bucks apiece. But by virtue [sic] adding two healthy people into the sick population, you lower the perceived average cost of the sick population....
	Q: "So what is the principle that you're illustrating with this example?" A:
	"That if there is a pattern of overreporting of diagnosis codes in fee for service, then that pattern would result in a underprediction of the 4	model")

5	68. CMS's own Division of Payment
6	Validation used a simplified
7	hypothetical to explain this concept
8	internally to senior CMS leaders. In
9	the slide presentation attached as
10	Schindler Decl. Ex. 15, they
11	hypothesized a scenario in which,
12	when calibrating the CMS-HCC model,
13	CMS identifies four FFS beneficiaries
14	with the diagnosis code for diabetes
15	and determines that the aggregate
16	incremental healthcare costs for the
17	four beneficiaries the following year
18	were $12,000. Id. at CMS0005888. In
19	that scenario, CMS would conclude
20	that the average per-patient cost
21	associated with diabetes is $3,000, and
22	it would set the diabetes risk coefficient
23	accordingly. Id. But, the presentation
24	explained, suppose further that one of
25	these diagnosis codes was a false
26	positive; the beneficiary did not in fact
27	have diabetes. That means that the
28	$12,000 was in reality attributable to just three beneficiaries, such that the true per-patient cost of diabetes was actually $4,000 ($$12,000 \div 3$ beneficiaries). Id. at CMS0005888-89.
	By averaging the cost over the four beneficiaries with the diagnosis code, rather than just the three beneficiaries who actually have diabetes, CMS's model produces a lower average incremental cost (and associated risk coefficient) than it would have done if the diagnosis codes in the FFS data had

4	been perfectly accurate. As the CMS
5	presentation put it, "Inclusion of
6	undocumented diagnoses [in the FFS
7	data] tends to reduce risk adjustment
8	values." Id. at CMS0005888.
9	69. Jeffrey Grant, one of CMS's risk
10	adjustment experts, used a similar
11	hypothetical when explaining to senior
12	CMS officials that "Plans must submit
13	like FFS to be paid full costs of sick
14	population." Schindler Decl. Ex. 19,
15	PowerPoint Presentation at 3, produced

21	attaching Schindler Decl. Ex. 19.
22	70. In addition to recognizing the
23	impact of coding discrepancies on
24	payment rates internally, CMS also
25	orally instructed MA plans that "if they
26	stuck to how the data comes in to FFS,
27	they would be paid correctly." Schindler Decl. Ex. 20 at 28	USBP000011426 ("Plans were told that at 207:20-208:17 (testifying that CMS provided oral instructions to MA plans

1	UNITED’S ADDITIONAL MATERIAL FACTS AND SUPPORTING EVIDENCE:
4	To Assess MA Plans’ Diagnosis Codes In Light Of The Codes Submitted In Traditional Medicare
5	1. The Coding Intensity Adjustment
7	71. Because MA risk adjustment is
8	based on diagnosis codes, MA plans
9	have an incentive “to find and report as
10	many diagnoses as can be supported by
11	the medical record”—to code with high
	“intensity.” Schindler Decl. Ex. 5,
	Kronick & Welch, supra , at E3-E4.
12	72. By contrast, reimbursement
13	under traditional FFS Medicare
14	generally is not tied to diagnoses, so
15	the incentive for comprehensive coding is weaker. See id. at E3.
16	73. MA plans therefore arrange for
17	“chart reviews” to look for diagnoses
18	documented in their beneficiaries’
19	charts that a provider failed to code in claims data.
20	74. CMS has long known that MA
21	plans engage in chart review activities
22	and, in effect, code more completely.
23	See, e.g. , Schindler Decl. Ex. 21, 2009
24	Advance Notice at AR004229-31
25	(“CMS understands that MA plans have made efforts to identify enrollees’ conditions and may be coding more completely than FFS.”)
26	75. Although CMS officials have
27	recognized that this is “an appropriate
28	activity for MA plans to engage in,”
	see, e.g. , Schindler Decl. Ex. 7, May

1	UNITED'S ADDITIONAL MATERIAL FACTS AND SUPPORTING EVIDENCE:
4	Grant Dep. at 163:14-18, CMS also
5	recognized that the divergent financial
6	incentives between MA and traditional
7	Medicare can lead to different coding
8	patterns that affect risk adjustment
9	payments.
10	76. Medicare experts have long
11	recognized that "for the purposes of
12	creating an equitable MA payment
13	system, the relevant question is
14	whether MA risk scores are
15	systematically different than those risk
16	scores would be in FFS, and not which
17	set of scores is more accurate" in an
18	absolute sense. Schindler Decl. Ex. 5,
19	Kronick & Welch, at E4 (emphasis
20	added); Schindler Decl. Ex. 7, May
21	Grant Dep. at 174:21 – 175:8 ("[T]hey
22	are using accuracy not to talk about
23	whether any specific diagnosis code in
24	fee-for-services or managed care is
25	accurate. It is to compare – to have
26	comparable diagnoses. So it is
27	accuracy of risk adjustment, really, not
28	accuracy of coding . . . when they say
	"inaccurate" they are not referring to the accuracy or inaccuracy of any specific code on any specific claim or any specific RAP submission. They're talking about comparable types of data."); id. at 182:6-8 ("[T]he definition of accuracy here," is that MA plans "would be paid consistently with how the model is calibrated.")
	77. Congress understands this, too, and in 2006 it instructed CMS to 9	109-171, § 5301(b)(2), 120 Stat. 4, 51

10	(2006) (emphasis added).
11	78. Congress further said that, “to
12	ensure payment accuracy,” CMS
13	should adjust MA beneficiaries’ risk
14	scores in light of those different coding
15	patterns. Id.
16	79. As recognized by the United
17	States Government Accountability
18	Office (“GAO”): “Risk scores for
19	beneficiaries with the same diagnoses
20	and characteristics should be identical,
21	regardless of whether the beneficiaries

28	Ex. 6, March Grant Dep. at 117:7-18
	(agreeing with this statement).
	80. In other words, “the implicit assumption in the design of the MA payment system” is that if “Jane Doe would have a risk score of 1.0 if she were in FFS,” then “she would have had the same risk score of 1.0 if she were enrolled in MA.” Schindler Decl.

5	81. Requiring MA plans to delete
6	diagnosis codes that are unsupported
7	even though CMS does not do the same
8	for its FFS population would violate
9	this fundamental risk adjustment
10	requirement: it would result in an MA
11	beneficiary having a lower risk score

13	resulting in a lower payment. See,

20	82. CMS began imposing a
21	downward adjustment to MA plans'
22	risk scores in 2010, calculated to
23	replicate the risk score-adjusted
24	payments that would have resulted had
25	plans not engaged in different coding
26	activities. Schindler Decl. Ex. 1, 2010
27	Rate Announcement, at AR4334.
28	83. CMS explained that, because the risk adjustment model is calibrated on FFS data,
	MA plans must code the way
	Medicare Part A and B providers do in order for risk adjustments to be valid. This means that MA
	organizations are coding
	"accurately" when they are coding

11	"inaccurate" for purposes of
12	implementing risk adjustment.
13	Id. at AR4335 (emphases added).
14	84. CMS noted that several members
15	of Congress had expressly recognized
16	this relative notion of accuracy.
17	Senator Grassley, for instance, had
18	explained that the intensity adjustment
19	provision was intended to address

21	incomplete for the purpose of

28	Intensity Adjustment in every year since 2010. 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-
	23(a)(1)(C)(ii).
	86. CMS has never found that higher MA coding intensity reflects the inclusion of codes unsupported by medical records; to the contrary, it has said the data "fail[] to show a systematic correlation between coding

14	certain percentage the risk adjustment
15	payments that an MA plan would
16	otherwise have received based on the
17	diagnosis codes it had submitted, in
18	order to account for the MA plans’
19	more complete coding. In 2017, for
20	example, United expects that CMS will
21	reduce its payment to United by
22	approximately $2.9 billion through its
23	application of the Coding Intensity

skill.” Q: “Understood. The one instance in which you recalled in which there were review of charts to add codes, do you recall whether there were any efforts to reconcile those codes against previously submitted claims data?” A: “So from a coding perspective, we did totally blind coding, so the coders had no idea what was previously submitted. We did have the capacity not to duplicate submit [sic] diagnoses. We weren’t going one for one and trying to look at claims data and see if every claim was one-for-one backed by a diagnosis on that date.” Q: “As part of this effort, did HRP compare the codes identified in the blind coding effort against the claims data that was submitted by providers and delete codes that HRP’s coders did not identify?” . . . 16	95. When CMS initiates a RADV

18	the plan’s enrollees for the audited activity.” On July 21, 2018, United requested that the court reporter review the video and revise the transcript to correct the error. The court reporter, however, declined to do so. United respectfully disagrees with the court reporter’s decision not to revise the transcript. Prior to this statement and based on his experience at Health Risk Partners (“HRP”)—a company Mr. Grant described as akin to “a risk adjustment support company” and where Mr. Grant worked from 2008-2010, Schindler Decl. Ex. 6, March Grant Dep. at 27:4-9—Mr. Grant testified that when HRP performed chart reviews for at least one MA plan whose relationship Grant managed, HRP did not engage in a systematic effort to compare the codes identified during chart review against the claims data submitted by providers and delete codes that HRP’s coders did not identify. Mr. Grant further testified that he did not find this improper, which United believes implies he did not think it was fraudulent. Mr. Grant was not discussing a specific fraudulent incident. United therefore believes that Mr. Grant’s oral testimony only makes sense given the context if he testified that he “did not knowingly participate in a fraudulent activity.” For the Court’s convenience and determination, United is submitting excerpts of Mr. Grant’s video-taped deposition testimony at Schindler Decl. Ex. 59.

	C. Additional Material Facts Establishing the Link Between This Motion

1	UNITED'S ADDITIONAL
2	MATERIAL FACTS AND
3	SUPPORTING EVIDENCE:
4	and United's Pending Administrative Challenges To The Government's Current Overpayment Theory
5	111. In 2014, in connection with
6	CMS's proposal of regulations about
7	the "Reporting and returning of
8	overpayments," multiple MA plans
9	urged CMS to make explicit in its
10	overpayment regulation the point that it
11	had already recognized in its audit
12	regulation: That "an overpayment
13	cannot exist for an MA organization's
14	particular contract unless CMS's
15	payments to the [plan] as a whole are
16	inaccurate in light of an appropriate
17	Fee-for-Service Adjuster that is applied
18	to the entire contract." Schindler Decl.
19	Ex. 34, Public Comments of Humana
20	on the Overpayment Rule, at AR907.
21	112. United explained to the agency
22	that, "[u]nder the Proposed Rule, [MA
23	plans] will be undercompensated for
24	the relative risk of their membership if
25	they delete diagnosis codes from
26	claims that are unsupported in a
27	medical record and CMS does not
28	simultaneously account for the equivalent diagnoses in FFS data." Schindler Decl. Ex. 35, Public Comments of United on the Overpayment Rule, at AR1041.
	113. CMS refused, announcing in its final rule (known as the "Overpayment Rule") that any undocumented diagnosis code would result in an overpayment to an MA plan: "[A] risk adjustment diagnosis that has been

1	UNITED'S ADDITIONAL
2	MATERIAL FACTS AND
3	SUPPORTING EVIDENCE:
4	submitted for payment but is found to
5	be invalid because it does not have
6	supporting medical record
7	documentation would result in an
8	overpayment," regardless of the errors
9	in the agency's own FFS data.
10	Schindler Decl. Ex. 36, Overpayment
11	Rule, at AR1313.
12	114. The agency made no attempt to
13	reconcile that view with its prior
14	recognition of the need for a FFS
15	adjuster when identifying
16	overpayments through RADV audits.
17	Instead, it argued that MA plans'
18	contracts with CMS required them to
19	"certify (based on best knowledge,
20	information, and belief) the accuracy,
21	completeness, and truthfulness of the
22	risk adjustment data they submit to
23	CMS." Id. ; see 42 C.F.R. § 422.504(l).
24	It also asserted that the agency had a
25	"long-standing risk adjustment data
26	requirement that a diagnosis submitted
27	to CMS by an MA organization for
28	payment purposes must be supported by medical record documentation."
	Schindler Decl. Ex. 36, Overpayment
	Rule, at AR1314-15.
	115. United subsequently brought an Administrative Procedure Act suit challenging the Overpayment Rule in the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia. United has argued there that unless CMS implements a mechanism to account for unsupported diagnosis codes in CMS's own FFS

1	UNITED’S ADDITIONAL
2	MATERIAL FACTS AND
3	SUPPORTING EVIDENCE:
4	data, requiring MA plans to delete
5	unsupported codes in their provider-
6	submitted data would violate CMS’s
7	statutory obligation under 42 U.S.C.
8	§ 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i) to “ensure
9	actuarial equivalence” between the MA
10	and traditional Medicare programs.
11	See Schindler Decl. Ex. 37, APA
12	United Opening Br. at 8 (ECF 47-1).
14	116. In addition, United has argued
15	that requiring deletions by MA plans
16	without comparable adjustments in the
17	FFS data would violate CMS’s
18	statutory obligation to “us[e] the same
19	methodology” when calculating risk
20	scores of patients in the traditional
21	Medicare program that it “expect[s] to
22	be applied in making payments to MA
23	plans. 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(b)(4).
24	See Schindler Decl. Ex. 37, APA
25	United Opening Br.
26
27	117. In response, CMS has argued
28	that the Overpayment Rule does not present a proper opportunity to challenge its present view that every unsupported diagnosis code submitted by an MA plan results in an overpayment and must therefore be deleted. Schindler Decl., Ex. 40, APA
	CMS Reply Br., at 5-9 (ECF 64).
	118. Relying on the same contractual, regulatory, and sub-regulatory provisions the government has invoked here, CMS has argued there that MA plans have long been required to delete

1	UNITED'S ADDITIONAL
2	MATERIAL FACTS AND
3	SUPPORTING EVIDENCE:
4	all unsupported codes they identified,
5	and that the Overpayment Rule
6	therefore changed nothing. Id.
7	119. United has argued in turn that
8	the contracts, manuals, and regulations
9	are at best ambiguous, that they can
10	and should be read in a manner
11	consistent with CMS's adoption of a
12	FFS Adjuster, and that if they are not
13	read that way—and instead read to
14	require deletion of all unsupported
15	codes in MA data without any
16	adjustment for the FFS data—then the
17	provisions at issue would be unlawful
18	in light of the statutory provisions
19	discussed above. Schindler Decl. Ex.
20	39, APA United Resp. Br., at 28-39
21	(ECF 60).
22	120. The parties completed summary
23	judgment briefing in February (totaling
24	over 200 pages), and Judge Collyer has
25	scheduled argument for August 8,
26	2018.
27	D. Additional Material Facts Demonstrating that CMS Communicated to
28	United that Two-Way Looks Were Not Required
	121. Given the “volume and variety” of diagnosis codes, CMS has recognized that the presence of at least some unsupported codes is “inevitable.” Schindler Decl. Ex. 41,
	2001 Medicare Managed Care Manual
	§ 110.2, at AR5349.
	122. In 2014, CMS considered and

4	then affirmatively decided not to
5	finalize a proposed rule that would

1 my authority. So, you know, for your consideration it may be 2 something you want to do, you know, before Judge Fitzgerald.

3 MR. SPEAKER: Thank you, your Honor.

4 THE COURT: All right. So I think on the OIG
5 custodians and -- I'll hear Mr. Schindler in a minute on part 6 two of that item in the agenda. But it doesn't seem like 7 that's something that the parties could reach an agreement on.
8 And it's a sufficiently fact driven type of analysis to apply
9 the law enforcement privilege, you know, that I don't think I 10 can even give you a preliminary idea of my thoughts on that 11 because it's just going to turn a lot on the declarations and 12 the facts you've put before the Court.

13 What about the production of documents concerning 14 investigations of other MA plans?

15 MR. FREEBORNE: Well, that is -- this is Paul 16 Freeborne, your Honor. That is the issue that we were just 17 discussing.

18 THE COURT: Okay, all right.

19 MR. FREEBORNE: There were other requests that go to 20 the specific program activities where we removed OIG as a 21 custodian because OIG doesn't have any role in program 22 responsibilities. But the other issues really pertain to the 23 materiality issue that Mr. Schindler identified earlier.

24 THE COURT: All right. And then on the deliberative
25 process privilege, you know, I mean it's a -- it applies to 1 things that are pre-decisional, it applies to things that, you

2 know, really reflect deliberation as opposed to a factual
3 finding. I guess that's -- I'm just sharing that with the 4 parties that I would look to the Ninth Circuit law and other
5 circuits' law on the application of that to decide. You know,
6 it sometimes shields documents, it sometimes doesn't. I mean
7 again, a very fact driven analysis. So I can't really tell 8 you, you know, what I would do. It would depend on what was 9 put before me.

10 MR. SPEAKER: And the parties have not met and 11 conferred on the deliberative process privilege motion to 12 compel that's contemplated by United.

13 THE COURT: And to some degree, you know, you can 14 resolve it on a declaration to the Court sometimes. But often 15 that does require in camera review that I need to look at the 16 document and decide if it's sufficiently deliberative or if 17 it's not deliberative and factual.

18 MR. SCHINDLER: Yeah. I think, your Honor, just 19 in -- and Mr. Freeborne is right. We've not had the 20 opportunity yet to meet and confer with them and we alert you 21 more to the fact that it isn't just one document. What we have 22 is a wholesale assertion by the Government to cross a broad 23 swamp of documents. And you are right, we're going to have to 24 present you with appropriate record to show you that this is 25 being used inappropriately to shield relevant documents.

Risk Adjustment in Medicare Advantage

- MA plans submit diagnosis data to CMS
- Diagnosis data are used to risk adjust CMS' payments to plans
- CMS assigns a relative value to each disease category (diabetes, congestive heart failure)
- The more diagnoses submitted, the higher the plan's payment

Risk Adjustment in Medicare Advantage

- CMS policy requires that plans only submit diagnoses that are documented in a physician, hospital inpatient or hospital outpatient medical record
- Until RADV, virtually no enforcement mechanism to ensure that diagnoses submitted by plans met this and other requirements

Risk Adjustment Data Validation

- In 2008, CMS launched RADV audit initiative
- Under RADV, CMS identifies statistically valid sample of beneficiaries for each audited plan
- Plan is asked to produce medical record documentation for each diagnosis claimed by the plan
- CMS coders review documentation
- Extrapolate from sample findings to estimate net overpayments due to undocumented diagnoses

RADV Audits

- Nearing completion of five pilot audits for 2007
- Nearing completion of 32 additional audits for 2007
- Need to finalize sampling and extrapolation methodology

Error in FFS Diagnoses

- In RADV audits, we expect coding perfection from MA plans
- In FFS Medicare, some portion of diagnoses on FFS claims are not documented in medical records
- Aside from DRGs, these diagnoses do not typically drive payment in FFS
- Under RADV, plans are being held to a different (higher) standard for diagnoses

Why does FFS Diagnosis Error Matter?

- CMS uses diagnosis and cost information from FFS claims to assign values to each condition category for MA payment purposes
- Inclusion of undocumented diagnoses tends to reduce risk adjustment values

Why does FFS Diagnosis Error Matter?

	Diabetes on Claim?	Diabetes in medical record?	FFS Cost
Beneficiary A	Yes	Yes	$4000
Beneficiary B	Yes	Yes	$4000
Beneficiary C	Yes	Yes	$4000
Beneficiary D	Yes	No	$0
		Total	$12,000
		Diabetes Value for MA payment	$3,000

Why does FFS Diagnosis Error Matter?

	Diabetes reported by MA plan?	Diabetes in medical record?	CMS Payment to Plan	Plan Cost	RADV	CMS Payment to Plan
Beneficiary A	Yes	Yes	$3000	$4000		$3000
Beneficiary B	Yes	Yes	$3000	$4000		$3000
Beneficiary C	Yes	Yes	$3000	$4000		$3000

Model Calibration Factor

- Model Calibration Factor (aka “FFS Adjustor”) takes into account how CMS payments would change if perfection standard that is applied under RADV was also used when calculating risk adjustment model values
- Ensures that RADV and MA payments are on same documentation standard
- MCF applied as an offset to recovery amounts under RADV

Model Calibration Factor

- MCF currently under development
- Will be calculated by applying RADV review to claims from FFS CERT program

Agenda

Background

- We released our latest payment error estimate for Medicare Advantage last November which was based on 2009 payments.
- We had an overall payment error rate of 11% -- which was driven almost entirely by errors in the diagnosis data that are submitted to CMS for risk adjustment purposes.
- Our primary corrective action to bring down this error rate is our RADV audit initiative in which we pick a subset of plans and audit the accuracy of the diagnosis data that they've submitted.
- We'll talk specifically about how later in the deck, but we think the RADV audit initiative can also be helpful as one tool to address the aggressive coding patterns of some Medicare Advantage organizations that Rick described at our last meeting.

Basic RADV Audit Methodology

- Slide 4 describes the basic mechanics of each RADV audit.
- For each audited plan, we identify a sample of beneficiaries (stratified into groups by risk score).
- For each disease or condition, known as an HCC, we request that the plan provide medical record documentation to verify the accuracy of each reported condition.
- For example, if a particular beneficiary was reported to have diabetes and congestive heart failure, we would request medical record documentation to support the diabetes and medical record documentation to support the congestive heart failure.
- We then have coding experts reviewed the medical records to determine what conditions are documented in the medical record.
- Based on that review, we then calculate what the payment to the plan should have been for those beneficiaries.
- Then extrapolating those sample errors to the universe of beneficiaries enrolled in that plan contract, we calculate an aggregate contract-level payment error for the plan.

Current Status

- In terms of the current status of the RADV audits, we have audited 37 contracts all for payment year 2007.
- We have preliminary medical record review findings for each of those audited contracts.
- The next step before finalizing these audits, or proceeding with audits for future payment years, is to finalize a few outstanding policy issues, including how we extrapolate the sample findings
- In December of 2010, we released for public comment our proposed methodology for extrapolating the sample findings to plans' aggregate payments.
- We got a lot of comments from the industry.
- There is intense interest given the dollars at stake.
- We're going to focus today on the four main outstanding questions/issues raised by plans that we need to finalize before moving forward.
- There are four main issues that we need to decide before publishing the final extrapolation methodology and proceeding with recoveries of overpayments.

- First, we need to decide whether we want to stay with 2007 as the first year for RADV or whether we should move to a later year.
- Second, we need to determine how many audits we will do for each payment year and how we select the plans to audit.
- Third, we need to finalize the methodology for calculating how much each plan owes and whether we include a FFS adjustor in that methodology.
- Finally, we need to decide what documentation we will allow plans to submit to prove whether a beneficiary truly has a particular condition.

Timing of RADV Audits.

- First, there is the issue of what year to begin with for RADV audits.
- The RADV audits are being done on our own initiative and not in response to a statutory or regulatory mandate.
- So we have complete discretion about when to start them.
- As I mentioned, the first and only year we have begun to audit is 2007.
- Plans have argued that the RADV audits are really a game changer and that they fundamentally change how much plans can expect to get paid in the years in which they are audited.
- Plans argue that they need to take potential RADV recoveries into account when they do their bids so they ensure they get the revenue they need.
- Plans argue that in 2006 when they did their bids for 2007 they didn't know about RADV and now we are retroactively changing the payment rules.
- We don't find that argument very persuasive and neither does OACT who reviews the bids.
- RADV is not changing our payment methodology it is just a mechanism to enforce the rules.
- In addition, if we take their argument to the logical extreme, we could only start auditing in a year when plans have perfect and complete advance knowledge of the RADV process and extrapolation methodology, which at this point would be 2013.
- We might want to pick a later year, however, to shorten the timeframe between when the audit is conducted and the payment year we are auditing.
- The 2007 audits have taken much longer than we ever dreamed possible.
- Our original goal when we started them in 2008 was to begin taking back money in 2008.
- The process has been drawn out because we needed to issue a reg on the appeals process before we could begin.
- Also the 2007 audits have been a learning process for us and the plans and as we've gone we've added steps and additional safeguards to the audit protocol to ensure that we have a process that will withstand challenge during appeals and litigation.
- If we move forward with 2008, we would be reviewing records from 4 to 5 years ago.
- Unfortunately, the longer the lag between the payment year and the audit, the more difficult it is for plans to track down medical records from providers that have moved or are no longer practicing.
- So to shorten the timeframe, we recommend starting with payment year 2011.
- This is the first year that we can implement the shortest lag possible – which is about 2 years.

- If we go that route, then we start the audits as soon as our final payment reconciliations are done for 2011 later this year and we would recoup overpayments in early 2014?
- For the 2007 audits, we propose to close them out by recouping overpayments for the individual beneficiaries in the sample rather than extrapolating the findings to each plan's entire payment.

How many RADV Audits.

- Going forward we also need to decide how many RADV audits to do each year.
- Given our current staffing and contractor resources, we can do up to 80 audits per year.
- As we discussed, we have done approximately 30 audits for 2007.
- We propose recommending 30 audits in anticipation that this is an item we can give on for OMB and go up to as high as 80 audits.

(b)(5)

Model Calibration Factor.

- The next issue is the extrapolation methodology that we're going to use in RADV.
- The approach that we laid out in our December guidance was pretty straightforward and we don't recommend making any significant changes -- with one exception.
- Plans have argued that we should incorporate a FFS adjustor into the extrapolation methodology.
- The industry has argued that in the RADV audits we are holding them to a standard of perfection for diagnosis coding but that physician claims in FFS Medicare often include diagnoses that aren't supported in the medical record.
- And this wouldn't matter except that we use FFS claims data to develop our risk adjustors for Medicare Advantage.
- So when we estimate the relative cost of any given condition, we use diagnosis and cost data from FFS Medicare.
- So implicit in all of the adjustments we make to plans payments to account for the relative risk of their populations, are the factors that we developed using FFS data.
- So we've got one documentation standard for RADV, which is perfection.
- And we've got another documentation standard for risk adjustment, which reflects a certain level of codes that aren't documented in a medical record.
- For our payments to be as accurate as possible, we should be using the same standard for both.

- To answer this issue, we can incorporate a FFS adjustor that estimates how much higher the plan's payment would be if the model had been built using perfect data.
- This factor would reduce the estimated RADV overpayments due from each plan.
- We think this approach makes sense and from a technical point of view is the right thing to do.
- It also will help bring the overpayments into a range that is more realistic for plans to be able to accommodate.

- To estimate the FFS adjustor, we have done a RADV-like audit of 10,000 medical records from the CERT sample.
- Based on this CERT RADV audit, we estimate the FFS adjustor to be 8.1%.
- The approach we used to develop this estimate can be modified to dial the estimate down.
- The FFS adjustor has a significant effect on RADV recoveries.
- If we had no FFS adjustor, we would recoup about $900 million for the 2007 audits. With a 8.1% FFS adjustor, we would recoup about $500??
- It is possible to modify the approach for calculating the FFS adjustor that results in a lower (or higher) adjustor.
- If we use a 4.8% adjustor, recoveries total XX.
- We think the 8.1% adjustor is the best approach – because is the most conservative estimate we think it puts us in the best position to withstand litigation challenges.

- In risk adjustment, we are estimating the average cost of any given condition given the people who are reported to have it.
- If we include diagnoses for beneficiaries who don't actually have the disease, or for whom the medical record documentation is not clear, this tends to reduce the estimated average cost of various conditions and therefore our risk adjustment factors.
- So plans argue that we are paying them as if they are getting beneficiaries who look like FFS rather than the higher average cost of the beneficiaries we are allowing to be claimed in MA under the RADV audits.

Documentation Standards.

- The third issue is what documentation plans will be allowed to submit as evidence for the diagnoses they submitted.
- So under our current rules, plans must submit medical record documentation to confirm each diagnosis they have claimed.
- So, for example, if they told us that a beneficiary had diabetes and congestive heart failure, they would submit medical record documentation from one date of service to support the diabetes and medical record documentation from the same or another date of service to support the congestive heart failure.
- The documentation must be from the year prior to the payment year and must be from an acceptable provider type, i.e., hospital inpatient, hospital outpatient or physician.
- The plans have pushed back on these documentation requirements.
- They want to submit medical record documentation from time periods other than the prior year.

- They also want to use non-medical record documentation like prescriptions or claims to support diagnoses.
- They also want us to allow plans, when necessary, to combine evidence from these various sources.
- So under this approach, even though there is no single source that definitely shows that a beneficiary has a particular diagnosis, plans could combine multiple records that taken together would suggest that the beneficiary has the diagnosis.
- Our recommendation is to hold firm with the requirements that the only acceptable documentation are medical records from hospitals or physicians from the proper time period.
- First, it is important to make sure that the standards we use in RADV are consistent with the standards we use in calibrating our risk adjustment model.
- If we allow data from time periods other than the prior year or from sources other than hospitals or physicians, then our RADV audits will be out of sync with our risk adjustment model and we will be paying plans more than we should.
- Second, if we deviate from medical records as the source of documentation, we will have no consistent standard.
- And then we are in very dangerous territory with being able to ensure that we are applying uniform set of rules to determine when the documentation is sufficient and when it isn't.
- What we do recommend, however, to address the industry's concerns is to allow plans to submit as many medical records as they like.
- So rather than limiting plans to one medical record, we would be accept multiple records.
- Our coders would code each record until they find a record that supports the condition in question.
- As we do with the one best medical record, we would also gives plans credit for any additional diagnoses we find in that record that we not initially claimed.
- One of the underlying problems here is that outside of the hospital setting, physicians are not consistent in following coding guidelines and there are issues with the quality of medical record documentation that are not unique to MA providers.

Anticipated Reactions to CMS' Recommendations

- For the model calibration factor, the MA industry will be very supportive.
- We have discussed this concept with the OIG; they appear at least at a staff level to understand the technical reasons for making such an adjustment.
- So if we decide to move forward with such an adjustment, we don't expect criticism from the OIG.
- On the documentation standards, the plans will oppose our proposed position and will use this as one of the legal challenges they make to RADV.
- The OIG, on the other hand, supports our proposed approach.
- On using 2011 as the first year for RADV audits, the plans will be supportive that we will not extrapolate for 2007, 2008 or 2009. However, they will continue to argue that we should skip 2010 and 2011 as well.
- It is unclear where the OIG will come out on this issue.
- They too have done 2007 audits, but have not completed them.

- They are likely to skip 2008 for the same reason we are considering to shorten up the timeframe between the audit and the data collection period.

Background

- As you know, we have a large payment error rate in Part C.
- It is approximately 11% and it is driven almost exclusively by error in diagnosis codes submitted to CMS by Medicare Advantage organizations.
- As you know, under our risk adjustment methodology we are largely reliant on plans to report diagnosis information.
- The more diagnoses plans submit, generally the higher their payment.
- Back in 2008, we launched our Risk Adjustment Data Validation initiative as our primary corrective action to reduce this payment error.

RADV Contract-Level Audits

Basic RADV Methodology

- Under our RADV audits, we confirm whether or not the diagnoses submitted by the audited plan are documented in the patient's medical record.
- Under these audits, we select a statistically valid sample of diagnoses for each audited plan.
- We then ask the plan to submit medical record documentation that prove that the beneficiary truly has the reported condition.
- We have teams of medical coding experts that review the documentation.
- Based on their review, we calculate an error rate for the sample, and extrapolate the error rate to the total payment made by the CMS to the plan for the year.
- This extrapolation approach means that significant dollars are at risk for audited plans.
- We first announced our plan to extrapolate back in 2008 and, at that time, began RADV audits of 5 pilot plans and 32 additional plans for calendar year 2007 payments.

21 at CMS? 10:43AM

22 A No. I don't remember it. 10:43AM

23 Q You never -- does that ring a bell for 10:43AM
24 you at all, or you just don't know what they did? 10:43AM

25 A It doesn't ring a bell for me. 10:43AM

1 MS. KRIEG: Object to the form. 01:51

2 A. Under what circumstance? They submit 01:51

3 it exactly like fee for service and what? 01:51

4 Q. If they submit exactly like fee for 01:51

5 service and then delete unsupported codes, they 01:51

6 would be paid differently than the model 01:51

7 calibration even without extrapolation. 01:51

8 MS. KRIEG: Object to the form. 01:51

9 A. It would have to be on an 01:51

10 exceptionally large scale. And in theory, yes. 01:51

11 But that's if they -- everything they did, they 01:51

12 did no medical record reviews to gain 01:51

13 diagnoses, they did no home visits, they did no 01:51

14 provider education about submitting, they did 01:51

15 nothing to alter the -- to increase the level 01:51

16 of diagnoses, so this is a hypothetical plan, 01:51

17 the existence of which I am totally unaware, 01:51

18 but in some hypothetical plan that absolutely 01:52

19 this was -- could get perfect, pristine 01:52

20 fee-for-service data, this could theoretically 01:52

21 be a problem, yes. 01:52

22 Q. Well, I want you now to assume, sir, 01:52

23 in this hypothetical world that the coding 01:52

24 intensity adjuster that we talked about 01:52

25 earlier, I want you to assume that it fully 01:52

1 offsets any activities that the plan undertakes 01:52
2 to code more completely, chart reviews, home 01:52
3 visits, whatever, but they're completely offset 01:52
4 by the coding intensity adjuster. If the plan 01:52
5 were to submit only the codes of people who are 01:52
6 truly sick, to use your presentation example, 01:52
7 then that plan would be underpaid. 01:52
8 MR. HASEGAWA: Object to form. 01:52
9 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 01:52
10 A. In a hypothetical world that you are 01:52
11 creating that does not exist because, as 01:53
12 discussed previously, at least the initial 01:53
13 implementation of the coding intensity adjuster 01:53
14 was in no way going to get you there, in that 01:53
15 world, in theory, yes. But that's hypothetical 01:53
16 again. 01:53
17 Q. Are you aware of any study in which 01:53
18 CMS has evaluated whether the coding intensity 01:53
19 adjuster fully offsets the plan activities that 01:53
20 are done to code more fully? 01:53
21 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 01:53
22 A. And again, it's the same answer for 01:53
23 anything on Medicare Advantage. I really would 01:53
24 have no basis to know that. 01:53
25 MR. QURESHI: May we take a break? 01:54

1 THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Going off the 01:54
2 record. The time is 13:54. 01:54
3 (Recess taken.) 01:54
4 THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Going back on 02:15
5 the record. The time is 14:50. 02:15
6 BY MR. QURESHI: 02:15
7 Q. Mr. Grant, I want you to again assume 02:15
8 that the coding intensity adjuster fully 02:15
9 offsets all the activities that a plan might 02:15
10 undertake to code more fully. I also want you 02:15
11 to assume that a plan audits every one of its 02:15
12 charts and deletes every unsupported code. The 02:15
13 problem that you highlight in your slide 02:16
14 presentation, Exhibit 1017, would still exist 02:16
15 in that scenario? 02:16
16 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 02:16
17 A. In my opinion, if you could have that 02:16
18 scenario, yes. 02:16
19 Q. The problem would still exist? 02:16
20 A. The problem would still exist if you 02:16
21 have that scenario. 02:16
22 Q. Okay. Now I'd like to change the 02:16
23 assumption slightly. Once again, the coding 02:16
24 intensity adjuster fully offsets all activities 02:16
25 that the plan undertakes that code more fully, 02:16

1 but now the plan audits 50 percent of a chart, 02:16
2 of its charts, and deletes the unsupported 02:16
3 codes in that set. Would the problem still 02:16
4 exist? 02:16

5 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 02:16

6 A. Okay, we have multiple assumptions 02:16
7 right? So we have the assumption that 02:17
8 overcoding is the bias in the data. We have 02:17
9 the assumption of perfect adjustment for plan 02:17
10 coding activities. To a degree, it exists. It 02:17
11 exists to a smaller amount. 02:17

12 Q. Same assumption regarding the coding 02:17
13 intensity adjuster, but now the plan is 02:17
14 auditing 25 percent of its charts and deleting 02:17
15 the unsupported codes. Does the problem still 02:17
16 exist? 02:17

17 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 02:17

18 A. Again, assumption of overcoding, 02:17
19 endemic in fee for service, and assumption of 02:17
20 plan -- plan coding activities being 02:17
21 100 percent offset in theory it exists to the 02:17
22 degree that diagnosis codes are deleted. But 02:18
23 at some point, that stops. It's not clear 02:18
24 where because there's still variability in 02:18
25 there. No plan submits exactly like fee for 02:18

1 service so, I mean, we are, like, creating a 02:18
2 very artificial world, but that artificial 02:18
3 world again doesn't exist. There is a world 02:18
4 full of errors. Errors are not the same level 02:18
5 of error between fee for service and any plan 02:18
6 even if you didn't touch the data let alone 02:18
7 after you've touched the data, and coding 02:18
8 intensity is not unitary among all plans. 02:18

9 Q. So Mr. Grant, are you suggesting 02:18
10 that, putting aside our assumptions, that there 02:18
11 are a lot of variables that would impact any 02:19
12 evaluation of the magnitude of the problem 02:19
13 you're highlighting in Exhibit 1017? 02:19

14 MS. KRIEG: Object to the form. 02:19

15 A. Oh, there are a large number of 02:19
16 variables. That is very simplified example 02:19
17 with a lot of assumptions baked into it and a 02:19
18 very simplified risk adjustment model. 02:19

19 Q. Are you able to itemize the various 02:19
20 real-world facts that you would need to know to 02:19
21 assess the extent of the problem? 02:19

22 MS. KRIEG: Object to the form. 02:19

23 A. On the fly, I would hesitate to 02:19
24 brainstorm every fact you would need to know. 02:19

25 Q. And I -- 02:20

1	that you then put in your email at 1016;	02:59
2	correct?	03:00
3	MS. KRIEG: Object to form.	03:00
4	A. In the context of extrapolated RADV,	03:00
5	yes.	03:00
6	Q. Okay.	03:00
7	A. So that was -- that was how -- that's	03:00
8	the context, yes.	03:00
9	(Exhibit No. 1019 was marked for	03:00
10	identification.)	03:00
11	BY MR. QURESHI:	03:00
12	Q. Mr. Grant, I'm going to hand you a	03:00
13	document that's been marked 1019. You're	03:00
14	welcome to flip through as much of it as you	03:00
15	like before I focus on a specific page, and	03:00
16	that's the page Bates numbered 201 in the lower	03:00
17	right-hand corner. And the Bates number for	03:00
18	the page that I'm most interested in is	03:01
19	CMS0006201.	03:01
20	MS. KRIEG: We object, for the	03:02
21	record, to the use of this. We can't	03:02
22	stop you, but we have made clear that	03:02
23	this is a deliberative document.	03:02
24	MR. QURESHI: Right. And I think	03:02
25	we've made our position clear that these	03:02

1 roster of diagnosis codes that they're coding 03:20
2 against. 03:20
3 MR. QURESHI: Take a break? I 03:20
4 think we are close to wrapping up here. 03:20
5 THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Going off the 03:20
6 record. The time is 15:20. 03:20
7 (Recess taken.) 03:20
8 THE VIDEOGRAPHER: Going back on 03:30
9 the record. The time is 15:30. 03:30
10 BY MR. QURESHI: 03:30
11 Q. Mr. Grant, I believe you testified 03:30
12 earlier there was at least one plan for which 03:30
13 you recall HRP performed a chart review while 03:30
14 you were there; is that correct? 03:30
15 A. Well, there's -- 03:30
16 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 03:30
17 A. -- more than one plan that we 03:30
18 performed chart reviews for, yes. 03:30
19 Q. Yeah. For the purpose of adding 03:30
20 codes, you recall at least one plan? 03:30
21 A. Yes. 03:30
22 Q. And do you recall the identity of 03:30
23 that plan? 03:30
24 A. I do. 03:30
25 Q. Okay. What is the identity? 03:30

1 A. It was Coventry. 03:30

2 Q. And in connection with that project, 03:30

3 were you the relationship manager with 03:30

4 Coventry? 03:30

5 A. I was the overall relationship 03:31

6 manager for Coventry, like all clients. We had 03:31

7 different people that managed the -- the very 03:31

8 specific project because we had a chart 03:31

9 retrieval process and we had a coding process. 03:31

10 So our coder managed the relationship with 03:31

11 respect to the coding and our chart retrieval 03:31

12 person was managing the relationship with 03:31

13 respect to -- I mean, we had -- I was actually 03:31

14 over all of them so we also had a client rep 03:31

15 for each one. So my client services rep would 03:31

16 be the day-to-day, manage the relationship and 03:31

17 keep track of, like, chart retrievals and go 03:31

18 back and forth with them on, like, do you want 03:31

19 to pay 20 bucks for this inpatient chart kind 03:31

20 of thing. 03:31

21 Q. Is it fair to say that you were 03:31

22 involved in that engagement? 03:31

23 A. Right. And I oversaw all of our 03:31

24 client engagements. I was the senior vice 03:31

25 president for client services. I had client 03:31

1 services rep that did the day-to-day for any 03:31
2 client, and then if it was a special project 03:32
3 that involved special skills, we might have 03:32
4 people that were further managing the 03:32
5 relationship with respect to that skill set 03:32
6 because it required specialized skill. 03:32

7 Q. Understood. 03:32

8 The one instance in which you 03:32
9 recalled in which there were review of charts 03:32
10 to add codes, do you recall whether there were 03:32
11 any efforts to reconcile those codes against 03:32
12 previously submitted claims data? 03:32

13 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 03:32

14 A. So from a coding perspective, we did 03:32
15 totally blind coding, so the coders had no idea 03:32
16 what was previously submitted. We did have the 03:32
17 capacity not to duplicate submit diagnoses. We 03:32
18 weren't going one for one and trying to look at 03:32
19 claims data and see if every claim was 03:32
20 one-for-one backed by a diagnosis on that date. 03:33

21 Q. Again, I'm focused on this one 03:33
22 project for Coventry. As part of this effort, 03:33
23 did HRP compare the codes identified in the 03:33
24 blind coding effort against the claims data 03:33
25 that was submitted by providers and delete 03:33

1 codes that HRP's coders did not identify? 03:34

2 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 03:34

3 A. I'm not sure. I believe we may have 03:34

4 done -- not systematically, not on a 03:34

5 large-scale basis, but I believe there were 03:34

6 cases where we did. 03:34

7 Q. And at that time, did you have a 03:34

8 belief that not engaging in such a systematic 03:34

9 effort was improper? 03:34

10 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 03:34

11 A. At that time, no. 03:34

12 Q. Okay. At that time, did you think it 03:34

13 was fraud? 03:34

14 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 03:34

15 A. No, I did not knowingly participate 03:34

16 in the fraudulent activity. 03:34

17 MR. QURESHI: I have nothing else. 03:34

18 MS. KRIEG: Okay. I think 03:34

19 relator's counsel have questions. 03:34

20 EXAMINATION 03:35

21 BY MR. HASEGAWA: 03:35

22 Q. Mr. Grant, I'm Steve Hasegawa. I 03:35

23 represent the relator, Ben Poehling, in this 03:35

24 case. I want to follow up on the last series 03:35

25 of questions that Mr. Qureshi just asked you. 03:35

1 unexplained variation in the model, that the 03:46
2 gain is not worth the cost that you had put in 03:46
3 it because there would still be plenty of 03:46
4 unexplained variation that doesn't get fixed by 03:46
5 doing this elaborate study. 03:46

6 Q. Does the existence of error within 03:46
7 the MA Part C risk adjustment model mean that 03:46
8 MA providers can submit knowingly incorrect 03:46
9 data? 03:46

10 A. No. 03:46

11 Q. Have you ever held the opinion that 03:46
12 it does? 03:46

13 A. No. 03:46

14 Q. Have you ever told anybody that the 03:46
15 existence of error within the model means that 03:47
16 MA providers can submit knowingly incorrect 03:47
17 data? 03:47

18 A. And can we define terms? 03:47

19 Q. Okay. 03:47

20 A. When you say "knowingly incorrect," 03:47
21 it is a very specific submission of a very 03:47
22 specific data element saying that I know is 03:47
23 wrong. 03:47

24 Q. A specific diagnosis code that is 03:47
25 known to be wrong. 03:47

1 A. Right. No. 03:47

2 Q. Does the existence of error within 03:47

3 the model mean that MA providers can refuse to 03:47

4 correct errors that they didn't know about when 03:47

5 they were submitted but that they later learned 03:47

6 were errors? 03:47

7 A. No. 03:47

8 Q. Have you ever told anybody that the 03:47

9 existence of error within the model means that 03:47

10 MA providers don't need to correct errors that 03:47

11 they know about? 03:47

12 A. No. 03:47

13 MR. HASEGAWA: I have nothing 03:47

14 further. 03:47

15 MR. QURESHI: Short redirect. 03:47

16 EXAMINATION 03:47

17 BY MR. QURESHI: 03:47

18 Q. Mr. Grant, if HRP in the instance 03:47

19 that you highlighted did the blinded review and 03:47

20 didn't do a systematic reconciliation with the 03:48

21 provider-submitted codes, is it your 03:48

22 understanding that HRP knew it was submitting 03:48

23 specific bad codes? 03:48

24 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 03:48

25 A. We were not submitting any bad codes. 03:48

1 Q. Were you facilitating the submission 03:48
2 of specific bad codes by the plan in that 03:48
3 instance? 03:48

4 MS. KRIEG: Object to form. 03:48

5 A. No. I think -- that's not how we 03:48
6 looked at it. We -- the codes were already in. 03:48
7 We were not doing a review to systematically do 03:48
8 a complete audit of a plan and determine the 03:48
9 accuracy of codes. We were sometimes asked to 03:48
10 do that, and if we were asked to do that, we 03:48
11 could do a very careful review. 03:48

12 I mean, it's a different style review 03:48
13 when you want to put in the effort that you 03:48
14 need to to absolutely make sure that a code is 03:48
15 backed up. 03:49

16 Q. The calibration of the Part C model 03:49
17 that you were discussing in response to 03:49
18 Mr. Hasegawa's questions, are you aware that 03:49
19 the model is calibrated using a sample? 03:49

20 A. I believe it's a very large sample, 03:49
21 but I believe it is a sample, yes. 03:49

22 Q. Do you know what the percentage size 03:49
23 of the sample is? 03:49

24 Is it 25 percent? 30 percent? 03:49

25 A. I'm not -- 03:49

MEMORANDUM OPINION ON MOTION TO SUPPLEMENT THE ADMINISTRATIVE RECORD

The UnitedHealthCare Insurance Company challenges a formal rule issued by the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS). When CMS filed the administrative record, Plaintiffs protested the absence of two documents which had been released by CMS under the Freedom of Information Act in another matter. CMS contends that the two documents are not properly part of the administrative record for this rulemaking and that they are privileged by the deliberative process privilege. The Court concludes that the documents, as redacted upon release, are no longer privileged and should be made part of the record here.

I. BACKGROUND

Plaintiffs in this case are Medicare Advantage organizations in the UnitedHealth Group family of companies, the nation's leading provider of Medicare Advantage health benefits plans (United). Under the Medicare Advantage program (MA), also known as Medicare Part C, private insurance companies provide Medicare insurance coverage to eligible individuals and are reimbursed by CMS on a pre-set, per-member-per-month basis, pegged to a dollar value for health care attributed to each diagnostic code submitted by medical providers, and adjusted based on demographic data. CMS undertakes various efforts to review and audit these reimbursements to ensure their accuracy.

By law, CMS is to pay MA insurers at rates that ensure “actuarial equivalence” with what Medicare pays directly for similar health care to participants in traditional Medicare, also called “fee-for-service” or FFS Medicare, or Medicare Part A and Part B. 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C)(i). Codes covering all manner of diagnoses are used by Medicare and MA to identify the illnesses or conditions affecting the covered populations. Given the millions of participants in Medicare, it is only to be expected that some diagnostic codes will be reported in error for a patient who does not have that illness or condition; in addition, Medicare suffers from some rate of fraud whereby health care providers intentionally report erroneous diagnoses to increase their repayments. As a result of these two factors, it is inevitable that Medicare experiences an error rate—that is, a proportion of diagnosis codes that are unsupported in underlying medical charts—that can be actuarially calculated and/or predicted.

CMS sets the rates to be paid to MA insurers according to the amounts Medicare itself pays directly to providers for the same diagnoses, without regard to the Medicare error rate for unsupported diagnoses. In January 2014, CMS published a notice of proposed rulemaking to affect MA insurers. See 79 Fed. Reg. 1918-01 (Jan. 10, 2014). “The proposed rule also include[d] several provisions designed to improve payment accuracy.” Id. at 1918. After receiving comments, CMS published a Final Rule concerning MA overpayments. 79 Fed. Reg. 29844 (May 23, 2014) (2014 Overpayment Rule). The 2014 Overpayment Rule, challenged here, requires MA insurers to return to CMS payments that were based on incorrect diagnostic codes once the insurer discovers, or through reasonable diligence should have discovered, the error in any individual patient's chart. See id. at 29923-24. Failure to do so exposes an insurer to a charge of having violated the False Claims Act, 31 U.S.C.A. § 3729, which can lead to treble damages, civil penalties, and debarment from federal contracts. Since a similar no-error standard is not applied by CMS in paying traditional Medicare providers, United alleges that MA insurers are not being reimbursed on an actuarially equivalent rate and that the 2014 Overpayment Rule must, perforce, be vacated.

CMS studied just such an issue in a separate 2012 rulemaking, which concerned an audit program to determine the diagnostic accuracy of medical charts for MA beneficiaries. In these "risk adjustment data validation," or RADV, audits, CMS reviews the medical records of a small sample of the patients covered by an MA insurance contract and then extrapolates the error rate of the sample to the entire population covered by that contract to determine whether the insurer had received an aggregate overpayment. As explained by CMS, "RADV audits determine whether the diagnosis codes submitted by MA organizations can be validated by supporting medical record documentation. . . . Diagnoses that cannot be validated contribute to a payment error rate." Notice of Final Payment Error Calculation Methodology for Part C Medicare Advantage Risk Adjustment Data Validation Contract-Level Audits (Feb. 24, 2012) (Notice of Final Methodology), AR 005311. On December 20, 2010, CMS posted on its website a request for comments titled "Medicare Advantage Risk Adjustment Data Validation (RADV) Notice of Payment Error Calculation Methodology for Part C Organizations Selected for Contract-Level RADV Audits: Request for Comment." AR 005020. After receiving more than 500 comments, CMS determined that it needed to include a "Fee-for-Service Adjuster" (FFS Adjuster) in the RADV audit process: when an RADV audit results in a determination that an

MA insurer was paid based on unsupported diagnosis codes, the repayment the MA insurer owes to the government is adjusted downwards based on an estimated traditional Medicare payment error rate.¹ CMS explained the rationale for including an FFS Adjuster in auditing payments to MA insurers:

The FFS adjuster accounts for the fact that the documentation standard used in RADV audits to determine a contract's payment error (medical records) is different from the documentation standard used to develop the Part C risk-adjustment model (FFS claims). The actual amount of the adjuster will be calculated by CMS based on a RADV-like review of records submitted to support FFS claims data.

Notice of Final Methodology, AR 005314-15. This explanation reflected that an RADV audit determines a payment error rate based on actual medical records while the risk-adjustment model on which per-diagnosis rates are developed and paid is based on unaudited FFS claims. In 2012, CMS apparently intended to develop RADV-like audits of its own FFS claims data. As far as the record shows, that has not happened yet.

The fact that CMS considered and adopted the FFS Adjuster in the context of RADV audits forms the basis for the motion to augment the administrative record for the 2014 Overpayment Rule. United obtained two documents originally disclosed to a third party through a request under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA), 5 U.S.C. § 552, seeking records comprised of meeting materials in the files of certain named individuals, all but one of whom served as senior decisionmakers at CMS between the years 2011 and 2014 when the RADV audit methodology was under consideration. See Declaration of Daniel Meron (Meron Decl.)

[Dkt. 44-1] ¶¶ 9-13; see also Joint Status Report ¶ 5(b), Schulte v. HHS, No. 14-cv-887 (D.D.C.

¹ See 42 U.S.C. § 1320a-7m(i)(5) (“The term ‘Medicare fee-for-service program’ means the original medicare [sic] fee-for-service program under Parts A and B of title XVIII of the Social Security Act (42 U.S.C. § 1395(c) et seq.)). In traditional Medicare, CMS directly pays health care providers for services to Medicare beneficiaries.

Jan 15, 2016), ECF No. 30 (noting that the request included “meeting materials dated after January 1, 2012” of these decisionmakers).² The two FFS Adjuster Documents, a slideshow and a bullet-point-style briefing memorandum, describe the reasoning behind the FFS Adjuster for RADV audits. Neither document is included in the Administrative Record submitted by CMS for the 2014 Overpayment Rule.

United moves to add both documents to the administrative record. Mot. for Leave to File Suppl. to the Admin. Record (Mot.) [Dkt. 44]. Defendants opposed that motion, Mem. in Opp’n to Mot. for Leave to File a Suppl. to the Admin. Record (Opp’n) [Dkt. 45], to which Plaintiffs replied. II. LEGAL STANDARD

The Administrative Procedure Act (APA) requires reviewing courts to “set aside agency action, findings, and conclusions found to be . . . arbitrary, capricious, abuse of discretion, or otherwise not in accordance with law.” 5 U.S.C. § 706 (2012). When reviewing an agency action under the APA, a court must “review the whole record or those parts of it cited by a party.” Id. Review “is to be based on the full administrative record that was before the [agency] at the time [it] made [its] decision.” Citizens to Preserve Overton Park, Inc. v. Volpe, 401 U.S. 402, 420 (1971), abrogated on other grounds by Califano v. Sanders, 430 U.S. 99

² An investigative journalist, unaffiliated with this matter, submitted the original FOIA request in response to which the two documents at issue were released by CMS. A separate third party submitted a follow-on request for the same records, which were then circulated to, inter alia, United. See Meron Decl. ¶¶ 4-6.

(1977). The full administrative record “include[s] all documents and materials that the agency directly or indirectly considered,” Animal Legal Def. Fund v. Vilsak, 110 F. Supp. 3d 157, 159 (D.D.C. 2014), and a court “should have before it neither more nor less information than did the agency when it made its decision.” Walter O. Boswell Mem’l Hosp. v. Heckler, 749 F.2d 788, 792 (D.C. Cir. 1984).

Because an agency is in the best position to know on what bases it made its decision, “[t]he record that an agency produces ‘is entitled to a strong presumption of regularity.’” Univ. of Colo. Mem’l Hosp. v. Burwell, 151 F. Supp. 3d 1, 12 (D.D.C. 2015) (quoting Marcum v. Salazar, 751 F. Supp. 2d 74, 78 (D.D.C. 2010)). However, supplementation of the record is appropriate where certain “unusual circumstances” exist. Lee Mem’l Hosp. v. Burwell, 109 F. Supp. 3d 40, 47 (D.D.C. 2015). The United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit has found “at least three” circumstances in which such “unusual circumstances” might exist: “(1) the agency deliberately or negligently excluded documents that may have been adverse to its decision; (2) the district court needed to supplement the record with background information in order to determine whether the agency considered all of the relevant factors; or (3) the agency failed to explain administrative action so as to frustrate judicial review.” Dist. Hosp. Partners, L.P. v. Burwell, 786 F.3d 46, 55 (D.C. Cir. 2015) (quoting American Wildlands v. Kempthorne, 530 F.3d 991, 1002 (D.C. Cir. 2008)); see also City of Dania Beach v. FAA, 628 F.3d 581, 590 (D.C. Cir. 2010).

“[A movant] must do more than simply assert ‘that materials were relevant or before an agency when it made its decision.’” Univ. of Colo. Mem’l Hosp., 151 F. Supp. 3d at 13 (quoting Marcum, 751 F. Supp. 2d at 78). Instead, the party “must identify reasonable, non-speculative grounds for its belief that the documents were considered by the agency and not included in the record.” Marcum, 751 F. Supp. 2d at 78 (emphasis omitted) (quoting Pac. Shores Subdivision Cal. Water Dist. v. U.S. Army Corps of Eng’rs, 448 F. Supp. 2d 1, 6 (D.D.C. 2006)). The party “must identify the materials allegedly omitted with sufficient specificity, as opposed to merely proffering broad categories of documents and data that are ‘likely’ to exist.” Lee Mem’l Hosp., 109 F. Supp. 3d at 47. It must “introduce concrete evidence to prove that the specific documents allegedly missing from the record were before the actual decisionmaker involved in the challenged agency action.” Id.

“[A]n agency may exclude arguably relevant information that is not contained in the agency’s files but that may be available from third parties” and “generally may exclude material that reflects internal deliberations.” Fund for Animals v. Williams, 391 F. Supp. 2d 191, 197 (D.D.C. 2005); see also Oceana, Inc. v. Ross, 290 F. Supp. 3d 73, 82-83 (D.D.C. 2018) (“[M]aterials that fall within the scope of the deliberative process privilege are not part of the administrative record.”).

United asserts that the FFS Adjuster Documents meet the criteria for supplementation. It argues that these two documents, known to senior CMS decisionmakers, must have been considered at least indirectly by them in the course of developing the 2014 Overpayment Rule. Notably, the administrative record for the 2014 Overpayment Rule includes a plethora of material relating to the FFS Adjuster, including, inter alia, CMS’s December 2010 request for comments on its proposed payment-error calculation methodology for RADV audits; nearly 300 pages of comments it received on that proposal; and its February 2012 announcement of the final payment-error calculation methodology, in which it included the FFS Adjuster. United contends that “[i]t is simply not credible to suppose that in 2014 CMS reviewed the public comments concerning the FFS Adjuster but not its own senior staff analysis of those comments. . . .” Mot. at 11.

CMS denies that the FFS Adjuster Documents were considered by any of its decisionmakers when promulgating the 2014 Overpayment Rule, and states further that, even if the documents had been considered, they are the product of internal deliberations and subject to the deliberative process privilege. See Lee Mem’l Hosp., 109 F. Supp. 3d at 49 (noting that “materials reflecting an agency’s internal deliberations should not be part of an administrative record” because it could “discourage candid discussion within the agency”).

A party moving to include additional documents in the administrative record “must identify reasonable, non-speculative grounds for its belief that the documents were considered by the agency,” Marcum, 751 F. Supp. 2d at 78 (emphasis omitted) (quoting Pac. Shores, 448 F. Supp. 2d at 6; and “must identify the materials allegedly omitted with sufficient specificity, as opposed to merely proffering broad categories of documents and data that are ‘likely’ to exist.” Lee Mem’l Hosp., 109 F. Supp. 3d at 47. Here, by limiting its request to two documents, obtained through a FOIA request targeted towards senior decisionmakers in the relevant CMS office, United has met the “specificity” requirements to support its request. The questions are whether CMS decisionmakers could be said to have considered the documents, directly or indirectly, and whether, nonetheless, they are privileged and properly excluded from the administrative record.

CMS does not dispute that the Administrative Record for the 2014 Overpayment Rule includes the CMS original proposed RADV methodology, the public comments it received on that proposal, and its final decision that included an FFS Adjuster in RADV audits. The FFS Adjuster Documents at issue address important considerations involved in that final decision.

Nonetheless, CMS insists that these FFS Adjuster Documents were not considered, even indirectly, during promulgation of the 2014 Overpayment Rule, and argues that “[i]f the agency wanted the views of its senior staff as to issues involved in the earlier proceeding and their bearing on the later proceeding, it could have just asked them.” Opp’n at 10-11.

One assumes, of course, that senior staff of CMS were consulted before the 2014 Overpayment Rule was promulgated, at least in some fashion. See id. at 10 (acknowledging that “many of the same CMS staff members were involved in the creation of the RADV sampling methodology and the Overpayment Rule”). These staff members’ knowledge of the FFS Adjuster concept inevitably would have been informed by the recent work presenting the FFS Adjuster Documents to explain the identical issues to executive management, with which the 2014 Overpayment Rule arguably conflicts. There is no real dispute about the provenance of the FFS Adjuster Documents or that CMS chose to include in the Administrative Record the public comments that appear to have led to the agency’s analysis reflected in the FFS Adjuster Documents. These facts strongly suggest that CMS at least considered the FFS Adjuster Documents indirectly when promulgating the 2014 Overpayment Rule. See Lee Mem’l Hosp., 109 F. Supp. 3d at 46 (noting an administrative record appropriately includes “all documents and materials directly or indirectly considered”).

In addition, a district court may need “to supplement the record with background information in order to determine whether the agency considered all of the relevant factors” Dist. Hosp. Partners, 786 F.3d at 55. The Court finds that this is the case here: either CMS naturally considered its recent analysis of the FFS Adjuster and omitted the documents in error or because they are adverse to its current position, or it failed to consider all of the relevant factors in adopting the 2014 Overpayment Rule. In either event, the FFS Adjuster Documents properly supplement the Administrative Record of the 2014 Overpayment Rule.

CMS further protests that the FFS Adjuster Documents are internal deliberative, or “pre-decisional” documents, and are thus privileged and exempt from inclusion in the Administrative Record. Oceana, Inc. v. Ross, 290 F. Supp. 3d at 83. “Pre-decisional documents are those prepared in order to assist an agency decisionmaker in arriving at his decision rather than to support a decision already made. . . . Deliberative materials are those that reflect[] the give-and-take of the consultative process.” Oceana, Inc. v. Pritzker, 217 F. Supp. 3d 310, 317 (D.D.C. 2016) (quoting Nat’l Ass’n of Home Builders v. Norton, 309 F.3d 26, 39 (D.C. Cir. 2002)) (quotation marks omitted). Deliberative documents are usually excluded from an administrative record because they may “inaccurately reflect . . . the views of the agency, suggesting as an agency position that which is . . . only a personal position.” Coastal States Gas Corp. v. U.S. Dep’t of Energy, 617 F.2d 854, 866 (D.C. Cir. 1980).

The deliberative process privilege “allows the government to withhold documents and other materials that would reveal ‘advisory opinions, recommendations and deliberations comprising part of a process by which governmental decisions and policies are formulated.’” In re Sealed Case, 121 F.3d 729, 737 (D.C. Cir. 1997) (quoting Carl Zeiss Stiftung v. V.E.B. Carl Zeiss, Jena, 40 F.R.D. 318, 324 (D.D.C. 1966), aff’d, 384 F.2d 979 (D.C. Cir. 1967)). The D.C. Circuit has elaborated on the deliberative process privilege:

The deliberative process privilege is a qualified privilege and can be overcome by a sufficient showing of need. This need determination is to be made flexibly on a case-by-case, ad hoc basis . . . taking into account factors such as “the relevance of the evidence,” “the availability of other evidence,” “the seriousness of the litigation,” “the role of the government,” and the “possibility of future timidity by government employees.”

Id. at 737-38 (quoting In re Subpoena Served Upon the Comptroller of the Currency, 967 F.2d 630, 632 (D.C. Cir. 1992) (internal citation omitted)).

United argues that any “deliberative” nature of the FFS Adjuster Documents is now irrelevant for two reasons: (1) while the Documents may have been deliberative in the 2012 decision process that preceded adoption of the FFS Adjuster for RADV audits, they are not so related to the 2014 Overpayment Rule, as to which they were not deliberative; and (2) the release of the FFS Adjuster Documents by CMS in response to a press FOIA request, with some redactions for truly “deliberative” materials, indicates that the FFS Adjuster Documents are no longer shielded by any privilege.

As to the first argument, the fact that the deliberations in question related to a previous rulemaking does not preclude application of the privilege for deliberative materials. The deliberative process exemption protects documents that are “recommendatory in nature,” or “draft[s] of what will become a final document.” Coastal States Gas Corp., 617 F.2d at 866. Moreover, the purpose of the deliberative process privilege—to “preserve the ‘open and frank discussion’ necessary for effective agency decisionmaking,” Abtew v. U.S. Dep’t of Homeland Sec., 808 F.3d 895, 898 (D.C. Cir. 2015) (quoting Dep’t of Interior v. Klamath Water Users Protective Ass’n, 532 U.S. 1, 9 (2001))—could apply long after the deliberations in question.

United protests that “even if the document is predecisional at the time it is prepared, it can lose that status if it is adopted, formally or informally, as the agency position on an issue” Coastal States Gas Corp., 617 F.2d at 866. United emphasizes that CMS, in fact, adopted the FFS Adjuster for RADV audits. CMS disagrees and contends that “[t]he only relevant principles that CMS actually adopted were set out in its announcement of the RADV sampling methodology.” Opp’n at 10 (emphasis added). Nonetheless, the Secretary agrees that

CMS “stud[ied] this problem” of dueling statistics between medical records and FFS claims and did adopt an FFS Adjuster. Opp’n at 5. CMS distinguishes its FFS Adjuster from an “agency position” because the “Secretary said nothing at all about what he expected the value of this FFS Adjuster to be” when it was announced. Id. To the contrary, CMS explained that “if the payment error rate calculated by the RADV audits was smaller than the adjustment factor that resulted from his study [i.e., the FFS Adjuster], then nothing would be recouped on the audited contract.” Id. Wordsmithing aside, this sounds very much like an “agency position” to agree to use the FFS Adjuster in RADV audits.

This debate need not be resolved, however, because the Court finds that the deliberative process privilege no longer applies to the FFS Adjuster Documents (except as redacted upon release by CMS). The deliberative process is not absolute; it can be waived. See In re Sealed Case, 121 F.3d at 740 (“[I]f we find that waiver has occurred, we need not proceed further.”). Such waiver is limited to “the document or information specifically released, and not [] related materials.” Id. at 741. In In re Sealed Case, the D.C. Circuit held that the White House had “waived its claims of [deliberative process and executive] privilege in regard to the specific documents that it voluntarily revealed to third parties outside the White House.” Id. at 741-42.

The agency contends, with good reason, that the mere fact that a document has been released under FOIA does not require its inclusion in an administrative record. The Court agrees that the questions at issue and the deliberations that give rise to the privilege in question may be completely separate from a FOIA analysis. See, e.g., State of Del. Dept. of Nat. Resources & Env’l Control v. U.S. Army Corps of Eng’rs, 722 F. Supp. 2d 535, 544 (D. Del. 2010) (“A FOIA production request is an entirely discrete legal concept that bears no relation to the administrative record compiled for a court's review under the APA."'). The same analysis would apply to a document obtained outside the FOIA process: the mere fact that a plaintiff possesses such a document does not render it part of an administrative record.

The D.C. Circuit has already decided that public disclosure of deliberative materials does not necessarily mandate inclusion in the administrative record. See Kansas State Network, Inc. v. FCC, 720 F.2d 185, 191-92 (D.C. Cir. 1983) (in action seeking review of FCC's denial of application for tax certificate, refusing to consider a transcript of public deliberations regarding the application); Deukmejian v. Nuclear Regulatory Comm'n, 751 F.2d 1287, 1323-29 (D.C. Cir. 1984) (denying motion to supplement administrative record and the record on appeal with transcripts of Commission's deliberations and finding it unnecessary to reach the question as to whether public disclosure of those transcripts was required under the Sunshine Act, 5 U.S.C. § 552b), vacated in part on other grounds, San Luis Obispo Mothers for Peace v. U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Comm'n, 760 F.2d 1320 (D.C. Cir. 1985). This conclusion is not surprising because only materials considered directly or indirectly in rulemaking should be part of the record on review.

On the other hand, a document that was privileged as part of the deliberative process can lose its privilege when revealed outside the agency. In re Sealed Case, 121 F.3d at 741-42 (holding that the White House "waived its claims of privilege in regard to the specific documents that it voluntarily revealed to third parties outside the White House"). That is what happened here. CMS waived any deliberative process privilege in the FFS Adjuster Documents to the extent that information was not redacted when it released them to the public. Thus, the privilege does not prevent the FFS Adjuster Documents from being made part of the administrative record.

IV. CONCLUSION

The Court will grant the motion to supplement the administrative record, Dkt. 44. Because the Court need not reach the arguments raised by United to which the Secretary has filed a proposed surreply, the agency's motion for leave to file a surreply, Dkt. 54, will be denied as moot. A memorializing order accompanies this opinion.

1 I. INTRODUCTION

2 This Court observed at the scheduling conference that motions to strike
3 affirmative defenses ordinarily are a “monumental waste of everybody’s time.”
4 Scheduling Conference Tr. at 7:23, Apr. 9, 2018, ECF No. 229. That description
5 fits the government’s¹ motion like a glove.

6 Precisely because such motions are so often a waste of time, “courts often 7 require ‘a showing of prejudice by the moving party’ before granting the requested 8 relief.” Quintana v. Baca, 233 F.R.D. 562, 564 (C.D. Cal. 2005). And while the 9 motion is misguided for a host of reasons—indeed, with respect to many of the 10 affirmative defenses, the government does not even attempt to argue that they are 11 invalid as to the two common law causes of action remaining in the complaint—its 12 most basic and overarching failing is that it establishes no prejudice to the 13 government whatsoever.

14 The government asserts that granting its motion would prevent a “dramatic 15 expansion of the scope of discovery” about the knowledge of “Government
16 employees and agency officials.” Pl.’s Mem. in Supp. of Mot. to Strike
17 Affirmative Defenses (“Mem.”) at 1, ECF No. 235-1. And it is not hard to guess 18 why the government is so eager to avoid that discovery. Already, the only current 19 Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (“CMS”) official deposed to date who 20 has extensive knowledge of the details of the risk adjustment system—and whose 21 deposition the government vigorously opposed—confirmed the validity of 22 United’s defenses at multiple levels, including on the key question of whether 23 CMS believes that it is improper for Medicare Advantage plans to conduct so-24 called “one way” chart reviews. See Defs.’ Opp’n to Mot. for Partial Summ. J. 40– 25 41. And as explained at length in the Rule 56(d) declaration submitted along with 26

27 ¹ Plaintiffs’ Motion to Strike Affirmative Defenses (“Mot.”), ECF No. 235, was 28 filed on behalf of both the government and Relator Benjamin Poehling. United uses the term “government” to refer collectively to the parties filing the motion.

1 United's Opposition to Plaintiffs' Motion for Partial Summary Judgment, there is 2 every reason to think that additional discovery from CMS will undermine the 3 government's litigation position even more.

4 But contrary to the government's implicit assertion, striking United's
5 affirmative defenses would do nothing to shelter the government from that long-6 delayed discovery. All of the same facts about the government's knowledge and 7 views that are relevant to United's affirmative defenses are relevant to many other
8 issues in the case, too. The government wholly ignores, for example, its pending
9 claim for Payment By Mistake, but that claim requires the government to prove
10 what it knew and what it would have done differently if it had the knowledge it
11 claims it lacked. The government cannot deprive United of discovery about the 12 very elements of that claim. In addition, the government's Unjust Enrichment and 13 remaining False Claims Act count both similarly place the government's views and 14 knowledge directly at issue on elements ranging from whether diagnosis codes are 15 material to whether being paid based on some unsupported codes is unjust.

16 As this Court noted when the government first suggested its intent to file this 17 motion, there will be "many other opportunities . . . in this case to decide what the 18 affirmative defenses are, including settling jury instructions if it comes to that."
19 Scheduling Conference Tr. at 8:13–16. The government's request to eliminate 20 defenses now, before United has been given the opportunity to develop them and at 21 a stage when striking them would have no impact on the case, is just a waste of 22 time. The motion should be denied.

23 II. LEGAL STANDARD

24 The government faces a heavy burden in moving to strike United's 25 affirmative defenses. By design, the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure encourage 26 defendants to assert all affirmative defenses that might possibly be relevant in the 27 case. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 8(c). Unlike the affirmative allegations in a complaint, 28 which must contain factual matter sufficient to demonstrate that the plaintiff's

1 claims are plausible, see Bell Atlantic Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544 (2007), 2 “[t]he key to determining the sufficiency of pleading an affirmative defense” is 3 simply “whether it gives plaintiff fair notice of the defense.” Simmons v. Navajo
4 Cty., 609 F.3d 1011, 1023 (9th Cir. 2010). Only later, after the defendant has had 5 an opportunity to take discovery that will support its affirmative defenses from the 6 plaintiff who initiated the litigation, is it ordinarily appropriate to rule on the 7 sufficiency of the affirmative defenses in a given case.

8 Accordingly, in assessing a motion to strike affirmative defenses, “[t]he 9 Court must treat as admitted all material factual allegations underlying the 10 challenged defenses and all reasonable presumptions that can be drawn therefrom.”
11 Perez v. Auto Tech. Co., No. CV 13-06728MMM (VBKx), 2014 WL 12591254, at 12 *2 (C.D. Cal. Feb. 4, 2014) (quoting California ex rel. State Lands Comm’n v.
13 United States, 512 F. Supp. 36, 39 (N.D. Cal. 1981)). “To strike an affirmative 14 defense, the moving party must convince the court that there are no questions of 15 fact, that any questions of law are clear and not in dispute, and that under no set of 16 circumstances could the defense succeed.” S.E.C. v. Sands, 902 F. Supp. 1149, 17 1165 (C.D. Cal. 1995) (citation and internal quotation marks omitted), aff’d sub 18 nom. S.E.C. v. First Pac. Bancorp., 142 F.3d 1186 (9th Cir. 1998).

19 Finally, the government must show that allowing the challenged defenses to 20 remain in the case beyond the pleading stage “may prejudice one or more of the 21 parties to the suit.” Echavez v. Abercrombie & Fitch Co. Inc., No. CV 11-9754 22 GAF (PJWx), 2013 WL 7162011, at *9 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 13, 2013) (citation and 23 internal quotation marks omitted)); see also, e.g., Quintana, 233 F.R.D. at 564.

24 III. BACKGROUND

25 This Court is well aware of the background of this case. United describes it 26
27
28

1 here only briefly, as necessary to address the specific arguments presented.²

2 On November 17, 2017, the government filed its First Amended Complaint-
3 In-Intervention. Am. Compl., ECF No. 171. The government's decision to amend 4 its complaint followed the dismissal of similar claims in United States ex rel.
5 Swoben v. Scan Health Plan, CV 09-5013-JFW (JEMx), 2017 WL 4564722 (C.D.
6 Cal. Oct. 5, 2017). The amended complaint here contained six counts—four 7 asserting claims under the False Claims Act, and two asserting common law claims
8 for Unjust Enrichment and Payment By Mistake. Am. Compl. ¶¶ 234-52. On 9 February 12, 2018, this Court granted United's motion to dismiss three of the four 10 False Claims Act counts because they failed to plead materiality adequately. Mot.
11 to Dismiss Order, ECF No. 212.

12 The government did not attempt to re-plead those three dismissed counts, 13 effectively conceding that the allegedly false attestations then at the core of its 14 complaint were not material. Instead, the government chose to proceed on its 15 common law claims for Unjust Enrichment and Payment By Mistake, along with a 16 "reverse" False Claims Act theory that was not asserted in Swoben and that 17 requires the government to prove United "knowingly conceal[ed] or knowingly 18 and improperly avoid[ed] or decrease[d] an obligation to pay or transmit money or 19 property to the Government." 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(G). An "obligation" is "an 20 established duty, whether or not fixed, arising from an express or implied
21 contractual . . . relationship, from a fee-based or similar relationship, from statute
22 or regulation, or from the retention of any overpayment." 31 U.S.C. § 3729(b)(3).
23 Plaintiffs' complaint is replete with references to CMS's alleged overpayments to 24 United. See, e.g., Am. Compl. ¶¶ 267–70. Central to all of the government's 25 remaining claims, therefore, is the theory that United obtained overpayments to 26

27 ² United addresses the background of the Medicare Advantage risk adjustment 28 system in more detail in its contemporaneously filed opposition to the government's motion for partial summary judgment.

1 which it was not entitled, which the government did not intend to make, and which 2 would be improper or unjust for United to retain.

3 United filed its Answer and Counterclaim (“Ans. & Countercl.”), ECF No.
4 223, in March 2018, which included 22 affirmative defenses. United later agreed 5 to withdraw several of those affirmative defenses based on conversations with the 6 government. See Mem. at 4 n.3. On May 22, 2018, the government filed a motion
7 to strike eight of United’s remaining affirmative defenses, including estoppel,
8 failure to mitigate, ratification, unjust enrichment, assumption of risk, government 9 knowledge, and course of performance. Mot., ECF No. 235.

10 IV. ARGUMENT

11 A. The Appropriations Clause Of The Constitution Does Not Bar 12 Assertion Of United’s Affirmative Defenses

13 The government’s first argument for dismissal of United’s affirmative
14 defenses is a categorical one. It asserts (at 1) that, by virtue of the Appropriations
15 Clause of the U.S. Constitution,³ “non-statutory” defenses are never available 16 against the government when it seeks “recovery in cases involving public funds.”

17 No such rule exists. In Office of Personnel Management v. Richmond, 496
18 U.S. 414 (1990), the Supreme Court examined the implications of that Clause for a 19 non-statutory cause of action asserted by a private plaintiff against the government 20 as a defendant. It held that where a plaintiff sues the United States in order to 21 recover “a payment of money from the Public Treasury” based on an equitable 22 estoppel theory, the Appropriations Clause bars that affirmative relief if it would 23 be “contrary to a statutory appropriation.” Id. at 424.

24 Richmond did not involve non-statutory affirmative defenses asserted by 25 private litigants, let alone adopt—as the government’s motion suggests—a

26
27 ³ The Appropriations Clause provides that “No Money shall be drawn from the 28 Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law.” U.S. CONST., art
I, § 9, cl. 7.

1 categorical rule barring those defenses. After all, the defendant in Richmond was 2 the government. As the Ninth Circuit has explained, Richmond held only that 3 litigants “may not use the doctrine of estoppel offensively, to support ‘a claim for 4 payment of money from the Public Treasury contrary to a statutory 5 appropriation.’” United States v. Hatcher, 922 F.2d 1402, 1410 (9th Cir. 1991)
6 (quoting Richmond, 496 U.S. at 424 (emphasis in Hatcher)). Thus, following 7 Richmond, the ordinary rule remains that “a party is not barred from using 8 equitable estoppel against the Government defensively.” United States v. McAfee, 9 44 F. App’x 223, 226 (9th Cir. 2002) (emphasis added).

10 Courts have recognized one narrow exception to that ordinary rule, in cases 11 in which the government seeks to recover payments made in direct contravention 12 of a statutory appropriation. Id. In United States v. Fowler, for example, the Ninth 13 Circuit ruled that where the defendants had received flood insurance payments for 14 which they were indisputably ineligible under the governing statutory 15 appropriation, they could not rely on estoppel to retain the impermissible 16 payments. 913 F.2d 1382, 1386 (9th Cir. 1990) (“[I]f we were to permit the 17 Fowlers to estop the United States, we would be permitting them to retain public 18 funds that Congress had not appropriated.”).

19 The government’s claims here (and thus United’s affirmative defenses here)
20 do not come within that narrow exception, for two reasons. First, non-statutory 21 affirmative defenses remain fully available as against non-statutory claims brought 22 by the government, including Unjust Enrichment and Payment By Mistake claims
23 like the ones the government maintains here. Second, even where the government
24 seeks relief under the False Claims Act, non-statutory defenses remain available 25 where, as here, the underlying basis for the government’s claim is an alleged 26 contractual breach rather than violation of a statutory appropriation.

1 1. The Government's Appropriation Clause Argument Against Non- 2 Statutory Affirmative Defenses Is Inapplicable To The 3 Government's Non-Statutory Claims

4 The first dispositive flaw in the government's Appropriations Clause
5 argument is that it does not apply to two of the three claims remaining in the case.

6 Like most of the rest of its motion, the government's argument concerning 7 the Appropriations Clause focuses exclusively on the availability of affirmative 8 defenses to its False Claims Act claim. The government bases this argument on its 9 theory that United violated the reverse false claims provision in Section
10 3729(a)(1)(G) of the False Claims Act, see Mem. at 7, and all of the cases it cites 11 for applying Richmond to non-statutory affirmative defenses involved defenses to 12 statutory False Claims Act counts, see id. at 8-9 & n.5.

13 By contrast, the government offers no argument at all for the proposition that 14 where the government brings non-statutory claims, like the two common law 15 claims here, a defendant may not respond with non-statutory defenses. And the 16 government's silence on that point is unsurprising because such a rule would make 17 no sense. Judicially created limits on common law claims do not in any way 18 infringe on Congress's right to control federal appropriations. Instead, they simply 19 set boundaries on the circumstances in which the courts authorize their own extra-20 statutory remedies for the government. Where the government invokes a common 21 law cause of action like Unjust Enrichment or Payment By Mistake, it cannot 22 complain that the judicially created claim on which it is suing comes with 23 associated judicial limitations. Instead, like any litigant, the government must 24 accept the bitter with the sweet.

25 Remarkably, the very cases the government cites hold that a private litigant
26 may indeed invoke non-statutory defenses to non-statutory claims. For example, 27 the government points to United States ex rel. Dye v. ATK Launch Systems, Inc., in 28 which the U.S. District Court for the District of Utah struck certain non-statutory

1 affirmative defenses asserted against the government's False Claims Act counts.
2 No. 1:06-CV-39 TS, 2008 WL 4642164 (D. Utah Oct. 16, 2008). But the court 3 there specifically permitted the defendant to assert non-statutory defenses to the 4 government's common law claims. See, e.g., id. at *4 (allowing defendant to 5 maintain affirmative defense of failure to mitigate against common law claims for,
6 among other things, Unjust Enrichment and Payment By Mistake).⁴ Similarly, in 7 United States ex rel. Jordan v. Northrup Grumman Corp., another case cited by the 8 government (at 11), the court held that affirmative defenses of waiver, ratification, 9 and failure to mitigate were potentially valid as to the government's common law
10 claims for Unjust Enrichment and Payment By Mistake. No. CV 95-2985 ABC
11 (EX), 2002 WL 35454612, at *9, *17 (C.D. Cal. Aug. 5, 2002).

12 2. The Government's Argument Also Fails Because The Government's 13 Payments To United Were Not "Contrary To A Statutory 14 Appropriation"

15 The government's wholesale failure to explain how its Appropriations
16 Clause argument applies to United's defenses to two of the government's three 17 remaining claims is enough, by itself, to resolve this issue.⁵ Once the government 18 acknowledges that an affirmative defense is applicable to some of the claims in the 19 case, it has no basis for arguing that it will be prejudiced by allowing that 20 affirmative defense to remain in the case as to other claims as well. Moreover,
21 Rule 8 does not require a defendant to designate with specificity which affirmative
22 defenses apply to each separate claim brought by a plaintiff (and United's Answer

23 ⁴ The court in Dye did reject some of the defendant's affirmative defenses as 24 applied to common law claims, but the court's decision allowing some such 25 defenses to go forward demonstrates that there is no overarching bar on the application of non-statutory defenses to non-statutory claims by the government, even where public funds are at issue.

26 ⁵ It is too late for the government to explain in its reply how the argument applies 27 to its common law claims. See, e.g., Wallace v. Countrywide Home Loans, Inc., 28 No. SACV 08-1463 AG (MLGx), 2009 WL 4349534, at *7 (C.D. Cal. Nov. 23, 2009) ("[W]e will not consider issues or evidence raised for the first time in plaintiff's reply.").

1 here does not do so), so a showing that an affirmative defense is potentially viable
2 as to one claim is a sufficient basis by itself for denying a motion to strike in its 3 entirety. In that circumstance, there is no “insufficient defense” to “strike from a 4 pleading,” Fed. R. Civ. P. 12(f), and considering whether the affirmative defense
5 might be viable as to all the claims or only some of them is a meaningless exercise.

6 In any event, even if the government had only brought a False Claims Act
7 case, its Appropriations Clause argument would still lack merit. That is because,
8 as Richmond expressly acknowledged, a payment violates the Appropriations
9 Clause only where it is “contrary to a statutory appropriation.” 496 U.S. at 424
10 (emphasis added). Where the government contends just that a particular payment 11 is contrary to a contractual or regulatory requirement that is not dictated by a 12 statutory appropriation, the Appropriations Clause does not come into play. See
13 Burnside-Ott Aviation Training Ctr., Inc. v. United States, 985 F.2d 1574, 1581 14 (Fed. Cir. 1993) (“[B]ecause the Supreme Court’s analysis in Richmond is based 15 entirely on the Appropriations Clause . . . , which provides that ‘No Money shall be 16 drawn from the Treasury, but in Consequence of Appropriations made by Law,’ its 17 holding must be limited to claims of entitlement contrary to statutory 18 appropriations.”). In those contractual or regulatory cases, Congress has not set the 19 relevant conditions for expenditure, and so those conditions do not implicate the 20 congressional prerogatives that the Appropriations Clause protects.

21 Jordan, a case from this District, recognized the significance of that 22 distinction to the assertion of affirmative defenses in False Claims Act cases. See
23 2002 WL 35454612, at *10-*11. The court there held that if the government bases
24 its False Claims Act allegations on violations of a contract, rather than violations 25 of “statutory eligibility criteria,” then the defendant remains free to assert non-26 statutory affirmative defenses. Id. at *11. In doing so, the court expressly 27 distinguished Fowler, 913 F.2d at 1385, because there the defendants had received 28 funds for which they were ineligible in violation of the appropriations statute.

1 Jordan, 2002 WL 35454612, at *11 n.7. Where the government’s False Claims
2 Act case is based instead on alleged non-statutory violations, it held, Fowler and 3 Richmond are inapplicable. Id.

4 Here, the government points to no violation of a statutory appropriation.
5 Instead, as the section of its complaint describing United’s alleged “Obligation to 6 Delete Invalid Diagnoses” makes clear, its allegations are based on its reading of 7 United’s contracts with CMS. See Am. Compl. ¶¶ 103–114 (discussing United’s 8 contracts with the government, as well as sub-regulatory guidance materials with 9 which the government claims United was contractually obligated to comply).⁶

10 Seeking to avoid that problem, the government cites (at 7) two statutes with 11 which it claims “Defendants’ non-statutory defenses would conflict.” First, the 12 government cites Section 3729(a)(1)(G) of the False Claims Act itself. But the 13 False Claims Act is not a statutory appropriation; it simply creates liability for 14 violations of underlying contractual, regulatory, or statutory requirements—and 15 here, the underlying requirements the government purports to rely upon are 16 contractual, not statutory. Just as in Jordan, therefore, the False Claims Act does 17 not bring the case into the narrow circumstances in which non-statutory affirmative
18 defenses are barred by the Appropriations Clause. See Jordan, 2002 WL 19 35454612, at *10–*11.

20 Second, the government points to 42 U.S.C. § 1395w-23(a)(1)(C), which 21 provides that in calculating payment amounts to Medicare Advantage plans, CMS

22
23 ⁶ The First Amended Complaint also invokes generalized regulatory obligations to 24 “implement effective compliance programs and to ‘detect and correct non-25 compliance with CMS’ program requirements as well as . . . [to] prevent, detect, 26 and correct fraud, waste, and abuse.” Am. Compl. ¶ 104. Those regulatory 27 obligations appear to be irrelevant to the government’s remaining False Claims Act 28 count, because a violation of the compliance program requirements, without a violation of any underlying substantive requirement of United’s contract, would not create the “obligation to pay or transmit money or property to the Government” that 31 U.S.C. § 3729(a)(1)(G) requires. In any event, government claims based on asserted regulatory violations do not trigger Richmond any more than claims based on asserted contractual requirements.

1 should make “adjustment[s] for health status.” But the government never has 2 suggested that the allegations in this case make out a violation of Section 1395w-
3 23(a), or that that provision provides any basis for its claims. Its First Amended 4 Complaint, for example, alleges no violation of that section (or any other section of 5 the Medicare Act), and Plaintiffs’ Motion for Partial Summary Judgment claims 6 that United violated a “regulatory and contractual obligation,” but not—apart from 7 the False Claims Act—a statutory one. Pls.’ Mem. of P. & A. in Supp. of Pls.’
8 Mot. for Partial Summ. J. at 10, ECF No. 234-1; see also id. at 8 (“These 9 requirements and obligations are contractual as well as regulatory”). Indeed, 10 it is United that has consistently invoked Section 1395w-23(a)(1)(C), because that 11 is the provision that requires CMS to “ensure actuarial equivalence”—a mandate
12 that the government’s theory in this case would violate.⁷

13 Accordingly, because the government has identified no “statutory 14 appropriation” that would be frustrated if United prevails on its non-statutory 15 affirmative defenses, the government is wrong that those defenses are inapplicable
16 to its remaining False Claims Act count.

17 B. The Government’s Challenges To The Individual Affirmative
18 Defenses Fail As Well

19 The government also challenges each of United’s affirmative defenses
20 individually. These arguments lack merit, too.

21 1. The Government Effectively Concedes That United’s Affirmative
22 Defenses Of Failure To Mitigate, Ratification, And Assumption Of Risk Are Valid As To Its Common Law Claims

23 As noted above, the government focuses its motion almost exclusively on its 24 single remaining False Claims Act count. Indeed, it explicitly limits its arguments 25 about three of the affirmative defenses to their validity as to that False Claims Act

26
27 ⁷ Even if the government had alleged a violation of Section 1395w-23(a), United 28 would at the very least be allowed to maintain its affirmative defenses against the government’s contractual and regulatory theories.

count, effectively conceding that those defenses are valid as to its common law claims. For example, in contrast to its argument that “Government Knowledge . . . Is Not a Defense to Any Claim in this Case,” the government argues only that “Failure to Mitigate . . . is Not a Defense to Claims under the FCA.” Mem. at 16; id. at 11 (emphases added). Its argument about ratification is limited in the same way, contending that “Defendants Have Not Pled and Cannot Plead a Ratification Defense . . . to FCA Claims.” Id. 12 (emphasis added). And its argument as to assumption of risk likewise consists only of its assertion that “assumption of risk is not a defense to the FCA claims at issue in this case.” Id. at 14 (emphasis added). Because the government has not even attempted to show that those three affirmative defenses are invalid as to two of the three claims in the case, its motion to strike them should be denied. See supra at 8.⁸

2. The Government Fails to Show That United’s Estoppel Defenses Could Not Possibly Succeed

United has asserted two affirmative defenses sounding in estoppel (Affirmative Defenses Nos. 2 and 8). Those defenses reflect the fact that government officials (1) were aware of United’s practices, (2) advised United that it was not required to perform so-called “two-way looks” to identify and delete unsupported codes, and (3) accepted United’s annual bids while knowing that those bids were based on the express premise (contained within United’s bid proposals) that United was not validating provider-submitted codes through review

⁸ United has not yet determined whether it would assert those affirmative defenses with respect to the government’s False Claims Act count, and a decision by this Court about whether it could do so would be purely advisory—and thus inappropriate—at this stage. See supra at 8. If United does decide to assert those defenses against the False Claims Act count, there is precedent supporting its right to do so. See, e.g., Jordan, 2002 WL 35454612, at *8 (declining to strike affirmative defense of ratification asserted against government FCA claim); U.S. ex rel. Monahan v. Robert Wood Johnson Univ. Hosp. at Hamilton, No. 02-5702 (JAG), 2009 WL 4576097, at *7 (D.N.J. Dec. 1, 2009) (denying government motion to strike the affirmative defense of waiver); United States ex rel. Landis v. Tailwind Sports Corp., 308 F.R.D. 1, 5 (D.D.C. 2015) (denying motion to strike ratification affirmative defense to FCA claims).

1 of medical records. See Ans. & Countercl. ¶ 28. CMS accepted those bids,
2 moreover, knowing that if United had undertaken such steps to delete unsupported
3 codes, United would have submitted bids at higher prices to the government in 4 order to make up for the revenue shortfalls that deleting codes would create. See 5 id. ¶ 34. CMS reviewed United’s bids, including the express assumptions those 6 bids contained, and approved them before signing. Id. Having induced United to 7 submit bids at a lower cost to the government through assurances about its 8 interpretation of the regulatory and contractual obligations surrounding risk 9 adjustment, the government now is estopped from advancing a different 10 understanding of risk adjustment that would force United—having already 11 performed its obligations under the contracts—to pay the government back the 12 difference three times over. Cf. Watkins v. United States Army, 875 F.2d 699 (9th
13 Cir. 1989) (en banc) (holding that the Army was estopped from refusing to reenlist
14 an Army veteran on the basis of his homosexuality where it had repeatedly 15 permitted him to reenlist in the past with full knowledge of his homosexuality).

16 The government argues that the Court nevertheless should strike United’s 17 estoppel defenses because United has not shown that “(1) the public’s interest will 18 not suffer undue damage as a result of the application of the [estoppel] doctrine;
19 and (2) the Government engaged in affirmative conduct going beyond mere 20 negligence,” such as “a deliberate lie or pattern of false promises.” Mem. at 9–10 21 (quoting United States v. Hemmen, 51 F.3d 883, 892 (9th Cir. 1995) (internal 22 quotation marks omitted)); id. at 10 (quoting Socop-Gonzalez v. INS, 272 F.3d 23 1176, 1185 (9th Cir. 2001) (en banc) (internal quotation marks omitted)). In 24 offering that argument, however, the government ignores the standard applicable 25 on a motion to strike—namely, that “under no set of circumstances could the 26 defense succeed.” Sands, 902 F. Supp. at 1165, aff’d sub nom. First Pac. Bancorp., 27 142 F.3d 1186. At this stage of the case, one inference to draw from the facts 28 alleged is that CMS officials deliberately provided assurances to United about the

1 nature of its risk adjustment obligations in order to ensure that United would not 2 increase the price of its bid for a beneficiary with an average risk profile, knowing
3 full well that Department of Justice False Claims Act attorneys were settling on a 4 different interpretation of United's risk adjustment obligations in the course of 5 their sealed investigation of the Poehling complaint. That sort of intentional 6 "whipsawing" would readily satisfy the requirements of estoppel against the 7 government, going well beyond mere negligence and frustrating the "interest of 8 citizens in some minimum standard of decency, honor, and reliability in their 9 dealings with their Government." Heckler v. Cmty. Health Servs. of Crawford
10 Cnty., Inc., 467 U.S. 51, 60–61 (1984).

11 The fact that United's affirmative defense should proceed at this stage, of 12 course, is not to pass judgment on whether United ultimately will prevail. But 13 United has a right to continue to investigate why the messages it received about its 14 risk adjustment obligations in conversations with CMS officials were so starkly 15 different from the positions that the Department of Justice now has taken in its 16 False Claims Act suit. If the different messages were calculated to induce 17 continued participation and reliance, while at the same time pursuing a strategy 18 through a six-year-long sealed False Claims Act investigation to recover the 19 government's payments (trebled), then estoppel absolutely would be appropriate.
20 At this point, it is too early to rule out estoppel.

21 3. *The Government Identifies No Prejudice That It Will Suffer If 22 United's Government Knowledge Affirmative Defenses Remain In The Case

23 United also has pleaded two affirmative defenses based on the government's 24 knowledge of the facts surrounding United's claims for payment (Affirmative 25 Defenses Nos. 3 and 14).

26 The government does not dispute that its knowledge of those facts will be an 27 important issue on summary judgment or at trial. See, e.g., Mem. at 17
28 (acknowledging "[t]he fact that the Government's knowledge may still be relevant

1 to an element of an FCA plaintiff's claim"). But it argues (at 16-17) that 2 government knowledge was eliminated as a statutory affirmative defense in 1986,
3 and that today the government's knowledge is relevant only because it can 4 undermine the elements of the government's affirmative case for liability, not 5 because it offers an affirmative defense after liability has already been established.

6 United has no quarrel with the proposition that government knowledge goes 7 to elements on which the government—not United—bears the burden of proof.
8 Indeed, United fully intends to argue that the government's knowledge of the facts 9 around United's risk adjustment submissions means that the government cannot 10 establish (among other things) the scienter or materiality elements of its False
11 Claims Act claim. Nevertheless, False Claims Act defendants routinely assert 12 government knowledge as an affirmative defense out of an abundance of caution, 13 in order to avoid any later argument by the government that they have somehow 14 waived the issue. And courts, for their part, routinely allow such defenses to go 15 forward at the pleading and even summary judgment stages. See, e.g., Jordan, 16 2002 WL 35454612, at *7-*8 (denying motion to strike defenses of Knowledge or 17 Waiver); United States ex rel. Baker v. Cmty. Health Sys., Inc., No. CIV 05-279
18 WJ/WDS, 2011 WL 13115254, at *10 (D.N.M. Dec. 7, 2011) (declining to strike 19 "Government knowledge" defense); United States ex rel. Fisher v. Ocwen Loan
20 Serv., LLC, Nos. 4:12-CV-543, 4:12-CV-461, 2016 WL 3031713, at *11 n.9 & 12
21 (E.D. Tex. May 25, 2016) (denying the relator's motion for summary judgment as 22 to government knowledge affirmative defense because "Defendants have the right 23 to negate Relators' scienter evidence with evidence that the government had 24 knowledge of the falsity of the statement or claim").

25 This Court should do the same. Even if the Court ultimately holds, or the 26 parties ultimately agree, that government knowledge should be treated only as an 27 aspect of the affirmative case for liability and not as an affirmative defense, the 28 government has not identified any prejudice it will suffer from allowing the

1 affirmative defense to remain in United's pleading at this stage. See Echavez, 2013
2 WL 7162011, at *9 (discussing prejudice requirement). Its argument on that score
3 relies solely on its contentions (at 18) that "information that Defendants did not 4 know was in the Government's possession will be irrelevant to Defendants' 5 scienter," and that eliminating the government knowledge affirmative defenses will 6 therefore narrow the scope of discovery. But that is incorrect.

7 In the first place, the government ignores that one of its remaining claims is 8 for Payment By Mistake. In order to recover on that theory, the government must 9 prove that it "made [the relevant] payments under an erroneous belief which was 10 material to the decision to pay." United States v. Mead, 426 F.2d 118, 124 (9th 11 Cir. 1970) (emphasis added); see also, e.g., California Dep't of Educ. v. Bennett, 12 829 F.2d 795, 798 (9th Cir. 1987) ("[Payment by mistake] doctrine permits 13 recapture of funds which the government or its agents have erroneously paid.").
14 Accordingly, the government's complaint alleges that "[h]ad the United States 15 known the truth, it would not have paid such claims. Payment was therefore by 16 mistake." Am. Compl. ¶ 360. Having brought a claim that depends on showing 17 that it had an erroneous belief about the facts and circumstances of the risk 18 adjustment payments and that it would not have made those payments had it 19 known the truth, the government cannot then refuse to provide discovery relevant 20 to what its beliefs about those facts and circumstances were and what it would 21 have done had its beliefs been different. Remarkably, the government ignores that 22 claim entirely, but it provides a complete answer to the government's attempts to 23 show that it will be prejudiced by this affirmative defense remaining in the case.

24 Even as to its False Claims Act count, the government ignores that the same 25 discovery will be needed for other elements of that claim. This Court has held that 26 even if United States v. Bourseau, 531 F.3d 1159, 1171 (9th Cir. 2008), supplies 27 the applicable materiality standard for reverse false claims suits following the 28 Supreme Court's decision in Universal Health Services Inc. v. United States ex rel.

1 Escobar, 136 S. Ct. 1989, 1996 (2016), the government must show that a violation
2 was “likely to affect whether and how much the Government would have paid to a 3 defendant.” Mot. to Dismiss Order at 18-19. In denying United’s motion to 4 dismiss the remaining False Claims Act count, the Court found that the 5 government had made sufficient “factual allegations of the effect of the submission 6 of invalid diagnosis codes on the Government’s risk adjustment payments,” id. at 7 20, such as the complaint’s categorical assertion that when “CMS has actual 8 knowledge about the specific diagnoses that were submitted for payment (such as 9 because they were deleted in the RAPS system), Medicare recovers the associated 10 overpayments,” Am. Compl. ¶ 330. But now the government has to prove that 11 factual assertion—and United is entitled to discovery related to it, including 12 discovery about the government’s knowledge of specific unsupported diagnosis 13 codes and continued payments notwithstanding that knowledge, what steps it took 14 to acquire actual knowledge of specific unsupported codes when learning plans had 15 engaged in one-way chart reviews, and so forth. See Escobar, 136 S. Ct. at 2003
16 (discussing various types of “proof of materiality”). Likewise relevant will be 17 evidence about the government’s decision, in audits of Medicare Advantage plans, 18 to deliberately forego recovery of certain payments tied to unsupported diagnosis
19 codes. See Defs.’ Opp’n to Mot. for Partial Summ. J. 11-13. Specifically, CMS 20 has determined that it would be inappropriate to seek recoveries of payments on 21 unsupported codes when the rate of a plan’s unsupported codes is less than CMS’s.
22 That fact, of course, is important—if not dispositive—as to whether the retention
23 of an alleged overpayment on such codes would be “improper” under Section 24 3729(a)(1)(G).

25 Another reason why the government’s knowledge would be relevant at trial 26 is that it will help to show that United’s interpretation of the regulatory rules and 27 contractual terms was reasonable. The Supreme Court has recognized that where 28 there are multiple “objectively reasonable” interpretations of a given provision, “it

1 would defy history and current thinking to treat a defendant who merely adopts one
2 such [objectively reasonable] interpretation as a knowing or reckless violator.”
3 Safeco Ins. Co. of Am. v. Burr, 551 U.S. 47, 69-71 & n.20 (2007). That is true 4 regardless of the defendant’s own subjective knowledge or beliefs, because 5 “Congress could not have intended [penalties] for those who followed an 6 interpretation that could reasonably have found support in the courts, whatever 7 their subjective intent may have been.” Id. at n.20; see also, e.g., United States ex
8 rel. McGrath v. Microsemi Corp., 690 F. App’x. 551, 552 (9th Cir. 2017)
9 (applying Safeco to scienter requirement of False Claims Act). Evidence about 10 whether government regulators “had the same interpretation of a regulation as” the 11 defendant is thus relevant, regardless of whether the defendant actually knew of 12 that evidence, because it “supports [the] defense that such interpretation was 13 objectively reasonable and therefore not a willful violation of the law.” United 14 States v. Pac. Gas & Elec. Co., 178 F. Supp. 3d 927, 963 (N.D. Cal. 2016) (ruling 15 such evidence admissible at trial). And even as to the defendant’s subjective 16 beliefs, evidence that the defendant’s asserted belief was reasonable can help a 17 factfinder determine whether, in fact, the defendant actually held the asserted 18 belief. “[T]he more unreasonable the asserted beliefs or misunderstandings are, the 19 more likely the jury will consider them to be nothing more than simple 20 disagreement with known legal duties,” and conversely, the more reasonable the 21 beliefs are, the more likely the jury is to believe that they were genuinely held.
22 Cheek v. United States, 498 U.S. 192, 203–04 (1991); United States v. Powell, 955
23 F.2d 1206, 1212 (9th Cir. 1991). Showing that government officials agreed with 24 United’s interpretation would be relevant on that score, too.

25 4. *United’s Unjust Enrichment Defense Should Not Be Stricken At this 26 Juncture

27 Finally, United has pleaded an affirmative defense of Unjust Enrichment.
28 Courts within the Ninth Circuit repeatedly have allowed parties to invoke Unjust

1 Enrichment as an affirmative defense in varying contexts. See, e.g., Kizer v. PTP, 2 Inc., 129 F. Supp. 3d 1000, 1005–06 (D. Nev. 2015); Los Angeles Cty. Emp. Ret.
3 Ass’n v. Towers, Perrin, Forster & Crosby, Inc., No. CV 01-1351DDP(CTX), 4 2002 WL 32919576, at *24 (C.D. Cal. June 20, 2002). The government points to 5 nothing about its False Claims Act or Payment By Mistake claims that would 6 suggest that they should be treated any differently.

7 Nevertheless, the government is correct that “where there is a specific 8 contract [that] governs the relationship of the parties, the doctrine of unjust 9 enrichment has no application.” Mem. at 15 (quoting Sutter Home Winery, Inc. v.
10 Vintage Selections, Ltd., 971 F.2d 401, 408-09 (9th Cir. 1992) (alteration in 11 original)). United pleaded its Unjust Enrichment defense out of an abundance of 12 caution, in case the government later took the position that its contracts with 13 United did not cover all aspects of the parties’ relationship. After all, the 14 government itself has asserted a claim for Unjust Enrichment, which would only be 15 valid—as the government now concedes—if there were not a specific contract 16 governing that relationship. Now that the government has committed itself in its 17 motion to strike to the view that there are express contracts governing all of the 18 party relationships here, United intends at the appropriate time to move for 19 summary judgment on the government’s Unjust Enrichment claim, precisely on the 20 basis of the argument advanced here by the government.

21 For now, however, United undoubtedly is entitled to defend itself by 22 developing facts showing that the government received the full benefit of the 23 bargain and that it would be the government that would be unjustly enriched were 24 it to recover here.⁹ Because the exact same facts that are relevant to United’s

25 _____
26 ⁹ The government contends (at 14-15) that it did not receive any benefit from the 27 insurance coverage that United provided to literally millions of Americans during 28 the years in question, and that the defense therefore fails. But CMS has a statutory obligation to provide healthcare to eligible individuals. See, e.g., 42 U.S.C.
§1395d (describing an eligible individual’s “entitlement to have payment made on

1 Unjust Enrichment defense will be relevant to the government's Unjust Enrichment
2 claim, keeping the Unjust Enrichment defense in the case will cause no prejudice.
3 Accordingly, the motion to strike this defense should be denied as well.

4 V. CONCLUSION

5 The government does not come close to meeting its heavy burden of 6 demonstrating that United's affirmative defenses should be stricken, especially at 7 this early stage of the litigation. The government unabashedly admits (at 4-5) that 8 its motion is motivated by a desire to block United from discovery into the 9 knowledge and views of CMS employees. The government appreciates that such 10 discovery would show that senior CMS officials agree with United's interpretation
11 of the pertinent CMS pronouncements, that they do not believe United's conduct
12 amounted to fraud, and that DOJ's enforcement theory continues to be out of step 13 with the views of its client agency. That evidence would be highly relevant even if 14 the government were to prevail on this motion, and the motion should be denied.

15

21 his behalf"). United, by paying for the healthcare needs of its enrollees, satisfied 22 the government's statutory obligation (and did so in a manner that transferred the 23 risk of unusually large expenditures from CMS to United). See 42 C.F.R.
24 § 422.322(b) (noting that payments to MA organizations are "instead of amounts 25 which (in the absence of the contract) would otherwise be payable under original 26 Medicare for items and services furnished to the individual"). If United had not 27 provided that coverage, then CMS would have had to obtain it from some other 28 Medicare Advantage plan, or to provide the coverage itself. And just as paying someone else's taxes provides a benefit to that person even though the money is actually transmitted to the Treasury, so too did United's actions satisfying CMS's statutory obligations provide a "benefit" to CMS. Indeed, the government got exactly what it paid for—and now, with that benefit already obtained, wants to undo its payment. Cf. United States ex rel. Davis v. District of Columbia, 679 F.3d 832, 839 (D.C. Cir. 2012) (holding in False Claims Act case about Medicaid that where "the government got what it paid for[,] there are no damages").

~~PROPOSED~~ STIPULATED PROTECTIVE ORDER GOVERNING
THE TREATMENT OF PROTECTED
INFORMATION

[Discovery Document: Referred to Magistrate Judge Suzanne H. Segal]

1 Purpose and Limitations

2 Discovery in this action is likely to involve the production of Personally
3 Identifiable Information, Protected Health Information, and certain other Confidential
4 Information for which special protection from public disclosure and from use for any 5 purpose other than prosecuting this litigation may be warranted. Accordingly, the parties
6 hereby stipulate to and petition the Court to enter the following Stipulated Protective 7 Order. The parties acknowledge that this Order does not confer blanket protections on 8 all disclosures or responses to discovery and that the protection it affords from public 9 disclosure and use extends only to the limited information or items that are entitled to 10 confidential treatment under the applicable legal principles. The parties further 11 acknowledge that this Stipulated Protective Order does not entitle them to file 12 confidential information under seal; Civil Local Rule 79-5 sets forth the procedures that 13 must be followed and the standards that will be applied when a party seeks permission 14 from the court to file material under seal.

15 Good Cause Statement

16 This action is likely to involve Personally Identifiable Information, Protected
17 Health Information, trade secrets, customer and pricing lists and other valuable research, 18 development, commercial, financial, technical, and/or proprietary information for which 19 special protection from public disclosure and from use for any purpose other than 20 prosecution of this action is warranted. Such confidential and proprietary materials and 21 information consist of, among other things, Personally Identifiable Information, 22 Protected Health Information, confidential business or financial information, information 23 regarding confidential business practices, or other confidential research, development, or 24 commercial information (including information implicating privacy rights of third 25 parties), information otherwise generally unavailable to the public, or which may be 26 privileged or otherwise protected from disclosure under state or federal statutes, court
27 rules, case decisions, or common law. Accordingly, to expedite the flow of information, 28 to facilitate the prompt resolution of disputes over confidentiality of discovery materials,

1 to adequately protect information the parties are entitled to keep confidential, to ensure 2 that the parties are permitted reasonable necessary uses of such material in preparation 3 for and in the conduct of trial, to address their handling at the end of the litigation, and 4 serve the ends of justice, a protective order for such information is justified in this 5 matter. It is the intent of the parties that information will not be designated as 6 confidential for tactical reasons and that nothing be so designated without a good faith
7 belief that it has been maintained in a confidential, non-public manner, and there is good 8 cause why it should not be part of the public record of this case.

9 Definitions and Preliminary Matters

10 1. "Discovery Material" includes answers and responses to interrogatories, 11 answers and responses to requests for production or admissions, deposition transcripts or 12 videos, and materials previously provided to the United States in this action, in any 13 investigation underlying this action, or in connection with United States ex rel. Swoben
14 v. Secure Horizons, Case No. CV-09-5013 JFW (JEMx) ("the Swoben action").

15 2. "Document" means and includes all items listed in Federal Rules of Civil 16 Procedure 34(a)(1)(A) and (B), including but not limited to deposition testimony, 17 discovery responses and other materials, oral or written, including all copies and 18 excerpts thereof.

19 3. "Personally Identifiable Information" or "PII" means Social Security 20 numbers, tax identification numbers, birth dates, and financial account numbers for 21 which redacted filings are permitted by Rule 5.2 of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure.

22 4. "Protected Health Information" or "PHI" means certain individually 23 identifiable health information (defined as health information that is connected to a 24 patient's name, address, Social Security number, or other identifying number, including 25 HIC number) that may be subject to the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. § 552a, to the provisions 26 of 45 C.F.R. §§ 164.102–164.534, to the provisions of 42 U.S.C. § 1306, or for which 27 there may be no waiver by the patient to disclose the information to a person who or 28 entity which is not a Party to the above-captioned action.

1 a. The Court finds that this Order is a “qualified protective order”
2 within the meaning of 45 C.F.R. § 164.512(e)(1)(v).

3 b. The Parties may produce PHI in accordance with this Protective 4 Order pursuant to their obligations to make disclosures under Federal Rule of Civil 5 Procedure 26(a) and in response to discovery requests in this litigation. All individually
6 identifiable health information shall be designated “CONFIDENTIAL” and may be used
7 and/or disclosed in accordance with the terms of this Protective Order and 45 C.F.R.
8 § 164.512(e)(1)(v).

9 5. “Covered Entity or Entities” means “covered entity” as defined in 45 C.F.R.
10 § 160.103.

11 6. “Proprietary Information” means information not already publically
12 available that constitutes: (i) any information subject to protection under the Privacy Act, 13 5 U.S.C. § 552a, or the Trade Secrets Act, 18 U.S.C. § 1905, or (ii) trade secret or other 14 confidential research, development, or commercial information entitled to protection
15 under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 26(c)(1)(G) or iii) any other information subject
16 to a sealing in the above-captioned action pursuant to Local Rule 79-5

17 7. “Litigation” refers to this action and includes all appellate proceedings or 18 the expiration of time to commence such appellate proceedings related to this action.

19 8. Information designated as “Confidential” pursuant to this Protective Order 20 (hereinafter “Confidential Information”) shall be information that contains PII, PHI, or 21 Proprietary Information.

22 9. Information designated as “Attorneys’ Eyes Only” pursuant to this 23 Protective Order (hereinafter “Attorneys’ Eyes Only Information”) includes Discovery 24 Material that (a) constitute Proprietary Information as defined in Paragraph 6 and (b) the 25 designating party believes in good faith to be extremely confidential and/or sensitive in 26 nature, and shall be treated in accordance with Paragraph 22 and other Paragraphs of this 27 Order.

28

1 Designation of Confidential Information

2 10. Documents. The parties shall not withhold documents from production
3 because such documents contain Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 4 Information and shall not redact Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 5 Information contained in documents unless required to do so under the terms of this 6 Protective Order or by law, regulation, or a court order. The parties shall produce
7 unredacted documents containing Confidential Information to all other parties in this 8 litigation and shall produce unredacted documents containing Attorneys' Eyes Only 9 Information pursuant to the terms of Paragraph 22 below. The parties shall designate 10 documents containing Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 11 Information in the following manner:

12 a. For documents produced in paper or an electronic form that allows 13 endorsements or similar designation on the image, the parties shall mark each page of 14 documents asserted to contain Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 15 Information. The parties shall brand the image with the designation "CONFIDENTIAL" 16 for those documents that contain Confidential Information. The parties shall brand the 17 image with the designation "CONFIDENTIAL" and "ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY" for 18 those documents that contain Attorneys' Eyes Only Information as defined in Paragraph 19 9.

20 b. For electronic information that is provided in native form or a format
21 that is not amenable to visible endorsement on the image, the designation of Confidential 22 Information shall be made by branding the slip-sheet for the document with 23 "CONFIDENTIAL," and the designation of Attorneys' Eyes Only Information shall be 24 made by branding the slip-sheet for the document with "CONFIDENTIAL" and 25 "ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY." The metadata for the document shall also reflect its 26 confidential status, as set forth in the agreed upon ESI specifications. The media on 27 which the Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information is provided 28 (e.g., CD, DVD, external hard drive) also shall be and remain plainly labeled with

1 “CONFIDENTIAL” and, if appropriate, “ATTORNEYS’ EYES ONLY” (unless and 2 until the protection of the data within the media is removed). Any copying or 3 transferring of electronic files that are designated as Confidential Information and/or 4 Attorneys’ Eyes Only Information must be done in a manner that maintains the 5 protection for all copies, including, but not limited to, in the filename(s) and the location
6 where the copies are stored and where users access the material.

7 11. Interrogatory Answers and Responses to Requests for Production or 8 Admission. The parties shall designate Confidential Information contained in 9 interrogatory answers or responses to requests for production or admission by placing 10 before the answer or response: “The following response is ‘CONFIDENTIAL.’” The 11 parties shall designate Attorneys’ Eyes Only Information contained in interrogatory 12 answers or responses to requests for production or admission by placing before the 13 answer or response: “The following response is ‘CONFIDENTIAL’ and 14 ‘ATTORNEYS’ EYES ONLY.’” Only that part of the answer/response that is 15 Confidential Information and/or Attorneys’ Eyes Only Information shall be so 16 designated and the answering party shall highlight the Confidential Information and/or 17 Attorneys’ Eyes Only Information to show what specific information constitutes 18 Confidential Information and/or Attorneys’ Eyes Only Information.

19 12. Confidential Information in Depositions. Subject to the requirements of 20 Paragraphs 21 and 22 below, during a deposition, the parties may show deponents
21 Documents or other Discovery Material that has been designated as Confidential
22 Information and/or Attorneys’ Eyes Only Information. Testimony at a deposition may 23 be designated by any party as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys’ Eyes Only 24 Information by indicating on the record at the deposition that the testimony is 25 confidential and subject to the provisions of this Protective Order and the reasons for the 26 assertion. Additionally and alternatively, any party may also designate information 27 disclosed at a deposition as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys’ Eyes Only 28 Information by notifying all counsel in writing within thirty (30) calendar days of receipt

1 of the official deposition transcript or copy thereof (or written notification that the 2 transcript is available), listing the specific pages and lines of the transcript and/or any 3 exhibits that should be treated as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 4 Information. After a party designates a portion of a deposition transcript as Confidential
5 Information, the front of the original and each copy of the deposition transcript shall be 6 marked: "This deposition transcript includes CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION
7 SUBJECT TO PROTECTIVE ORDER." After a party designates a portion of a 8 deposition transcript as Attorneys' Eyes Only Information, the front of the original and 9 each copy of the deposition transcript shall be marked: "This deposition transcript
10 includes CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION AND ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY 11 INFORMATION SUBJECT TO PROTECTIVE ORDER." If such deposition was 12 videotaped, both the recording storage medium (i.e., CD or DVD) and its container shall 13 also be labeled: "This deposition transcript includes CONFIDENTIAL
14 INFORMATION SUBJECT TO PROTECTIVE ORDER" or, if appropriate, "This 15 deposition transcript includes CONFIDENTIAL INFORMATION AND ATTORNEYS' 16 EYES ONLY INFORMATION SUBJECT TO PROTECTIVE ORDER." Only those 17 portions of the deposition transcript that are designated as containing Confidential 18 Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information shall be governed by this 19 Protective Order.

20 13. Documents or Information Obtained From Third Parties. Documents 21 or information produced by a non-party or testimony provided by a third party may be 22 designated by the non-party as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 23 Information in accordance with all of the terms and conditions of this Order.

24 14. No Waiver. The failure to designate any Documents or other Discovery 25 Materials as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information in 26 accordance with the terms of this Order shall not constitute a waiver of a party's 27 assertion that the materials are Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 28 Information. In the event that Documents or Discovery Materials are or have been

1 produced without being marked "CONFIDENTIAL" or, if appropriate, "ATTORNEYS'
2 EYES ONLY," the producing party may notify the receiving party of the appropriate 3 confidentiality designation and produce new hard copy, images, or slip-sheets as 4 applicable (see Paragraph 10 above) reflecting the appropriate confidentiality
5 designation. Upon receipt of any such reproductions, the receiving party shall thereafter
6 preserve such reproduced Documents or Discovery Materials in accordance with this 7 Protective Order, including preserving the material in compliance with Paragraphs 21
8 and 22 of this Order. If prior to receiving such notice from the Producing Party, the 9 receiving party has disclosed Confidential or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information to a 10 person not identified in Paragraphs 21 or 22, the Receiving Party shall promptly take 11 reasonable steps to retrieve all copies of the Confidential or Attorneys' Eyes Only 12 Information from the third party and notify the third party that the material remains 13 subject to this Protective Order. The Receiving Party shall notify the Producing Party of 14 this disclosure and the efforts to recover the Confidential or Attorneys' Eyes Only 15 Information.

16 15. Proprietary Information. For Documents containing Proprietary 17 Information designated as Confidential and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only, a party's or a non-18 party's production of documents in this case shall not be construed as waiving or 19 diminishing the party's or non-party's interests in and rights to the confidentiality of 20 Proprietary Information.

21 Challenges to Designations Under this Protective Order

22 16. Any party may object to a designation of a Document or other Discovery
23 Material as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information at any 24 time by giving written notice (including by email) to counsel for the designating party, 25 identifying the Document or other Discovery Material, or portions thereof, to which the 26 objection is directed, and specifying in reasonable detail the reason or reasons for the 27 objection. Within ten (10) calendar days of the receipt of such written notice, the parties
28 shall meet and confer in a good faith effort to resolve the dispute as required by Local

1 Rule 37-1. If the disagreement cannot be resolved, the party asserting the Confidential
2 Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information designation may apply to the 3 Court within fourteen (14) calendar days of the meet-and-confer for a protective order
4 affirming the Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information
5 designation. The application for a protective order shall comply with Local Civil Rules
6 37-2 and 37-3. While any such application is pending, the Confidential Information 7 and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information subject to the application will be treated as 8 Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information until the Court
9 otherwise rules. The party asserting the Confidential Information and/or Attorneys'
10 Eyes Only Information designation shall bear the burden and expense of seeking 11 protection of its designated Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 12 Information. If the party asserting the Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes
13 Only Information designation does not apply for a protective order within fourteen (14)
14 calendar days of the meet-and-confer, then the designation of the Document or 15 Discovery Material as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 16 Information shall cease to be effective.

17 17. If the Court rules that the Document or other Discovery Material should no
18 longer be designated as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 19 Information or if the designating party at any time withdraws the designation (or if the 20 designating party fails to apply for a protective order pursuant to the preceding 21 Paragraph), the designating party shall promptly provide all other parties in the litigation 22 with replacement documents, files, or information free from any markings or 23 designations as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information. The 24 replacement versions shall be provided in the same format as the information that is to be 25 replaced, unless otherwise agreed to by the parties. The presumptive time for providing 26 the replacement information shall be ten (10) calendar days of the Court ruling or the 27 designating party's withdrawal or failure, but the designating party must in good faith 28

1 provide the information in a reasonable time, considering any agreements of the parties,
2 the volume of information to be reproduced, and the nature or format of the information.

3 18. If a party or a third party produces a Document or other Discovery Material
4 that another party reasonably believes contains its Confidential Information and/or 5 Attorneys' Eyes Only Information but is not so designated, the parties shall promptly 6 meet and confer regarding whether the produced document should be clawed back and 7 replaced with a document designated as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes
8 Only Information. If there is disagreement regarding the designation of the material
9 following the meet and confer, the procedures outlined in Paragraphs 16 and 17 apply.

10 Disclosure, Use, and Handling of Confidential Information

11 19. The parties shall disclose Confidential Information only in accordance with 12 the terms of this Protective Order.

13 20. The parties and their counsel are responsible for employing reasonable 14 measures, consistent with this Protective Order, to control access to and secure 15 distribution of Confidential Information.

16 21. Disclosure of Confidential Information. Except as otherwise provided in 17 this Protective Order, Documents and other Discovery Material designated as 18 Confidential Information shall only be disclosed to the following persons:

19 a. Counsel of record for the parties in this litigation and associated 20 personnel assisting counsel in this action, such as paralegals, litigation support, 21 information technology, information or records management, investigative, secretarial, 22 or clerical personnel, and in the case of the United States, officials, attorneys, and 23 employees of their executive agencies and departments, provided that each is first 24 advised of the terms of this Protective Order and his or her obligation under this Order to 25 keep the Confidential Information confidential;

26 b. The parties and their officers or employees, including in-house 27 counsel, whose assistance is reasonably necessary to assist counsel in this action, 28

1 provided that each is first advised of the terms of this Protective Order and his or her
2 obligation under this Order to keep the Confidential Information confidential;

3 c. Experts or consultants retained by a party for the purposes of this 4 litigation, including both consulting and testifying experts and their staffs, provided that 5 each is first advised of the terms of this Protective Order and his or her obligation under 6 this Order to keep the Confidential Information confidential, and provided that each such 7 person has first executed Exhibit A attached to this Protective Order, stating that such 8 person has read the Protective Order and agrees to be bound by it;

9 d. The Court and court personnel in this action;

10 e. Court reporters, videographer services, translation services,
11 photocopy services, document management services, records management services, 12 graphics services, or such other litigation assistance services retained by a party to this 13 action after first being advised of the terms of this Protective Order and their obligation
14 under this Order to keep the Confidential Information confidential;

15 f. Any private mediators and their employees used in this action after 16 first being advised of the terms of this Protective Order and their obligation under this 17 Order to keep the Confidential Information confidential;

18 g. Any third-party witness (i.e., a witness who is not an agent or 19 representative of or employed by a party to this action) who testifies at a deposition or 20 hearing in this litigation concerning documents or information designated as subject to 21 this Protective Order, and legal counsel retained by such third-party witness, provided 22 that such third-party witness is first advised of the terms of this Protective Order and his 23 or her obligation under this Order to keep the Confidential Information confidential and 24 executes Exhibit A attached to this Order, stating that such person has read the Protective 25 Order and agrees to be bound by it;

26 h. Any third-party individual interviewed by a party's legal counsel in 27 connection with this action, provided that any such person is first advised of the terms of 28 this Protective Order and his or her obligation under this Order to keep the documents or

1 Confidential Information confidential and executes Exhibit A attached to this Order,
2 stating that such person has read the Protective Order and agrees to be bound by it.

3 22. Disclosure of Attorneys' Eyes Only Information. Except as otherwise
4 provided in this Protective Order, Documents and other Discovery Material designated 5 as Attorneys' Eyes Only Information shall only be disclosed to those persons described 6 in sub-paragraphs (a), (c), (d), (e), and (f) of Paragraph 21 of this Protective Order.
7 Further, Attorneys' Eyes Only Information may be disclosed to deponents under sub-8 paragraph (g) of Paragraph 21, provided that such persons: (i) do not retain copies of the 9 materials designated "ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY," (ii) are first advised of the terms 10 of this Protective Order and his or her obligation under this Order to keep the 11 "ATTORNEYS' EYES ONLY" documents confidential, and (iii) are presented with 12 Exhibit A to the Protective Order to execute. Attorneys' Eyes Only Information shall 13 only be disclosed to those persons described in sub-paragraph (b) of Paragraph 21 if 14 (i) the material was produced by the person or his/her current employer, (ii) the person
15 initially created, sent, or received such material, or (iii) the Court orders such access. It
16 is the intent of the parties that materials will not be designated as Attorneys' Eyes Only 17 Information for tactical reasons in this case and that nothing be so designated without a 18 good faith belief that there is good cause why it should not be part of the public record in 19 this case. The procedures for Attorneys' Eyes Only Information during any hearing or 20 trial of this matter shall be determined by the parties and the Court in advance of the 21 hearing or trial in accordance with Paragraph 25.

22 23. Persons receiving Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only
23 Information or to whom it is otherwise disclosed pursuant to the terms of this Protective 24 Order are prohibited from disclosing it to any other person except in conformance with 25 the terms of this Protective Order.

26 24. Persons receiving Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only
27 Information or to whom it is otherwise disclosed pursuant to the terms of this Protective 28 Order may use such information only for purposes of this litigation.

1 25. Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information in 2 Court Filings and Open Court. The sealing of Confidential Information and/or 3 Attorneys' Eyes Only Information in pleadings, motions, and other papers filed with the 4 Court or the sealing of any Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 5 Information that are attachments to pleadings, motions, and other papers shall comply 6 with Civil Local Rule 79-5. The procedures for use of Confidential Information and/or 7 Attorneys' Eyes Only Information during any hearing or the trial of this matter shall be 8 determined by the parties and the Court in advance of the hearing or trial.

9 26. All confidentiality designations designated under the Protective Order
10 entered by the court in the Swoben action on August 17, 2017 apply equally for purposes
11 of this litigation under the terms of this Protective Order.

12 27. The production or disclosure of Documents or Discovery Material in the 13 investigation preceding this litigation that included documents with PHI, PII, or 14 Proprietary Information that were not designated in accordance with this Protective 15 Order does not violate this Protective Order. The Defendants will produce a metadata 16 overlay that contains the designations specified in Paragraph 10 for Documents or 17 Discovery Material with PHI, PII, or Proprietary Information that were produced in the 18 investigation preceding this litigation and that were not designated in accordance with 19 this Protective Order. The Documents and Discovery Material identified in the metadata 20 overlay will be entitled to protection under this Protective Order.

21 28. Subpoenaed or Other Requested Production of Confidential
22 Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information. If any party or person who 23 has received Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information is 24 requested or required to produce such information by a subpoena or other compulsory 25 process for purposes of use in a separate legal action, the party or person receiving such 26 a request shall promptly inform the designating party that such request has been made 27 and shall allow the designating party ten (10) days to seek appropriate relief or 28 protection from the proper court to prevent the production. The designating party shall

1 bear the burden and expense of seeking protection of its designated Confidential
2 Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information. Nothing in this Protective Order
3 should be construed as authorizing or encouraging a subpoenaed person to disobey a 4 lawful directive from this or another court.

5 29. Disclosure to Agencies or Departments of the United States. Nothing in 6 this Protective Order shall prevent or in any way limit or impair the right of the United 7 States to disclose to any of its agencies or departments, or any division or office of any 8 such agency or department, information or materials provided in this action, including 9 those designated as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information
10 under this Order, that relate to a potential violation of law or regulation, or relating to 11 any matter within that agency's jurisdiction, nor shall anything contained in this Order
12 prevent or in any way limit or impair the use of any information provided in this action, 13 including Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information, by an 14 agency in any lawfully permitted proceeding relating to a potential violation of law or 15 regulation, or relating to any matter within that agency's jurisdiction; provided, however, 16 that the agency shall be advised of the terms of this Protective Order and maintain the 17 confidentiality of the Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information
18 in a manner consistent with the terms of this Order.

19 30. Disclosure to Congress. Nothing contained in this Protective Order shall 20 prevent or in any way limit or impair the right of the United States to provide designated 21 Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information to a Congressional 22 entity; provided, however, that the United States shall notify the Congressional entity
23 requesting the documents that the Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 24 Information has been produced pursuant to this Protective Order and shall, if there are no
25 objections interposed by the Congressional entity requesting the documents, use 26 reasonable efforts to notify the designating party or non-party of the Congressional 27 entity's request and the United States' response thereto.
28

1 31. Use of Party's Own Confidential Information. Nothing in this Protective 2 Order shall restrict the right of any party to use its own Confidential Information for any 3 purpose whatsoever, but if any such use results in a disclosure that causes the 4 Confidential Information to lose its designation as Confidential Information, then it shall 5 no longer be subject to any protection under this Protective Order. However, nothing in 6 this Protective Order affects the protections afforded to such Personally Identifiable
7 Information and/or Protected Health Information under applicable federal, state, or local 8 laws.

9 32. Disclosure to Apparent Author or Recipient. Nothing in this Protective 10 Order shall limit the ability of a party to disclose any Confidential Information and/or 11 Attorneys' Eyes Only Information to its author or to anyone identified on the face or in 12 the metadata of the document as a recipient.

13 33. Inadvertent Disclosure of Confidential Information and/or Attorneys'
14 Eyes Only Information. If a party in receipt of Confidential Information and/or 15 Attorneys' Eyes Only Information ("receiving party") discovers that it, or a person to 16 whom it has disclosed Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only 17 Information in accordance with this Protective Order, has inadvertently disclosed
18 Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information subject to this 19 Protective Order to any person not authorized under this Protective Order, the receiving 20 party must: (a) notify in writing the designating party of the inadvertent disclosure,
21 providing with such notice the identity of the person to whom the Confidential
22 Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information was disclosed and, upon request 23 of the designating party, details concerning the circumstances of the disclosure, (b) use
24 its best efforts to retrieve all copies of any Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' 25 Eyes Only Information, (c) inform the person to whom the inadvertent disclosure was 26 made that the documents or information are Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' 27 Eyes Only Information subject to this Protective Order and inform the person who 28 received the inadvertent disclosure that he or she is bound by the terms of this Protective

1 Order, and (d) cooperate in reasonable efforts to obtain the return of the Confidential
2 Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information.

3 Disposition of Confidential Information and Attorneys' Eyes Only Information at 4 the Conclusion of this Litigation

5 34. Except as provided in this Protective Order, within ninety (90) days of the 6 conclusion of this litigation, including appeals, the parties shall (a) destroy or delete all
7 items designated as Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information 8 and certify in writing that the items have been destroyed or deleted, or (b) return them to 9 the designating party, depending upon the designating party's stated reasonable 10 preference, except materials that exist on back-up tapes or similar systems. Materials 11 that exist on back-up tapes, systems, or similar storage need not be immediately deleted 12 or destroyed, and, instead, such materials should be overwritten and destroyed in the 13 normal course of business. Until they are overwritten in the normal course of business, 14 the receiving party will take reasonable steps to limit access, if any, to the persons 15 necessary to conduct routine information technology (IT) and cybersecurity functions.
16 In the course of disposing of information in its possession under this Paragraph, the 17 receiving party will also take reasonable steps to notify persons to whom it distributed 18 Confidential Information and/or Attorneys' Eyes Only Information pursuant to this 19 Protective Order that such information should be returned to the receiving party or 20 destroyed by the person possessing the information with written confirmation to the 21 receiving party.

22 35. Notwithstanding the above provision, counsel for the parties are entitled to 23 retain an archival copy of all pleadings, affidavits, motion papers, trial transcripts, legal 24 memoranda, correspondence, deposition and trial exhibits, expert reports, briefs, other

1 discoverable information under 26(b)(5), and then to have the 2 Government assert and perfect on that.

3 And with respect to perfecting the privilege, your 4 Honor, or explaining the privilege, the case law that 5 Mr. Schindler references requires references of declaration.

6 So that's what we've been working with the agency to 7 see if that we can do that, so that we can provide a more
8 fulsome explanation in the hope of obviating any privilege 9 disputes.

10 So and that address -- I think that addresses both of 11 Mr. Schindler's points.

12 THE COURT: All right, thank you.

13 So here are my thoughts on this. And, you know, I'm 14 the last person to actually invite motion practice.

15 Now, this doesn't improve my workload, but, you know,
16 I think we're getting to the point where I'm not sure how much
17 value there is to the parties in -- in the informal process.

18 Because, generally, what I try to do is hear parties
19 out on an issue and say to them, so if this came to any motion, 20 I think this is how I would approach it so the parties can make 21 an informed decision about whether it's worth their time and 22 money to file a motion or whether or not, you know, given my 23 leanings, it makes more sense to try and resolve it a different 24 way.

25 So that's -- that's my general practice, would be

1 informal discovery conference. And -- and I will tell you that 2 one of the toughest issues that I find to resolve on an 3 informal discovery call is issues of privilege.

4 Because for discovery purposes, that usually often
5 will raise, really, a legal issue that is -- is more difficult
6 for -- for me to resolve without looking at the logs themselves
7 and -- and the types of documents.

8 But having said that, you know, it does seem to me
9 that we're back to a place that we were previously at with the 10 United States. And I respect very much your desire to do this 11 in an efficient manner and I know you're working hard and 12 you're very busy.

13 But, you know, I have limits to my authority.
14 There's limits to what I can do. And so I can't -- I can't say 15 to parties, "Oh, you have a potential motion that someday may 16 culminate a particular claim or defense. Sure, we'll stop 17 discovery on that."

18 I mean, I understand this case may be a little more 19 indifferent in the sense that the kinds of motions that you've 20 brought, you feel very confident, in some fashion, are going to 21 really narrow the case and limit the claims and defenses in the 22 case and focus the discovery. And maybe that's true.

23 But -- but in general speaking, if I adopted the 24 practice you're suggesting that I adopt, you know, parties
25 would be here every single day, saying, "Hey, I filed a Motion

1 to Dismiss. I don't want to respond to their discovery."

2 So it's not -- that's not a general practice that we 3 accept from Magistrate Judges who are managing discovery in a 4 case.

5 We take our cues from the District Judge who sets the 6 schedule in a case and gets to decide whether or not discovery
7 is stayed or not stayed. And I haven't heard anything from 8 Judge Fitzgerald.

9 I mean, you initiated the case; you knew the volume
10 of the case; you knew the response that you would likely get 11 from United; you are not new to this kind of litigation.

12 So it was, you know, that the -- the volume of work
13 involved in responding to discovery requests and participating 14 in this case was something the Government needed to kind of 15 assess before they filed the complaint in this action.

16 And if it was a situation where you knew that you
17 were going to need a stay until certain fundamental issues were 18 resolved, that Stay Motion needed to be filed a long time ago.

19 And I haven't seen -- I mean, I've seen the motion 20 that was filed before Judge Fitzgerald that's pending now, but 21 there are ways to get emergency relief.

22 I'm not suggesting that you should. This is not my 23 recommendation. I am not recommending that you file such a 24 motion or ex-parte application, but there are procedural 25 mechanisms available for parties who think they need immediate

1 be saying in response to the -- in response to the motion that 2 we're going to put before Judge Fitzgerald.

3 (Voices overlapping)

4 THE COURT: I appreciate it and I don't disagree with 5 you that it would be more efficient to have these issues
6 resolved before the discovery motions are filed. And you know,
7 there's a part of me that would love to agree with you and say
8 you're right, I'm just going to delay all the work you've put 9 in front of me until Judge Fitzgerald decides what we're going 10 to do here; I'm going to delay and wait until September, 11 October, November. Trust me, there's a part of me that would 12 really like to do that. But I honestly don't think I'm 13 permitted to do that until the district judge who sets the 14 schedule in this case tells me I'm permitted to do that. I 15 can't --

16 MR. SPEAKER: Your Honor, if I --

17 (Voices overlapping)

18 THE COURT: -- find myself and if -- no, I really 19 would like us to move on. Because I'm not going to resolve 20 this now. You certainly can make the motion to stay the 21 discovery motion, then I can consider it and Judge Fitzgerald
22 can consider it. But I'm not going to be able to resolve this 23 now.

24 What I can tell you is that typically in this 25 district we don't save things like discovery motions until the

1 district judge issues a scheduling order, says okay, I'm going
2 to do it in phases; no discovery on this issue until this date.
3 If the trial judge, whether it's Magistrate Judge (indisc.) or 4 the district judge, sets the schedule. And so Judge Fitzgerald
5 will set the schedule in this case. And until he does I'm 6 operating as I would ordinarily operate, which is you file a 7 motion according to the local rules, you set a hearing date and 8 I try to adjudicate it in a timely fashion. So believe me, I'd 9 much prefer to put these motions off.

10 All right, so let's move on if we can to the 11 production of documents in the files of the OIG custodian.
12 Mr. Schindler.

13 MR. SCHINDLER: Well, in many respects, your Honor, 14 these things go hand in hand, right. Because what we're really 15 saying are tethered together. They effectively said they 16 should not have to produce any documents that are in the files
17 of the OIG. And those are the same kinds of documents when the 18 day is done. They've advanced essentially a law enforcement 19 privilege to protect the documents, but it really ignores the 20 qualified nature of the privilege, especially in this context.
21 You can't make a blanket assertion as privilege on the OIG even 22 before collecting responsive documents.

23 But more importantly, in this case the question of 24 the non-materiality of these records or these decisions, if you
25 will, or the information, the notion that somehow United was

1 obligated to perform two-way looks, clearly outweighs any 2 assertion of the qualified privilege that might otherwise
3 attach to records belonging to OIG custodians.

4 But that issue is really subsumed in the overarching
5 point I made earlier, which is we're entitled to documents that 6 demonstrate that lack of materiality under Escobar goes to the 7 heart of our defense and documents in the possession of the OIG 8 are exactly that.

9 THE COURT: All right. And who is going to respond
10 for the Plaintiff?

11 MR. FREEBORNE: Your Honor, this is Paul Freeborne.
12 And I agree with Mr. Schindler. I think the issues are 13 subsumed. From our perspective United has the obligation under 14 26(b) to show relevancy. We think materiality has been 15 resolved as a matter of law. There is no factual issue to 16 probe. Simply stated, Judge Fitzgerald and the Ninth Circuit
17 have recognized that the materiality of accurate diagnosis
18 codes. And what OIG did or did not do cannot do that. And so 19 it's a completely irrelevant inquiry. Moreover, they're 20 seeking privileged information, investigated information, not 21 of United but of other third party plans. And in that rubric 22 they have the obligation to show good cause.

23 And just to understand the argument we're making 24 about the motion to stay, again, it's not a motion to stay 25 discovery. What it is is seeking a threshold ruling on 1 relevancy to avoid a showdown on privilege. Mr. Schindler has 2 stated prior to the agenda that the Court is likely to face not 3 only motions to compel with respect to the Office of the 4 Inspector General and its activities but they're also seeking 5 to probe agency deliberations on the same grounds. And it

6 behooves -- and there is case authority that's -- at least in 7 the DC Circuit that supports the proposition that there has to 8 be some good cause shown to go down that road. And that's all 9 we're proposing to do. And the parties are in fundamental 10 disagreement with respect to the relevancy and the good cause 11 found by United. And so we think whatever motion they're going 12 to file should be denied.

13 THE COURT: So let me ask you this. In getting back 14 to the stay issue -- and I do feel it's really an issue for 15 Judge Fitzgerald. I know you have a hearing before him on 16 September 17th. But I do think you could, you know, do a short 17 motion and ask for it to be heard perhaps at a certain time on 18 the issue of, you know, a stay of discovery or a stay of the 19 discovery motion under the theories you've put forward.

20 Because again, I don't think it's up for me unless 21 Judge Fitzgerald then referred that motion to me, which he 22 could. But until that happens, at the moment he is the 23 decision maker about the schedule of this case. So I just 24 don't feel like I have the freedom to say, you know, yes, I 25 would stay discovery; or no, I wouldn't. It's just not within

I N D E X

16-CV-08697-MWF (SSX)

FEBRUARY 8, 2018

PROCEEDINGS: TELEPHONIC CONFERENCE RE DISCOVERY

1 PRIORITIZE THEM WHICH IS WHY WE'RE NOT GOING TO SEE DATA OR 2 DOCUMENTS PERTAINING TO THOSE WITNESSES UNTIL THE END OF MARCH.
3 AND THAT'S WHAT'S CAUSED THE CONSTERNATION YOU'RE HEARING FROM 4 US.

5 THE COURT: ALL RIGHT.

6 SO, YOU KNOW, AS I THINK I'VE SHARED WITH THE PARTIES
7 WHEN WE HAD ONE OF THESE CONFERENCES PREVIOUSLY, I GENERALLY --
8 YOU KNOW, WITH SOME EXCEPTIONS, BUT I GENERALLY DON'T ISSUE 9 ORDERS FROM THESE INFORMAL CONFERENCES BECAUSE IT HASN'T BEEN 10 FULLY BRIEFED. AND OFTENTIMES PARTIES FEEL THAT IT'S UNFAIR
11 FOR THE COURT TO ISSUE AN ORDER WITHOUT BRIEFING.

12 BUT I TRY TO GIVE YOU AN UNDERSTANDING OF HOW I WOULD 13 APPROACH THIS PROBLEM IF IT CAME TO ME ON A MOTION. AND I DO
14 THINK THAT THE DEFENDANT HAS A RIGHT TO, YOU KNOW, VIGOROUSLY
15 AND QUICKLY DEFEND ITSELF.

16 AND SO -- AND WE DON'T-- YOU KNOW, WE DON'T HAVE 17 BUILT-IN DELAYS OR BUILT-IN PHASING NECESSARILY IN FEDERAL 18 COURT. WE SOMETIMES PHASE DISCOVERY, BUT USUALLY WHEN WE DO 19 THAT IT'S WITH BOTH PARTIES' AGREEMENT ABOUT THE USEFULNESS OF 20 PHASING.

21 IF ONE SIDE GETS TO DICTATE SORT OF THE PHASING OF 22 DISCOVERY, SOMETIMES THAT CAN BE USED AS A STRATEGY POINT IN A
23 CASE. AND THAT'S WHAT WE TRY TO AVOID.

24 SO, I WOULD -- I WOULD LOOK TO SEE IN THE 25 DECLARATIONS THAT I WOULD ANTICIPATE BEING FILED BY THE UNITED

1 STATES THE INDIVIDUALS WHO ARE INVOLVED IN THE DISCOVERY 2 PROCESS AND FOR A MORE DETAILED EXPLANATION AS TO WHY THE 3 DELAY.

4 AND I AM TROUBLED THAT THEY'RE NOT WILLING TO 5 PRIORITIZE. IF A NOTICE OF DEPOSITION WAS TIMELY SERVED, AND 6 THERE WAS A REQUEST FOR PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS WITH THAT 7 NOTICE OF DEPOSITION, I WOULD EXPECT THE GOVERNMENT TO 8 PRIORITIZE THEIR REVIEW OF THOSE DOCUMENTS AND PRODUCE THEM IN 9 A TIMELY WAY.

10 AND IF MR. SCHINDLER NOTICED THESE DEPOSITIONS AND, 11 YOU KNOW, REALLY THE RULE IS REASONABLE NOTICE. TWO MONTHS IS 12 -- YOU KNOW, THAT'S OFTEN INTERPRETED AS 10 DAYS.

13 SO -- AND I UNDERSTAND THIS IS A MUCH BIGGER CASE
14 THAN MAYBE THE AVERAGE CASE. BUT STILL 60 DAYS WOULD COMMONLY 15 BE SEEN AS QUITE REASONABLE NOTICE.

16 AND, SO, I WOULD EXPECT THE UNITED STATES TO PRODUCE 17 DOCUMENTS UNLESS THEY COULD SHOW GOOD CAUSE WHY THEY COULD NOT.
18 AND THE MERE FACT THAT A CASE HAS VOLUMINOUS RECORDS IS NOT 19 GOOD CAUSE.

20 AND, SO, YOU KNOW, I WOULD PROBABLY, AGAIN, IF THIS 21 CAME TO ME ON A MOTION, I WOULD HAVE TO SEE, YOU KNOW, WHAT 22 EFFORTS HAD BEEN MADE TO PRODUCE DOCUMENTS FOR THOSE PARTICULAR 23 WITNESSES. THEY HAVE A RIGHT TO NOTICE DEPOSITIONS. WE 24 HAVEN'T ENTERED A PROTECTIVE ORDER. AND I TOLD YOU THAT I
25 WOULDN'T LIKELY ENTER A PROTECTIVE ORDER BECAUSE THERE'S

1 NOTHING IN THE RULES THAT WOULD JUSTIFY IT HERE.

2 SO, YOU KNOW, I THINK WHAT WILL BE THE BETTER
3 APPROACH HERE -- AND IT'S GOOD FOR THE PARTIES IN A SENSE THAT 4 THERE'S NO CUT-OFF DATES YET SET, BUT I'M SURE ONCE YOU HAVE 5 YOUR SCHEDULING CONFERENCE, THEY WILL BE SET. AND I'M SURE
6 JUDGE -- JUDGE FITZGERALD WILL SET THAT SHORTLY AFTER HE ISSUES
7 A FINAL ORDER ON THE MOTION TO DISMISS.

8 AND GIVEN THE COMPLEXITY OF THIS CASE, AGAIN, I DON'T 9 THINK IT'S INAPPROPRIATE FOR A DEFENDANT TO BE MOVING QUICKLY
10 TO TRY AND GATHER INFORMATION AND PREPARE ITS DEFENSES.

11 SO, YOU KNOW, I WOULD -- I WOULD PROBABLY SET A FIRM
12 DEADLINE FOR THE PRODUCTION AS TO THESE TWO WITNESSES AND A 13 FIRM DATE FOR THEIR DEPOSITIONS TO BE TAKEN. AND, THEN, IF 14 THEY -- IF THOSE DEADLINES WERE MISSED, THERE WOULD HAVE TO BE, 15 YOU KNOW, SOME KIND OF CONSEQUENCE AS A RESULT OF MISSING IT
16 UNLESS THERE WAS GOOD CAUSE.

17 SO, I GUESS WHAT I'D LIKE TO KNOW FROM THE UNITED 18 STATES YOU KEEP SAYING THE END OF MARCH. AND I'M JUST TRYING 19 TO UNDERSTAND WHY IT IS YOU NEED ANOTHER ESSENTIALLY 45 DAYS 20 FOR TWO WITNESSES TO -- TO CULL OUT RECORDS AS TO TWO 21 WITNESSES.

22 MR. PERKINS: SURE, YOUR HONOR. I APPRECIATE THE 23 OPPORTUNITY TO RESPOND TO THAT QUESTION.

24 SO -- AND EXCUSE ME IF THIS BECOMES A LITTLE TOO
25 TECHNICAL, BUT -- SO, WITH THE TECHNOLOGY SYSTEM REVIEW

1 DEFENDANTS ABOUT THE PARTICULAR -- MAYBE HAVE A MORE -- A 2 BETTER UNDERSTANDING OF THE ISSUES THAT THE DEFENDANTS ARE 3 GOING TO RAISE IN MS. TAVENNER'S DEPOSITION. AND THEN WE CAN 4 IDENTIFY THOSE PARTICULAR REQUESTS AND PULL OUT THOSE 5 DOCUMENTS.

6 THE COURT: SO, I DON'T THINK THIS DEPOSITION IS 7 GOING TO GO FORWARD ON THE 13TH GIVEN THE TIMEFRAME RIGHT NOW.
8 BUT I DO THINK IT COULD GO FORWARD, SAY, IN THE NEXT 15 TO 20
9 DAYS.

10 AND I THINK WHAT THE APPROACH THAT I'D LIKE TO SEE 11 THE PARTIES PURSUE IS FOR THE DEFENDANTS TO IDENTIFY A LIMITED
12 SET OF ISSUES THAT THEY WANT TO DEPOSE THESE TWO WITNESSES ON 13 FOR WHICH THEY WOULD, GIVEN THEIR UNDERSTANDING OF THE CASE, 14 REASONABLY BELIEVE THAT THERE COULD BE A SUBCATEGORY OR A 15 SUBSET OF DOCUMENTS THAT COULD BE MANUALLY REVIEWED BY 16 PLAINTIFF'S COUNSEL.

17 AND THAT THEY -- AND THAT THEY WOULD KNOW THAT IF A 18 MASS PRODUCTION HAPPENED IN TWO MONTHS FROM NOW, THAT -- AND 19 THERE WERE ISSUES THAT WERE RELEVANT TO THAT PARTICULAR
20 WITNESS, THAT I WOULD -- I WOULD PERMIT A LIMITED -- AND I
21 EMPHASIZE LIMITED -- SECOND DEPOSITION OF THAT WITNESS. AND 22 THAT WOULD BE FOR THE PURPOSE OF MOVING THE CASE FORWARD, TO 23 ALLOW THE DEFENDANT TO EXPLORE ITS DEFENSES NOW THAT IT WANTS
24 TO RAISE WITH THE COURT. IF THE MOTION TO DISMISS IS PARTIALLY 25 DENIED, I WOULD SUSPECT THERE WOULD BE A SECOND MOTION OF SOME

1 KIND BROUGHT BY THE DEFENDANTS, AND THAT THIS TESTIMONY MIGHT 2 BE IMPORTANT TO THAT MOTION.

3 SO, AGAIN, I WOULDN'T WANT TO DELAY THE CASE AND 4 DELAY THEIR ABILITY TO DEFEND THEMSELVES.

5 SO, I GUESS I'D LIKE THE PARTIES TO MEET AND CONFER
6 ABOUT THOSE TOPICS AS TO THESE TWO WITNESSES. AND FOR THE 7 GOVERNMENT TO EXPLORE WHAT THEY CAN SEGREGATE OUT THAT WOULD BE 8 RESPONSIVE TO THOSE TOPICS AND SET UP A PRODUCTION TIMETABLE
9 FOR THE DOCUMENTS AND ALSO FOR THE DEPOSITIONS.

10 SO, MR. SCHINDLER, WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT 11 APPROACH.

12 MR. SCHINDLER: WELL, I THINK THAT'S PERFECT, YOUR 13 HONOR. IN FACT, I APPRECIATE MR. PERKINS ACKNOWLEDGING OR 14 HELPING US HERE WITH THE 55,000 DOCUMENTS. I MEAN, I -- I 15 THINK THOSE 55,000 DOCUMENTS AS AN INITIAL SET OUGHT TO BE 16 EASIER TO REVIEW AND TO SEGREGATE OUT EXACTLY AS THE COURT HAS 17 INDICATED. SO, I APPRECIATE IT VERY MUCH.

18 WE'RE PREPARED TO MEET AND CONFER FURTHER WITH THE 19 GOVERNMENT TODAY TO TALK ABOUT THOSE 55,000 DOCUMENTS AND TO 20 PUT OURSELVES ON A SCHEDULE ALONG THE LINES THAT THE COURT HAS 21 INDICATED. SO, APPRECIATE VERY MUCH.

22 THE COURT: DO YOU HAVE ANY QUESTIONS ABOUT THAT, MR.
23 PERKINS?

24 MR. PERKINS: WELL, MAYBE JUST A CLARIFYING POINT
25 JUST BECAUSE OF SOMETHING MR. SCHINDLER SAID.
